THE MAILS, &c.

The Singapore portion of the French mail, due this day, has been forwarded via Brindisi, but not that from China and Japan. We have, however, nine days later news from Shanghai by the steamer Erl King.

The next inward mail (P. and O.) is due, via Brindisi, on the 9th inst., and will bring dates Yokohama, Nov. 20; Shanghai, Nov. 23; Hong Kong, Nov. 29; Singapore, Dec. 6.

Telegrams, via Galle, in advance of the mail leaving Shanghai Dec. 7, Hong Kong Dec. 13, were received on the 28th ult.; and a Foreign Office telegram from Peking to the 16th Dec., via St. Petersburg, was received yesterday.

The Pacific mail steamer Japan, with Yokohama advices to Nov. 23, arrived at San Francisco on the 20th ult. three days late. In entering the harbour the steamer ran into a vessel anchored in the stream with a tremendous crash, and afterwards into the British ship Marion, carrying away her bowsprit and foretopping. The Japan's steering gear was disabled, and she appears to have sustained considerable damage otherwise.

THE "ERL KING."

In our issue of the 20th ult. we noticed the extraordinary passages of the screw-steamer Erl King, Capt Steele. This vessel, however, bids fair in the present homeward voyage to surpass all her previous achievements; she left Shanghai on the 18th November, Singapore on the 29th, and Galle on the 7th December, arriving at Suez on the 22nd, having steamed the entire distance in thirty-two and a-half days. We received on Saturday Shanghai advices to the 18th November, brought to Suez by this vessel, and there posted via Brindisi—forty-two days en route, or five days quicker than the Mail Service. The Erl King must henceforth be known as the "Phantom Ship." As instances such as the present may be of frequent occurrence, it is necessary that arrangements should be made to receive Letters at the Post-offices in China for despatch by private steamers to Suez, to be posted there via Brindisi.

Summary of News from the Far East.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

SHANGHAI, Nov. 18.

H.E. Chung How and suite embarked on board the Messageries Maritimes steamer Go Lavery on the 15th, and took their departure for France. It is reported that they will not proceed right through by one mail, but will pass some little time at Macao. Up to the last "well informed Chinamen"—a phrase which is commonly used to cover foreign ignorance of Chinese ways—had scouted the idea of so high a functionary as Chung How degrading himself by undertaking an embassy to foreign countries; and even after the arrival of the mission at Shanghai it was argued that the rough passage from Tientsin would have sickened Chung How of sea travelling for the rest of his life. Yet he has gone at least one stage further.

The only thing that has transpired here since the French mail left is the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, which was held on the 16th. A proposal to memorialise the Chinese authorities to dredge the Woosung bar was unanimously adopted, the resolution receiving point from the fact of the steamer Erl King being at the very moment detained at the bar for higher water. A memorial which the Chamber had addressed some months ago to the English Foreign Office on the defence of the settlement was laid before the meeting. It points out very clearly how pernicious the present naval instructions are in restraining officers from using their force in the prevention of disturbances. Another important document was passed by the meeting. It is a letter to the London merchants protesting against the mission of Chung How, and incidentally showing up the follies of Messrs. Wade and Rochechouart in consenting to patch up the Tientsin affair. There was one dissident from the views of the Chamber, Mr. Thomas Hanbury, a gentleman who has always cultivated friendly relations with the Chinese.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO THE LONDON MERCHANTS.

To the Chairman of the London Committee of China Merchants.

SIR,—The Shanghai General Chamber of Commerce have been much gratified to learn from the newspapers the prompt action your Committee had taken in bringing to the notice of Her Majesty's Government the critical position of foreign relations with China, arising out of the atrocious massacre at Tientsin, on the 21st of June last. You will have heard by subsequent mails that nothing had transpired in this country to allay the anxiety with which all who are interested in China must regard such grave events; and, feeling sure that you will not have relaxed your vigilance while affairs are so unsettled between foreign Governments and the Chinese, we shall esteem it to be our duty from time to time to invite your attention to any points that may arise on which it may be desirable to take action.

On the present occasion we would take the liberty of giving you our views on the subject of the proposed mission of Chung How to Paris, an undertaking which may be fraught with great danger to the true interests of foreigners and of the well-disposed—which is the most important—section of the Chinese people.

Chung How has been favourably known to foreigners ever since the opening of trade at Tientsin, under the Convention of 1860, during which time he has filled the important post of Superintendent of Trade for the three northern ports. He has been regarded as a liberal-minded man, and not altogether averse to measures which would tend to the advancement of his country. His sincerity had never been put to a severe test, and it was permissible, therefore, to accept his professions of good-will to foreigners and to "progress" as genuine.

Chung How enjoys high rank in the Chinese Empire, being designated by his Imperial Highness Prince Kung as "Honorary Guardian of the Emperor of the third class, wearing a button of the first rank, decorated with a double-eyed Peacock's feather, Lieutenant-General of the Oрдia Red Banner, Vice-President of the Board of War, and Superintendent of Trade for the three ports." As far as his personal and official qualifications are concerned, therefore, Chung How would have been in every way acceptable as an emissary from the Chinese Government to foreign Powers; indeed, as contrasted with the obscure character of the "co-envoys" who accompanied the late Mr. Burlingame to America and Europe, the appointment of Chung How as ambassador would have been a mark of actual respect to the Governments to whom he was sent.

Even with a man of rank at its head, however, the despatch of another mission to Europe would have filled the minds of all the friends of peace and amity between foreigners and Chinese with warrantable suspicion. The idea under which the Chinese Government organises such expeditious has been made so plain by the career of the one which has just finished its labours that the Chamber of Commerce can only view any fresh effort to shift the arena where international relations are to be discussed as an attempt, by means of systematic misrepresentation, to induce the Governments of the West to enter into one-sided agreements. It would, therefore, have been the duty of the mercantile body to warn the Governments interested against the too probable impositions of any new embassy which might profess to represent China abroad, and to urge them to put their faith rather in the facts with which a long experience has made them acquainted, than in any ipse dixit of an "ambassador," who, if sincere, might be little qualified to speak with authority, or who, however well qualified, might have obvious personal inducements to create erroneous impressions.

These considerations would have justified us in following any new Chinese Mission with anxiety; but it is on grounds which, if not stronger in themselves, are at least more intelligible to persons who may not have watched the progress of the Burlingame Mission very carefully, that we take exception to the proposed expedition of Chung How.

The ostensible object of his voyage is to make some explanation to the French Government concerning the massacre of its proteges and subjects at Tientsin. At present we have no precise information as to the character in which he is to present himself in Paris. The French Charge d'Affaires, Count Rochechouart, states in a circular letter to the French Consuls in China, that "at his request the Chinese Government has sent his Excellency Chung How as ambassador to France, to explain, and if possible, to gain approval of his conduct." And in a despatch, copy of the translation of which has been courteously furnished to the Chamber by direction of Count Rochechouart, his Imperial Highness Prince Kung refers to the proposed Embassy in these words: "Our acquiescence in your wishes (viz., that the three mandarins who are believed to have instigated the massacre should suffer capital punishment) would cause great embarrassments to China, and the explanation of these can naturally be given visa voce by his Excellency Chung to your noble government." This is all that is publicly known at present on the subject.

The purpose of the mission, as stated by Prince Kung, is ominously like that of its predecessor, which has wrought such incalculable mischief both to China and her foreign relations. It was to represent China's "difficulties" that, according to Mr. Hart, the Burlingame Embassy was sent forth, and should the present mission at all resemble that in its operation it will be a public calamity.

Count Rochechouart's brief account of the mission is not free from incongruity. The "conduct" which Chung How is going to explain is his own share in the massacre of French subjects; this however resolves itself into a simple question of fact, whether he did or did not connive at, whether he did or did not encourage, the atrocities perpetrated under his Government at Tientsin; and it is difficult to see how any new light can be shed on this question by investigation in Paris. Again, if Chung How is going to propitiate the French nation for acts of his, about which there is no dispute, it was hardly necessary to invest him with high dignities for such an errand.

Although the scope of the mission of Chung How should be limited to representations at Paris in connection with his personal share in the Tientsin massacre, it is necessary to inform your Committee that its reception may have an important effect on the position of foreigners generally in China and even on the prospects of trade. Our relations with the Chinese are of such a nature as to bind all classes of foreigners by a common interest. The victims of the Tientsin outrage were not French alone, but of various nationalities, British included. Your Committee may, therefore, be in a position, if only indirectly, to influence the decision of the Governments to which the Mission may address itself; in which hope we would now urge the special objection which the foreign communities in China entertain to the official reception of Chung How by any civilised power. That objection is nothing less than Chung How's supposed complicity in the barbarous murders of the twenty-one Europeans who were living under his protection. Chung How was at the head of the executive, civil and military, of Tientsin at the time when that horrible atrocity was perpetrated in open day, and he had held that responsible position for ten years, during which time he was in constant communication with the Foreign Consuls and others.

There had been ample warning given that some outbreak against foreigners was intended; the plot appears to have been generally known throughout the North of China for some time previous to its denouement. The British Consul, Mr. W. H. Lay, took so serious a view of affairs that he warned Chung How three distinct times, on the 18th and 20th, and finally on the 21st of June; yet not only was no precaution taken by Chung How to prevent disturbance, but the letters were left unnoticed. When the attack had actually commenced, on the 21st, Chung How still denied all protection to the Europeans, although he had six hundred disciplined troops under his immediate command on the spot.

The two city magistrates may have been probably more directly responsible for the massacre, their inflammatory proclamations and other efforts having been the means of exciting the hostile feeling to foreigners, while they themselves are believed to have taken an active part in the affair; but it is important to remember that Chung How exercised full power over these men, and could at any moment have arrested the course of events which led up to the massacre. Nay, more, it was his special business to acquaint himself with, and to supervise all proclamations issued by his subordinates, and it is simply incredible either that he was unacquainted with the nature of the proclamations by which the magistrates incited the people to the massacre, or that they could have been published without his approval.

In a proclamation issued the very day after the event, he accepts the full responsibility of his position, and says, "I have given orders to the civil and military authorities to apprehend and severely punish any persons who are found abusing and contending with foreigners." There is no doubt, therefore, that Chung How was the proper person to have stopped the operations of the so-called "mob," and that he could have done so, had he been so minded, seems also to admit of no doubt. Chung How's ability to suppress the attack is clearly shown by his volunteering to send 600 foreign-drilled troops on the day after the massacre to protect foreigners in the settlement.

It is true that the French Chargé d'Affaires is disposed to acquit Chung How of being concerned in the murders, on the strength of a letter written by Mr. Consul Fontanier on the morning of the massacre. But as it is rather by what has come to light since M. Fontanier was cut down at Chung How's door, and probably in his presence, that the public must judge of his conduct, the opinion of M. Fontanier, before the event can have comparatively little weight. No foreigners previous to the massacre could have supposed that Chung How, who had been so long and favourably known to them, would connive at so atrocious a crime, but if M. Fontanier had lived to see the tragedy of the 21st June completed it is reasonable to suppose he would have given a different verdict.

It is unnecessary to follow Chung How's conduct into further detail, as there is more than sufficient prima facie evidence in what we have advanced to show that before being received as an ambassador, Chung How should be called on to exculpate himself from the murder of the victims of the 21st June.

The importance of the present crisis in foreign relations with China can hardly be exaggerated, as the success of such a mission as Chung How's may go far to destroy what little remains of that prestige which has been the security for foreigners in China, and the guarantee of peace between the respective countries. The Imperial Government has declined to punish the real instigators of the massacre, or even to go through any form of investigation into their guilt or innocence. The two magistrates, who have been nominally exiled, have not been tried for the murder, and are thus punished only for their incapacity to preserve order; while the General Chen-kwo-Jui, the capital punishment of whom was likewise demanded by the French Charge d'Affaires, has scarcely even been alluded to in the despatches from the Prince Kung. It has thus been published throughout the Empire of China that foreigners may be outraged with impunity, provided their assailants be sufficiently influential, and no argument is needed to show you that the most disastrous consequences may result from this discovery.

But as if it were not enough to allow the guilty to escape, the Imperial Government has marked the occasion by an act of shocking barbarity towards a number of innocent persons, twenty of whom have been sentenced to death, and sixteen * of them have been already beheaded at Tientsin. Whether or not any of these unfortunates actually took part in the massacre of 21st June, the fact that they were procured by purchase takes away all idea of their execution being a legal or just punishment for the crime, and the ceremonies attending the execution were such as to give it the character of a mere sacrifice to the unreasonable demands of foreigners. The malefactors of the 21st June, if any were among the sixteen beheaded on the 18th October, have been thus elevated to the rank of martyrs, an event not calculated to allay the popular hostility to foreigners which had been so diligently inflamed for some time past. Even the payment of the indemnity which has been proffered to, and accepted by, the French Charge d'Affaires, has been so arranged as to deprive it of all the appearance of being a reparation for the outrage. Justice and sound policy alike required that the pecuniary penalty should fall, as much as possible, on the place where the crime was enacted, that it might be remembered in its character and deterrent in its effect. Instead of this, however, the larger portion of the amount is to be provided out of the duties levied on foreign trade at Shanghai and Canton, and even the remainder which is decreed to be paid at Tientsin is likewise to be drawn from the proceeds of foreign duties, thus successfully disguising from the Chinese people the connection between the massacre of foreigners and the punishment of the crime.

The effects of proceedings such as these would be deplorable enough under any circumstances; but the danger to amicable relations will be greatly intensified by the proposed expedition of Chung How. He is so notoriously implicated in the murders of June, that his being permitted to leave China, even on the pretence of a mission to France, will be, in the eyes of the whole Chinese people, a public condonation of that crime: while his actual reception by the French Government, and still more the success of his representations could not fail to degrade all foreigners in the eyes of the Chinese, before whom it is so important to maintain our self-respect. It would moreover exert a most injurious influence on the Chinese authorities themselves, convincing them that any difficulty may be tidied over, any outrage atoned for, by supple diplomacy and hollow promises for the future. The success of the Burlingame Mission has assured them of their power to over-reach and mislead the nations of the West. If they are a second time successful in this policy, and manage to gloss over a terrible tragedy like that of Tientsin, the position of every foreigner in the empire will be imperilled.

There can be no question that a powerful faction exists among the literary and governing classes, who entertain deadly hatred to foreigners, and cherish hopes of their expulsion or extermination. The kind of means to which this faction will resort to further their designs may be gathered from the perusal of the accompanying pamphlet, which is the translation of a book written by a man of high literary attainments, and is circulated from the yamens of the mandarins. It is called "A Death-blow to Corrupt Doctrines," and its object is to associate the name of foreigners with the most revolting practices. Though a production of almost inconceivable obscenity and falsehood, it furnishes an instructive picture of two classes of the people with whom we have to deal. The unscrupulous animosity of the anti-foreign official party is there clearly exhibited, and the ignorance and superstition of the people for whom the book is intended is made equally plain. While efforts like these are being made to poison the minds of the populace in regard to foreigners, and to stimulate them to such outrages as that at Tientsin, it is self-evident that the only wise, safe, or even humane policy for foreign governments is one of such uncompromising firmness as shall discourage the hostile faction from prosecuting their schemes. This party derived great encouragement from the diplomatic success of Mr. Burlingame, and the reception of the mission of Chung How is still further calculated to strengthen their hands.—I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant,

* The remaining four were accused of the murder of the Russians; the Russian authorities protested against their execution until they should be satisfied of their guilt. These four men have consequently been spared for the present.

A. MICHIE, Chairman.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

At the meeting of the members of the Chamber of Commerce the Report was presented, and the following resolutions, which we take from the Shanghai Courier of the 16th Nov., were passed.

Moved by the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Lavers—"That the report of the committee for 1869-70 as presented to this meeting be adopted." Moved by Mr. Lavers, seconded by the Chairman—"That the accounts of the Chamber for the year ending 30th June, 1870, showing a balance to the credit of the Chamber of £ls. 2,321.22, be passed.

Proposed by Mr. Lavers, seconded by Mr. Dixwell—"That the words 'from the port' be omitted from Rule 6, and the words 'from the meeting' be substituted." After some discussion Mr. C. J. King proposed and Mr. Hayes seconded the following amendment, which was put to the meeting and carried—"That the consideration of the foregoing resolution be postponed till the next meeting of the Chamber." Resolution No. 3 consequently fell to the ground. The next resolution, proposed by Mr. Dixwell and seconded by Mr. Lavers, was:—"That any member of the Chamber may introduce non-members at general meetings, who shall be privileged, with the consent of the meeting, to take part in the discussions, and that a rule be added to that effect." This led to a lengthened discussion, at the close of which Mr. Hoppius proposed, and Mr. Hanbury seconded, the following amendment:—"That the committee may introduce non-members at the general meetings, who shall be privileged, with the consent of the meeting, to take part in the discussions, and that a rule be added to that effect." This being put to the meeting was rejected, only two voting in its favour. The original motion was afterwards put to the meeting, and was rejected almost unanimously.

Resolution No. 5 was proposed by Mr. Dixwell, seconded by Mr. Lavers—"That the letter to the London Committee of China merchants prepared by the Committee and submitted to this meeting be adopted." Against this Mr. Hanbury, after some remarks, read the following protest:—"I protest against the letter to the chairman of the London Committee of China merchants as being libellous in character, and lowering to the Chamber of Commerce, bringing as it does a charge of complicity with murder against a man who has been acquitted of the crime, and virtually acquitted of any supposed complicity by his appointment as ambassador to France at the request of Count Rochefoucauld, the Minister for France, and submit the following reasons why the letter should not be sent:—

"1st. The charge of complicity with murder is to be found in the following paragraphs of the letter.

"That objection is nothing less than Chung How's supposed complicity in the barbarous murders of the twenty-one Europeans who were living under his protection. Chung How was at the head of the executive, civil and military, of Tientsin at the time when that horrible atrocity was perpetrated in open day, and he had held that responsible position for ten years, during which time he was in constant communication with the foreign consuls and others.

"When the attack had actually commenced on the 21st, Chung How still denied all protection to the Europeans, although he had six hundred disciplined troops under his immediate command on the spot."

"He is so notoriously implicated in the murders of June that his being permitted to leave China, even on the pretence of a mission to France, will be in the eyes of the whole Chinese people a public condonation of that crime.

"But this charge is disproved by the fact that the Minister of France, after investigation on the spot, has acquitted Chung How, and fixed the guilt upon others; thus it seems too great an assumption on the part of the Chamber located hundreds of miles from the scene of the tragedy, and whose facts are largely derived from anonymous contributions to the newspapers and many impossible of verification, to state so authoritatively the guilt of a man who has not been so judged by the foreign authorities at the North.

"2nd: It would be derogatory to the character of the Chamber to have remained silent as regards this charge of complicity with murder during the past four months when they have been cognizant of the fact that the mission of Chung How was contemplated, and as soon as he has left on his mission to Europe to forward after him so serious a charge without giving him the chance of rebutting it by any evidence he might have been able to bring forward in China.

"3rd.—The proposed indictment against Chung How necessitates a serious counter charge against the French Minister of having requested the Chinese Government to send an official as ambassador to his country who is 'notoriously implicated in the murders of June;' nor is it easy to see how, if the statement of the Chamber is to be accepted, the foreign Consuls in Shanghai can explain their honourable reception of such a man.

"T. HANBURY."

A number of members having given various reasons for warmly approving of the letter and urging its adoption, the resolution was again put to the meeting and carried. Mr. Hanbury dissenting.

Mr. C. J. King proposed the last resolution, which was seconded by Mr. Frazar, and carried:—"That the Chamber memorialise the Taoutai through the foreign Consuls on the condition of the bar of the Wangpoo at Woosung, which by ordinary dredging might be made easily navigable for vessels of twenty-four feet draught, whereas the accidents and delays which it causes to vessels are of daily occurrence for want of the attention suggested."

The following committee were then elected, the name of Mr. Lavers, which was also on the list, having been withdrawn at his request:—Messrs. Dixwell, Porter, Probat, Handbury, Blydenburgh, Anderson, J. I. Miller, Hanssen, Reid, and Hayes.

With a cordial vote of thanks to the retiring committee, proposed by Mr. Bell and carried by acclamation, the meeting separated.

A case of alleged smuggling by a foreign firm was tried before Mr. Dick and H.B.M.'s Vice-Consul at the Customs, but the proceedings being of a preliminary character the publication of them was reserved for further consideration.

Messrs. Boyd and Co. have had some intention of making an attempt to raise the wreck of the steamer Lismore.

Messrs. Devine, Dudfield, Harris and Morton, who have been out on a shooting excursion, and whose prolonged absence was beginning to create uneasiness, have returned, sound in wind and limb. Stress of weather, we understand, was the cause of their detention.

At the dividend meeting of Dow and Co.'s bankruptcy, held at the Supreme Court, the Creditors' Assignee presented his accounts, which showed assets available for dividend amongst creditors who have proved of £18,358. It was accordingly resolved that a dividend of 1.17 per cent. be paid, and the estate wound up. At Mr. Walker's application for his discharge as creditors' assignee, it was agreed that it should be delivered to him when the necessary formalities shall have been gone through.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

The following items are from the Bangkok Summary:—The annual ceremonies of Loi Katawng was performed by their Majesties the Wang Kluang and the Wangua on the evening of the 6th, 7th and 8th November, when there was a grand display of fireworks on the river, at the landing of boats, the king, thus closing the annual pompous visitations of the Wats, by the kings of Siam.

A mail from Cheangmai, with dates up to the 11th Oct. states that the two mission families were quite well, with lively prospects of soon erecting permanent dwellings. It was then a time of peace and quietness in Cheangmai, preparing for the Royal cremation in the 4th of Siamese month.

The death of Mr. Robert Simpson Scott, on the 29th Oct., cast a gloom on some of the foreign community of this city who were acquainted with him and the prominent events of his career. He came to Bangkok in the year 1857 (being then about twenty-two years of age) as a clerk in the house of the Borneo Company (Limited) and served in that capacity less than a year, we think, when he became a partner with D. K. Mason, Esq., under the firm of D. K. Mason and Co. He built the fourth steam rice mill of this city, and had just set it in successful operation when his great calamity came upon him. He was sentenced to a term of imprisonment on a charge of baratry, for scuttling the ship Erin on her voyage from Bangkok to China. Whether he was guilty of the great fraud with which he was charged, condemned, and disgraced, is still an open question, and will, in all probability remain such. His remains were interred in the Protestant cemetery.

JAVA.

From the late Java papers we learn of the loss by fire of the ship Uncawah, from Macao, bound to Callao, with coolies, who mutinied at sea, and set fire to the ship. The captain and crew arrived at Anjer in the San Salvadorian ship Fray Bentos, and a portion of the coolies in the British ship Juanpore. The Uncawah, under San Salvadorian colours, left Macao on the 13th October, for Callao, with 537 coolies. She was under the command of Captain Giuseppe Rosiciana, an Italian, whose account is in effect as follows:—After having sailed for a couple of days with a fair wind the coolies began to grumble. Several of them circulated letters amongst the coolies, urging them to rise and make themselves masters of the vessel. On the morning of the 21st October the coolies were, as usual, left on deck to refresh themselves. After having stayed some time on deck they were again ordered to go below, but refused to obey. The coolies persisting in their refusal, the crew endeavoured to force them to go below, and a fight ensued between them. The sailors were provided with weapons, but the Chinese armed themselves with pieces of iron and wood, and laid about with these so effectively that the steward and carpenter were killed and several sailors wounded. After a struggle lasting half an hour the Chinese were driven to the hold, and, seeing that there was little hope of obtaining command of the vessel by force, broke everything below, and set fire to the ship. The crew, perceiving this, became panic-stricken, got out a boat, and made away from the ship so hastily that the captain, who was left behind, was obliged to jump overboard and swim after the boat, which picked him up. They pulled steadily for five days, during which time they were without food, when they reached the Great Natunas Island. They remained four days on the island, after which they were taken off by the San Salvadorian ship Fray Bentos, Capt. Mota, and taken to Anjer, where they arrived on the 9th November.

The fate of the vessel, and of the coolies who were left on board, has been described by Captain Haldane, of the British ship Juanpore, who has also reached Anjer with 112 of the coolies and a Greek sailor, who had been left behind on board the burning vessel by his shipmates. More than 400 of the coolies must have perished by fire and by drowning.

The master and crew of the ill-fated Uncawah, and the 112 coolies saved by the Juanpore, were taken from Anjer to Batavia in the steamer Minister von Stadt Rochussen. Two of the coolies were put in irons, charged with the murder of the carpenter. The Greek, it is said, is also charged with having combined with the coolies, but the captain of the Uncawah discredits this.

We are sorry to learn that, in addition to the heavy expense incurred by Captain Haldane, of the Juanpore, in providing for so large a number of coolies, and the risk he ran in saving them, he has been obliged to suffer further delay and inconvenience as a direct result of his humanity.

The Juanpore having arrived at Anjer, the Assistant-Resident, nevertheless, raised difficulties about giving leave to the coolies to come ashore. The captain of the British ship thereupon repaired to the British Consul at Batavia. His efforts were at first fruitless. The Consul had to telegraph to the Governor-General to obtain a decision. In consequence a steamer will fetch the coolies saved. Meantime the British captain had lost five days before a decision was come to—no trifle for a ship. Anjer may not be legally a place to bring Chinese to, but it is unheard of not to make an exception in case of force majeure. A captain who can or may not lose many days will naturally put ashore shipwrecked folk at the nearest place under European Government, and often cannot without enormous loss steer to a haven where he can land such men. If captains in such cases choose, they will have, after such behaviour, to put to themselves the question, "May or can I act as a man, or must I leave these unfortunates to their fate?" for the Dutch authorities recompense a good deed by delays which are not to be endured.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to the 29th Nov. The London mail of Oct. 21 arrived on Nov. 23. Much dissatisfaction was expressed at the P. and O. Company's steamers being announced to leave with the mails at least a day before their real departure, to the great inconvenience of merchants, who were unnecessarily detained at office at very unseasonable hours.

The intended departure of his Excellency the Governor on his leave of absence home had been officially announced by his Excellency to the Legislative Council.

The Municipal Commissioners had a meeting on the 10th November, when the following accounts were passed for payment:—Commissioners' establishment, $678.45; lighting, $11.20; ditto, with oil, $20; town clock, $10; registrar of hackney carriages, clerk's pay, $40; police maintenance, $4,245; conservancy establishment, $440.30; ditto, contingent, $72; cemetery establishment, $27; ditto, contingent, $2.50; maintenance of roads, $1,897.05; bridges $142.08; cleansing town, $655; burying sweepings, $24.4; watering streets, $399.4; tools for use on roads, $24.76; protecting side of North Bridge-road, $64.26; town hall, $12; town drainage, $1,693.87; commissioners' contingent, $66.18.

It will gratify the friends of Mr. Bayley, who for the last fourteen years has ably filled the head mastership of the Raffles Institution to learn that he has, on his resignation, been presented by the trustees with a complimentary address engrossed on vellum and the sum of $400. Mr. Bayley's old scholars and late pupils have also presented similar addresses, the former being accompanied by a cheque for $40. Mr. Bayley has transferred charge to Mr. Brown, the acting head master.

At a special meeting of the trustees of the Raffles Institution, it was stated that the honorary secretary, acting under information received from Mr. Birch, and believing that a large majority of the trustees had given their consent to the president's scheme, had written to England by the last mail to secure the services of two masters, one to be a first-class honour man, the other an experienced certificated teacher, the former to combine with his duties the Inspectorship of Schools; the respective salaries to be £600—to be raised to £750—and £300 per annum. The Hon. R. C.

Woods said that at the time of the departure of the president no additional grant had been made to the Raffles Institution, and that the grant of $1,380 subsequently made to the school was on the condition that the trustees obtained a first-class man; the Council had refused to grant the sum for an inspector. It was agreed, therefore, that as the order was premature—the hon. secretary should telegraph by first mail and stop the engagement of the second master—but that a first-class man should be obtained at the rate of £800 a-year, with the prospect of a gradual increase to £750. The trustees also agreed to accept the kind offer of the Hon. R. C. Woods to send Mr. Davidson as their representative to the Court at Penang to plead their cause in the action lately brought against them, and they expressed to the Hon. R. C. Woods their thanks for his offer to reduce the retaining fee from $1,000 to $300.

THE PALL MALL GAZETTE AND OURSELVES.

We beg our readers to peruse with attention the article from the Pall Mall Gazette, entitled "Our Policy and Prestige in China," which we reproduce in another column. They may not thank us for the task, and they will very likely rise from it with the exclamation, "There's nothing in it." We could certainly very well afford to allow such a rapid attack on "the Anglo-Chinese Communities," and on ourselves as "their organ," as the Pall Mall courteously styles us, to remain unanswered, or to refute itself; for it makes absolutely no show of argument to disprove the justice of the demands which it so vehemently condemns. But it is its very nothingness of argument that we feel it desirable to expose, because, it must be admitted that, with all its faults, the Pall Mall never leaves anything unsaid that it can say in defence of a weak cause. We will pass by the sneer at the "mercantile, or Anglo-Chinese, idea of a future policy," which the writer proposes to "show on another occasion," with the remark that it is a pity he did not "show" it now, because that would have proved whether he understood it or no; but we shall be glad to be favoured with his exposition of it at his earliest convenience, in order to place it before our readers, that they may either endorse or disclaim it. We likewise pass over, though not without contempt, the petty allusion to "the medical practitioner; resident in Shanghai, who appears in the intervals of business to take up the cause of the merchants, and to occupy his leisure in giving advice gratis on matters of State and public policy." Dr. THIN is very well able to defend himself, and we shall therefore say no more than that we can imagine no more high-minded abnegation of self than to devote part of the well-earned leisure of a visit to his native country to the explanation of his views concerning the prosperity of his countrymen in the Far East, as Dr. THIN did in the exhaustive little book, which the Pall Mall characterises as "pure assumption on the part of the writer." Now, whatever influence the Pall Mall Gazette has obtained was always understood to be largely assisted by a member of its staff, who was so determined to investigate for himself the true conditions of residence in a certain terra incognita in London that, in the form of an "amateur casual," he passed a memorable night in the ward of a workhouse, and gave the world the benefit of his experience in a series of papers, which carried immense weight with them, because they were the result of real experience. We wish that one of the "amateur casuals" of the modern Pall Mall would take a trip to China, and then give us his views of the condition of the "Anglo-Chinese communities" of which it discourses so flippantly now. We might then have articles more practical than the one before us.

But to come to the gist of the article in question. If it has any object, it labours to prove that "Mr. WADE's policy," which Dr. THIN, the Anglo-Chinese communities, the local press, and ourselves, united in condemning, must be the policy of the Government whose representative he is, because, "if he did not act up to the instructions of her MAJESTY's Government, he would be very unfit for his post, and is at probability he would be promptly removed." This, be it remembered, is the Pall Mall's proposition—not ours. We contented ourselves with pointing out what we believed to be a false and dangerous policy, regardless whether it was the policy of "principal or agent" (as the Pall Mall calls Lord GRANVILLE and Mr. WADE); but at the same time feeling it impossible to believe that such a line of conduct as that pursued by our Consul at Peking could receive the sanction of the Home Government if it were fairly explained. We have no need in this article to repeat the various grounds of complaint against that line of conduct which we urged in these columns from the commission of the massacre to its most "lame and impotent conclusion." We have not printed a word that we are not convinced of the truth of; and we now emphatically repeat the conviction which we expressed in our last issue, and which has elicited the special pleading of the Pall Mall Gazette, that our prestige in China has seriously declined, and that our policy, with its "mild diplomacy," is bringing the British nation into contempt in China.

But, argues the Pall Mall, it is not well to publish such complaints and such convictions because we know that our articles are "translated for the edification of the Chinese." We reply that we desire nothing better than they should be so translated, and that the Chinese should be "edified" by them. We would not have the Chinese permitted to believe a moment longer than was unavoidable that the uncertain and pusillanimous policy, which has been so signally frustrated, reflects the real heart and feeling of England on this subject. As for the attempt to make it appear that our just condemnation of it will excite the presumption of the Chinese, it simply amounts to a declaration that the policy in question is as unchangeable as the laws of the Medes and Persians, or the supercilious verbiage of the Pall Mall Gazette. We must italicise our contemporary's own statement of the case as it stands. He says, "The present danger is over, and we may turn our attention to the future, not forgetting that the causes which produced the catastrophe at Tientsin are still existing, and must continue to be a source of danger. Our whole position has changed since that evil day—and changed very much for the worse." Is it possible for any words that he could have selected to confirm more strongly the views we have represented all along? Have we not always "turned our attention to the future?" Have we not always urged that the causes of the Tientsin Massacre remain "a source of great danger?" And is not the time when "the present danger is over," the proper time to urge on the Government the necessity of taking such measures as will effectually prevent its recurrence? If the Pall Mall is in earnest for the maintenance of our prestige in China, it will not fail to explain its own views with regard to our future policy, at the same time that it shows up the "mercantile or Anglo-Chinese idea," as it is termed. Surely the writer cannot plead for his reticence on this point, that his articles are likely to be "translated for the edification of the Chinese." In his present article he shows his partiality for hackneyed quotations; we will give him one as hackneyed, but more pertinent than his own. We have never shrunk, and we are not to be debarred now, from the firm and temperate explanation of our own opinions and the views of our correspondents; and we tell the Pall Mall

Candidus imperti; si non his utere mecum."

Meanwhile we are quite content to accept our contemporary's attack on us as the "organ" of the "mercantile and Anglo-Chinese idea" as an apt illustration of the old legal maxim, "No case; abuse the plaintiff's attorney;" but we must tell the writer before us that it is not by such vulgar jargon as describing the mercantile communities of China as "animated by a spirit of Philistinism," because they demand sufficient force to protect their lives and property, that he can hope to attain any result, except, perhaps the conciliation of the officials who have been the cause of so much uneasiness. A journal which has changed its price so often as the Pall Mall may not be expected to have a very clear perception of "the mercantile idea," but it ought at least to be not insensible to human sympathy; and if it knew, as we do, how many British "Philistines" had been impelled to send their wives and families home, by reason of the insecurity of life in China, it might have hesitated to stigmatise them with a term alike unjust, unfeeling, and preposterous.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LOSS OF THE "BENEFACRESS."

The Benefactress, Captain Eldred, from Yokohama to New York, has been wrecked on the Somerset West Strand, Cape of Good Hope, on the 19th Nov. The vessel left Yokohama on the 9th September with a full cargo of tea, had a favourable passage down to the coast of Africa, and was on Friday night, the 18th November, running along the coast with a light south-east wind, the vessel heading in shore, as the captain had said, with the intention of making Cape L'Agulhas light, which it was then thought could not be many miles distant. The vessel, however, was kept on the same course during the whole night, but no light was sighted; and on Saturday, the 19th, early, the noise of heavy surf was plainly heard, but on account of a thick fog no land could be distinguished. The captain, fearing that he might be running his ship too close in shore, gave the order, and her head was hauled off some points from the shore. At about six o'clock, while the vessel was going along with a press of sail, before a light breeze, she was felt to thump against something lightly, and immediately the man at the wheel was ordered to put the helm down, but before the vessel had hauled her wind at all she struck a second time heavily, making the hull and masts stagger again. The vessel was then felt to lift and pass over the reef into deep water. The ship's well was at once sounded by the carpenter, who reported her to have four feet of water, and at once all hands were set to work the pumps, but the water continued to gain upon them at the rate of about one foot per hour. During the whole of the morning the vessel was run along the land, which became visible some time after the accident, it being the intention of the captain to make the first port he could. Towards afternoon it was plain to all on board that it would be impossible to keep the vessel afloat many hours longer, upon which the captain decided that he would beach his vessel on the first favourable spot he could find. The vessel was then headed close in-shore, in which way she continued running with south-east wind until about five o'clock in the afternoon, when the vessel was off False Bay, to all appearance in a sinking state. As a sandy beach was seen at this time the vessel's head was turned for it, which she took shortly afterwards, and to prevent her being dragged off by the tide both anchors were let go. Fortunately at the time of the stranding there was little surf on the beach, so little indeed that the captain and crew at first made up their minds to remain on board the ship for the night; but shortly afterwards a number of fishermen came on board and represented to them that should the wind change at all the vessel would be immediately dashed to pieces by the surf, and therefore they decided to leave the ship. Part of the crew were landed in the ship's boats, and the remainder in shore boats. They succeeded in saving a portion of their clothes. Next morning the vessel was found a complete wreck, but with the hull still holding together, the sea breaking right over her. During the day the surf subsided sufficiently, and boats put off to her, but only a few boxes of tea were landed. The vessel and cargo were sold by auction on the 24th November for £800. She was an American barque of 525 tons, built at New York in 1854, and owned there by Messrs. A. A. Low and Brothers.

PIRACY IN CHINA.

In our last we expressed gratification at the telegram, conveying information of the President's intention to assist in suppressing piracy in the China seas. The following is the full text of the note which has since come to hand:—

It appears from the diplomatic correspondence recently transmitted to Congress that in February last Baron Gerolt sent to Secretary Fish the contents of a confidential note from Count Bismark, wherein he urged the importance of combined measures on the part of the maritime Powers for the extermination of piracy in Chinese waters. The Baron also stated that the British Admiralty had given orders to the naval commander in China to co-operate for the object mentioned. Secretary Fish, on the 31st of March, informed Baron Gerolt that the President had taken great pleasure in complying with the request of Count Bismark by directing instructions to be issued from the Navy Department to Admiral Rogers. The co-operation of Admiral Rogers and the forces under his command would, however, be limited to cases of recognised piracy. He was instructed to proceed in such a way as not to wound the sensibilities of the Government of China, or to interfere with the peaceful policy toward China, in which the Government of North Germany and that of the United States so happily agree. In his letter to the Secretary of the Navy on this subject, Secretary Fish says:—

"Should, unhappily, any cause for hostilities occur during the mission, it is hoped that the Navy Department will instruct Admiral Rogers, in such case, to advise with Minister Low, and to leave with this Department the responsibility of war or peace."

Acting Secretary of State Davis, November last, in writing to Minister Bancroft says:—

Minister Low adheres to his original opinion that the disturbances at Tientsin, involving the massacre, was local and unpremeditated, and that the Government at Peking sincerely desired to prevent a repetition, and to preserve the peace; but the Minister appears to have decidedly modified his opinion as to the probability that they will be able to do so. Fearing that the Chinese Government may find itself too weak to resist the pressure of popular opinion in the masses, acting in harmony with the cherished wishes and purposes of the literati, and that it may be forced into a war to prevent popular outbreaks, Secretary Davis adds:—"The President does not purpose to take part, nor does he invite North Germany to take part, in any controversy between France and China, growing out of the massacre of Tientsin. He only desires, so far as the impression of the neutralisation of German and French influence by a state of hostilities operated to enfeeble the Central Government, that that impression may be removed; and that, should unfortunately a general war be declared by China, or should an outbreak against foreigners take place, which the Government cannot prevent nor punish, the several Powers may be in a position to afford the fullest measure of protection."

On the 29th of November, Secretary Fish wrote to Minister Low:

"Although the general tenor of your note of the 13th of September to Prince Kung is regarded as judicious and proper, your assurance toward the close that a flagrant violation of the rights and privileges of our citizens by the people, and the failure of the Imperial Government to apply the remedy promptly, are the only circumstances which will cause a departure from the traditional policy of the United States in their intercourse with China, is considered to be too strong an assurance of forbearance, and it would be, perhaps, well that Prince Kung should understand that any violation of the rights of our citizens, and any flagrant violation of treaty stipulations of other Powers may cause a change."

RUMOURED CHANGES IN THE MINISTRY.—Conflicting rumours are circulated concerning the Ministerial changes necessitated by the retirement of Mr. Bright, and the reported approaching resignation of Mr. Cardwell, in view of the attack which the Opposition are prepared to make on the War-office on the meeting of Parliament. It is said that Lord Lawrence will be the new Secretary-at-War; and Mr. Cardwell is mentioned as likely to be compensated by the Speakership, which Mr. Denison is said to be desirous of resigning. Mr. Stansfeld, Mr. Goschen, and Mr. Chichester Fortescue are mentioned as probable successors to Mr. Bright. The Marquis of Hartington and Mr. Monell are both mentioned for the Irish Secretaryship. In the impending discussions on the War Department, &c., it is thought that the advisability of the retirement of the Commander-in-Chief will be strongly urged.

THE MONT CENIS RAILWAY.—The Daily News says:—The greatest engineering work of the great century of engineering has at last been accomplished. The Mont Cenis Tunnel is, perhaps, a more wonderful triumph of genius and perseverance than the Atlantic Telegraph or the Suez Canal. Its length is seven miles and three-fifths, it is twenty-six feet and a quarter in width, and nineteen feet eight inches in height, and will carry a double line of rails from France, under the Alps, to Italy. The tunnel, which is of course unfinished as yet, has been cut by atmospheric machinery through the solid rock, schist, limestone, and quartz, the air which moved the chisels escaping from its compression to supply the lungs of the workmen. As a triumph of engineering skill, we must mark this work as one of the new wonders of the world.

THE COMPTOIR D'ESCOMPTE.—By the last mail from India and China a curious document has been brought, and has been published in newspapers. It is signed by a number of French merchants established at Saigon, in the French colony of Cochin China, and it is to the effect that the agent of the Comptoir d'Escompte of Paris in that place had since the outbreak of the war refused them the banking facilities they had previously enjoyed, though continuing them to German merchants, his reason being, it is alleged, that he is a Prussian, and that, as such, he was anxious to do all the harm he could to French commerce. The complaint is addressed to the director of the Comptoir, at Paris; but it has no chance of reaching him, as he is blocked up there. Since it was signed the news has been received that the Germans in Cochin China have, with some exceptions, been expelled by the French Governor; but whether the offending Prussian of the Comptoir is among the exceptions or not is not stated.

The 35-ton gun, on its transit from Woolwich to the proof butts in the Government Marshes, has met with a mishap, which will delay its preliminary trial. The tramway on which the gun was being carried gave way, it not having originally been constructed to carry such heavy burdens. The rails parted on a narrow embankment, and the truck has for the present become a fixture. The ironclad targets at which the gun is to be tried are at Chatham, and nearly completed. Two of them are coated with plates 14 inches in thickness, one of them having the plates placed in two thicknesses of six inches and eight inches, with the timber backing between them. The third target represents the flat surface of an ironclad ship's upper deck, and will be used in the experiment to ascertain the effects of shot and shell when thrown on to a vessel's deck.

MONEY ORDERS ON CHINA.—A notification has been issued from the Post-office, stating that from the 1st of January, and thenceforward, the rate of commission chargeable on money orders drawn in this country on the British post-offices at Hong Kong, Shanghai, Yokohama, Rio Janeiro, Pernambuco, Bahia, Buenos Ayres, and Montevideo will be made uniform with the rate on money orders drawn upon other distant places, by an increase from a threefold to a fourfold inland rate of commission, and will be as follows:—On sums not exceeding £2, 1s.; above £2 and not exceeding £5, 2s.; above £5 and not exceeding £7, 3s.; above £7 and not exceeding £10, 4s.

ACCOUNTS have been received of the death of the Rajah of Kolapore, whilst on his way home through Italy. His death took place at Florence, and is stated to have been sudden and altogether unexpected. It is just over four years since, at Sir Bartle Frere's farewell Durbar with the Sardars of the Deccan, that the young Rajah of Kolapore was invested with the kilhat of State, and took his seat on the right hand of his Excellency as the premier Sardar and representative of Sivajee, the head of the Mahratta Confederacy.

THE London Gazette announces that the Queen has been pleased to confer the following honours in the most distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George:—Knights Commanders—Lieut. General James Lindsay and Colonel Walseley. Companions—Colonel Feilden, Lieut. Colonel McNeill, Lieut. Colonel Bolton, Matthew Bell Irvine; Lieut. Colonel Jarvis, Lieut. Colonel Cassault, Major McLeod, in the service of the Dominion of Canada.

A MEETING of the City Committee of the "Captain Relief Fund" has been held. It was stated that between £41,000 and £42,000 had been received at Portsmouth, and about £4,300 at the Mansion-house. Between £17,000 and £18,000 are still required. The tardiness with which the subscriptions had come in was the theme of much comment, and a strong opinion was expressed that Government ought to aid the fund.

AMONG the Japanese gentlemen, official and unofficial, now on their way to the West for the purpose of study, is one who goes to Holland, to study medicine. Holland having had the monopoly of intercourse with Japan, the Netherlands language is still the foreign language most used and understood, but English is beginning to compete with it. Indeed, most of the party proceed first to New England.

THE screw troopship Orontes, from Dublin, arrived in Plymouth Sound yesterday with a draft of the 1st Battalion 10th (North Lincoln) Regiment, consisting of five officers, 283 rank and file, six women, and four children. The troops were marched to temporary quarters at the military barracks, Plymouth, prior to embarkation in a few days, per hired troopship Silver Eagle, for Japan.

MAJOR F. A. WALTER, 97th regiment, has been appointed Commandant at Sarawak, Borneo. Major Walter was formerly in the 53rd Regiment, with which he served with distinction during the Indian Mutiny Campaign of 1857-58; he retired from the service immediately after the return of the 97th from India in 1867.

LIEUT. THE HON. FRANCIS G. CROFTON, late in command of the unfortunate gunboat Trinculo, has been appointed to the command of the Algerine, 3, screw gun vessel, at China, vice H. R. E. Grey, promoted to the rank of commander.

It is reported that Her Majesty's gunboats Teazer and Thistle are to proceed to the China station from the East Indies as a temporary measure.

MAJOR E. M. GRAIN, R.E., has been appointed commanding Royal Engineer on the China Station, and will leave England on the 21st inst.

MR. ETZUKIE, Japanese cadet, has been appointed by the Admiralty to H.M.S. Hercules, as a supernumerary sub-lieutenant.

THE Imperial Russian clipper Isumroud has left Plymouth Sound for China and the River Amoor.

THE MONT CENIS TUNNEL.

We have the following account by telegram of the completion of the Mont Cenis Tunnel on the 24th ult.:—The Prefect of Savoy was present at the final perforation of the Mont Cenis Tunnel. He was received by the engineers and workmen with shouts of "Long live France." At the inauguration banquet the Prefect delivered a speech, in which he said: "It is well that the world should know that, notwithstanding the peril and anguish of the struggle for the defence of the honour and existence of France, the Republic is associated by its representatives with the great emotions of this day, which marks a solemn hour for the whole civilised world in view of so colossal a work gloriously accomplished." This speech of the Prefect was loudly applauded. On their arrival at the end of the tunnel the Prefect said:—"France and Italy are united in this work of civilisation." The enthusiasm of the guests present was still greater when, at the end of the soirée, the prefect proposed a toast in honour of the two capitals most illustrious in the world, "Rome, which you have conquered, and Paris, which we shall not lose."

THE MACAO COOLIE TRADE.

(GLOBE.)

The Honolulu newspapers contain a frightful account of the sufferings experienced by a shipload of Chinese coolies, on board a San Salvador ship, on a recent voyage from Macao to that port, en route for Callao. The vessel, Dolores Ugarte by name, is registered 800 tons burden, and left Macao with no fewer than 608 coolies on board. In consequence of a disposition to mutiny which had manifested itself among the coolies before leaving port, they for the first three weeks of the voyage were not allowed upon deck, but were stowed away between decks in four rows, a space of only sixteen inches wide being allotted to each individual. At the end of this term of imprisonment the coolies were allowed to come up on deck, in gangs of fifty, for one hour's exercise, in the course of the day. Sentries fully armed kept watch and guard over the wretched creatures, lest in a moment of desperation they should turn on their gaolers. On one occasion a scuffle did take place between the crew and the coolies exercising, which resulted in eighteen of the latter jumping overboard. To add to their miseries the ship's stores fell short, and they were put upon an allowance of one pound of boiled rice and less than a pint of water per diem. This very insufficient quantity of water, coupled with the crowded state of the hold, produced among them intense thirst, and they eagerly thrust their dollars through the gratings of the hatches in exchange for the cups of water which were given by the crew only in return for these equivalents. As may easily be imagined, disease soon made its appearance among them, and twenty-five died before the vessel reached Honolulu. The condition of the ship on arriving at that port is spoken of as indescribable. The mate himself confessed that the stench from the main hatch was so overpowering that it was impossible to hold one's head over it "one minute without vomiting." Forty-three of those too ill to proceed were landed at Honolulu, where, by the exertions of a kindly resident, they were permanently detained. Their plight was most pitiable. Twelve were in the last stages of decay—some with ship fever, and others with diarrhoea; two were rendered blind for life by ulcers which had formed in the corners of their eyes; and all were in a dreadfully emaciated condition. If this account be not exaggerated—and we have no reason, judging from somewhat similar cases which have from time to time been made public, to believe that it is—it reflects infinite discredit on the Portuguese Colonial Government at Macao. But further, it is of great importance to the other European States which have treaties with China that the iniquities of this traffic should be put an end to. What account will the wretched survivors of the shipload send back to China of their treatment by the foreigners? Probably a large proportion of them were men kidnapped from the interior, who recognise no distinction between the various races of Europeans, and whose friends and friends' friends will henceforth look on every foreigner as a possible man-stealer and a cruel oppressor. Truly, after reading the account of the sufferings of these wretched coolies, we cannot be surprised at the ready belief accorded by Chinese mobs to the charges of kidnapping which have lately been repeatedly brought against foreigners.

OUR POLICY AND PRESTIGE IN CHINA.

(PALL MALL GAZETTE.)

Our prestige in China, we are told, on the authority of the London and China Telegraph, has seriously declined, and our policy, with its "mild diplomacy," is bringing the nation into contempt. This, if true, represents a very serious state of affairs, and whether there be any foundation for such sweeping assertions it may be well to ascertain.

The last telegram from our Chargé d'Affaires at Peking is dated November 26. In that Mr. Wade states that "all was quiet in China, and the foreign residents remained to winter at Peking as usual." In a previous telegram he had informed the Government that no troops were required anywhere. We may probably take this last telegram therefore as definitive. The present danger is over, and we may turn our attention to the future, not forgetting that the causes which produced the catastrophe at Tientsin are still existing, and must continue to be a source of danger.

Our whole position has changed since that evil day—and changed very much for the worse. Impunity in such a case is incompatible with safety in China; and there has been immunity to all the chief offenders. The executions that have taken place after three months' delay, during fifty days of which no steps whatever were taken for the punishment of the criminals, cannot be accepted as satisfying the ends of justice in any one sense. It is doubtful, indeed, whether any of the fifteen men beheaded were actively concerned in the murders. They were, moreover, executed with a show of consideration by the authorities, and of sympathy by the people of Tientsin, calculated to defeat the object of any punishment. The banishment of the prefect and magistrate is probably only a well-understood disappearance from the scene—with compensation, present or prospective. The whole thing is illusory—a mockery of justice, and under conditions calculated to inflict even greater injury than an absolute denial of satisfaction. As we have said, while practical immunity has been enjoyed by the chief if not by all the actual instigators and perpetrators of the massacre, a pretence of justice has been palmed off before the eyes of the Chinese authorities and people dishonouring to the foreign Powers that demanded satisfaction. If this is all they are to obtain, nothing can be more precarious than our position. We do not wonder that the British mercantile communities at the treaty ports should feel insecure.

It is because we share in their anxiety as to the future, and entirely agree with them as to the present unsatisfactory aspect of affairs, as well as the necessity of well-directed efforts on the part of the Government to secure them better protection than the Chinese authorities have heretofore shown themselves either able or willing to afford, that we would call especial attention to the action of the merchants themselves, and the local writers who are supposed to speak their opinions and express their sentiments. There is reason to conclude that they are the most active agents in the destruction of their own interests. The most persistent and vehement attacks are either directed against the wrong persons and things, or in the wrong way, and so defeat their object. The English nation is not backward in acknowledging the importance of the trade in which the merchants have invested their capital. Neither is the public unwilling to listen to any reasonable representation proceeding from this source as to their position and need of more effective assistance and protection. The mercantile bodies in this country with which they are in correspondence have great influence with the Government, as was abundantly proved quite recently when a convention which the latter approved was nullified, avowedly for no other reason than because its stipulations were distasteful to the merchants, and believed by them to be unfavourable to their interests. With this influence then so practically demonstrated, why will the mercantile communities in China always assume a position of antagonism to their own Government, as though the latter were their natural enemies? Aware as they must be of the strong feeling which prevails in this country in favour of peace and moderation—and especially against any spirit of aggression in Eastern affairs, whether for commercial or any other objects—why do they and their local press harp only on one string, and in the most absolute spirit of Philistinism demand a policy of gun-boats and coercion as the sole means of securing the trade and themselves from molestation? A commercial policy based on menace and compulsion, and only to be carried out by a perpetual resort to acts of war directed against local and provincial officers, will find few supporters in these days.

In order that our readers may see there is neither exaggeration nor misrepresentation of the character and purport of the language habitually employed by the mercantile communities in China and the local newspapers, we cannot do better than refer to a little book recently published in this country by Dr. Thin, a medical practitioner resident in Shanghai, we believe, who appears in the intervals of business to take up the cause of the merchants, and to occupy his leisure in giving advice gratis on matters of State and public policy. His book affords a very good example of all the most characteristic defects of the class he represents, and the mistakes they usually commit in stating their case. It is entitled The Tientsin Massacre; the Causes of the late Disturbances in China, and How to Secure Permanent Peace. And every one will agree that if it only fulfilled a portion of the promise conveyed in the title-page, the writer would have strong claims to consideration as a public benefactor.

Starting with the fundamental principle that China does not belong to our international system—not acknowledging the common obligations of Christian and civilized States—there is a tabula rasa at once on which to write a new chapter on International Relations. This is followed by a second postulate, that we have endeavoured to bring China, as we have Turkey, within the pale of the public law of Europe with doubtful policy and unsatisfactory results. And a third completes the premises. A nation which does not acknowledge the obligations of treaties can only be dealt with by force; and China, they say, is in this category, for, if the Chinese Government acknowledge the obligations, its delegates in the provinces entirely ignore them. There is a certain coherence and logical sequence in these various propositions intended as the foundation of an Anglo-Chinese policy. Only, as it is reported, Wenseang said when speaking of the memorials and the numerous wants of the merchants—(very much what Ali Pasha said to a visitor when speaking of the demands of the insurgent Cretans)—"Ils se préoccupent non de ce qu'il serait juste de vouloir, mais de ce qu'ils veulent." That is to say, the merchants see very clearly what they would like and the privileges it would be desirable for them to obtain, but do not, perhaps, trouble themselves very much about the means, and still less about any practical difficulties in the way of their being conceded. Dr. Thin begins by informing his readers that "if the people of England knew the history of the difficulties that have occurred in different parts of China since the attack on Mr. Taylor's mission at Yangchow, they would unanimously agree with their countrymen in Hong Kong or Shanghai that the time has come in which foreigners must establish their position in China on a new basis." And he proceeds in the established order to show how absolutely wrong and foolish the existing system is. Several pages are next dedicated to a censure of what he calls Mr. Wade's policy. Will any one explain to us what can be meant by "Mr. Wade's policy"—or any Minister's policy—apart from that of the Government whose representative he is, and whose orders and instructions he is bound to carry out to the best of his ability? That policy may be good or bad, but surely it must be the policy of the Government, unless it be supposed that a Minister is sent to a distant and important post like Peking and left to act entirely at his own discretion? Does Dr. Thin, or anybody else, believe this is the mode in which the Foreign Office carries on the business of the department or the foreign policy of the country? And if he does not, is there either sense or equity in holding the agent responsible for the acts of the principal? What that policy is which is the object of attack, and whether it be good or bad, is quite another question. We see Dr. Thin alleges that the policy of the Government is mainly determined by the opinion and information of the Minister, and therefore he is in fact responsible. But all this rests upon pure assumption on the part of the writer.

We contend that efforts in this direction are altogether misguided. In the first place their influence over the agents themselves, Minister or Consul, is probably nil, for if either Minister or Consul did not act up to the instructions of Her Majesty's Government, he would be very unfit for his post, and in all probability would be promptly removed. And, in the next, such constant depreciation and contumelious language as we see employed in the local press in referring either to the Chinese authorities or the British, cease to be harmless when the articles containing them are translated for the edification of the Chinese. What influence they are calculated to exercise must be all in the wrong direction. They irritate those whom they should conciliate, misleading them as to the feeling of the nation or its Government in Chinese matters. They are injurious to the British authorities in China on whose influence and position they are dependent for the protection of life and property. It would be difficult to devise any course of proceeding less politic or irrational. What end is proposed by the mercantile communities we cannot say. If it be the hope of making a public opinion on Chinese questions which may influence the public or Government here, they certainly go to work in the worst possible way. Or do they expect to convert the Chinese authorities by scolding, and to soften their animosities by railing and rebuke? Perhaps they think it possible to frighten them into respectful behaviour and a loving spirit by loud threats and big words, as the father of Frederick the Great did by cudgelling his subjects, crying at each stroke, "You should love me! love me, you scoundrel!" Whatever may be the ulterior object contemplated—and we do not pretend to have fathomed the mystery—we pronounced the practice dangerous to those on the spot, and a constant source of danger to this country. The Burlingame mission, which caused so much indignation to some writers, there can no longer be any doubt was the direct result, as it was the first fruit, of the violent and hostile tone adopted by the merchants in their memorials for a revision of the Treaty. We do not know that the mission did them any harm, but they thought it might; and, such being their feeling, where was the wisdom of provoking a counter move so obvious and legitimate on the part of the Chinese as a measure of self-defence?

If then it be true that our influence and prestige has declined of late years, who has the country to thank for this but the Anglo-Chinese communities, whose efforts are so uniformly directed to lowering both, by their open opposition to the policy and action of their Government, and by unceasing abuse of all in authority under them? Who, we would ask, has laboured so steadily or contributed so much to the end now proclaimed by their organ in this country—the China Express—as the result of a bad policy? On another occasion we may show, by some extracts, what is the mercantile, or Anglo-Chinese, idea of a future policy, with a view to determine its merits and applicability to the actual situation.

SATISFACTION FOR THE TIENSIN MASSACRE.

(THE TIMES)

After many months' delay, the Chinese Government, being informed, no doubt, of the indignation prevailing in Europe, have presented to the French Charge d'Affaires at Peking a report on the massacre at Tientsin, and the penal measures since adopted by the Imperial authorities. This report is likely to become a State paper of importance, whether the European Governments represented at the Chinese capital choose to pursue the matter further or are content to accept the explanations of Prince Kung. In either case the admissions now made by the Chinese, and the punishments consequently inflicted, deserve to be noted. We shall not attempt to dispute or correct the statement of Prince Kung in regard to questions of fact, though English residents in China loudly protest that the official record is delicately coloured and judiciously obscure. The facts admitted by Prince Kung are, however, sufficient for our purpose; the account of the massacre contained in the official document fairly represents, we may be assured, the opinion received in China about that unfortunate event, and the satisfaction supposed to be given to France by the punishments inflicted on a few insignificant persons measures accurately enough the popular condemnation of the atrocity. If we may judge the Chinese by Prince Kung's apology to the Comte de Rochechouart, and by the schedule of victims presented by way of retribution for a horrible murder, we should say that the deed is regarded in China as a venial offence—injudicious, perhaps, at the moment, but inspired by praiseworthy motives—an error that must be expiated, as far as the foreigners are concerned, by apologies and penalties, but the radical points of which need not be too curiously sought out and brought into the light of day. The Chinese Government are well aware how deeply Europe has been moved by the news of the outrage at Tientsin, and China has already felt the anger of the insulted West. Some reparation, some compromise, has been deemed unavoidable, and Prince Kung's letter to the Comte de Rochechouart describes the satisfaction which China has given. In many respects we might be inclined to contest Prince Kung's statements, but we take them for the present as they stand, and we omit no material point in the Chinese version of this lamentable transaction.

Prince Kung commences with the assertion that the massacre of the 21st of June was caused by the kidnapping of children in Tientsin, which was attributed by the populace to the missionaries. Suspicion, he says, became transformed into hatred, and, combining with circumstances which were of a dubious character, brought about an insurrection of the lower orders, and subsequently the murders perpetrated at the French Embassy and the Sisters' mission-house. He thus endeavours to assume, at the outset, the point which is actually in dispute between the European Powers and the Chinese Government; he takes it for granted that the rising in which the French suffered so grievously at Tientsin was merely a wonted burst of rage on the part of an ignorant, a bigoted, and an excited mob. It must be remembered that the coolest observers on the spot have put on record their conviction that the rising of the populace was organised by persons in the employ of the Government, that public servants and soldiers were conspicuous in conducting the massacre, and that the authorities of the town and province showed culpable indifference to the angry feeling which preceded the outrage, to the progress of the Émeute, and to the escape of the criminals. It is Prince Kung's object to show that the Imperial Government at Peking was not responsible for the acts or omissions of its subordinates at Tientsin. The very day, he avers, that the news of the catastrophe was brought to the Emperor a decree was issued commissioning a high official—Taeng, Viceroy of Chih-Li—to enquire into the affair. At the same time, we are told, the Viceroy and Governor of the Province were specially charged to protect the foreign places of trade and religious establishments against attacks of the mob. Furthermore, the Imperial Government proceeded to appoint Chung, the Superintendent of Trade for the three northern ports, Envoy to the Government of France. Whatever may be the practical result of Chung's mission in the present state of French politics, we can hardly suppose that the Chinese Minister has hoped to hoodwink European feeling by this seemingly cordial apology. It is well known that Chung himself was directly responsible for the maintenance of order in Tientsin; his attention was drawn by the French Consul to the evil reports which were circulated, without official reprimand, as to the practices of the missionaries; a single proclamation from him would have exposed and discredited the slander. He maintained a stolid silence, and by his apathy or his crafty reticence he encouraged the murderers to their vile work. Among the Europeans in China he is universally credited with at least so much complicity in the horrors of the 21st of June, and his mission to France will hardly be accepted as a pledge that the Government at Peking are sincere in their assurances that they desire to punish the malefactors, and to repress by the sternest methods the evil spirit which moved them. According to the belief of those who ought to know best, Chung and some other high officials should be made responsible for their culpable negligence or concealed sympathy with the rioters. However, the Imperial Government has found scapegoats of a lower rank. The Prefect and Sub-Prefect of the province were found guilty of incapacity to repress disorder, and to protect the foreign traders at the open port. Tseng-kwo-Fan, the Viceroy of Chih-Li, before mentioned, arrived at this conclusion, and the guilty Prefects were not only punished with degradation from their official rank, but have been deported to the river Amour, there to undergo a term of penal servitude and hard labour with the army of the Northern frontier. The Viceroy, moreover, ascertained the actual guilt of a number of persons at Tientsin. Sixteen were sentenced to death, and twenty-two were banished to the penal settlements, at the extremity of the Empire, for ten years. A subsequent decree condemned five more culprits to death, and four to exile. The Viceroy at the same time was obliging enough to affirm his belief that the stories about the pulling out of children's eyes and hearts were mere fables, and the Emperor was asked to stamp these inventions, so generally credited by the populace, as mischievous falsehoods. It is to be observed that even now, though the Imperial mandate comes too late to avert the disasters that slanders have caused, the decree by no means distinctly contradicts the popular falsehoods. "The people of Tientsin," writes the Emperor, "moved by doubt and anger," perpetrated the massacre. The admission of the words "doubt and anger" into the very act of punishment is scarcely suggestive of a hearty desire on the part of the Chinese to keep on good terms with the European Powers.

The French Mission at Peking was naturally dissatisfied with the reparation that Prince Kung offered. The Comte de Rochechouart did not go so far as to demand the lives of the highest personages who have been held responsible for the crime, but he demanded that the Prefect and Sub-Prefect, who had taken no measures to check the violence of the mob, should be put to death, as well as an Imperial General who happened to be in Tientsin at the time of the riot. The Government at Peking refused to accede to this demand. It is easy in China to dispose of the lives of men in humble station; many are willing to sell themselves to the executioner. But when it comes to putting high officers to death, even the despotic Government at Peking has to look at the wishes of the people. It is evident, therefore, that the Chinese condone or sympathise with the rioters at Tientsin. The Government has given no real satisfaction for the outrage, no reasonable guarantee against its repetition. The great criminals have escaped scot-free; those of the second rank have been let off with insignificant punishments; only the lowest have been rigorously dealt with. And then Prince Kung appeals in the most innocent manner to the Comte de Rochechouart to bear him witness that China has ever been faithful in her friendship to France! He is ready with a large pecuniary indemnity—amounting to £80,000 or thereabout—for the families of the murdered Frenchmen, and for the losses of the Church. He is profuse in expressions of sorrow; he is impressive in his declarations that for the future such melancholy accidents will be guarded against with vigilance. But he will not yield the only point of importance—the punishment of the great officials who were responsible, by negligence or connivance, for the savage outbreak of the populace. We cannot profess to feel any confidence in the state of affairs in China. Prince Kung's plausible professions, judged by comparison with the weakness of his acts, plainly show that, while he is desirous to maintain friendly relations for a time at least with the Western Powers, he has to face a popular sentiment too strong to be overcome.

LITERATURE

After Ophir; or, A Search for the South African Gold Fields. By Captain Augustus Lindley. London: Cassell, Petter, and Galpin.—The author, who will be remembered by our readers as a Taeping soldier, relates his adventures in an off-handed, graphic style, which leaves no doubt of its fidelity. Some of the scenes which he describes are very exciting, and they convey a great deal of information.

In Macmillan's Magazine for January, 1871, we have a very well-written article on the subject of Competitive Examinations in China. It is the work of one who is conversant with Chinese evidently, but the topic is not a new one, and would better have found place in the recently started magazine for China, the Phoenix, where such misspelling of Chinese words as "Hsintai" for "Siu tai;" "Chü jen" for "Ku jen;" "Chin-shih" for "Tsin sz"; would have been avoided.

Setting aside this insignificant point—for who cares much about the correct spelling of Chinese words?—the account of the competitive system is good, and shows it to be rotten in the extreme, that in spite of Mr. T. T. Meadows's laudation of it, the system is utterly barren of good results. The whole thing wants remodelling; the idea on which it is based is not bad, but, like many other notions of the kind, it has been extolled beyond measure, and, however beautiful and just it may appear, it has many weak points, and places are purchased in spite of it. Notwithstanding the most stringent regulations against the smuggling of memoranda or notes to enable the candidate for honours to pass successfully, greed and tricking defeat them, and the examiners are not inaccessible to "backsheesh; in fact, there is a golden key to honour in China, malgré competitive examinations. When the Chinese admit one or two European languages and some of the natural sciences into their list of requirements for pass examinations to office, we may expect to hear of their cordial reception of foreigners and their real progress in civilisation.

The sayings of old Lau-tsz and K'ung-tsz are very well as quaint aphorisms, but they are too clearly of a metaphysical cast; the Chinese want some practical subjects for mental exercise before they can advance. But this article in Macmillan shows that we are aiming to obtain information on this strange race more and more. A very lucid statement of particulars concerning these examinations is to be found in the Phoenix for October, 1870, by Mr. C. Carroll, H.B.M. Vice-Consul, Foochow.

THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

HAMBURG, Dec. 27.

The treaties for the union of Germany having now been confirmed and ratified on all sides, a deputation of the Prussian Parliament, consisting of thirty members, has proceeded from Berlin to the Royal headquarters at Versailles, to offer the congratulations of the Parliament to the King on having accomplished the unification of the country and the revival of the ancient Empire of Charlemagne. The treaties come into operation on the 1st of January next, when the King will also assume the title of Deutscher Kaiser and King of Prussia; the Queen Augusta will be called Empress by courtesy; but the Crown Prince will retain his present title, and continue to be spoken of as his Royal (not Imperial) Highness. This revival of the Empire and extension of the Confederation to all Germany involves the necessity of the foreign Ambassadors and other members of the corps diplomatique being furnished by their respective Courts with fresh credentials; but it is understood that this will be postponed till after the return of the new Emperor from France. The subject of the coronation has also been discussed, and a strong current of partisanship has been created by the claims of the two rival cities of Aachen (Aix-la-Chapelle) and Frankfort-on-the-Maine for the honour. The former has undoubtedly the oldest claim, having witnessed the coronation of Charlemagne, and his bones being still preserved in the crypt of its venerable Dom or Cathedral. This was continued with the succeeding emperors till the close of the Thirty Years' War, when the city had suffered so much from the hostilities that there was not a sufficiency of fitting accommodation for the Emperor and his numerous suite, with the electors, princes, nobles, and others who flocked in from all sides to witness the pageant. Moreover, it was found to be inconveniently remote and too close to the frontiers of the Low Countries, which at that period belonged to Spain. So, all things considered, it was thought more advisable to remove the seat of the coronation to Frankfort, which even then, as a free imperial city, was a place of rising importance, and the central emporium of the commerce of that part of Germany, and favourably known as the place where the Emperors were elected. Nothing has as yet been decided as to which city will have the preference, if either; my own impression is that the coronations will in future be held at Berlin.

The desertions of French officers, prisoners of war, who broke their parole and made their escape, have now become so frequent that it has been found needful to take more stringent measures towards them. It has therefore been ordered by the Governor-General of the coast district that for every officer guilty of breaking his parole ten others, to be decided by lot, shall be placed in close confinement, and this has already been acted upon. Amongst the rank and file, too, several symptoms of insubordination and attempted revolt have manifested themselves in many of the fortresses where they are confined, and the Governor of Magdeburg has been induced to introduce measures of severity to check this propensity; thus he has published a decree, ordering that all contraventions of order and discipline shall be punished by twenty years' imprisonment with hard labour, and the ringleaders be tried by court-martial, and, if convicted, summarily shot.

The two Hanseatic regiments of the North German Army, Nos. 75 and 76, have received their "baptism of fire," and behaved themselves very courageously, so that the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg, who is in command of the Seventeenth Division, of which they form a brigade, sent a telegram to the Senate of Hamburg, with the request to pass it on to those of Bremen and Lubeck, congratulating them on the prowess exhibited by the Hanseatics, "which was quite equal to that of the oldest and best disciplined Prussian regiments." They were, however, dreadfully cut up in the battles of the 2-4th instant, near Orleans, and those of the 7-10th instant, at Beaugency, on the Loire. The list of casualties in those engagements is extremely heavy, that of the 95th counting 392 killed and wounded, of whom ten officers and fifty-six men were killed on the field of battle, and many have since died of their wounds. The losses of the 76th are still greater, comprising six officers and 142 men killed, and twenty-two officers and 389 rank and file wounded, making a total of 559, so that the whole loss of the two regiments was 951 out of 4,000 men, or very nearly one in every four.

The second German War Loan has proved as great a success as the first, the part offered on the London Stock Exchange being subscribed for to three times the amount required, whilst the subscriptions for the share reserved for Germany amounted to more than four times what was wanted, so that in both countries a repartition has become necessary. Here at Hamburg the scrip commands a premium of $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ per cent., and at Berlin even more.

The new material for feeding the army in the field, the Erbswurst or pea-sausage, is found by the experience gained in this war to be so practical—and it is as much liked by the soldiers as it is nutritious and economical—that the War-office at Berlin has decided on retaining it for the future as one of the principal articles of food furnished by the Commissariat, not only to the army but also to the German Navy. The buildings of the central establishment at Berlin, which were run up in a hurry this last summer, and were only of a temporary nature, are now to be replaced by more solid erections constructed in masonry. I may add that a private manufactory has been established in this city, and is expected to do a large and lucrative business when the article produced becomes better known, as it is useful for provisioning ships' crews, emigrant vessels, and the export trade generally.

It has been stated in some of your London contemporaries that the King of Prussia has offered Count Bismark to create him Prince of Strasburg or Alsace, but that he has declined it. This is, however, not altogether correct. It is quite true that he has been offered his choice of the above titles, but that, so far from declining it, he accepts the elevation with gratitude, though as the matter now rests he wishes to be made Prince of Bismark-Schonhausen, thus retaining his family name, which would be lost to the world generally if absorbed under either of the two first-named titles.

With reference to the case of the North German barque Apenrade, which it will be in the remembrance of your readers in the Far East was attacked and plundered by Chinese pirates in September last, when on her voyage from Whampoa to New York with a cargo of tea, it appears from the official report of Captain Struben, in command of the German corvette Medusa, that the pirates were captured by the Portuguese gunboat Camoens on the 28th of that month, which was sent out for that purpose by the Governor of Macao, and their guilt being proved they were duly executed at the end of November. In full appreciation of the value of this service Vice-Admiral de Souza, the Portuguese Governor of Macao, has been decorated by the King of Prussia with the cross of Knight Commander of the Order of the Red Eagle with the Star, the officers of the gunboat Camoens with the Order of the Crown of Prussia, and the crew of the gunboat with the Prussian badge of honour. The captain's report closes by laying great stress on the expediency of making it compulsory on the owners of all German merchant-ships trading with China to arm them with a suitable armament for their defence against pirates, and giving power to the commanders of German ships of war to convince themselves by personal inspection that they are sufficiently armed and the crews competently drilled for working the guns.

From St. Petersburg I learn that, in the face of the impending separation of the Amoor territory from Eastern Siberia, and its erection into a separate province, Lieutenant-General Korsakoff will not return to Irkutsk as Governor-General, but be succeeded in that appointment by Lieutenant-General Sinelnikoff.

The frost, having set in again with great severity, has totally put a stop to all navigation, and the Christmas holidays have also interrupted the regular course of business, so that there is but little to say about the produce markets, nor is there any alteration to notice in the quotations.

ROTTERDAM, Dec. 29.

A report has been widely spread of a Ministerial combination. According to this on dit, the truth of which I cannot guarantee, Mr. van Bosse will accept the portfolio of the Colonies, Mr. Thorbecke that of Home Affairs, Mr. van Meerbeke, will become Minister of Justice, Baron Gericke of Foreign Affairs, and Mr. van Mulken of War.

From Arnhem I hear that amongst the French prisoners in the neighbouring German town a plot has been organised. Thousands of the French were already provided with arms, when the Prussian authorities discovered the conspiracy.

BREAKFAST.—EPSS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa Mr. Epss has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." CHINESE CHARGES AGAINST EUROPEANS.

We have been favoured with a copy of the translation of a very remarkable Chinese work, which came into the hands of the missionaries in Teng-chow several months ago, though it is only recently that special attention has been given to its contents. The present translation, which is printed at Shanghai, is apparently the work of missionaries, and whether we regard it as a scholarly and conscientious rendering of a book which cannot but have exercised great influence over the minds of the Chinese, or simply as a contribution to missionary literature, we are equally impressed with the value and opportuneness of its publication. The original work is called Death-blow to Corrupt Doctrines; a Plain Statement of Facts, Published by the Gentry and People, and its ostensible object is to excite odium against the Christian religion and its converts. In the preface we are told that it has been largely instrumental in giving rise to the calumnies regarding foreign residents and native Christians which have recently spread through China, and that it sheds important light on the means by which the recent massacre at Tientsin was brought about. We can very readily believe this; and, moreover, we agree with the translator when he tells us that the work has an important political significance, and that it is directed against foreigners generally, and all intercourse with them, social, commercial, and national. Religion is the point of attack, because religion in the minds of the Chinese is essentially political and national. To them the idea that Christianity is propagated from benevolent motives is inconceivable. They almost universally regard it as a political agency used by foreigners for the accomplishment of selfish and political ends. It has evidently been written by some one of great literary abilities. The author has had extensive facilities for consulting public documents, and for ransacking all the works that have ever been written in China against foreigners and against Christianity. It is accompanied with a copious list of the authorities which he has consulted, and to which he continually refers. It is also evident that the author must occupy a high position in the Chinese Government, seeing that he has secured its distribution throughout the country by the hands of the mandarins or their underlings, as is proved by the fact that, in every instance in which it has been heard of, the parties possessing it have asserted that it was obtained from the Yamen. The copy from which the present translation was made came from the Yamen of Chi-hia. It was given to one of the native Christians by a friend in the Yamen, in the hope that it would induce him to forsake the foreign religion; but, though heard of in every direction, only one other copy has come into the possession of the Christians, owing to the fact that all who receive it are strictly charged not to let Christians have it.

Thus far, then, we cordially agree with the views of the translator, and we heartily tender him our thanks for the service he has rendered to religion and enlightenment by the thankless and repugnant task he has so ably executed. We could wish that he had sketched out at greater length, and more definitely, the remedy that he would suggest for the evil which he has unmasked. As it is, he contents himself with urging the necessity of teaching China what the Christian religion really is—a self-evident need, which, however, applies no more to the Chinese than to any other heathen nation, or to our own Arab population at home. The real question is—How can the Christian religion be best explained to the Chinese? and, if the answer to this is—By missionary enterprise—and we can conceive no other means—we are met by the difficulty, which the translator does not seem fully to appreciate, that, the more missionary teaching is extended, the wider and the bitterer becomes the range of the obloquy to which it is exposed. For every convert that is made, a whole family, and, in some cases, a small community, seems to be turned into ferocious and implacable enemies. The more we are convinced of the truth and benefit of the doctrine which missionaries teach, the more we are impressed with the misgiving that it may possibly be the way in which they teach it that is to blame for the virulent opposition which it excites.

As for the arguments and the allegations of the native author before us, they may be dismissed in a few words. The arguments are the time-worn casuistries of the sceptics with which we are all familiarised, since it seems to be an inherent quality of scepticism that it can advance nothing new. As for the allegations they are simply hateful, incredible, and preposterous; but our missionary friends must forgive us if we remind them that they are not more wicked or unfounded, and that they are not more artfully designed to excite vindictive feelings, than the teachings which in various countries in Europe, and till within the last century or two, were the main instigation to the persecution of Roman Catholics and Jews. Unbridled propensities are to this day imputed among the ignorant to the priesthood of the former, and even the latter have not long lived down the prejudice which ascribed to them the union of chemistry and magic for the vilest purposes. Calumnies of this kind are merely a low form of the tu quoque argument which always comes readiest to the vulgar. Our only astonishment is that missionaries can be surprised at anything that is said against them at this time of day. But we cannot think that, widely as such reports may be circulated, they are very generally believed, even among the Chinese. They are seized hold of as the rudest excuse for refusing to be converted by those who are already nearly convinced, and who have not the frankness of the noble Roman, who confessed that he was "almost persuaded to be a Christian." When the native mind is brought to this stage, it appears to us that the missionary's labour is nearer accomplishment than he suspects; it requires only constancy and tact to complete it. If they are careful to avoid giving any pretext for the charge of offending the prejudices and traditions of the natives—if they seek to prove that the religion they teach is the truth, rather than that the philosophy of CONFUCIUS is false—if they content themselves with teaching the worship of the God of the Christians, instead of demolishing the idols of the heathen—they will not find the grand old adage which tells us that "truth is great and must prevail" fail them in the end. By all means let copies of the present work be circulated among the native Christians, from whom it has been so sedulously withheld. Their experience will make them reject its calumnies with contempt, and bind them faster to their new faith. Above all, let missionaries be especially careful that their zeal in making converts does not lead them to accept as such the dissolute, the designing, and dangerous classes of the community in which they labour. One mis-called "convert" who disgraces Christianity from within their congregation is far more injurious to their cause than a hundred avowed enemies who abuse them from without. With these precautions, and the due protection in their sacred calling from our Government, which we have ever insisted on in these columns, we cannot but think that the publication of such works as the one before us is but the herald of a brighter day and a more extended sphere of usefulness for missionaries in China.

It has been suggested that our Government should make some efforts to purchase the valuable and unique Japanese collection of the late Baron von SIEBOLD. The Bavarian Government has for some time had the purchase in contemplation for £5,000.

We are glad to see that his Majesty the King of ITALY has made the Maharajah of JOHORE a Commander of the Order of the Crown of Italy, and Mr. H. REME, the Consul at Singapore, a Knight of the same Order.

THE POSTAGE MEMORIAL.

THE memorial to the Postmaster-General, praying for a reduction of the postage on newspapers, prices current, &c., has been presented by Mr. CHARLES MAGNIAC, M.P. The following is a copy of Mr. MAGNIAC's letter and the Memorial, with a list of signatures:—

Colworth, Bedford, Dec. 27, 1870.

MY LORD,—I have been requested by the persons interested to forward for your Lordship's consideration a memorial setting forth the excessive charge for postage upon certain printed matter when forwarded to the East by the Brindisi route.

It is needless to dwell upon the importance to British trade of information upon all subjects connected with and bearing upon it; the rates of postage now charged must tend to limit the transmission of the documents and papers referred to. I therefore hope it may be in your Lordship's power to meet the wishes of the memorialists.

I have the honour to remain, your Lordship's faithful obedient servant,
CHARLES MAGNIAC.

To the Right Hon. the Marquis of Hartington, &c., &c.

To the Right Honourable the Marquis of Hartington, Her Majesty's Postmaster-General, &c., &c.

The Memorial of the undersigned Bankers, Merchants, Brokers, Newspaper proprietors, and others engaged in the trade of India, China, Japan, and Australia,

Respectfully sheweth,—

1. That your memorialists have learned with great surprise that the reduction decided on in the postage of letters to India, China, and Australia, via Brindisi, has not been accompanied by a reduction in the charge of 4d. on newspapers for every 4lb.

2. That your memorialists beg to inform your Lordship that by far the greatest part of the commercial correspondence of manufacturers and brokers, is carried on by periodical publications or prices current, and that a charge of 4d. on such is a grievous tax on their business.

3. That the increased cost of transmission of the mails to Brindisi by Germany and the Brenner pass, should be more than covered by a reduction in the cost of the sea transit from Brindisi to Alexandria, a passage of three days only, while the passage from Marseilles occupied six days.

4. That it is an anomaly that a newspaper like The Times should be carried throughout the United Kingdom for one halfpenny, while the same paper costs, according to the present tariff, eightpence, for transmission to India, China, or Australia, which is virtually a prohibition. Your memorialists would call your Lordship's attention to the fact that the postage on letters to San Francisco—a distance of over 6,000 miles—is only 3d., and newspapers 1d.

Your memorialists therefore pray that your Lordship will be induced to reduce the present excessive tax of 4d. on each newspaper.

It is with much satisfaction we are enabled to announce that H.M.'s Government has consented to abandon for the present the intention of removing the Consulates from the island of Formosa. The rapid extension of the trade of the island leads us to hope that this is the last we shall hear of any proposal to retire from a field which appears so promising for British commerce.

GALLE HARBOUR.

WE regret to learn that the official correspondence between Sir HERCULES ROBINSON and Earl KIMBERLEY has resulted in the abandonment of both the rival plans for the improvement of the harbour at Galle—Mr. GREGORY's on account of the expense, which is estimated at about half a million sterling; and Colonel CLARKE's simpler proposal for a breakwater of "pierre perdue," which could be erected for half that cost, apparently because the Board of Trade has not confidence in its efficiency. Without expressing any decided opinion as to which of these two schemes it would have been better to carry out, or whether it might not yet be possible for some engineer to strike out a new plan which should combine efficiency with a less heavy outlay, we are not willing to lose the opportunity of pressing upon our friends at Galle that the virtual supersession of that point as the mail and postal harbour of the island—to say nothing of general undeveloped shipping trade—is reduced by the decision of the Home Government to a mere question of £250,000. It is scarcely likely that the owners of property in Galle will be likely to permit their port to forfeit the advantages which it has so long enjoyed, and for which it is so favourably placed geographically; but it is clear that, unless they bestir themselves to raise the necessary funds and take the work in their own hands, they will wake some fine morning to find their steamers arriving and their letters delivered at Colombo or Trincomalee. The Colonial Secretary seems to be in favour of the latter port, on account of its fine natural harbour; but surely the year when the greatest engineering difficulties have been overcome at enormous cost in the Suez Canal and the Mont Cenis Tunnel, is not the time which the residents at Galle will choose for the virtual abandonment of their harbour, which must derive great benefit from both the Canal and the Tunnel, for the sake of a comparatively insignificant amount of pounds, shillings, and pence. In the meantime the good citizens of Colombo are on the alert. In the Legislative Council Mr. WILSON has already given notice of a motion to ascertain the probable cost of "providing Colombo with good harbour accommodation;" and, seeing that this, if this should lead to any practical result, it is almost certain to involve the formation of the long-talked-of Paumben Channel, at the sole cost of Colombo, we can hardly think that our friends in Galle will allow themselves to be so completely passed over in the race of communication. As for Trincomalee, we attach the less importance to its undoubted natural advantages, because to delay the mails for two days, going and coming, would be a step so directly in opposition to the spirit of the age, that we cannot believe that even the cautious Government of Ceylon would recommend it, while it would be a source of continual heavy extra expense to the P. and O. Company. The race is now between Galle and Colombo, and, if the former persists in refusing to compete in it, it will throw away a splendid and possibly a last opportunity.

By the last American mail we have received intelligence of the receipt of the £1,000 subscribed in London for the benefit of the relatives and survivors of the American corvette Oneida, sunk off Yokohama. It is also announced that the Government of the United States have awarded a year's pay and allowances, in addition to the amount actually due.

We have to call attention to a very interesting narrative of the laying of the Submarine Cable from Batavia to Singapore. In due time we hope to publish the account of the continuation on to Penang and Madras, thus completing the line. Telegrams from Madras announcing its completion have been received.

THE TELEGRAPH EXPEDITION.

LAYING OF THE FIRST SECTION BETWEEN BATAVIA AND SINGAPORE.

On the 1st Nov. the steamship Hibernia, belonging to the Telegraph Construction Company, the contractors for this work, arrived at Batavia in good condition, after a ninety-eight days' journey from England, for the most part under sail alone. She brought out all the cable for this portion of the line, consisting of 20 miles of shore end and 559 of main cable—total, 579 knots, weighing in all 2,181 tons. This cable was kept under water during the whole voyage, which made the total dead weight carried, including coals and cable, machinery and stores, about 3,000 tons, a good load for a ship of 2,008 nett registered tonnage. She drew 27 feet on leaving England, which was reduced to about 24 feet by the time she arrived in Batavia Roads. The tests taken almost daily on the passage out gave very satisfactory results, and the official tests taken after the arrival of the ship proved that the electrical condition of the cable had improved during the voyage.

The first few days after arrival were devoted to filling up with coal, landing instruments, &c., and underground cable, about three miles in length, to connect the office with the shore end. Saturday, the 5th November, saw this portion of the work completed, and on that morning his Excellency Mr. Myer, Governor-General of Netherlands India, paid a formal visit to the ship, accompanied by his two daughters and two sons and a select circle of his own invitation, including the Vice-president and three members of Council; the Resident, Mr. H. I. Hoogeven; the Director of Finance; the Director of Internal Government; the Director of Public Works, Mr. Van Raders; the Director of Public Worship; the Director of Justice; the Commander-in-Chief, General Kroesen; Admiral Andreal; Chief Secretary to Government, Mr. Harencarspel; President of the High Court, Mr. Rappard; also the Judges, and a large number of the principal officers of the military, naval, and civil service departments, together with Mr. W. T. Fraser, Acting English Consul, and Mr. Alexander Fraser, agent for the N. I. Steam Company, who has for many years taken an active part in endeavouring to establish telegraphic communication from India, via Singapore and Java, to Australia, of which this cable is the first link. Soon after six in the morning, on the arrival of the Governor-General, under an escort of cavalry, the steamboat immediately got under way, when a royal salute was fired from one of the shore batteries. This had scarcely died away before the small steamer emerged from the Canal, between the two long piers, into the roadstead, when all the ships lying at anchor came into view. Six Dutch men-of-war and one Frenchman, fully dressed with flags, commenced to fire royal salutes of twenty-one guns each—and sailing through the fleet under these circumstances looked very much as if we had got into the midst of a small naval engagement. The yards of each man-of-war were also manned, which, together with the brightness of the morning, helped to complete a most interesting and imposing scene.

Mr. Henry C. Forde (of Clark and Forde, London), Engineer to the Company, and Mr. Pell, the superintendent of the Batavia Station, met his Excellency at the place of embarkation, and accompanied him on board the Hibernia, where he was received by Captains Halpin and Welsh on the part of the contractors, the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company. The Governor's band, which had previously been sent on board, played the Dutch National Anthem as the small steamer came alongside and the Governor and his party proceeded from one steamer to the other. After a minute inspection on board of the cable and cable-tanks, the paying-out and picking-up machinery, together with the mysteries of the electrical testing room, the distinguished party were entertained at a sumptuous tiffin. In the evening his Excellency gave a state dinner, to which about eighty gentlemen sat down, including six of the principal officials belonging to the British Australian Telegraph Company, and the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company. This closed the day's proceedings. All the Dutch Government authorities, from his Excellency downwards, rendered all the assistance in their power to facilitate the contractors' operations, and a first class trench of over three miles in extent, was opened under the immediate direction of Mr. Van Raders, the director of public works. This gentleman was foremost in doing everything to facilitate the land arrangements, and was ably seconded by the chief of the Telegraph department.

On Tuesday, the 8th November, everything on board the Hibernia was ready for a start, and at daylight she moved into her position off the cable-house which had been previously marked by buoys by Captain J. W. R. Reed, R.N., an officer recommended to Captain Sherard Osborn by the Hydrographer to the Admiralty for his knowledge and experience of those shallow and dangerous seas and narrow channels. Captain Reed, spent many years surveying the seas in this part of the world, on board the Riflemen, and is therefore a most suitable person for the Telegraph Construction Company to send out to advise the captains of their ships as to avoiding dangers, and also to take such accurate observations during the laying of the cable as would fix its position accurately, and thereby in case of any future break or fault in the cable save the company much time and consequent expense in effecting repairs.

Owing to the want of water the Hibernia could not anchor closer than a mile and a-half from shore; it was therefore 6.15 P.M. before everything on ship and shore was ready, and the Hibernia commenced moving ahead—quite two hours after the appointed time—as it was not easy to steer the ship in the dark just round the outside of the anchorage and clear of dangers. This, however, was very carefully done, under the guidance of Captain Welsh, of the Hibernia, and Captain Reed, R.N.

About two-and-a-half hours after paying out had commenced the splice between the shore end and the main cable passed overboard at about ten knots distance from the cable-house, and from this position a course was shaped to steer clear of the Browers shoal, about fifty-five miles from Batavia, Mr. J. C. Laws acting as chief electrician.

Up to noon of the 9th about eighty-eight miles of cable was paid out, over an average depth of water of fourteen fathoms. Paying out continued most regularly throughout the whole distance, and no indication could be observed of any imperfections in the electrical condition of the cable, although the insulation slightly fell as it passed out of the comparatively cool cable-tanks on board into the warmer sea. The temperature of the tanks ranged from 79 deg. to 80 deg., whereas the sea varied from 81 deg. to 84 deg. Fahrenheit.

At about 4.30 on the morning of the 10th inst., after proceeding all night at the slowest possible speed, the Dutch man-of-war steamer Sumatra was observed at anchor on our port-bow—almost invisible in a heavy black cloud—marking a dangerous position at the entrance of the Gaspar Straits.

Daylight continued during the whole time of passing through the Straits. The Sumatra steamed ahead of the Hibernia, and took up her position off the Belvedere rocks, at the northern entrance to the Gaspar Straits. About ten o'clock at night we parted company from the Sumatra, having laid about ninety miles of cable through the Straits at the rate of from 5½ to 6½ knots per hour with her assistance. From this to the entrance to the Singapore Straits the course had to be changed very often and carefully watched, in order to steer clear of rocks and shoals, which abound in these seas. The accurate and constant record kept on board of the length of cable paid out was of the greatest assistance to the navigating department, as from these observations the distance run by ship could at any time be told to the fraction of a mile.

At about 12.30 A.M. on Sunday morning, the 13th Nov., when 505 miles of distance had been run, and 512 miles of cable were paid out, the Hibernia stopped for the first time at the entrance to the Singapore Straits, in sight of the Horsburgh Lighthouse. At daylight the ship was again under way, and thirty-six knots more of cable paid out, when the end was let go, sealed up, and buoyed, and the Hibernia steamed on ten miles more and took up her position off the cable-house at Tanjung Katong, at about two cables' length from the beach.

The following morning about six o'clock the end of the shore cable was towed on shore by Lieut. Burn, master-attendant Singapore, in his steam launch; and when the end was properly wet (with champagne), and afterwards sealed up in the presence of a few ladies and gentlemen living in the neighbourhood, the Hibernia steamed off to the buoy and effected the final splice, which completed the electrical connection between Batavia and Singapore.

The latter portion of the work was done in the presence of his Excellency Sir Harry Ord, K.C.B., Governor of the Straits Settlements, who in his steam yacht accompanied the Hibernia as far as the buoyed end of the cable, and then came on board and witnessed the final splice. Before this was commenced his Excellency sent a complimentary message to Mr. Myer, Governor-General of Netherlands India, to which a cordial and suitable reply was returned the following morning, as soon as the cable was opened for communication.

The following was the first official message that was sent through the completed cable:—

“To his Excellency the Governor-General of Netherlands India.

“I have the honour to inform your Excellency of the successful completion of the Batavia-Singapore Cable.—HENRY C. FORDE,

“Engineer to British Australian Telegraph Company.”

“Batavia, Nov. 18, 1870.

“The Governor-General of Netherlands India begs to offer his sincere thanks to Mr. Forde for the favourable news of the successful laying of the Telegraphic Cable, and congratulates him and the other gentlemen of the Telegraphic Company upon the able and expeditious manner in which they have performed their task.”

This cable has certainly been laid in a most satisfactory manner, and has been, as far as possible, placed in the deepest water (although it only averages twenty fathoms over the entire distance) and out of the way of ships' anchors. It was laid with the least possible retarding strain, averaging not more than 3½ cwt., and the total cable expended over and above the distance run is 5½ knots, equal to an average of one per cent. of slack. The bottom throughout is well sounded, and there is, therefore, no doubt the line lies at rest at all points, and it is sufficiently slack everywhere to enable it to be raised in case of future repairs becoming necessary. Some eleven years ago a cable was laid between these two points, whose business life was scarcely equal to one month in all; it was but one-third as heavy as the present cable, the outer covering was not protected, as this cable is, from corrosion, and its strength, when new, was but one-half of the cable now laid; it was also said of that cable that its entire length as paid out fell one mile short of the actual ground covered, and there is a great probability that such was the case, judging from a similar cable laid about the same time down the Red Sea, between Suez, Aden, and Kurrachee, which latter cable survived its thirty days' probation after laying by a period which must be counted by weeks rather than months.

Fortunately contractors of the present day see that it is to their interest, as well as to the interest of the companies who employ them, to lay cables with great care and free from tension, and it is confidently expected by those who watched the progress of the paying out of this cable that it now lies under as favourable a condition as is possible between its two termini; and although it may and probably will be at times broken or damaged by ships' anchors, still there is no difficulty in any part of its course in picking it up and repairing it.

Monetary and Commercial.

Tenders for £40,000 in bills of exchange on India, of which not more than £10,000 will be drawn on Bombay, will be received at the Bank on the 4th of January.

Owing to failing health Mr. George Ure Adam retired on the 31st ult. from the post of manager of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China, which he has ably filled since the commencement of its business, and is succeeded by the sub-manager, Mr. John Howard Gwyther.

At a meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Parko Pittar and Co., whose suspension in the East India trade was announced on the 20th ult., an approximate statement of affairs was submitted by Mr. Gibbons, of the firm of Harding, Whinney, Gibbons, and Co., who explained that further information was required from India as to the position of Messrs. Charles Nephew and Co. before the position of the estate could be accurately arrived at. It was proposed and unanimously agreed that the meeting should be adjourned, and that Mr. C. J. Leaf and Mr. C. A. Stewart should act as inspectors in the interim. The statement showed unsecured liabilities to the amount of £25,504, with assets apparently likely to realise £21,834, and the possibility of receipts from other claims.

In our advertising columns will be found a statement of the Moscow Discount Bank, established in January last.

We have received the report of the Chetty conspiracy case at Colombo, referred to in our last. Three Chetties appeared to answer the charge preferred by Mr. J. Gibson Thomson. The alleged conspiracy consisted in these Chetties meeting and passing a resolution that they would not buy any more goods of the plaintiff's firm, and that they would fine any Chetty whom they found doing so. This course of action was prompted by the feeling that they had been aggrieved by certain law proceedings taken by Messrs. Thomson and Co., arising out of disputed contracts. The defendants' counsel contended that they had committed no offence against the law in the combination, which he did not deny. The prosecutor's counsel might proceed or not; he did not ask him to stay proceedings, but added that, if they were dropped, defendants would be prepared to resume their dealings with plaintiff's firm. On this the charge was withdrawn. We think it is a great pity that the case was entered upon at all if it was not intended to take it to trial. It involved a question of great commercial importance, which is now left more confused than before. The prosecutor's withdrawal is certain to be misrepresented, and the present proceedings can have no effect in checking the evil complained of.

The subjoined extract from a letter, written by a passenger lately passing through the Suez Canal, confirms our opinion that at present no vessel should draw over twenty feet:—Our steamer is 325 feet long, draws 19 feet 4 inches forward, and 20 feet 6 inches astern. In starting from moorings about eight miles from Ismailia she touched the ground, and in passing the double curves near Lake Timsah she twice slightly touched."

Sir Daniel A. Lange sends the following relative to the Suez Canal:—

I enclose a telegram just received from Ismailia, with reference to the passage of ships. The receipts of the Suez Canal continue to average £20,000 per month. M. de Lesseps and the personnel of the Canal Company have, unfortunately, allowed themselves to be shut up in Paris. I have letters from him by balloon post till the 19th December. The letters sent via Marseilles, per pigeon post, had not reached him, as they are not alluded to.

Advices by telegram have been received of the laying of about 250 miles of the Great Northern Company's cable from Shanghai towards Hong Kong. The Cella, with the remaining cable, would proceed at the first favourable opportunity.

The British Indian Extension Telegraph Company's Cable has been successfully submerged between Singapore and Madras, thus completing the telegraphic submarine chain from England as far as Batavia.

A circular issued by Mr. Richard Coles, of 19, St. Helen's-place, announces that he has made arrangements with Mr. Arthur Andrews (for many years in China, and connected with the China trade) to join him as a partner at the beginning of the new year, the style of the firm being Coles, Brown, Andrews, and Co.

Mr. Edwin Henry How (late of Foochow) is admitted a partner in the firm of Messrs. How Brothers and Co., of Fenchurch-street.

At a meeting of the creditors of Higson, West, and Co., Manchester merchants, the statement submitted showed liabilities for £77,761, and assets for £7,359. No offer was made, and a committee was appointed to investigate and report to a future meeting.

Mr. George Moul, late of China, has become a partner in the firm of Arthur Andrews and Co., of Fenchurch-street, tea-brokers.

Mr. Benjamin Howes has joined the firm of Thomas Barlow and Bros., of Major-street, Manchester.

BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS.

The Board of Trade returns for November continue to indicate a steady revival of the commerce of the country. Compared with those for the corresponding date of last year they show an increase of £1,090,115, or more than 7 per cent. in the declared value of our exportations, while over the same month of 1868 there is an excess of nearly 16 per cent. The exact alterations presented comprise an increase of 26 per cent. in coal, 10 per cent. in cotton yarn (13 per cent in quantity), 8 per cent. in cotton manufactures (14 per cent. in quantity), 16 per cent. in Haberdashery, 76 per cent. in silk manufactures, 6 per cent. in linen manufactures, 12 per cent. in woollen yarn, and 13 per cent. in the various articles classed as miscellaneous. The declared value of the exports for the month amounted to £16,377,935, against £15,287,826 in the same period of 1869, and against £14,143,493 in 1868; while for the eleven months the totals were £182,362,925, against £174,450,352 in 1869, and £164,824,654 in 1868. The "computed real value" of the principal imports in October was as follows:—1868, £21,502,839; 1869, £23,759,824; 1870, £21,493,690.

The following is an extract from these Returns of those figures which relate to our Export trade with China and other countries in the Far East:—

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

Business during the past week has been almost entirely suspended, only a few small transactions by private contract being reported, at the prices previously current.

TEA.

Messrs. Hawes and Hertz report that several arrivals have taken place, and the medium to good medium sorts of Black-leaf, both ex these and former ships, have obtained higher prices in face of the inferior quality of the bulk of their cargoes, which might be taken as a fair average of those afloat. Fine to finest sorts continue dull. The common grades of new season Black leafs, of which the first supplies have just come in, do not receive any attention. In Red-leafs of new season's import the lower medium grades have declined in price; other sorts remain unchanged. Green Teas: There has been but a limited business, the finer grades still maintain previous rates. A small public sale took place on the 20th inst., when full prices were realised. Scented Teas: A good business has been done, the lower grades have sold freely at fair prices, while mediums show a decline.

Messrs. Shepard, Harrison, and Redden's Circular is as follows:—An exceptionally large business, considering the time of year, has taken place the past fortnight, transactions extending to 24th instant chiefly in Black-leafs, of fair and good useful quality, at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d. per lb.; Red-leafs have also been taken to a fair extent, but at irregular and declining rates, briek Kaisow kinds, first crop, being obtainable at 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 2½d. per lb. Latest telegraphic advices from China, as to the export, give 101,000,000 lbs. to 1st November, against 120,000,000 to same date last season.

Black: For the grades below common there has been no particular change; old season, inferior flavour to good Kaisow kinds rule at 11d. to 1s. 0½d. per lb.; new, good flavour, Sayune and Kaisow kinds have sold at 1s. 1d. to 1s. 3d. per lb., affording a good selection, and at cheap rates; medium to finest Kaisow is scarce, and prices rule more or less nominal; Pakling kinds, no change, supplies being limited. Taysan leaf.—The arrivals per Burdwan were eagerly sought after, and most parcels have been taken at an advance of 1½d. to 2d. per lb. on first arrivals ex Taeping, say fair to good briek burnt kinds at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d. per lb.; no really fine quality has lately been offered. Black leaf, with full supplies of fair to medium, and Importers willing sellers, large sales have taken place at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d. per lb. for fair to useful kinds; all grades over medium are in limited supply and held for extreme market value, and there is no doubt the position for the next few months promises well. Souchong and Oolong still command remunerative rates to importers, notwithstanding a further easing in all grades but finest. Scented Teas: The Burdwan, from Canton, has brought a good selection, chiefly Capers, of fair to good medium quality, which have been selling at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 8d. per lb. Orange Pekoe, as has been the case through the season, has continued difficult of sale, except at low rates, and is partly interfered with by the superior quality of Foochow Orange Pekoe, which has been taken at 1s. 7d. to 1s. 10d. per lb. for good medium quality, about 1d. per lb. decline on last fortnight's rates. Green: The steamer Albatross, with 370,000 lbs., arrived 13th inst., among the selection, several small, but choice parcels of Moyune have been shown, and after considerable competition sold at extreme rates for fine and finest grades, but common to medium rule very low, and we believe nett results to Importers prove barely if at all remunerative. Ping Suey kinds have been offered in large quantity, and they have been somewhat difficult of sale, as dealers are well stocked from previous free imports. Japan Leaf: Limited supplies from Nagasaki district have reached via Shanghai, both coloured and uncoloured, and being well fired, and of desirable quality in the cup, have sold quickly at satisfactory prices.

SILK.

The Market has been quiet, the trade generally being indisposed to operate at this season of the year. In China there is some little daily business at the undermentioned prices, and the consumption of this class of Silk is still on a large scale, as the deliveries will show. Japan Silk is still unsaleable, notwithstanding the apparently attractive prices at which most classes can be bought. Deliveries, 1st to 28th inclusive:—China, 2,050 bales; Canton, 578 bales; Japan, 259 bales; total, 2,887 bales.

COFFEE.—There have been no transactions during the week; prices are nominally unaltered. Deliveries are again of good amount, being nearly 600 tons in excess of last year, and as the landings are but slightly larger, the surplus, which on the 12th of November was 3,700 tons, is now reduced to about 500 tons. Stock, Dec. 17, 25,427 tons, against 24,476 tons. Dec 24, 24,645 tons, against 24,177 tons.

COCOA NUT OIL.—A small business has been done in Ceylon at the prices given in our last report.

CAMPHOR.—The recent advance is maintained, small private transactions being reported at 77s. 6d. for China.

CUTCH.—A parcel of 200 boxes fine Pegu has been sold by private contract at 22s. per cwt.

HEMP.—About 300 bales Manila have been sold privately at £53 per ton.

PEPPER.—Black: At public sale immediately following our last report of 1,500 bags Penang of fresh import per Vimeira offered 600 bags sold at 5½d., for which the remainder was held, and sold privately afterwards; the only other business done has been the sale for arrival of 300 bags Penang October sailing at 5½d. White: No transactions.

SUGAR.—By private contract 5,000 bags good clayed Manila (duty 4s.) have been sold at 28s. 6d. This has been the only transaction during the week.

TIN.—The market has maintained the firmness reported in our last; late on the 23rd ult. 10 tons Straits afloat sold at £131 10s.; since then 15 tons have changed hands at the same price, and 10 tons on the spot at £132; 12 tons nearly due by steamer are also reported sold at £132 10s.; small sales of Banca have been effected at £132 10s. to £138 cash.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. Beebe's Circular, dated Dec. 16:—A liberal business has been done in the various descriptions of Tea, without material change in market values. Included in the sales reported are 11,600 half-chests Green, 10,300 half-chests Japan, 28,200 half-chests Oolong, and 9,200 half-chests Souchong and Congou. A majority of the Greens finding buyers are to arrive ex steamer Riga and ship Mikado, these vessels being expected to reach port ere long. Of the Japans sold 2,300 are old crop ex Brave (the last of such goods in first hands), and the balance are to arrive mainly by the Chloris. The sales of Black include most of the cargo per Devana (just in), with considerable parcels by other vessels on the way. Our market closes healthy in tone, with a fair demand from the trade for all classes of new goods on the spot.

The following are the current quotations (in gold, duty paid):—Greens (Moyune, Twanki, and Pychow): Gunpowder, common to good, 55c. to 95c.; fine to finest, 82c. to 125c.; Imperial, common to good, 48c. to 90c.; fine to finest, 53c. to 108c.; Young Hyson, common to good, 40c. to 80c.; fine to finest, 47c. to 115c.; Hyson, common to good, 47c. to 75c.; fine to finest, 50c. to 90c.; Hyson Skin, 35c. to 45c.; Foochow, Oolongs (old crop), common and good, 53c. to 58c.; superior and fine, 60c. to 68c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oolongs (old crop), common and good, 52c. to 57c.; superior and fine, 59c. to 65c.; finest, 68c. to 70c.; Souchong and Congou (old crop), common and good, 40c. to 52c.; superior and fine, 55c. to 65c.; finest, 68c. to 90c.; Japans (new crop), common, nominal; medium, 70c. to 78c.; good medium, 75c. to 77c.; fine and finest, 80c. to 87c.; choice, 88c. to 92c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Dec. 14 1870. were as follows:—Greens, 21,714,056 lbs.; Japans, 10,294,086 lbs.; Souchongs, 3,569,462 lbs.; Oolongs, 9,447,179 lbs.; other sorts, 154,464 lbs.; total, 45,179,247 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 9,866,167 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 55,045,414 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Nov. 30 $391,351 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 38,236,586 lbs., there remains a total of 15,917,325 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Nov. 30 to Dec. 14 amounted to 1,850,823 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 417,036 lbs.; and the exports to 335,329 lbs.

COFFEE.—The current quotations for East India kinds are Java Government bags 20c. to 22c.; Java mats, 20c. to 21c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c. The market for all kinds is quiet, and prices show a declining tendency. The business in East India has been limited to sales of 2,000 bags Java ex Nicoline at the rates quoted above, which are somewhat lower than those given in our last report; also 1,244 mats ex Bane, and 900 mats ex Kingdom of Belgium on private terms.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 15c. to 16c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.10 to 2.20; Camia, $1.10 to 1.20 gold (in bond).

FIRE CRACKERS.—The stock being reduced to less than 1,000 boxes, the low rates lately current are no longer accepted; the ruling quotation for Extra No. 1 is $3.80 to 3.85, with but little disposition to sell; the sale is reported of 500 boxes upon private terms.

GAMBIE.—The current quotation is 3 65-100c. to 3 70-100c. gold (duty paid).

HEMP.—There have been no transactions in Manila, prices for which are wholly nominal.

INDIGO.—The demand has almost entirely fallen off, and prices have declined; about 10 cases Manila have been sold at $1.10 to 1.25.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $9 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is 75c. to $1.75 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—The inactivity noticed in our last report continues, and the only business in East India is comprised in the sale of about 1,000 bags Rangoon in bond for export at $3.12½ gold.

SUGAR.—Owing to the agitation with reference to the new duties, but little business has been done, and the tone of the market is one of extreme dullness; the sale of 10,345 bags Manila on private terms constitutes the only business in Manila. The Committee of Ways and Means charged with modifying the duties have agreed upon a Bill striking out from the provisions of the present law the words "Raw" and "Muscovado," wherever they occur, so far as the grades are below No. 13 Dutch standard. The effect of this will be that all Sugars will now be classified by colours alone. It appears that Sugars which are Muscovado, and therefore below the grade No. 13, have been imported in considerable quantities, when their real grade, judging from colour, should be about No. 13. Muscovado Sugar above No. 13 in colour will, under the contemplated change, pay one-half of 1 per cent. duty more than under the law as it now exists, thereby benefiting the Louisiana interests. The Bill has been passed by the House of Representatives.

SPICES.—Pending the reduction in duties, the market is unsettled, the bulk of the business being for delivery after January 1. In Nutmegs there has been a large movement, embracing sales of 700 to 800 cases on the spot, besides some invoices to arrive, on terms not made public; stocks are held higher, say 60c. to 62½c. gold, in bond. Among the sales were 250 cases Penang, from second hands, at a private price; 50 cases do., 60 c. gold, in bond, and 30 cases English order, on a basis of $1.06, duty paid; we notice besides the sale of 1,700 bags Pepper, on private terms. The Trade demand is light for most goods; sales, in lots, 2,000 mats Cassia, at 47c.; 1,500 do. in bond, 27c.; 200 bales Cloves, in bond, 7½c.; Pepper, in bond, 10½c. to 11c., for delivery after 1st prox., 16c. to 16½c., duty paid, and Nutmegs, in lots, in the same way, 80c. The large dealers are supplying the jobbing demand, for delivery under the new rates of duty, as follows:—Mace, $1.12½; Nutmegs, 80c.; Cassia, 37c.; Pepper, 16c. to 16½c.; Cloves, 12½c.

TIN.—The activity noticed in our last was subsequently enhanced by telegrams reporting a rise on the London market, and considerable transactions were entered into, the sales being 2,300 slabs Straits, commencing at 32½c and rising to 33½c. gold. At the close there is less demand, but holders are firm and maintain the above quoted rates.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—OLD SORES, WOUNDS, AND ULCERS.—The readiness with which Holloway's unguent removes all obstructions in the circulation of the vessels and lymphatics explains their irresistible influence in healing old sores, bad wounds, and indolent ulcers. To insure the desired effect, the skin surrounding the diseased part should be fomented, dried, and immediately well rubbed with the Ointment. This will give purity to the foul blood, and strength to the weakened nerves, the only conditions necessary for the cure of all those hideous ulcerations which render life almost intolerable. No sooner is this Ointment's protective power exerted than the destructive process ceases and the constructive business begins—new healthy growth appears to fill up the lately painful excavated pit.

Apply at the offices of Messrs. PATERSON, SIMONS and Co., Singapore; or 31, St. Swithin's-lane, Cannon-street, London, E.C.

TANJONG PAGAR DOCK COMPANY

VICTORIA DOCK, SINGAPORE.

This Company's Granite DRY DOCK, 450 feet in length, 65 feet width of entrance, and 20 feet depth of water on the sill, was OPENED on the 17th October, 1868. In the high tides of the North-East Monsoon there is a foot to eighteen inches more water.

In connection with the Dock is a complete range of workshops, fitted with steam machinery, driving all descriptions of engineers' tools required in the construction and repair of vessels and machinery, and a foundry for iron and brass castings.

The Company's extensive Wharves and Godowns for receiving and storing cargo immediately adjoin the Dock.

Having an efficient European staff in each department, the Company is in a position to guarantee the best workmanship, executed with every possible despatch, as well as low rates of charges.

These advantages, and the great facilities which the proximity of the Dock to the town offers for the transport of materials, &c., enable this Company to adopt a very low scale of charges for ships' work of all classes.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN. YOKOHAMA.

Dates extend to the 20th Nov. by this mail, and to the 23rd Nov. via San Francisco.

The race week—a week of gaiety and festivity! Horseflesh and betting has been man's sole thought during the week, champagne and gloves that of the ladies. Queen's weather ruled the first two days of the meeting, and all passed off well. A succession of earthquakes have been experienced here during the last week, some of considerable violence. Sir Harry Parkes, accompanied by Lady Parkes, goes to pay a visit to Hiogo and the southern ports, per Aden. H.M.S. Ringdove has arrived from Honolulu. The native races v. foreign stables come off this month. The Mikado gives a cup, and none but Japanese officers are to ride on the native side. A large native silk merchant has committed suicide, through inability to pay his way, having given large quantities of silk as security for loans and being unable to redeem them. The effects of the European war are severely felt in Yokohama, and the progressing spirit of the Government has been much checked by the stoppage of foreign business. The railway works will not for some time be extended beyond the short line between Yokohama and Yedo. Yokohama, as far as the native town is concerned, is increasing very fast, and Yedo declining. The new Italian Minister has arrived and been presented to the Mikado. The Belgian Minister for China will remain here through the winter. Kuge Twabow, now head of Dai-nongon, the second Department of the Mikado's Council, is to be appointed chief of the navy. Education is to receive particular attention; the Kaisago in Yedo will be reconstructed, and the number of pupils and foreign teachers increased. The Government have resolved not to repair the old Yedo Yashiki; they are also gradually taking over the country, and the Daimios retiring.

We learn that by the present American mail a Japanese official, named Sabejima, has arrived in order to make an inspection as to the progress of the Japanese students in this country. Sabejima is accompanied by Shiwodd, formerly interpreter to the French Legation.

NAGASAKI.

(VIA SAN FRANCISCO.)

Nov. 16, 1870.

My last, on the 24th ult., was sent via Marseilles; since then general news has been exceedingly scarce. The enclosures sent herewith will give you the chief items which have taken place. Our two newspapers here have been chiefly employed in ventilating grievances, and one of them has taken up a sneering style in hopes of improving things. An attempt has been made to dispose of lot 30, Oura, with the buildings thereon, and lot 2, Megasaki, which is vacant, but has the advantage of being next to the chief Custom-house jetty; not a single bona fide bid was made for either; property at this port is in such a depressed condition, owing to trade being exceedingly dull, that it lets for nothing, or next to it, and what is worse, we see no prospect of an improvement; and it seems to me that very few persons will be left here at the end of this year.

The following are the movements of the vessels of war:—

H.B.M. corvette Zebra, from Shanghai, arrived Oct. 26, with the English mail of Sept. 9, forty-seven days; she returned Oct. 30 to Shanghai. A portion only of the English mail of Sept. 23, fifty-three days out, was received here yesterday morning.

U.S. corvette Benicia, from Chefoo Nov. 2, and left on 5th idem for Hiogo.

H.B.M. gunboat Cockchafer, from Hiogo Nov. 3, and left Nov. 5 for Shanghai.

Russian corvette Vsadnick, for Hong Kong, sailed Oct. 25.

U.S. gunboat Monocacy, for Shanghai, sailed Nov. 4.

Russian corvette Haydamack, for a cruise, sailed Nov. 10.

H.B.M.S. Ocean left for a cruise on Nov. 5, and returned 10th idem.

H.B.M.S. Salamis arrived here, from Newchwang, Nov. 14, and reports all quiet at that port.

Another North German vessel has managed to get into this port—the brig Schwann, on the 1st inst., from Port May. The British barque Rollo has been put on the berth for London and wants some 300 tons more to fill up; her cargo will be chiefly tobacco, of which a large quantity is from Hiogo. Nebus are the same and exchange on London unchanged.

THE FOLLOWING EXTRACTS ARE FROM THE NAGASAKI NEWSPAPERS.

Nagasaki Express, Oct. 29, 1870.—A new feature in the trade of this port, which calls for some notice, is the large quantity of teas shipped this season by the natives for the Yokohama market. Not less than 20,000 piculs have already left, and every steamer takes its proportion. The leaf is principally of low medium class Chickugo, which, after undergoing certain manipulations so as to cause it to resemble in appearance the teas from the northern districts, is then mixed with the latter and passed off as the genuine article. Though inferior in many respects, this mixture has in many cases been sold at the prices of true Oogie. Several of our native friends have made a fine thing by these shipments; it still remains to be seen whether this mixture will give equal satisfaction to the buyers for the home markets.

We notice with pleasure that the municipal authorities have placed additional lamps in the back streets of this settlement, and have also erected two on each jetty. The latter is an improvement which has long been required here, as the jetties were extremely dangerous on dark stormy nights; more than one case of drowning has occurred at this port; and from circumstances which have transpired there is every reason to suppose that the unfortunate men met their deaths by missing their footing in the dark. Some of the lamps have been lighted with kerosene, which, being found cheapest, will, we hear, be used for the whole of them very shortly; certainly those which have undergone the process of conversion completely show us that the old ones are, without doubt, the "light of other days," and sadly require placing on the retired list.

One of the warrant officers of H.M.S. Ocean died yesterday from hydrophobia, the effects of a bite from a dog received about six weeks ago. The usual symptoms of this awful malady only showed themselves for the first time a few days ago. This sad death has cast quite a gloom over all on board, the deceased having been very much respected by every one.

Nov. 5, 1870.—On Saturday last an accident occurred by which several persons nearly lost their lives. The facts are as follows:—Four of the midshipmen of H.B.M.S. Ocean were cruising about this harbour in the yacht Pangloss, belonging to one of the residents, when it was suddenly taken aback, filled, and sunk in deep water in a few minutes. This took place off Papenburg, nearly a mile from the shore, but was fortunately observed by some natives, cattle dealers from Urakami, who called the attention of some fishermen to the accident. These put off to the rescue, but not until they were promised a reward by the dealers, which was afterwards repaid by the officers. We regret to have to record such a bad feature as that exhibited by the fishermen, and we believe this is the first case of the kind that has ever occurred. We trust the officials will make inquiries into the particulars. It is the intention of several persons to raise a subscription for the Urakami men.

Nov. 12, 1870.—We often wonder what are the real functions of the Custom-house at this port, and whether the superior authorities know that some of the lower class of officials are engaged in levying any number of pettifoggings squeezes. From what has recently transpired we doubt whether a more contemptible or beggarly lot of beings could be found anywhere; miserable to the core, they pay unlimited attention to unimportant matters which are not likely to produce any revenue to the Government, even if it is their intention to hand over all they collect, while matters of moment are entirely left to the chapter of accidents. It is all very well to bear in mind a well known proverb about taking care of the pence, &c.; but it is just possible that a penny's worth of wisdom may be purchased at the cost of a pound. The latest dodge of these cormorants has been to regulate what price the washermen shall charge; but, unfortunately for the latter, they will not reap any benefit by the advance as they have to pay monthly black mail to the officials, so that the workman is no better off at the end of the month than he was previous to the rise taking place. Later on we may expect to hear that the washing business has been made an official monopoly, and that a Washerman's Company has been established, having for its manager some one bearing the title of Soapsuds-no-kami, and it is reasonable to suppose that the association will not consider it infra dig to exhibit a signboard with the inscription—Washing and Mangling done here.

We understand that Dr. George Newton, who arrived by the steamer New York, from Yokohama, has been deputed by the Mikado's Government to establish an institution for the treatment of contagious diseases amongst the Japanese, on the same principle which he has so successfully organised at Yokohama; and to take other means for carrying out a system of compulsory treatment and control over the infected. We believe Dr. Newton, after completing his arrangements for Nagasaki, will proceed to some other of the larger cities.

H.B.M. Consular Court, Nagasaki, before A. A. Annesley, Esq. H.B.M. acting Consul, and Messrs. Ryley and Colthrup, assessors, Nov. 7, 1870. Mitchell v. Taylor, Claim $700. The plaintiff and defendant were formerly in partnership together, and carried on the business of shipwrights, &c., at this port, under the firm of Mitchell, Taylor, and Co.; but this agreement was terminated by a dispute which took place, and the present claim is for alleged errors in the books of the firm, by which the defendant's share of the profits is made to appear more than it should be. The books were submitted to the Court for inspection, but they were in such a state of confusion that they supplied no explanation. The case has been adjourned sine die pending certain investigations.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN.

The Tientsin correspondent of the North China Herald writes that Li-hung-Chang, in addition to his duties as Viceroy of Chih-li, is to receive the appointments previously held by Chung How, of Superintendent of Trade at the three northern ports, and Superintendent of the Arsenal. This will be to identify his position in the North with that now held by the Viceroy of Nanking in the South. The Imperial Arsenal has been formally re-opened for work in the presence of Li and all the local mandarins. The former had a first experience of railways in a trip on the tramways round the establishment, nearly three miles in circumference. He expressed himself much pleased.

Chung How, the Chinese envoy, who is about to proceed to Europe, for the purpose of explaining to the French Government why nothing was done to prevent the Tientsin Massacre, has at last taken his departure. On leaving Tientsin in the steamer Nanxing he was escorted to the landing-place by a body of about 4,000 troops, who lined the Bund of the foreign settlement as the steamer moved away, and after presenting arms prostrated themselves on the ground, and performed the ceremony of Ko-tow. On passing the Taku Forts the Imperial envoy was greeted with an imposing salute, and a great display of banners; but Neptune and Boreas combined were less respectful when he invaded their domain, and treated the Chinese grandee to a display of their terrors such as is seldom encountered in the Gulf of Pechili. The Nanxing was three days at sea between Taku and Chefoo (a voyage usually of twenty-four hours), and was in great danger on the night of November 4th, but escaped with loss of bulwarks, &c. She left Tientsin flying an enormous silken banner at the fore, the colour being red, with a white stork emblazoned in the centre. This device appears to have been adopted with reference to the superstitions of the Chinese in respect to the supposed auspicious signification of the stork, the bird of longevity.

It is understood that M. de Rochechouart intends shortly proceeding to Shanghai, where he will spend a few days in relaxation before the approach of winter. He has, I learn from good authority, issued a circular to the French authorities in China, in which he announces the departure of Chung How, and in a measure exculpates himself with regard to sundry statements which have been current respecting his negotiations with the Chinese Government. He repudiates the assertion that he has presented repeated ultimata, and positively denies that he had shown attentions of a too friendly nature to Chung How after the occurrence of the massacre. He adds that the measures of reparation offered by the Chinese Government have neither been repelled nor definitively accepted by himself.

SHANGHAI.

Dates are to the 22nd Nov. The French mail steamer of the 30th Sept. arrived on the 19th Nov. Telegrams reached to the 25th Oct., via Kiachta to the 18th Nov.

The following summary is from the North China Herald:—

The Erl King was delayed two days on account of the lowness of water on the bar, but got over on the 17th. She also touched ground on her way down the river, on the north bank, but floated off with the next tide. The Diomed steamed down the river and passed out on the same afternoon. They will not, however, repeat their race home, as the Diomed will stop several days at Hong Kong for troops, while the Erl King goes straight on.

A very heavy northerly gale occurred on the 17th, in the course of which the steamer Appin went on shore on the Beacon Spit, and the hulk Annie Porter, which was in attendance on the Lismore, went down at her anchors, and now lies hull under water. The Annie Porter was one of the vessels employed to receive the chains passed under the Lismore, and buoy her up when preparations were sufficiently advanced to attempt to raise her; but we fear the present untoward accident will make that task nearly hopeless. The Lismore herself seems to have torn away from the wreck of the junk on which she was impaled, and to have sunk alongside of it; for at first her deck was only awash at low water, and now it is so low that the Annie Porter, lying diagonally across her bow, is also sunk. The Appin was got off twenty-four hours afterwards without damage. The British ship Chusan, which has been ashore for some days on the North Bank, has been also got safely off, after discharging nearly all her cargo.

A comprador in a foreign hong lately gave his employer the following explanation of the non-removal of the various wrecks that have accumulated near Woosung. It is not want of energy on the part of the mandarins, but a device of the Devil to thwart them. In the olden days the officials used to look after the channel; but a devil entered into it and shifted the wrecks so that they could not find them to remove. They went down, took an observation; and returned another day with some powder to blow up the obstacle. But the Devil, in the meantime, had moved it, and nowhere could it be found. Disheartened, apparently, they have lately ceased from their efforts. It was suggested that they should now make another trial whether the Devil had not departed, or should delegate the duty to foreigners, who felt confident that they at least would be able to find the elements of the embryo island into which the junk, the Lismore, and the Annie Porter have become entangled, and which the Hellespont and the Ocean Mail promise soon to emulate.

A few months ago we reported the establishment of a school for Eurasian children in Shanghai, under the care of Mrs. Bonney. A habitation was found for the new institution in Hongkw, and we are glad to learn that about a dozen pupils have been sent and are comfortably settled there. Still, these do not suffice to support the school, at the low rates charged, and we take the opportunity of again referring to it, in the conviction that it would be more largely patronised if the facts of its existence and intended permanence were realised. It has been started by the aid of funds liberally contributed for the purpose, but these have been sadly drained by the first few months' unremunerative outlay. It hardly promises yet to become at once self-supporting; but we feel sure that it will become more and more so, as it is more widely known.

The Shanghai Volunteer Corps held a rifle meeting on Friday and Saturday. The shooting was not very good, but a majority of the men were griffins, and it was satisfactory to find so many showing an interest in their work. The Adjutant-General's prize was won by Lieutenant Mackenzie, and the ladies' prize by Capt. Cann.

The Shanghai Yacht Club commenced their regatta, when the house-boat race was won by the Winifred, the yacht race by the Phantom, and a race for lorch-a-rigged house-boats by the Osprey.

The Peking Gazette contains a memorial from Wen Seang, well known as one of the ablest and most friendly members of the Foreign Board, stating that his infirmities are daily increasing, and that the strength necessary to perform his many onerous duties is on the wane. "He therefore begs that he may be relieved from his more heavy responsibilities, and that another official, more likely to bear them satisfactorily, may be appointed. Last year he was obliged by ill-health to ask continually for leave of absence, and even now, although much better, he suffers from frequent relapses. He is prepared to continue to conduct the affairs of the Foreign-office, but these are all that he can undertake. The request is granted."

From Chefoo we learn that the Salamis arrived there from Newchwang on the 11th, and left again on the 12th for Japan. She brought back with her the body of marines whom she carried up to be stationed at Newchwang during the winter, a despatch from Mr. Wade having arrived after she had landed the men, ordering them to be withdrawn. As the men were sent up by the Admiral on Mr. Wade's requisition this new move appears almost incomprehensible, but it may be presumed that, on asking Prince Kung's leave to protect the British settlement, the Chargé d'Affaires was met by a protest against such an invasion of the rights and prerogatives of the Chinese Empire. This would as a matter of course entail the immediate reversal of the new line of policy lately adopted. The gun-vessel Elk has likewise been countermanded from Tientsin, whither she was sent to remain over the winter in company with the Avon. Thus the greatest care is being taken to avoid hurting Chinese susceptibility. On the other hand, report says that Prince Kung has declined to give Mr. W. H. Seward an audience. This may help the American people to arrive at a more just appreciation of the value of Chinese professions of friendship. Mr. Seward and his party were to leave Peking on the 11th for the Great Wall.

The following items are from the Express:—

A Japanese envoy and his suite returned from Tientsin, per steamer Manchu, on the 18th. He has, we hear, been in negotiation with Tseng-kwo-Fan, for an alliance between China and Japan, for the prosecution of a campaign against Corea, but, we understand, he has been unable to induce the great Chinese general to join in the little scheme.

It was some time since reported that on her last voyage up from the South the steamer Sin Nanxing picked up a disabled junk off Foochow, and towed it safely into that port. We learn that this was one of a fleet of six vessels conveying the tribute annually paid by Loochoo to China. She had silver to the amount of eighty thousand dollars on board, and paid the Sin Nanxing the handsome towage of five thousand dollars for the assistance rendered.

We hear that the engines of the recently launched Chinese gunboat (No. 4) were tried at Kau-chang-meau yesterday (16th), and were found in every respect approaching towards perfection. The start was admirable, and the officials present expressed themselves highly pleased. And well they may, for in every instance the machinery constructed for them has turned out most satisfactorily. Now that the Chinese have resolved on going in for iron-clads, they have sent home for an expert who thoroughly understands the building of such vessels, the lines of which will be laid down by Mr. A. G. Lambert, the marine constructor to the Imperial Government.

The U.S. war steamer Monocacy is undergoing extensive repairs, involving an outlay of some $2,000 or $3,000, which will require her to stay here for some months. Her crew are to be placed on board some vessel that is to be chartered for the purpose.

The Nanking officials have at last succeeded in accounting for the assassination of the Viceroy Ma. The murderer himself has persistently refused to confess, despite the horrible torture. He has been made to kneel on hot chains, squeezed between boards till he was nearly shapeless, and otherwise racked so far as it was possible without killing him outright. So his judges fell back on his family, and subjected his mother-in-law to similar inflictions; she gave in, and told the following tale. The prisoner belongs to a band of pirates in the Chekeang province, and kept a small pawnshop to facilitate the disposal of stolen property. While Ma was Governor of Chekeang, his comrades killed a mandarin. The prisoner gave up their names to Ma, under promise that their lives should be spared. The latter, however, put them to death directly he had them in his power. The prisoner, who was alone let off, thought it his duty to revenge them; and assassinated Ma, accordingly. Whether or not this tale is true, or is invented under the pressure of necessity to account for the matter in some way, we have no means of judging. At any rate, the absence of explanation was beginning to be awkward, as Tseng-kwo Fan's assumption of office was delayed, pending the result of the inquiry. Now, the matter is, we believe, considered to be settled; the murderer will be executed, and Tseng will come to Nanking.

The North China Herald has the following on the visit of Chung How to Shanghai:—

As might be expected from the view which foreigners take of Chung How's conduct in regard to the Tientsin Massacre, his reception at Shanghai was very different from that given him by his countrymen on the banks of the Peiho. More than once during his movements on shore, unequivocal expression has been given, by foreigners, to their feelings regarding him. But it is not in such a manner that Chung How should be reprehended. It lies with the Western Governments to refuse to receive him as ambassador; and to demand an investigation into his conduct, if they think right. It lies especially with the nation most aggrieved to signify its opinion of his behaviour on and before the fatal outbreak.

The Court of Enquiry held at Shanghai on the loss of the Lismore has given the following judgment:—

The Court, having carefully investigated the evidence adduced, is unanimously of opinion that the loss of the British steamer Lismore on the morning of the 2nd November, 1870, is attributable entirely to the sunken junk light vessel having drifted from her proper position, and that there is no blame attached to Captain Morrison, the officers or crew of the Lismore. The Court cannot separate without expressing great regret that so dangerous an obstacle to the navigation of the river should not be more carefully marked, and that they consider on this occasion the person in charge of the wreck light ship was guilty of culpable negligence.

The wreck of the Lismore was sold by action for Tls. 3,100, the bids advancing slowly by Tls. 5 and Tls. 10 from the first of Tls. 6 up to Tls. 300; after this they became a little brisker, and in the course of three-quarters of an hour reached the sum named Messrs. Boyd and Co. were the purchasers.

GLOVER, DOW, AND CO. v. WEN HSIEN AND (TAE-YUEN-SUNG Tea-hong.

Claim for Tls. 1,486.86, being balance of account due on 926 half-chests green tea, shipped per Omba to London in December, 1869, by plaintiffs on account of defendants; the above being amount of loss resulting from the sale.

Judgment.—The Tae-yuen-sung hong having lost upwards of Tls. 1,400, it is right that they should pay the same. Still, as the proprietor at the time the contract was made, Lo-sing-yuen, is already dead, and his widow has returned to her place of settlement, it is naturally a matter of difficulty to recover the amount. However, the Government license taken out for the Tae-yuen-sung hong is held by his successor, Lin-ko-cheo, and it would seem that, as he is the possessor of such a document, it will be his duty to settle all the outstanding accounts of the former holder; and he will not be allowed to decline this responsibility. With regard to the broker or middleman, Tang-wen-heen, as he acted as broker in the beginning, it is incumbent upon him to help to settle the affair at the end. It is not to be permitted that Glover, Dow, and Co. should be deprived of all source from which to obtain the amounts due to them. The defendants are to be imprisoned until they can find good security to guarantee the payment of the debt in full.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

Nov. 22, 1870.

As any particulars concerning the latest phase of Chinese practices in their dealings with Foreign Governments, viz, the despatch of Chung How, the principal authority at Tientsin, in whose house, or at whose door, and in whose presence, the French Consul and his assistant were cruelly murdered, and whose complicity in the massacre no one here doubts, except the French and English ministers, I send you some items of intelligence which may be new to your readers. On the arrival of Chung How at this place a universal feeling of horror was felt at such a cut-throat being amongst us. It must have gone hard with the French and English Consuls here to be obliged to show the usual courtesies to such a man. This feeling found vent to some extent on his first arrival; he was mobbed in the street or French bund, his chair coolies upset and himself compelled to alight and get out of his chair. On the second day of his appearance, although accompanied by an armed guard of as evil a looking set of men as I ever beheld, he was hooted and threatened and asked in his own language where all the women were that he had murdered. It is a mystery to every one here how the French Minister could have consented to such a man being sent as envoy to his country, a man dyed with the blood of Frenchmen and women cruelly tortured and murdered with every indignity that could be practised by savages. The so-called punishment of the murderers is reduced to a miserable farce and imposition. The real culprits go free, a few coolies bought up at so much per head are executed. The indemnity, instead of being levied upon the people of Tientsin, is actually paid out of the Foreign Customs, so that foreigners are paying the indemnity for the murders committed by the Chinese. Chung How on his arrival here handed over to the French Consul orders on the Customs for Tls. 150,000, and I presume that the other 100,000 was paid at Tientsin. This fact ought to be brought to the notice of the Government and people of England, as such a transaction is an outrage upon foreign Governments and people. The inhabitants of Tientsin, and the mandarins who led on the murderers, ought to be made to suffer, and until they are punished adequately no foreigner's life is safe in China.

Although four months have elapsed since the massacre at Tientsin, there is a feeling of uneasiness and uncertainty amongst foreigners, as no one can tell what may be the next atrocity committed by the Chinese. A similar feeling exists amongst the Chinese, as both parties have an inner consciousness that things cannot remain as they are, and that the Amouement has not yet arrived. A great mistake has been made in not exacting on the spot satisfaction for the outrage, when the force of French and English men-of-war could have avenged the wrong done us, as sufficient means were at hand to blow the place about their ears. I can hardly fancy that any French Government will receive as an Ambassador this blood stained man. Many people here are of opinion that M. Rochechouart has sent him home to get him into the power of the French, that they may deal with him as he deserves.

An illustration of the way in which the Customs revenue paid by foreigners to the Chinese is misapplied is now before us here. There are two steamers on shore and one ship, and one steamer a wreck outside or at the entrance of this harbour, all caused by want of lights and buoys. One of the steamers, the Ed King, is on the bar, which might be deepened sufficiently by dredging, but while the Chinese Government are allowed to devote the money received for the conservation and improvement of the harbours to such purposes as the Burlingame Embassy, Chung How's expedition, and the payment of the indemnity for the massacre at Tientsin, they cannot and will not do what they are bound to do by treaty with us, viz, to improve the entrance to the different harbours. This river is rapidly filling up, and will soon be unnavigable, unless dredging be resorted to. Another abuse is that the salaries of the Customs officials have been reduced to make up for those sums squandered in deceiving the European Governments, and in providing for the nominees of Burlingame, who have been poured out here from every Court in Europe that he had access to. In the Supplementary Convention to the Treaty of Tientsin it is stipulated that the tonnage dues paid by foreign shipping are to be devoted to the conservation and improvement and lighting of the coast and harbours. This duty, like many others, has been systematically evaded by the Chinese Government, and our diplomatists, instead of compelling the Chinese to observe their engagements to us are actually trying to assist them in evading their treaty obligations.

The best thing the English Government could do would be to recall their Minister, and send out a man with full powers occasionally to negotiate with the Chinese, giving the Admiral on the station orders to use force when necessary to avenge outrages and compel the observance of treaties. The correspondence from the Chamber of Commerce ought to enlighten the Government as to the state of feeling here, of which they seem to be kept in perpetual darkness. The correspondence as to the refusal of protection or assistance from the naval force, in consequence of orders from home, ought to be brought before Parliament, as the present Government of England seem dead to all sense of shame when they expose their subjects to be massacred with impunity, and order the naval officers not to protect or assist them. The idea of taking the whole foreign community of Shanghai, numbering about two thousand, on board ship is utterly absurd; yet the orders issued by the Admiralty bear no other interpretation, and are so construed by the naval officers here. If the massacre of Tientsin was not a case of extreme peril, I should like to know what is extreme emergency. Yet, in that instance, even after the event, the Minister did nothing, the Admiral did nothing. This shows the folly of attempting to rule at such a distance as England is from China. The same policy has been tried in India, and signally failed. The Appin, Earl King, and Chusan have all been got off the banks near Woosung, where they were stranded.

Dates extend to Nov. 29. The London mail of Oct. 7 arrived out on Nov. 20 with telegrams to Oct. 31.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The half-yearly meeting of the General Chamber of Commerce was held at the City Hall on the 23rd November, Hon. P. Ryrie in the chair. There were present:—Messrs. Zimmern, Arthur, Greig, Lemann, Francis, Boyd, Vickers, Sassoon, Berwick, Helland, Buxey, Morgan (W. M.), Bellios, Davis, Sharp (G.), Melchers, Karberg, Bade, Vogel, and Crichton.

The Report congratulates the Chamber on the satisfactory results which had attended the strong remonstrances addressed by the various commercial communities in China, including this Chamber, to the Home Government on this subject, and which were so ably seconded by the deputation of gentlemen who waited upon the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. The Committee feel that the refusal of the Home Government to ratify the Convention concluded by Sir R. Alcock with the Chinese Government, which was so universally condemned, was, in a great measure, due to the energetic manner in which the Committee of London Merchants interested in the China trade pressed upon the Foreign Secretary the views and arguments set forth in the various memorials sent from China.

With regard to the Tientsin Massacre the Committee express a hope that as soon as affairs in Europe have become somewhat settled, that the British Government will take the lead in demanding either a new treaty altogether, or else a thorough revision of the old one, and that in doing so it will cast aside all protestations of goodwill towards foreigners by Chinese officials, viewing their real sentiments only by the light of the Tientsin Massacre and the numerous other outrages lately committed at their instigation or with their connivance upon foreigners and their property, and that such guarantees shall be exacted from the Chinese Government as will, for the future, assure safety while pursuing their lawful calling in any part of China.

Mr. Moss returned from his explorations up the West River on the 9th of July last, and reported that after having reached Nanning-fu he was prevented from proceeding further, and was accordingly obliged to return to Canton, and endeavour to prosecute the remainder of the journey by way of Pak-hoi, if such were approved of by the committee. Recent disturbances, however, rendered this latter course impossible, and Mr. Moss was accordingly asked to draw up a report of his journey to Nanning-fu, which was laid before the members.

One satisfactory result of Mr. Moss's expedition has been, that it has placed beyond any reasonable doubt the fact that inland dues, both under the name of Customs' duty and Lekin, are imposed on British and other foreign manufactures, in the district watered by the Canton river, much in excess of what was stipulated in Lord Elgin's Treaty—Mr. Moss having brought back with him the published official tariffs in Chinese, stating the amounts of the various exactions.

The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, referred first to the Tientsin Massacre and Chung How's mission to England. He said Chung How, the principal official at Tientsin, who has been for many years past avowing himself a friend of foreigners, sat down calmly in his Yamun with his six hundred armed soldiers within call, and did nothing towards preventing the tragedy which was proceeding within a few yards of him. He is now in our colony, on his way to Europe, with the ostensible object, as Count Rochechouart puts it, of clearing himself and his Government, if he can. I do not think there is any necessity for this Chamber to follow the example of the Shanghai Chamber, and address a special letter to the committee of the London merchants, which has been so vehemently protested against by Mr. Hanbury, as charging a man with complicity in a murder of which he has been declared innocent by the French authorities after investigating the facts. Gentlemen, I think we do not require to go so far as the Shanghai Chamber. The London Committee are well able to judge for themselves, and from what I know of some of them, I think we may feel pretty certain of the conclusion they will come to. It will be sufficient for us to freshen their memory as regards the facts, and warn them against putting any faith in the statements of this man, who possesses in an eminent degree that plausibility and suavity of manner which are, more or less, the birthright of every Chinese.

The Chairman next commented in severe terms upon the action of Mr. Boura, Commissioner of Customs at Canton, in going to Pak Hoi in a Chinese gunboat which was sent by the Viceroy to coerce the inhabitants into paying duties, the imposition of which had led to disturbances. The Chamber considers Mr. Boura's proceeding as entirely outside his legitimate province, and that it is highly undesirable that foreigners should be mixed up in disputes of this nature between the native authorities and people, as nothing can tend more to raise the hostility of the trading classes against Europeans. The chairman concluded by recommending that Mr. Moss should be presented with the remainder of his personal outfit and a sum of $250 out of the expedition fund (which was agreed to), and moving the adoption of the report.

Mr. Crichton proposed, and Mr. Lemann seconded:—"That the balance of the Moss expedition money be deposited with a bank at interest, till a further expedition be organised at a fitting time, it not being considered advisable to have any expedition in the meantime, either to Cochinchina or elsewhere," and the proposition was carried unanimously.

A short discussion then occurred as to who ought properly to pay the fee for the extension of protest in the event of goods being damaged by sea water. It has hitherto been the practice for the captain of the vessel to defray this charge, and for a copy of the extended protest to be sent home for reference by the underwriters. Latterly, however, captains have refused to pay the charge, and it appears they cannot be legally compelled to do so. The Chamber of Commerce considered the matter of some importance, because the underwriters refuse to admit the charge of protest fee; but it seems that the reason of their refusal is simply that the extension is not necessary.

The report was passed unanimously.

H.M.S. Nassau, Commander Wm. Chimmo, 695 tons, 150-horse power, left this port on the 21st November for Manila, and put back on the 25th with loss of foremast. At 1.20 A.M. of the 23rd instant the foremast went with a heavy crash some eight feet below the trussle trees, taking with it jibboom and head gear, and carrying away the starboard bulwarks, fortunately without hurting any of the watch on deck. The Nassau has had the wind from the E.N.E. with a varying force from four to seven, with a very heavy, hollow, deep sea and swell from the northward and eastward, which caused the ship to labour heavily. The Nassau arrived here on the morning of the 25th Nov.

The Diomed, of Holt's line, took on board about 350 time-expired troops, &c., from the garrison at Hong Kong, chiefly of the 75th Regiment. She may be expected to arrive on the 20th.

The Hong Kong Gas Company have reduced the price of gas 50 cents per 1,000 feet, which does not, however, appear to satisfy the public.

The following items are from the Daily Press:—"We are informed upon reliable authority that Sir R. MacDonnell has succeeded in inducing the Colonial-office to abolish the post of Colonial Treasurer, on the grounds that it is a sinecure, at the same time conferring the duties of Treasurer upon the Hon. Cecil O. Smith, in addition to those of Protector of Chinese and Registrar-General, and with a further advance in his salary of £200 per annum, bringing it up to £1,200. The Hon. Mr. Forth, it is stated, is to be pensioned off, and dealt with according to the provisions of the new Act for the abolition of offices. We see from this very clearly the way people are treated when they do not condescend to humouring a governor. The Hon. Mr. Forth has not done so, but has simply and honestly acted according to what was his duty, and he is dismissed and thrown aside.

With regard to the comments that have from time to time been made in this paper concerning the small amount received from the opium tax, it is interesting to note that it is stated that no less than $400,000 are made annually by the opium farmer.

We hear upon good authority that a proposition has been made, or is about to be made, by the Hon. Mr. Ryrie, to the effect that a commission, whose proceedings shall be public, and which shall consist of a certain number of officials, and a certain number of the justices of the peace, be appointed to inquire into the present state of the police force.

A curious illustration of the accuracy with which the Chinese are informed of all that foreigners do is afforded by the fact that the next day to that on which Mr. Graham Sandford, who recently passed through Hong Kong on his way to the British Legation at Peking, arrived, it was currently reported among the natives that a high official had gone up, though hardly any foreigners were aware of the fact.

A party of the police, under Captain Deane, went down to receive Chung How on his arrival on Saturday. By some misunderstanding his Excellency had come on shore before the escort arrived. We hear that his Excellency the Lieut.-Governor sent an intimation that he desired to see Chung How, and that the latter accordingly called at the Government offices. It is believed that the object of asking him to come was to communicate some information sent out by the Home Government. We trust it is to the effect that his Excellency Chung How need not trouble himself to call at the Foreign-office.

The Canton correspondent of the China Mail says:—"The French Consul of this place, Mr. Dabry, deserves great credit for the energetic action he took on the receipt of the intelligence of the murder of the coolie ship's captain. The measures he has adopted for the apprehension of the ringleaders have brought to light the existence of a gang who have been in the habit of enlisting themselves in the Macao barracoons, in the capacity of carpenter, interpreter, cook, pilot, and so forth, and when at sea their fatal programme was put into execution. On visiting the Macao barracoons the other day, Mr. Dabry very severely reprimanded the coolie brokers for having successively enlisted, over and again, the very same individuals either as emigrants or in the above-mentioned capacities. About ninety-six of these worthies are now imprisoned on board a ship lying in the Macao Roads, chartered by the Consul for the purpose; when their guilt is clearly proved they will be hung at the yard-arm.

The following items are from the Courier:—

At the request of the Agricultural and Industrial Committee the Governor has indefinitely postponed the exhibition of the products of French Cochinchina, announced for the present year. The sixth list of subscriptions for the wounded raises the total amount subscribed in Saigon to f.57,820.

From Cholon, Vinh-long, and other places in the interior, the accounts of the appearance of the rice crop are most promising. Some trouble is caused in the former district by predatory bands of natives, but the villagers prefer to pay them small sums by way of "black mail" rather than attempt to bring them to justice.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to Dec. 6. On the 24th Nov. the P. and O. steamer Orissa arrived with the London mail of the 21st Oct., and on the 30th the M. M. steamer Provence came in with the Marseilles mail of the 30th Oct. Telegraphic advices extend to the 22nd Nov.

We learn from the Straits Times that the Legislative Council held three meetings, on Nov. 24 and 28 and on Dec. 3, at which a vast amount of business was transacted, with a thoroughness and despatch that shows that body capable of doing real hard work when it sets about it in earnest. A resolution introduced at the first mentioned meeting is important as affecting the navigation of the Malacca Straits, being an appropriation of $40,000 for the erection of a screw-pile lighthouse on the North Sands, in lieu of the present light-ship, on condition that it be found practicable within that sum. This matter has many times been suggested, but has now for the first time assumed a practical form, and will, it is to be hoped, be carried out, if feasible. The second meeting was mainly occupied in considering and amending the various Bills before the Council, in Committee. At the last meeting no less than seven ordinances passed their third reading, and became law,—four of them of great importance. The Bankruptcy and Debtors ordinances,—being the Acts of Parliament adapted to the Colony, with several alterations rendered necessary by local circumstances,—are perhaps the most important as affecting the mercantile interests; but the "Contagious Diseases" and "Criminal Justice" ordinances are likely to exert a very considerable influence upon the morality of the community. The other three ordinances passed were—one for better securing Crown debts, one amending the Police Act, and the Supply Bill, No. 2, appropriating some $5,000 more to the public service for the next year. In addition to these seven ordinances, a Bill was introduced by the Attorney-General concerning Marine Courts of Inquiry, effecting a much needed improvement in their composition, which passed its first and second reading; a Bill amending the hackney carriage ordinance, empowering the Registrar to cancel licences on continued neglect to repair the carriages; and the balance of the meeting was occupied by the Council in committee on a Bill for regulating pawn-shops. The orders for the next meeting, fixed for the 9th Dec., were limited to the third reading of the three Bills just mentioned, which will, we suppose, close the business of the session. H.E. the Governor intended leaving for Penang on the 10th Dec.

The following items are from the same paper:—

The discontinuance of the fortnightly service by the Messageries steamers is a matter for general regret. Some amends, however, are made, so far as regards the carrying of freight, by the fortnightly service about to be undertaken between England and China via the Suez Canal, by the Ocean Steamship Company,—an enterprise likely to meet with great favour at all ports of call of the steamers.

From Saigon we learn that the last of the Germans have left the place. Some nine German merchants and assistants took passage in the steamer United Service for Hong Kong, but she was obliged to put back through stress of weather. The return of the steamer with the deported ones was telegraphed up to the port from Cape St. James, and we are informed that a message was sent back by the Governor to the effect that the steamer was at liberty to come up, but that if any of the Germans landed they would be treated as spies. Consequently, they were obliged to remain eight days on board the steamer, until she completed her repairs and was able to resume her voyage.

At the election of a Municipal Commissioner to fill the place of A. T. Carmichael, Esq., at present in Europe, whose term has expired, though the result of the balloting has not been officially announced, we believe the choice to have fallen upon R. I. Harper, Esq.

The arrivals from Europe, via the Suez Canal, have been the Una on the 22nd, the Achilles on the 24th, and the Bengal on the 26th Nov. The departures for home have been the Erl King on the 29th ult., the Waverley on the 7th inst., the Hibernia on the 5th; the Alonso and Diomed will leave in a day or two. The Waverley is the pioneer merchant steamer from Manila for England, via the Canal, and will probably be followed by many others.

An affray occurred on the 17th November on board Messrs. Buyer and Robb's little steamer Kate, bound for Dellie with seventy-three coolies. The coolies mutined, but the determination of Mr. Robb, who singled out the ringleader and threatened to shoot him, restored order.

We are informed that the Right Rev. Dr. Chambers will visit Singapore by the next trip of the Royalist steamer. During his visit St. Andrew's Church will be converted into the cathedral of the diocese; the installation of his Lordship will, we believe, take place either on the 18th or 21st December. Penang and Malacca will, we understand, likewise receive a visit from his Lordship.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—The market continued to present the dull appearance lately noticed. Grey Shirtings were in heavy stock, and wholly without enquiry. There had been some slight speculative demand for Cotton Yarn in the earlier part of the interval, but it had ceased to be manifested, and an advance, which it had created, was lost before the departure of the mail. Woollens had been entirely without movement. Quotations were unchanged, but must be taken as wholly nominal.

HANKOW.—The market had been far from active during the fortnight; Grey Cottons were the only goods which had been enquired for to any extent, and arrivals being moderate, holders had succeeded in establishing a slight advance for the chief descriptions, and the market closes firm. Grey Shirtings: Stocks small, and sales rather curtailed thereby, but it had been with great difficulty that the advance of 2 candareens per piece shown by quotations had been obtained. Closing prices, Tls. 1.76 to 1.82 for 7 lbs. Tls. 2.25 to 2.30 for 8½ lbs., and Tls. 2.37 to 2.43 per piece, for 9½ lbs. Very little enquiry for heavy weights. White Shirtings: Small sales of medium qualities at a further decline. T. Cloths: Common 6 and 7 lbs., recovered about a mace per piece from late low rates, fine 7 and 8 lbs., also firmer. Jeans: Best English quoted Tls. 2.15 to 2.20 per piece, sales difficult to effect. Fancy Cottons: Sales entirely of a retail nature. Woollens and Worsteds: Still depressed. Camlets: demand confined to best chops, a continued decline in value must be noted. Scarlet, Tls. 10.20 to 11.00., Gentian, Tls. 11.40 to 11.90 per piece. Long Ells: Forced sales at a further concession; no real enquiry. Spanish Stripes: Quiet, prices weaker; Medium Cloths not enquired for.

SHANGHAI.—Cottons: There had been more animation, and a better demand than usual at this period, when the Northern navigation is about to close. Grey Shirtings: All 8½ lbs. goods had readily found buyers on arrival, quotations for 7 lbs. rather better; heavier goods still without ready sale. Demand for White Shirtings decidedly brisk, considering the season; prices remained about as before. T. Cloths: Commoner makes eagerly sought after; quotations again higher, the better makes showed but little improvement. Drills quiet, sales moderate, at slightly easier prices. Jeans showed an advance, but holders decline ruling quotations. Fancy Cottons: Stocks much reduced, prices in large degree nominal. Woollens: No change for the better as regards Camlets, Long Ells, and Spanish Stripes. Orleans, Figured and Plain, readily saleable at quotations. The current quotations were:—G. E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., Tls. 1.74 to 1.80 per piece; 8½ to 8½ lbs., Tls. 2.21 to 2.25; 9 lbs., Tls. 2.25 to 2.30. G. E. White Shirtings, Tls. 1.50 to 2.40. American Drills, Tls. 3.30 to 3.40; Jeans, Tls. 2.35 to 2.40. English Drills, Tls. 2.95 to 3.05; Jeans, 8 lbs., Tls. 2.22 to 2.25. Dutch Drills, Tls. 2.85 to 2.95; Jeans, Tls. 2.25 to 2.30. T. Cloths, 6 lbs., ordinary, Tls. 1.26 to 1.30; 7 lbs. do., Tls. 1.42 to 1.47; 6 lbs. Mexican, Tls. 1.35 to 1.42; 7 lbs., Tls. 1.52 to 1.60. Orleans, Figured, Tls. 3.20 to 3.70; Plain, Tls. 3.30 to 3.70. Iron, Nail Rod, small sizes, Tls. 1.90 to 2.10 per picul; fair to good assortments, Tls. 1.70 to 1.80. Lead, nominal, per picul, Tls. 4.40 to 4.45.

HONG KONG.—There was no new feature to notice in the market; almost all imports, both Cottons and Woollens, were wholly neglected and the business of the season seemed to be nearly at an end. The market has thus reached a pitch of dullness that almost amounted to complete stagnation, and were it not for the activity of Yarmmen, who were going about in the hope of picking up parcels at cheap rates in order to lower the average cost of their high priced stocks, hardly anything was doing. The great fall in the value of Yarn was causing severe losses to dealers, and infinite trouble to importers. The period was fast approaching when buyers would be restricted to purchasing only for their immediate wants until the occurrence of the China New Year, and although exchange remained very low, most holders adhered to the policy of making sales whenever possible.

BATAVIA.—Maddapollams: Dutch white and grey, little demand, and offered at low rates. English white, overstocked, Grey in little request. Shirtings: Dutch white, rates declining; English white, heavy stocks; sales at lower rates. Grey, full supplies. Cambrics: No demand. All qualities offered at low rates. Drills: Both Dutch and English rapidly declining. Jaconets: In little demand. Mule Twist: Arrivals, and prices lower. Blankets: Woollen neglected. Molton, dull. Small sales. Iron: Swedish, stocks reduced; in some demand. English, overstocked and unsaleable. Lead: Sheet and Pig, little enquiry.

SINGAPORE.—A moderate business had been done during the fortnight. Messrs. Boustead and Co.'s circular contains the following report:—39 inch Grey Shirtings: Early in the fortnight a fair business was done in 8½ lbs., at $2.62½ to 2.60; subsequently there was less enquiry at the lower quotation. 7 lb. in limited request, at $2.12½ to 2.15; 6 lb. very dull; retail sales at $1.85. 45 inch Grey Shirtings in very little demand; transactions limited in 10 lb. at $3.15; 9 lb., $2.87½. Other weights not inquired for quoted nominally; 6 lb., $1.80 to $1.85; 7 lb., $2.10 to 2.15; 8 lb., $2.55 to 2.57½. 32 inch Grey T. Cloths: Prices showed little change; demand generally slack. 32 inch Grey Maddapollams: No business doing; quotations quite nominal. 36 inch Grey Long Cloths unsaleable and nominal. 36 inch White Shirtings: Less enquiry for all descriptions at about last quotations; stocks heavy. 45 inch White Shirtings: No enquiry. Dyed Shirtings: Plain are in limited request; Figured in moderate demand at $3.45 to 3.50. Turkey Red Cambrics: Some demand for 3 lb. at $2.30 to 2.40; large sales of 2½ lb. at $2.20 to 2.25; lighter weights not wanted. Woollens of all descriptions very dull. Grey Yarns: 40s in less inquiry, price lower, sales at $1.22; 30s, dull; small sales at $1.13½ to 1.11; 18/24s difficult of sale, at $84 to 89. Turkey Red Yarn: Limited inquiry for 10 lbs.; no demand for 12 lbs. Imperial Red dull at $71 to 72; Dark Green in moderate request, at $83 to 85.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—A fair business had been done, the settlements up to Nov. 23 having reached 4,000 to 5,000 piculs. In the lower grades dealers had made some concession in prices, but the better kinds having been scarce had been firmly held. The quality of the teas placed on offer had shown a marked falling off. Stocks were considerable. The total export to America from this port and Hiogo to the date above mentioned amounted to 6,936,902 lbs. The current quotations were:—Common, $20 to 24; Good Common, $25 to 27; Medium, $29 to 32; Good Medium, $33 to 37; Fine, $39 to 41 per picul; Finest and Choice, nominal.

HANKOW.—Arrivals, consisting of common Seongtams, had been settled as soon as shown, and prices were fully maintained. Two small chops of Hankow packed leaf had been purchased at Tls. 13.00 per picul. Settlements for the fortnight—2,838 chests, and 220 half-chests shipped by Chinese.

SHANGHAI.—Black: Transactions had not been extensive, and had been principally confined to Shuntaam produce. Prices of the latter showed little alteration, those of parcels possessing a shade of flavour were fully as high as those previously current, and, quality considered, showed a very considerable advance on the quotations existing for such kinds two months back. Arrivals from the river ports had been small, and the stock on offer was not large. The extent of further supplies was still uncertain, and would be entirely regulated by the course of this market. Settlements for the fortnight, 11,000 chests; re-shipments on owners' account, 3,700 chests. Stock, 39 chops, or 12,100 packages. Quotations (duty paid, exchange for credits, six months' sight, 5s. 10d. per tael, freight £2. 5s. per ton):—Hohow, common, Tls. 15 to 17½; Oonam, common, Tls. 15 to 16½; Ningchow, common, Tls. 19 to 19½; Oopack, common, Tls. 18½ to 19½. Green: A moderate business had been done; settlements amounted to 30,000 half-chests for the fortnight. Prices of good medium and fine Teas continued firm, as there were very few on offer; medium Moyunes had been sold at rather easier rates, but good common Fychows were slightly firmer, as considerable purchases of these grades had been made. Quotations:—Common to fair Fychows and Moyunes, Tls. 25 to 35; medium to finest Moyunes and Teenkais, Tls. 37½ to 46. Settlements for the fortnight, 30,036 half-chests; re-shipments on owners' account, 1,556 half-chests. Stock, 158 chops, or 68,850 packages of Fychow, Moyune, and Teenkai Teas; stock, 9 chops, or 4,510 packages of Pinguey and Shanghai-packed Teas.

FOOCHOW.—Congous had been moderately dealt in, settlements to the extent of 20,058 chests having been effected. Prices of these teas were nominally unchanged, but the tendency was downwards. In relation to the total supply of Congou the opinion was generally entertained that it would be compassed in 580,000 to 530,000 chests. Inquiry for Souchongs had been limited. About 1,200 packages of good cargo Oolongs had been taken at Tls. 22.8 to 23.8 f.o.b., which it was thought were intended for the English market. Operators who would buy for America were still unable to purchase, as prices demanded by holders were above their ideas. The stock of Oolong comprised 122,832 half-chests.

AMOY.—A good business had been done in Oolongs, and about 12,000 packages had found buyers. Common grades had been chiefly dealt in, prices for which description had ruled about $1 per picul lower, though at the close the market was firmer, and this decline could not be quoted. The few parcels of fine Teas that were on offer had been taken at extreme figures for the London market. The season in the country was said to have closed, and further receipts were expected to be small; the stock was a little over 6,000 half-chests. The Belle had sailed for New York, and the British barque Chalgrove was loading for the same destination at £2 10s. per ton of forty cubic feet.

CANTON.—There had been a moderate business in progress during the fortnight in Scented Teas at about last quotations, but the stock on offer was principally composed of undesirable parcels. This fact has probably had some effect in limiting the business which would otherwise have followed upon the favourable results of the first shipments by sailing vessels. In Canton-made Green Teas no transactions are reported. One small chop of Country Congous had been taken at a price which showed no alteration on previous settlements. The stock was estimated at 17 chops or 4,645 chests Country Congous, 1,000 boxes Canton District Congous, 14,000 boxes Scented Orange Pekoe, 15,000 boxes Scented Caper, 15,000 boxes Gunpowder, 1,000 boxes Imperial, and 3,000 boxes Young Hyson.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—The business of the interval had been very small, the settlements being only 40 bales Maibash and Sinchu at $750 to 800 for best and $650 to 700 per picul for medium quality. The natives were firm holders in the expectation of an advance in prices. The stock was about 2,500 bales. Small settlements of silkworms eggs were reported at rates showing a declining tendency.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co. report as follows:—Immediately after the departure of the last English mail buying commenced for America, which was quickly followed up by some purchases for the English market, and before the French mail left about 400 bales had been settled. Since then purchasing has become general, the news of the armistice, coupled with the low rate of exchange inducing many to operate, until settlements have now reached 1,500 bales for the fortnight. Prices remain much the same as last quoted, although dealers on the strength of the news are trying to force them up. The following are a few of the purchases:—"Tah Ho" Chang ling chop, Tls. 585 to 590; Cock and Worm chop, Tls. 580 to 585; Blue Flag chop, Tls. 535; "Chin Su" Lion chop, Tls. 535; "Zun Ling" a Blue Peacock, Tls. 530; "Ku Kee" Chin Jan, Tls. 515; Enke fong Elephant chop, Tls. 510; Red Peacock, Tls. 505; "Ching Yuen Sing" Gnan ling Kahing, Tls. 485 to 490; Chin Cum Taysaam Nos. 2 and 3, Tls. 410 to 440; Skein Taysaam, Tls. 380 to 400; Long Reel Taysaam Nos. 1½ and 2, Tls. 395 to 405.

CANTON.—There had been very little inquiry during the fortnight. Holders were very firm, being influenced to a great extent by the belief that an early peace in Europe would send this market up, but the advances received would appear to have modified these views somewhat. There had been a steady demand for America in the fine descriptions, of which, however, the stock was becoming much reduced. The stock was estimated at:—100 bales Loongkongs; 1,600 bales Tsatlee-reels; 30 bales Kowkongs; 700 bales Cumchucks, Lacklows, &c.; and 400 bales inferior descriptions.

JAVA AND STRAITS PRODUCE.

BATAVIA.—Arrack, f.67.50 to 72.50 per leagner, small transactions. Cloves, f.25 per picul, nominal. Coffee, f.20 to 32, according to quality. Cubebs, f.15 per picul, no stock. Gutta Percha, f.100 to 150 per picul, in less request. Gum Dammar, f.36 to 27 per picul—sales. Hides—Cow, f.30 to 40; Buffalo, f.21 to 28 per lb., in little demand. India Rubber, f.96 to 100 per picul; only small parcels coming to market. Indigo, nominal. Mace, f.175 to 190 per picul—sales. Nutmegs, f.90 to 110, small supplies. Pepper—Black, f.22 to f.23 per picul, in demand. Rice, first quality, f.155 to 165 per coyang; second quality, f.130 to 140; cargo, f.100 to 110. Rattans—Bornao, at f.11 to 13 per picul; Padang, f.8 to 9.25 per picul.

SINGAPORE.—There is not much alteration to report in the position of the produce market; there had been a steady demand for most articles, and an average business had transpired. Gambier had had a downward tendency, with a moderate demand; about 1,150 tons contracted for, chiefly at $3.02½ to $3 per picul, dealers offering to sell at $2.95 per picul. Black Pepper in active demand, supplies small, and brought high rates; a small contract for the new crop made at $8.62½, but dealers refused to contract further, and it was probable the market would open much higher. White Pepper wanted, and there have been no supplies. Pearl Sago steady at last rates; demand quiet; business limited. Sago Flour continued to show an upward tendency, good demand and a fair business. Tapioca is firmer. Tin opened firm, but subsequently receded; limited business. Bontyne Coffee in demand, arrivals small, quotations firmer. Gutta Percha scarce, good inquiry at previous prices. The principal shippers of Pepper had subscribed to an arrangement to receive Black Pepper only on the following terms:—An allowance of four per cent for immediate delivery; or to be bagged for seven days before weighing, and then to be taken without allowances.

LONDON: MONDAY, JAN. 9, 1871.

THE SHANGHAI LETTER TO THE LONDON COMMITTEE.

ALTHOUGH we fully appreciate and sympathise with the apprehension expressed by the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce in the able and comprehensive letter to the London Committee of China merchants, published in our last issue, that the mission of CHUNG HOW may be merely an attempt to induce the Governments of the West to enter into one-sided agreements by means of systematic misrepresentation, we cannot help regarding the negotiation which he is about to open in London as likely to lead to important benefits, unless our Foreign-office should neglect the opportunities it affords. We cannot believe that they will be neglected on the present occasion, because, if so, the Foreign-office could not plead the excuse of ignorance or inexperience on the subjects involved. "Forewarned is forearmed." The London Committee has furnished Lord GRANVILLE with a mass of information which can neither be ignored nor passed over with contempt. The outrage, which is the proximate cause of CHUNG HOW's mission, is still fresh in the mind of the country at large, and London seems to us to be the best place where the negotiations, growing out of the representations of the foreign merchants in China, can be conducted. London is a great Power; it acts by its weight. It is irresistible when set in motion, but it must receive its impulse from without. The Anti-Slavery Association, the Political Unions, the Anti-Corn Law League, every great combined political operation, had its origin and most influential sphere of action out of London, and yet none of them effected anything until it set London in motion. In the present case the necessary impulse has been given by the Shanghai and other Chambers of Commerce; and it only remains for the London Committee to be true to themselves, and for the Chinese Chambers to continue their support to them, to keep the justice of their demands steadily before the Government, so that the Foreign-office at home may not be hoodwinked by Eastern duplicity or put off with Eastern assurances, as some of its representatives in China have been.

In international questions more than any other we feel the want of a uniform and steady application of the great principle of BENTHAM as a test of the value of maxims and measures. Sometimes, when at a loss for an argument, a public man may make an allusion to the principle, but it is neglected and disregarded the moment the emergency is over. It has so frequently of late had mouth-homage, at least, paid to it by public men, of all shades of political opinions, that we may feel warranted in assuming it as generally admitted that the best rule of action for those who conduct the negotiations of one State with another is the greatest possible happiness of all the human beings concerned. This "greatest happiness" principle is only to be secured between distant nations by the formation of wise and just treaties, and by requiring the strictest observance of them. The first necessity to this end is that all nations should, in the first instance, transact their public business through the medium of the Government. They must do this, were it from no other consideration than their own security; for the Government alone has the power to make the body-corporate it represents fulfil the engagements contracted in its name. Mutual responsibility is the first condition of mutual independent intercourse; and therefore every independent nation is entitled to demand, from every other, protection in person and property to all its citizens, resident within the territory of the latter, so long as they conform to its laws. Our third proposition is a corollary from the preceding. It is that, as security to person and property is all that laws and tribunals can do to promote the happiness of man, such laws—i.e., Treaties—should never be permitted to be violated without being replaced by new treaties giving greater security than before. All the rest must be worked out by every man for himself; but, as, without such security, all foreign trade must necessarily be abandoned by prudent and responsible men, and so fall into the hands of lawless adventurers (since trade once opened can never be stopped or done without), it follows that the true object of all renewed or revised treaties should be the encouragement of the legitimate trader by every understanding and precaution that can conduce to his safety and the freedom of commercial enterprise.

This, we know, is all that the Shanghai Chamber and the London Committee demand; and we beg our readers to pardon us for repeating principles so trite and so universally recognised that we could even quote them from our political opponents, because of the manifest tendency of such doctrines to diminish the frequency of wars, and pave the way to their utter cessation. To palter with the present question—to entertain any casuistries such as the Shanghai Chamber apprehends that CHUNG HOW may amuse our Foreign-office with—to temporise concerning our future policy, or to attempt to conceal our clear perception of the double dealing of the Chinese Government, and the inflamed prejudice of their people—could lead to no other consequence than the war which it is the mission of CHUNG HOW to avert. Public opinion demands no more than the complete restoration of British prestige in China; but it will be satisfied with nothing less; and this, if our Foreign-office is true to itself, it will have no great difficulty in securing.

How much longer is the atrocious coolie trade to be permitted to be carried on? We have for years exposed the cruelties to which coolies for Callao and Havana are exposed, and we have now two more striking instances of the evils of the system in the narrative from Batavia of the burning of the Peruvian ship Uncuash, and in accounts from Honolulu, describing the pandemonium on board another Peruvian coolie ship, the Dolores Ugarte. It is satisfactory to be assured that none of our countrymen are implicated in the present hateful traffic; but the consequences of it are not only shocking in a humanitarian point of view, but injurious to the prestige of all Europeans alike.

THE Submarine line from Madras to Singapore and Batavia being reported as in working order, the Company have issued a notice that messages can now be forwarded, the rates being—for Penang, £4 4s.; for Singapore, £5; for Batavia, £6 2s. Messages were received on the 4th from Singapore in twelve hours, and on the 5th a message announced that a conspiracy had been discovered amongst the Swiss soldiers in Java, but our advices from Holland state that this is untrue.

We lately noticed the working of the Pacific Mail Company and the probability of the line being increased from a monthly to a fortnightly service. The Company have despatched the Arizona, one of their steamers, from New York to China, via Suez Canal, in order to strengthen their fleet in the China and Japan Seas. No decision has, however, been arrived at as to the fortnightly subsidy by the Government of the United States.

In addition to the particulars we have already given of the shipments of railway material for Japan, we have to notice that the Prince Alfred will in all probability take out four of the eight locomotives contracted for by Mr. LAY. There is no truth in the statement that a New Loan will shortly be announced, and its origin must be traced to Stock Exchange influences, as the present Loan stands at £102.

THE Shanghai Chamber of Commerce letter to the London Committee will have attention on the arrival of CHUNG HOW, and the Foreign-office will be made acquainted with the views expressed therein.

THE MAIL SERVICE.

WE regret to notice that the Italian Railway Companies are not giving the facilities for the transit of the mails which were promised. Since they have practically a monopoly, and have not to thank us, but the war, for the adoption of the route, we suppose they are now going to take it easy. With the last inward mail the train from Bologna was simply luggage or slow train, instead of a special, and this involved a delay of some twelve hours, in spite of the remonstrances of the official in charge of the mails. We have been requested by several subscribers to supply the time-table from London to Brindisi, but we find that after Cologne the trains are more or less subject to detention, and no fixed or approximate time can be given. Even the route itself through Germany to the Brenner Pass is not always the same. Trains leave London twice daily for Dover, Ostend, and Cologne, viz., at 7 A.M., arriving at 10.55 P.M.; and at 8.45 P.M., arriving at Cologne next day at 4 P.M. The mails generally get through to Brindisi in three to three and a half days, but that is with the aid of "specials," and passengers should not allow less than five days from London to Brindisi.

THE OPIUM TRADE IN JAVA.

THE Java papers received by the last mail contain anything but agreeable news. Indeed, the Bataviaasch Handelsblad expresses such dismay that we can well conceive that its conclusions must have made a very painful impression in Holland. The state of the Dutch colonies in the Far East must be most deplorable when even Mr. KEUCHENIUS is compelled to say that the relations between Holland and Java are to be compared to two locomotives running at full speed on the same line towards each other. This simile may certainly be regarded as exaggerated, but matters are so bad in Java that people are easily induced to exaggerate. Not only has the course pursued by the Government in Holland caused a bad impression, but the policy of the Governor-General, Mr. MYER, has met with general disapproval. Mr. MYER has decreed that trade in opium is to be permitted on the west coast of Sumatra. A few months since he applied this measure to those districts of Java where some years ago it was forbidden by the then Governor-General, Mr. SLOET VAN DE BEELE, to sell and to store opium, on the ground that the native population had become demoralised by the use of that drug. And further, we read in the latest Java papers that he is about to issue other decrees in order to throw open the trade in opium—and that an opinion prevails that there will be an abrogation of all restrictive measures regarding this trade. What is the meaning of this? It is well-known that Mr. MYER is convinced that the use of opium is most pernicious to the native population. In 1866 he, himself, declared that it was necessary to take such measures as should ensure the use of the drug gradually diminishing. His latest acts are contrary to these expressed convictions, and it is believed in Java that he has been compelled by the late Dutch Colonial Minister, Mr. DE WAAL, to promulgate these decrees. We are informed that this is not the case, but, if the opinion is correct, the tendency of the measures would be still worse—because they would imply that one of the principles of Dutch rule in Java is—the demoralisation of the natives. And of whatever shortcomings the Dutch Government may have been guilty, we cannot believe that it has come to this after showing for several years a desire to improve the condition of the Javanese. We are, therefore, not inclined to put the responsibility wholly on the shoulders of the Dutch Government, though the Dutch Chambers are in a great measure answerable. They have checked so many measures, have compelled so many Ministers to resign, that confusion in Java has been but the natural consequence; Dutch statesmen have talked year after year; it is now time for them to act. A Council for Java—there is not one politician who dares to bring forward the idea; the colonies duly represented in Parliament—every one feels that this is necessary, but no one dares to say as much. It is not only the opium decrees which have made such a painful impression; it is suspected that the Java Government shrinks from giving full information of the true state of the colony. Why, for instance, does not the official Java Courant speak one word about the troubles in the Borneo Settlement? Why did the Governor-General appoint a new resident for the district of Bandjermassing in the place of a man who was much esteemed for his knowledge and abilities? Was it necessary to appoint Mr. TROMP because he was related to Mr. MYER? The rumours spread by Dutch papers say yes; and, if they are correct, then we ask if it is not more than time for Holland to interfere against the sacrifice of the welfare of the colonies for the sake of gratifying personal feelings?

LITERATURE.

Messrs. Letts and Son are so celebrated for their Diaries and their Diaries are so indispensable to all who have tested their convenience, that we need say no more concerning them than that they make their appearance this year in even more than their usual variety, and with every improvement that the experience of the publishers can suggest. Every class of society, from the most opulent to the most economical, however varied may be their interests or their pursuits, will find among Messrs. Letts's assortment a valuable and appropriate companion for the year. In the body of the Diaries much new information is introduced, including a complete postal and telegraph directory; and, among the special attractions with which Messrs. Letts and Son have invested their volumes, they must be especially congratulated on the tact with which they have suited each to the different classes for which they are designed, making the ladies' series more thoroughly ladies', and the gentlemen's more exclusively for gentlemen than hitherto. From the man of business to the sportsman, and from the landed proprietors to the thrifty housekeeper—all may find in one of Messrs. Letts's Diaries a volume which will save them a vast deal of trouble, and prevent them from reproaching themselves with that worst of small social misdemeanours—missing an appointment.

Gems of Womanhood; or, Sketches of Distinguished Women in various Ages and Nations. By Samuel Mossman. Edinburgh: Gall and Inglis.—This pleasing series of sketches of female life and character is an appropriate new year's offering for those young ladies who are not so emulous of forming themselves on the model of the "girl of the period" as of profiting by the example of the distinguished women of the past. In the twenty-three brief memoirs which compose the present volume, Mr. Mossman has wisely allowed himself the widest range, both of time and nationality, and consequently given his fair students the opportunity of contrasting the portraits of some of the most dissimilar female characters that have become historical. Thus we find the present series including Joan of Arc and Lady Rachel Russell; Elizabeth of Siberia and Madame de Staël; Mrs. Fry and Flora Macdonald; Madame Recamier and Grace Darling. The author's style is unaffected, his descriptions graphic and earnest, and his graceful volume is likely to become a prime favourite with those to whom it is presented.

The People's Magazine. Published by the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge.—The January number of this excellent magazine contains an interesting account of the Mont Cenis Pass, and a narrative of a Voyage to San Francisco (by a "London Parson"), both of which are well illustrated. Dr. Berkeley Hill contributes a graphic paper on "War Hospitals," and "An Incident in the Siege of Strasbourg" is well told. Any magazine at the present day would be considered incomplete without a serial tale, and here we have "Two Christmas-tides, or the Brothers," a story by the author of the "Harvest of a Quiet Eye," which opens well. The present number also contains, among other interesting articles, some pleasing poetry, and much practical information in the form of miscellaneous items, which ought to commend it to a large class of readers.

The Coffee-planter of Ceylon. By William Sabonadière. London: E. and F. N. Spon, Charing Cross.—Mr. Sabonadière's valuable little manual having reached a second edition, the author has taken the opportunity of enlarging it, and adding to its usefulness as a book of reference, not for coffee-planters only, but for all who are interested in the latest statistical information concerning the exports and revenues of Ceylon. The present edition is illustrated with engravings of the works on some leading coffee estates, which will be very useful to those who are about to erect similar buildings. The chapter on manure is also a new feature, and one to which the author brings the advantage of great experience.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE MISSION OF CHUNG HOW.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Times on this subject says:—I do not think that Chung How was an active instigator of the massacre in the same degree as the Prefect and Sub-Prefect, who have been banished to Manchuria, though it is impossible that he can have ignored their proceedings. Report says that they tried to enlist his sympathy, but that he declined to join them; and I suspect this represents the degree of his guilt. He knew what was brewing, was not disinclined that a demonstration should be made, but had no active share in the conspiracy. It is likely, even, that the dismay he showed on the day following the event was not altogether feigned. He probably did not realise the demon which was being evoked until he saw the flames and the blood. But that he was cognisant of the growing excitement, and did not interfere either to prevent it or to suppress the riot, seems beyond doubt. Count de Rochehouart says curtly, in his official communication of the Chinese proposals to the French Consul-General at Shanghai,—"The Chinese Government has, at my request, sent his Excellency Chung How as Ambassador to France to explain his conduct, et la faire agréer s'il le peut."

It is a pity that the first high Mandarin who leaves China for the West should depart under this grave imputation, for Chung How's rank and official position are all that could be desired. Pin, who went home with Mr. Hart, was a simple clerk in the Foreign-office. The Mandarins who accompanied Mr. Burlingame were little better, and had no position or reputation. Chung How is really a Mandarin of first-class standing. He is a blood connection of the Imperial family, holds high rank and station, and has a reputation for good ability. Were he free from the taint of connection with the Tientsin outrage, his visit to the West would have been in every respect welcome and fitting. But, in that case, he would not have gone. The motive of his present visit is to clear himself; to reduce, of course, as much as possible the importance of the massacre, and to lay before the French Government the terms of reparation offered. It is hoped here that he will not be received, and that the terms will be rejected as inadequate, without the execution of the Tientsin Mandarins.

BREECH LOADING [V. MUZZLE-LOADING GUNS.]—Captain Sherard Osborn has written to the newspapers saying he has learned with astonishment the decision of a military committee, that muzzle-loading guns are to be the weapons of the future for the Royal fleet. He protests against the conclusion that a muzzle-loading gun is better for naval purposes than a breech-loader, if it can be properly constructed. He adds:—We have waited long; why not wait a little longer, and let us hear what is the result of the practical test breech-loading guns are being put to in German and French hands, before Strasbourg and Belfort, as well as in the forts engirdling Paris? The Prussians, since 1848, never made a mistake in needle and breech-loading muskets, and have thereby kept the lead of all European military Powers. They are testing Krupp's breech-loaders in a way no Dartmoor experiments can compare with. The French are so impressed with the superiority of their system, that they are adopting breech-loaders for all field purposes.

THE West Hartlepool Navigation Company's screw steamer Gitana, Captain Bulman, has returned to West Hartlepool, after an unsuccessful attempt to enter the Elbe. The Gitana sailed last week with a large and valuable cargo of miscellaneous goods, intended for Hamburg. When she arrived in the Elbe she found the harbour was completely blocked up, and seeing no chance of reaching Hamburg within a reasonable period, Captain Bulman thought it prudent to return. No more steamers will leave for Hamburg until a telegram is received announcing a diminution of the ice in the Elbe.

THE steamer Atalanta, which put into Lisbon with troops for Ceylon, left again on the 4th inst. The Silver Eagle, for Japan, leaves the docks to-day, and will call at Plymouth to embark the detachment of 1st batt. 10th Regt.

Lieut. the Hon. F. G. Crofton, whose appointment to the command of the Algerine was reported in our last issue, proceeds to China by the P. and O. steamer leaving Southampton on the 21st inst.

At the meeting of the Asiatic Society on the 2nd, an account was read of the Tiwa, or funeral feast, of the Dyaks, translated from the Dutch of Captain Ullmann by Sir John Bowring.

An elaborately compiled and useful table of the imports, deliveries, and stocks of Silk, from the year 1830 to the present time, has been issued by Messrs. Durant and Co.

ROTTERDAM, Jan. 2.

The new year has brought us a Ministry. It is most incredible, but nevertheless, I believe, a fact, that Mr. Thorbecke has accepted the portfolio of the Home Department, Mr. van Bosse that of the colonies, Baron Gericke that of Foreign Affairs, Mr. Meerbeke that of Justice, whilst Mr. van Mulken continues in his present office. Of course it will create the greatest astonishment if Mr. van Bosse should become Minister of the Colonies. How is it possible? "Well," says Uijenspiegel—our Punch—"he does not know anything about it, but he has two sons in India who can 'coach' their father."

The First Chamber has dealt in great haste with the credit laws. In two hours all the Budgets were carried; only two members voted against that of Justice, and but one against that of Finance. Some members asked about the Ministerial crisis, but Mr. van Bosse declared that he could not give any information. The discussions had no interest at all. The debate ended with Mr. Schimmelpenninck praising Mr. van Mulken, the Minister of War. This strangely contrasts with the attacks to which he is every day subjected in our papers.

The political news is very scanty. As I said in my last, it becomes more and more probable that the Luxemburg question will be settled peacefully. The opinion still prevails that our King will transfer his rights as Grand Duke either to his brother, Prince Henry, or some other German Prince. People here are strongly in favour of our abandoning the union.

Multatuli, the author of "Max Havelaar," published some days ago a pamphlet entitled "Free Labour in India Once More." The author, who once was thought to be the most liberal amongst Liberals with regard to India, now writes this little book to demonstrate that it is not desirable that the Javanese should receive liberty to work for private industry, and that it is necessary to maintain—to preserve our authority in India—the culture system, and that private industry should only exist under and through that authority. Notwithstanding this may sound very strange, the pamphlet contains many an interesting page, which will be read with great pleasure by all interested in the question.

From Arnheim I hear that amongst the French prisoners in the neighbouring German town a plot has been organised. Thousands of the French were already provided with arms, when the Prussian authorities discovered the conspiracy.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

The winter has set in with severity, our navigation is totally stopped, which, in addition to the dulness prevailing in our markets on account of the Christmas and New Year's holidays, has caused business to be brought almost to a standstill. Our leading articles of produce continue, however, to look healthy, and prices are upon the whole firmly supported.

COFFEE.—An active demand has continued to prevail for the article at full prices, notwithstanding the difficulties with which the export is attended through want of means of conveyance. A fair business has been doing, taking into consideration the season of the year and the reservedness of holders. The deliveries of the Trading Company amounted during last month to 85,927 bales. Good Mala is now quoted 35c.

RAW SUGAR.—The market continues to exhibit great firmness, and about 20,000 peculs floating have changed hands in the proportion of f.1 to f.1½ below November for yellow, and of f.½ to f.¾ below that sale for white, whilst holders in general ask higher prices.

TEA.—Continues in a firm position, with scarcely anything doing.

RICE.—Continues to be neglected, and prices are upon the whole hardly better than nominal.

TIN.—A firm tone has prevailed for this article since my last. Banca sold at f.75½ to f.77 for public sales prompt, and at f.75 to f.75½ ex the coming spring sales.

TOBACCO.—Sales have been closed by secret tender of 784 bales Java, head mark Blarum; 297 bales, head mark Temeloes & J. v. B.; 1,058 bales, head mark Kebon Aroem; 528 bales, head mark Wedie; 20 bales, head mark J. V. B.; 78 bales Sumatra, head mark Delimy; 1,155 bales Java M.; 149 bales do. Tempeh; 195 bales do. Passirian; 534 bales A. and L. Panawangan.

SPICES.—A firm tone continues to prevail for Nutmegs and Mace, and the latter article is in particular inquired after, which has induced holders to raise their prices. D is held for 22½c., and E for 21½c. Sales have been closed at Amsterdam of 5 cases Nutmegs and 124 bags Cloves partly damaged, and of 6 casks Mace of private importation.

RATTANS.—A shipment of 319 piculs, ex Philips van Marnix, found buyers on secret terms.

HIDES remain quiet. Only small lots Sourabaya, ex Fop Smit, have been disposed of by secret tender.

INDIGO has been in better request, and several lots of Java found buyers at firm rates.

CORROX.—Although a falling off in the receipts at the shipping ports in America has been reported, which imparted a firmer tone to the article, there has been but little stirring in our market since my last report, which may be attributed to the impediments of the river and railway conveyance, which render it almost impossible to forward goods, either to the interior or to Germany. Transactions for present delivery have consequently been of little importance.

BY TELEGRAPH.

ROTTERDAM, Jan. 4.

My statement respecting the Cabinet was correct; the following is the official list of the new Ministry:—M. Thorbecke, Minister of the Interior; M. Guericke, Minister of Foreign Affairs; M. Jolles, Minister of Justice; M. Van Bosse, Minister of the Colonies; M. Blussé, Minister of Finance; M. Boons, Minister of War; M. Brock, Minister of Marine.

Monetary and Commercial.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta £370,000, and to Bombay £30,000. The minimum price was fixed as before at 1s. 10d. on all Presidencies, and tenders on Calcutta at 1s. 10½d. will receive about 61 per cent., and on Bombay at that price in full. These results show a diminished demand for means of remittance to the East.

The directors of the London and Westminster Bank have resolved to declare, at the ensuing general meeting, a dividend and bonus of 9 per cent. for the half-year ended the 31st of December last, making 18 per cent. for the year on the paid-up capital of £2,000,000, carrying forward the sum of £1,600. The total dividend in the previous year was 16½ per cent.

The dividend to be declared by the Union Bank of London at the meeting on the 11th inst. will be at the rate of 15 per cent. per annum, the usual rate for the half-year ending the 31st of December, carrying forward £30,125 for appropriation at the end of the financial year in June next.

The London Joint-Stock Bank will declare the usual dividend of 12½ per cent. per annum, and a bonus of 8s. 9d., being at the rate of 18½ per cent. per annum.

The National Discount Company will, at the meeting of shareholders on the 25th inst., recommend a dividend at the rate of 17 per cent. per annum. At the corresponding period of last year the distribution was at the rate of 16½ per cent. per annum.

A dividend of 1s. in the pound (making 15s.) is payable to the creditors of the Oriental Commercial Bank (Limited), at the offices of Messrs. Cooper Brothers and Co.

Subjoined is an account of the quantities of the principal articles of imported merchandise (subject to Customs duties) remaining in the bonded warehouses of the United Kingdom on the 30th Nov., 1870, compared with the quantities in warehouses on the 30th Nov., 1868 and 1869:

We understand that the directors of the National Bank of India are so much dissatisfied with Mr. Sherwood, their manager in Hong Kong, in connection with transactions with the Parsee firms lately failed, that they have dismissed him from their service.

Messrs. Heugh, Balfour and Co., of Manchester, announce that Mr. Hugh Heugh and Mr. Nicholas Sherwood Symons have been admitted as partners in their firm.

In a circular from Manchester Mr. Samuel Mendel states that he has admitted into partnership his two sons, H. L. and S. T. Mendel.

Interest on the coupons of the Netherlands Indian Railway Obligations will be paid by Messrs. Horstman and Co., London, on and after the 15th inst.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

Although the markets have been reopened, but little business has as yet been transacted. The TEA Market has opened upon the whole favourably. Dealers are indisposed to operate extensively in the common grades, considering the present value very unsafe; for the better kinds, however, and for anything possessing quality, a good demand exists at full rates; 2,000 packages, ex recent arrivals, are announced for sale on the 9th inst. without reserve. Good useful to medium Black-leaf, ex late ships, has sold at 1s. 8d. to 1s. 6d.; Red-leaf at a sale on the 3rd inst. sold very cheap, at 1s. 1d. to 1s. 2d.; ordinary to good common Black-leaf Congou just in is dull at 11d. to 1s., not being wanted.

For SILK there is a little more enquiry, chiefly for Tatlees and Tay-sams, and a fair business doing in these silks at firm prices; beyond this the market is unchanged. In other articles of China produce no business has been done. COFFEE is very firm at 63s. to 65s. for Plantation, and 54s. for Native Ceylon. The SUGAR market has also reopened firmly; a floating cargo of Taal Manila, 800 tons, has been sold at 22s., duty paid, if taken for London, or 18s. ex quay, if ordered to Liverpool; also a landed cargo sun-dried Ilo Ilo, 26,000 bags at 27s. 6d., duty paid. In regard to other articles of produce there is nothing special to report; a small business has been done in Rice, Pepper, and Spices, in which former prices have been firmly maintained.

SHOULD BE TAKEN FOR THE CURE OF DROPSY
Females at a certain period of life become liable to this complaint, which first makes its appearance in the swelling of the feet, legs, and hands, and thus making strong inroads on the constitution. Numbers of dropsical patients, even when their cases were pronounced hopeless, have been cured by taking Holloway's Pills, and this medicine having stood the test of years as a certain remedy for this malady, no one so afflicted should delay giving it a trial. A time of life called the critical period is common to both sexes; when this passed hale old age invariably follows. These admirable Pills are expressly adapted for that period.

THE FRENCH ADMIRAL IN CHINA.

The French papers publish the following intelligence from China, which does not agree with our own accounts:—

Rear Admiral Dupré, desiring to put an end to Chinese fanaticism, has demanded an indemnity of two hundred and forty millions for the victims of the late massacre. The admiral has besides demanded the demolition of the fortress of Taku. As a national satisfaction he claims the heads of three mandarins guilty of complicity or indifference. Admiral Dupré was preparing to attack the ports in the Chinese Empire, and only awaited to commence his operations the arrival of the iron-clad corvette Alma, which was at the end of October at Singapore, ready to start to reinforce the admiral in the north of China. Numbers of Prussian prizes were moored at Saigon, mostly large fine vessels richly laden, and more were arriving constantly.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

(VIA SAN FRANCISCO TO NOV. 23.)

The following items are from the Japan Mail:—

The Government is slowly, but we trust surely and discreetly, proceeding with those transformations and modifications of the national institutions which the abolition of the Shogunate has rendered necessary. Prior to the Revolution the hold of the Central Government on the Daimios was weak, and its liability to serious disturbance very great and constant on this account. The main object, therefore, at present seems to be to strengthen itself as much as possible by the substitution of officers appointed directly from Yedo for those chosen by the ex-Daimios, or "Chihanj," as they are now called. It is, of course, natural that this process has to be done with great discretion and tenderness, and only when the internal condition of a district is such as to afford a fair pretext for the change; but the Government will assuredly lose no opportunity of enforcing its views in this respect whenever it can do so safely. The process of transformation must and indeed should proceed slowly; for honest and experienced officials are required to ensure its steady working, and these are as rare in Japan as in all Asiatic countries.

The Government are paying great attention to the military and naval organisation of the Empire. They have drawn up regulations fixing the staff of officers for each regiment and ship, with statements of their rank, pay, &c., as well as rules for the pay and pensions of the common soldiers and sailors. A naval school is shortly to be established, and a proclamation has been issued inviting students to join it. Some of our readers are perhaps aware that a measure has been passed, ordaining that one fifth of the revenues of the Han, after deducting the personal allowance of the Chiji, shall be paid into the exchequer for the maintenance of a national Army and Navy, under the immediate control of the Mikado's Government. Already the ci-devant Daimios, such as Chosiu, Satsuma, Iigo, &c., have given up their serviceable ships of war to the Mikado, and therefore there is now but one, the Imperial, Navy in Japan.

The new Italian Minister, Conte Fe D'Astiani, has been presented to the Mikado. After the ceremony, his Excellency was entertained at a banquet given by the Japanese Ministers.

The loss of the Captain has caused considerable excitement among the sea-going population of Yokohama. A subscription has been got up for the widows and orphans by Captain Purvis, the harbour-master, and it is to be hoped that he will have a very creditable sum to transmit to the Committee in England. A concert is also to be given in aid of the wounded during the present war. The matter will be entirely under the auspices of the German residents, and as their musical qualities are well known a pleasant evening is anticipated.

Mr. Morel, engineer-in-chief of the Railway Department, has left for Kobe, for the purpose of inspecting the progress made by the district engineers there, and placing the works connected with the Kobe and Osaka section on the footing arranged for at the recent conference.

RECEPTION OF MR. SEWARD BY THE MIKADO.

The Yedo correspondent of the New York Tribune reports, with very evident pride, a mark of unexampled honour which has just been conferred upon Mr. Seward by the Mikado—his reception in personal interview upon terms of almost perfect equality. Mr. Seward, who is at present on a tour through Japan and China, had set his heart, the Tribune correspondent informs us, upon an interview with the Mikado, and Mr. Delong, the United States Minister, spared no pains to have his wish gratified. But the Japanese Minister had a difficulty. Mr. Seward they knew. When Secretary of State he had prevented the sale of the Stone-wall to the Tycoon, and by permitting the Mikado to get possession of her, had materially assisted him in making himself master of Japan. Besides, his mediation with Russia might be of use in the Saghalien question. Both gratitude and interest therefore counselled an extraordinary effort to retain his friendship. But who was Mr. Randall, ex-Postmaster-General, who accompanied him? Ought the same attentions which were shown to Mr. Seward to be extended to him, or might he be treated with less consideration? The Ministers were puzzled, and they hesitated to ask Mr. Delong. In their difficulty they hit upon a middle course, and invited both gentlemen to a breakfast at the Foreign Minister's. The invitation was declined, and Mr. Randall, who got wind of the perplexity of the Japanese officials, felt his dignity so offended that when, after much delicate diplomacy, the interview with the Mikado was at length granted, he pouted and refused to go. The momentous question still remained to be settled how the interview was to be conducted. There was no precedent to fall back upon. The visit of the Duke of Edinburgh was not in point. For he was a Royal prince, and a captain in the British navy as well; while Mr. Seward was only a plain citizen travelling without even official rank. After much cogitation, an exact programme was arranged. A plan of the ground floor of the pavilion in which the interview was to take place, with the position of every participant directly indicated, and a copy of the remarks the Mikado intended to make, was furnished to Mr. Delong. In return he supplied copies of what he and Mr. Seward proposed to say. On the appointed morning the two Americans were taken in carriages from the United States Consulate to the interior wall of the castle, and were then conducted through a series of beautiful gardens, where "miniature groves and mountains, temples and shrines, lakes and cascades, smiling lawns and mimic wildernesses surrounded them on every side." At every turn of the path the visitors were met by members of the Foreign-office, or of the Mikado's household, who, after appropriate greetings, joined the party, which at length increased to the magnitude of a small procession. At ten o'clock refreshments were served in a summer-house, and then the guests were conducted to the Royal pavilion. "The Mikado remained seated during the interview, but he was entirely unveiled by screen or curtain. Up to this time even the foreign Ambassadors had only been allowed to look upon a part of his person at a time—the lower extremities or the face being always concealed; and, instead of being surrounded by ostentatious emblems of power and supremacy, his only visible attendants were a single guard and the officer who supplied him with the manuscripts containing his share in the conversation." This share was brief enough. Mr. Delong first saluted him, and, after he had replied, the Minister presented Mr. Seward. The Mikado expressed his satisfaction at Mr. Seward's safe passage "across the great ocean," and then said: "You have been so long connected with the Government of the United States that any suggestions you can make towards promoting friendly intercourse between Japan and the Treaty Powers I trust you will freely make to the Prime Minister." Mr. Seward replied that he held no official position, but that he would gladly exchange information and suggestions with the Prime Minister. A few complimentary remarks from the Mikado to Mr. Delong after this closed the interview. The party was reconducted through the castle grounds, and another collation was served up to them before they took their departure.

CHINA.

—o— SHANGHAI.

The college, under the presidency of the Rev. Dr. Martin, is again on the rising tide of prosperity. It has a corps of nine professors, five foreign and four Chinese, and there are now under instruction in the several departments about fifty pupils. It was the original intention of the Government to make the schools south tributary to the college, and several years since five young men were admitted from Rev. Mr. Allen's school at Shanghai, but we hear the others of that school have found employment under Ting Futai, and are not expected to apply for admission here. What is doing at the Canton school we have not heard, but fear the college in the future will have to get its supplies immediately from the Tartar and Chinese youth of the capital.

—o— BANGKOK.

The Siam Advertiser says that advices from Wat Bote confirm the fact of splendid rice crops in that vicinity, and all along the line of travel to that place. Paddy was selling at Wat Bote for 20½ ticals per coyan of 2,160 kauns. The purchasers of Wat Bote were at the additional expense of 1½ tical per coyan to have the paddy brought to the landings where their boats stop.

Some confusion having arisen concerning the value of lead and copper coinage, the same paper has been requested, by a Siamese official, who is a good authority on the subject, to state that the Government has issued a proclamation, establishing the smaller lead coins at forty for one fuang, the larger lead pieces at sixteen for one fuang, and the copper pieces at eight for one fuang. In other words, there is to be no deterioration in the value previously given them by the Royal Proclamation at the commencement of the present reign.

There is a smaller copper piece of half the value of those that are eight for one fuang, but how extensively they are in circulation is not known.

Some time since Sir John Bowring, on behalf of Siam, negotiated for them a commercial treaty with the Governments of Sweden, Belgium, and Italy. The two former treaties have long since been ratified, and have gone into effect. The Siamese Government, for reasons which we do not know, would not confirm the treaty negotiated with Italy. We learn, however, that the Italian Government has appointed a special Ambassador, who is now hourly expected to visit the Court of Siam, and negotiate a treaty of commerce that will be mutually satisfactory.

A new canal is to be cut connecting Bangkok and Ayuthia. This is a step in the right direction. This canal will render the entire plane between the Bangpakong and Chow Phya rivers susceptible of paddy cultivation, make Bangkok a still greater rice port, augment the wealth of the paddy cultivators, and add largely to the Government income.

The Una, loaded with sugar machinery for the Sugar Company of Hong Kong, will visit Bangkok to supply the machinery for the proposed Sugar works for this Company which are to be erected at Lakaunchaisee. The vessel will visit Saigon also. At this place the same company has an establishment, and another at Manila.

If this company proves a success in Siam, and we see no reason why it should not, if the Siamese Government will only give it a fair chance, we see the way clear for a steamer to run regularly between this port and Hong Kong, and this measure will be fraught with immense benefit to Siam. Why should there not be likewise a railroad connecting Bangkok with Maulmain and Rangoon on the east and Saigon on the west? Such a road would bring new regions under cultivation, and facilitate the transportation of the produce of mines and of the soil to ready and remunerative markets.

The only "domestic" occurrences that we note are the marriage of the son of H.E. the Kalahomo to Miss Koon Prom, the daughter of Phya Maha Tep, and the report that his Majesty the King is now the father of three children, though he has but just past the seventeenth year of his age. Each of these were of course born of a separate mother.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o— SINGAPORE.

"When they do agree on the stage, their unanimity is wonderful," writes Sheridan in The Critic, and we are forcibly reminded of the truth of the speech put into the mouth of Mr. Puff on that occasion by the accounts which have been sent to us of the last meeting of the Legislative Council before the departure of Sir Harry Ord on a tour of observation. The Governor, with singular felicity, improved this opportunity by disarming the oldest and staunchest opponent of his policy, the Chief Justice, by a complete douche of compliments and congratulations, which contributed much more to the hilarity than the dignity of the Assembly, and evidently surprised the recipient of these formal courtesies as much as they amused the House. The Chief Justice was, however, fully equal to the occasion. He returned thanks in a style quite as sincere, and a little more florid, than that of the Governor for the honour that had been enjoyed by him in being the devoted coadjutor of so distinguished a man in times so fraught with anxiety to the colony, the welfare of which was, as everybody agreed, the dearest object of the Governor's heart. If the Chief Justice had ever appeared to act in opposition to the Governor, he begged it to be noted that he had only done so in "a Pickwickian sense." And with this ceremonial parting the meeting came to a decent end, the Councillors having recovered their gravity by a violent effort, and the Governor took his formal farewell. It may be questioned, however, whether more real respect would not have followed him home if he and his Council had parted on terms of candid and conscientious opposition rather than in a style of transparently-affected cordiality which imposed upon nobody.

—o— PENANG.

The Penang Gazette advertises the tariff of charges for the transmission of messages of twenty words to the stations in various parts of the world with which the British Indian Extension Telegraph Company is in communication. The cost of a short message to Singapore will be $3.90, and to the United Kingdom $20.30; London, $20.20; France, $19.60; Germany, 20 cents more, and Batavia and India, $9.20. Penang will be within two or three minutes of Singapore.

The same paper says that his Honour the Chief Justice is about to retire from the post he has filled so long, so ably, and so honestly, and that he leaves in March next. Sir William Mac-kett of course will succeed him, and some barrister from England will be appointed Judge of Penang.

Penang experienced a very high tide on the nights of Nov. 22 and 23. Beach-street was in many parts flooded, and nearly all the drains in the other parts of the town were overflowed.

THE FOREIGN RELATIONS OF CHINA.

(Condensed from the Edinburgh Review.)

From Kiachta, on the borders of Western Mongolia, to London a message can now be sent in less than twenty-four hours; and the transit of travellers from London to Peking may now be securely done in six or eight weeks, either by land or by sea. So vast a change in the relations of time and distance could not fail to effect a corresponding change in the relations of China with the rest of the world. But a few centuries ago her people might rejoice in their isolation and security, until at length the whole of Eastern Asia fell under their sway. Even the Japanese came from the isles beyond their coasts to borrow a written language, a religion, and a philosophy, and in doing so offered the sincerest homage. The Chinese people are well versed in these great facts; and their traditions are the source of those pretensions which we are too apt to despise as the mere caprice of barbarism. But they are facts and realities not to be put aside by superior intelligence, or blotted out by treaties, though countersigned, at the dictation of a foreign Power, with the vermilion pencil. If merchants and missionaries in China had devoted a little more of their attention to the study of the people, they would have made much more satisfactory progress in overcoming the obstacles in their path—each in their separate calling. The course of time has not often brought about a stranger revolution in the destiny of nations than is disclosed now that China, which gave in long past ages the three great discoveries to Europe, by which the nations of the West have mainly achieved their superiority—the compass, printing and gunpowder—and also bestowed on us three of the greatest luxuries, silk, porcelain and tea—must receive the law from the descendants of the Teuton and the Celt. We may well look with some patience and forbearance at the wry faces the Chinese make under the process.

The one great end of our intercourse with China, and the sole motive for any political relations with its rulers, is our commerce. If the Indian and Chinese markets were shut against us, our workmen would have to starve, or pinch as infallibly as if some convulsion of nature had cut us off from the vast corn lands of the Mississippi Valley, or of Southern Russia. A vast deal more therefore is at stake than the interests of a comparatively small number of merchants bent on making a fortune rapidly, and not two scrupulous about the means. The trade of Great Britain and its dependencies with China employs a vast capital, and gives profitable employment to more than seven thousand ships under the British flag, with a tonnage of three million and a third of tons. If one or more ports of registry in China for British ships, and a law of partnership with limited liability, were provided by the legislature, these figures would be largely increased. For want of these nearly the whole of the steamer traffic and carrying trade on the Yangtze is forced into the hands of foreigners, chiefly Americans.

In order to compute the importance of our trade with China we must take into account the amount of British and Indian revenue derived from it. By the last year's revenue returns, the duty levied on tea, at the rate of 6d. per lb., produces £2,643,226 towards the whole revenue of £21,529,000 raised by the Customs. By the Indian returns we find the revenue from opium, the great bulk of which is exported for Chinese consumption, estimated at an average of from six to seven millions sterling. The proportion our trade in British manufactures to China bears to our commerce with other countries is insignificant at present, only amounting to £7,000,000 out of £100,000,000, but, as Sir Rutherford Alcock has pointed out, it has a constant tendency to increase at the average annual rate of £3,500,000. We cannot, therefore, wisely confine our views to the present, and ought not, by a short-sighted economy or any mistaken policy, to risk all that is prospective. The trade in cottons and woollens from our looms is susceptible of almost unlimited extension; and nothing more is required to this end than a better understanding with the Chinese Government to facilitate the transit of foreign goods into the interior. It might have been better if the merchants, in their memorials, had limited their demands and concentrated their efforts on this one great desideratum. Great innovations involve many considerations, economical and political, as well as international, and time and patience will both be necessary.

Our trade with China, it must not be forgotten, helps to maintain steam communication throughout the East. If the opium trade were to cease, we should have to provide £11,000,000 to pay in part for tea and silk exported from China—not, as now, by means of a British product forwarded in national vessels, but by means of bullion purchased in the American States, and transmitted across the Pacific. An important link which binds Eastern trade to the United Kingdom would be broken, and another would be forged in the chain "which is soon firmly to connect China with the United States." Although this expression was used by a Shanghai merchant in defence of the opium trade, it is not less applicable to the trade generally and its bearing on Imperial interests. Of trade and its hindrances, thanks to the attempted revision of the Treaty of Tientsin, the public has heard from the several mercantile communities and chambers of commerce located in China enough to remove all ignorance of the main facts. The hindrances are numerous, no doubt, and some of them might be removed at once if the Chinese Government could be induced to take the necessary steps. But others appear to be irremediable while the country remains in its present state, torn by insurrection, miserably misgoverned, and with a thoroughly corrupt administration. There is, indeed, a very general feeling among the mercantile bodies located in China that the Chinese can be forced to do anything foreign Powers may, with sufficient determination, demand, without provoking such resistance as leads to war; but even force has its limits when applied to a Government such as China at present possesses, or the whole may either collapse or be crushed by the process.

The main grievance of the merchants lies in irregular and excessive inland taxation. Many attempts have been made to remove this, but they have all failed for the obvious reason that they involve the alteration of the whole fiscal system of a vast Eastern Empire for the benefit of foreigners. Equally unreasonable are the imperious demands made by the merchants for the instant adoption of railroads and telegraphy, for the working of mines by foreign skill and machinery, for inland residence and the right of acquiring real property in the interior with all the privileges of extra-territoriality, for steam navigation through inland waters, &c. But, if the Chinese are averse to such sweeping changes, are we to deny them any voice in matters affecting the welfare and destiny of their whole nation? Or will the British nation feel justified in going to war for the purpose of compelling an Eastern race to be civilised after our Western methods? It may be that the opposition to all these modern innovations comes, as alleged by the merchants, from the mandarins and literati exclusively. We believe it does. But are we to thrust aside the whole of the educated and ruling classes, and leave the Government of the country to take care of itself, while we lay down our rails and telegraphic lines? Time may be much better employed in considering by what means material progress may be made than in going over the irrational proposals that have emanated from the open ports in China for the compression or expansion of China into a mould that would meet their views or further their interests.

To many, we doubt not, what we are now going to say may seem paradoxical and utterly improbable as a matter of fact. Nevertheless, we say it with entire conviction of its truth. The main obstacles to any material improvement in China come from without and not from within. It is the foreigner, not the native, who creates the chief difficulty. We say "the foreigner," and he is not of one class or nation. Merchants, missionaries, and Governments, all supply their quotas. They all help to fill up the witches' cauldron, the overflow of which is seen in such murderous outrages as Tientsin has lately witnessed. The Chinese have an antipathy to all foreign races. With such a fund of instinctive dislike in all classes and more active elements of hostility constantly working in the hearts of the whole mandarin and educated classes, is it not plain that so much "latent heat" cannot fail to be a perennial source of danger? At Tientsin, where the culminating horror was perpetrated, there can be no reasonable doubt of the culpability of the mandarins, and the blood of the murdered may justly be laid to their charge.

We are thus brought to the greatest difficulty, and by far the gravest cause of anxiety. Of all the dangers which menace our position in China, and the difficulties which surround the representatives of Foreign Powers, there are none to be compared with those created by the missionary question. If there were no missionaries in China, the merchants would bring their share of discord, and elements of danger. The importation of opium, the exportation of coolies, and many other griefs of the Chinese authorities and people would make trouble. Space will not allow us to go fully into the missionary question, or discuss the details of the Tientsin Massacre; but the whole order of proceeding, with the result, appears little better than a mockery of justice. Chung How himself was so much implicated that it is an insult to have sent him to France with a mission to make the peace of the Chinese Government. But the danger created by the missionaries—the Roman Catholic missionaries especially, under the protectorate of France—has done more than all else to create a state of things very inimical to the maintenance of peaceable relations. So far as trade is concerned—trade simply, and without political or missionary accompaniments—the Chinese as a nation are well disposed. They—that is the ruling classes, and people not directly engaged in it, do not desire foreign trade, and, if they had a free choice would certainly shut it out. But, as things are, they are willing trade should be carried on if they are not pushed too far or too violently in the way that foreign merchants would have them compelled to go. What are we to promise ourselves as the result of any refusal to acquiesce in this neutral policy, and the adoption of measures to force them in a different course? We have heard so much of our difficulties in China that of late the public press has returned again and again to the subject, asking with a painful iteration—"What is to be done with China? What shall we do with China?" We cannot help recalling the answer given by Lord Melbourne to a similar in-quarry in a home difficulty—"Can't you leave it alone?" Can we not leave China alone, so far as any effort is concerned to force upon her what some Utopian philosophers call "progress and civilisation?" When our trade is in question, or the lives and property of those engaged in it, we have a clear course before us; but the conditions become complicated and confused if we adopt schemes of civilisation and progress, and superadd to them religious propagandism and the conversion of the heathen. It is very difficult to say where any one of these allied objects may land us.

Our views on the present situation and more immediate prospects in China are easily summed up. The halcyon days of rapid fortunes have passed never to return. Trade increases, but passes more and more into Chinese hands. Foreign merchants are gradually disappearing, except from the larger ports, and at these, such is the increase of competition that the most fortunate are simply able to pay their expenses. None are making fortunes save those who have no capital to lose, and call themselves bill-brokers. Since the massacre of Tientsin our position in China has greatly changed for the worse. We are now only safe so long as we are not attacked, and, day by day, those now resident in the country take their chance of this only too probable contingency. Measures in anticipation of danger must be taken if any real protection is to be secured. The best deterrent of crime and treachery in China is undoubtedly the known strength to resist, or the power to punish. Through the Chinese rulers neither of these will ever be secured. All that has been done by the Chinese Government has been illusive and inadequate. If the French were in a position to act alone, they would for a time beat all conceit out of the most obstinate of the Celestial race, and inflict a lesson that would leave little to be desired, as to effectiveness. But, if France were left to act alone, great mischief would inevitably follow; and it is probable that, in the present state of that country, she will be unable to act at all. Already much evil has been caused by the domineering spirit and intermeddling policy of the French agents, as well as by the ultramontaniam of the missionaries under their protection. It would be utterly destructive of all hope of maintaining peace or amity with either Chinese rulers or people, and would pave the way for the disintegration of the Empire, or its partition among the foreign powers, if China were compelled to accept such terms of peace as might please France, in her own political or missionary interest, to dictate. After all, however much we may regret their chronic state of antagonism, it is impossible not to admit that the Chinese ruling classes may not be wholly wrong if they conceive that a nation of some three or four hundred millions was not made merely for foreign trade, and that foreign nations and merchants might grow rich, or even that foreign statesmen and political philosophers might enjoy, free of cost, a new and vast field for experiments. They may be pardoned if they sometimes feel—and feel strongly—that every other interest and object in the Empire should not be wholly subordinated to their commercial relations, or the nation governed entirely and exclusively by the demands of foreign merchants or the will of Foreign States.

THE DUTCH RULE IN JAVA.

SOME days ago a telegram was received from Batavia, stating that the Governor-General, Mr. MYER, had suspended the decrees respecting the Government reforms in the Preanger regencies, owing to the First Chamber of the States-General in Holland having rejected the East India Budget. The decrees alluded to were, however, promulgated by the Governor-General so hastily that, according to the Batavisch Handelsblad, the population in these regencies had already arranged themselves according to their tenor, and, of course, general dissatisfaction will prevail. The natives have to pay for the bad system by which Java is governed. The higher wages for planting coffee will not be paid, notwithstanding that they have already been promulgated in Mr. MYER's decree. We hear from Holland that the new Minister of the Colonial Department, Mr. VAN BOSSE, will support the measure regarding the reforms in the Preanger regencies, so that perhaps the decrees of Mr. MYER will yet be brought into action; but it will be very difficult to convince the native population that they will not again be disappointed, since the Dutch Government has once violated a solemn engagement. The whole affair affords another proof that the manner in which the colonies in the Far East are ruled by the Dutch Government calls for a complete reform.

THE Edinburgh Review has commenced the year with an article of thirty pages on the foreign relations of China, which our readers will find condensed in another part of our paper. We regret that the evident animus of the writer should have led him into such a strange description of the foreign merchants in China, of whom he says, "The most fortunate are simply able to pay their expenses, and none are making fortunes, save those who have no capital to lose, and call themselves bill-brokers."

In another column we publish an interesting letter from a correspondent on the subject of the ports of Formosa, which our Government recently proposed to abandon, for the sake of a small saving, notwithstanding the promising results of its first year's trade. Fortunately, their intention has been frustrated, and our correspondent's comparison of the infancy of the now important port of Foochow with the opening of Formosa affords good reason to hope that the trade of the latter will be in time equally valuable.

OUR POLICY IN CHINA.

(PAUL MALL GAZETTE.)

In a recent article we endeavoured to point out a prevailing error in the direction of the efforts made by the mercantile communities in China to influence their Government at home, and compel them to adopt a policy more in consonance with the wishes, if not the true interests, of the merchants—about which latter clause there might be two opinions. We said that in attacking the individuals entrusted in China with British authority as if they were responsible for the policy adopted, they mistook the proper object of attack if the policy was bad. In the second place, they erred, we thought, in their own interest in showing a decidedly hostile and aggressive spirit towards the Chinese Government and their officials of all classes by the language habitually adopted in speaking of them in the local press. The free exercise of speech and freedom of the press which is the guarantee of its full enjoyment in the western hemisphere exist under certain checks and conditions which, as a rule, prevent abuses calculated to work great mischief. The degree in which a free press is valuable and not dangerous must depend greatly on the general knowledge of facts pretended or discussed; now in China there is no such knowledge. Such articles of the local press as are denunciatory of the whole system of administration—the Government and all the officials—reaches the Chinese by means of translations, without any of the corrections an English community could supply. The only influence these angry effusions are likely to exercise must be a pernicious one. A spirit of distrust and irritation, if not of more active hostility, is kept up, and then we wonder that outbreaks such as we have been lamenting should take place without any effective interference on the part of the officials. These outspoken memorials and local newspapers have no influence on the legation and consulates, who must carry out their instructions whether the merchants approve or otherwise. They are equally inoperative for good with the Chinese Government, while they very certainly have a direct tendency to produce ill-feeling and a total indisposition to listen to the Minister or Consuls when pressing for further concessions or improvements. If the merchants desire any change in the treaty, or in their position and privileges, it is to their own Government they should look; and the representations made to it, however strongly worded, in reference to their grievances, real or imaginary, would not increase the evil by alarming and exasperating the whole official class of China. And these, be it remembered, are the actual rulers of the country, and without their concurrence, however obtained, nothing that the merchants desire can be enjoyed or secured. So much as to ways and means. If we were less anxious for the success of the mercantile community in many directions, or had less sympathy with their anxiety about the future—for which anxiety we think they have abundant grounds—we should not have devoted so much space to the subject. Turning now to the policy they advocate as a remedy for all the ills they suffer, we take up Dr. Thin again as the latest exponent of the Anglo-Chinese theory of a policy applicable to China.

"If," this writer observes, "I have explained myself with sufficient fulness and clearness, I should now be in a position to indicate what seems to me to be the only satisfactory basis on which we can now have relations with China." And then having sufficiently denounced all authorities and their acts, and reprobated the latest instructions of the Foreign-office, he starts free to lay down his basis.

"If foreigners are to be safe in China, the mandarin of each district must be made responsible for their safety, and that responsibility must not be to the Emperor at Peking, but to the nearest foreign consul. If this course be undertaken there will be no more massacres. There must be no long correspondences between the coast and Peking, and perhaps to Europe, during which the time to strike is lost, and punishment, if it were to be inflicted, would be inflicted in vain. The mandarin must be assured that the crime will bring speedy punishment. The person of a foreigner must be made to be sacred. Assaults and murders must be instantly punished, and with severity. An intelligent Chinaman at Tientsin, speaking of the massacre to an Englishman, said, 'A few years ago no one dare touch the dog of a foreigner, now foreigners themselves are killed with impunity!' The former times must be brought back again. It is useless for us to attempt to fathom the labyrinths of plot and falsehood which conceal the clue to these demonstrations against foreigners, because we can never get at the truth. But we know that the mandarins can prevent them occurring if they choose, and they will choose if their own safety is involved. This we can understand, and it is on this we must act."

How assaults and murders are to be instantly punished if the offenders are not identified and arrested on the spot by survivors, which can very rarely happen, we are not told. Nor are we told by what spiritual or other medium the criminals are to be discovered in the event of there being any little difficulty about identity. And assuming they are discovered and identified, how are trial and conviction to be secured? The Chinese authorities, we freely admit, are not to be trusted in such work. Doubtless, as Dr. Thin remarks, there is great difficulty in getting at the truth in China, and therefore he would seem to conclude it is useless to waste any time in the attempt. Yet when it comes to hanging a man for an alleged crime, or bombarding a town in order that we may make sure, if not of the actual criminals, of somebody being made to suffer the penalty, there ought surely to be some hesitation. Nevertheless, it is an essential principle that "assaults and murders must be instantly punished, and with severity." Very true; but how is this to be secured? Dr. Thin says, "It is admitted that something must be done, but no one yet has been bold enough or confident enough in his knowledge to say what it is to be." And to say the truth, after reading what that "something" is to be, we cannot sufficiently admire "the confidence" of the Doctor if we distrust his knowledge.

"The mandarin of each district must be made responsible," not to his own law or Government, but to the "nearest foreign consul"—a merchant consul of any nationality—since these are many and the salaried consuls are few. Well, the mandarin, we will presume, is seized and "held responsible" by the active intervention of a hybrid fleet of gunboats and consuls—that is, responsible to produce the criminals. We come to another difficulty. Dr. Thin himself declares the "readiness of the mandarin to behead any number of the mob." No doubt, then, "criminals" of this kind would be forthcoming under such pressure. But their trial and conviction upon perfectly satisfactory evidence raises another little obstacle. The system of Chinese law rests upon the application of torture to accused and witnesses alike if there be any doubt, as was the practice with us in the days of Bacon. Hitherto we have shut our eyes and closed them very hard to this unpleasant truth, as also to the further fact that every time we appealed to the Chinese authorities to do justice we have in effect been parties to a trial by torture. It is unpleasant, but true. It seems that, after all these preliminary difficulties were overcome, the choice would lie between hanging the mandarin at the yardarm of one of these executive gunboats—after, say, an impromptu naval court, presided over by the consul, and its decision carried into execution by the lieutenant—or taking the first half-dozen unfortunate wretches any mandarin would find to his hand, and giving them the same measure of justice, since it is stipulated that “assaults and murders must be instantly punished with severity.” For our part we should take the mandarin, on the chance of his being, if not a criminal, at least an enemy. As for the hybrid fleet, half Chinese and half foreign, at the call of every nation’s consul, with its Chinese crew and foreign officers all paid by Chinese duties taken from the customs, that they might supersede Chinese authority and Chinese law, we need not waste time in considering the fitness of the instruments. “Quis custodiet custodes?” may fairly be asked. Who is to be responsible for the use made of such instruments? Of course the concurrence or sanction of the Chinese Government is not considered necessary; but the concurrence of all the other Treaty Powers might be worth a moment’s thought, because if refused there would be another and a serious difficulty. Whether the consul, commander of the gunboat, or captured mandarin is to act the part of sheriff’s officer is, perhaps, not very material. Somebody would have to play hangman—that, at least, is very clear. These are mere matters of detail.

But there is one matter in this connection not altogether so trivial, perhaps. Whether the Chinese Government’s provincial authorities and the population generally would be so entirely acquiescent and approving, or so profoundly impressed with the equity of this provost-marshal style of ensuring justice, does not seem to us altogether clear, though it evidently is no cause of perplexity to Dr. Thin. Still we cannot help thinking that to the British public this summary and arbitrary policy will seem worse than the Duke of Somerset’s inevitable misadventures, with all the eccentricities attributed to them and the Anglo-Chinese Communities by his grace. Our readers will not wonder very much after these evidences of our author’s “confidence” and “knowledge” in Chinese affairs, that he concludes his work by the following encouraging and consolatory reflection, quoting from a Report of the delegates of the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce:—

“How to extend beneficent, in other words, commercial measures in China, without the cumbrous and wholly unnecessary intervention of war with the despotic class, is a problem which need not baffle the philanthropic statesmen of the nineteenth century, if their philanthropy be guided by an intelligent interpretation of facts.” The identification of beneficent and “commercial measures” is very pleasant, and just what it should be. And to do this “without the cumbrous and wholly unnecessary intervention of war with the despotic class,” is of course “a problem which need not baffle the philanthropic statesmen of the nineteenth century, if their philanthropy be guided by an intelligent interpretation of facts.” This is delicious—“intelligent interpretation of facts,” such, for instance, as the delegates of the Chamber, aided by Dr. Thin, could at once supply, and which Governments and Ministers have been straining after in vain any time these ten years past. We should propose to Her Majesty’s Government to lose no time in securing the invaluable services of such able gentlemen. Perhaps one of the number might be induced to be our future representative at Peking, and instantly make all things pleasant, easy and proper, “without the cumbrous and wholly unnecessary intervention of war with the despotic class.” What a blessing this would be to all concerned—merchants, Ministers, and Governments! Dr. Thin expresses somewhere a faint hope that Her Majesty’s Government may deign to listen to him. We shall be very glad if anything it has been in our power to say can promote so desirable a result.

THE BISHOP OF VICTORIA.

The Record has the following on the controversy between Bishop Alford and the Church Missionary Society:—References have appeared, more than once in some of the public papers, to differences between the Bishop of Victoria and the authorities of the Church Missionary Society with regard to the establishment of a bishopric at Ningpo, for the episcopal supervision of native Christians, and to the consecration of the Rev. Mr. Russell, as the first bishop. And, in those quarters with which the society is regarded with little favour, attempts have been made, as on many former occasions in its history, to impeach the soundness and consistency of its Church principles. That differences of opinion have existed between Bishop Alford and the society is not to be denied. We (Record) are highly gratified in being able to state that, previously to setting sail for his diocese, with a view to a widely-extended visitation, the Bishop has written to the Society in a truly Christian spirit, and offered a solution which must, in due time, settle the question at rest most satisfactorily, as the committee are fully prepared to reply in the same spirit. The bishop has notified that he has requested the Rev. Dr. Miller, vicar of Greenwich, to act as his commissary for the final adjustment of the matter, under the direction of the Primate, in whose hands he is willing to leave the whole case, absolutely, for entire settlement. Certainly, whatever may be the points which have caused a temporary difference of opinion, the Society can hardly be charged with any disregard of the episcopal policy of the Church in its missionary aspect, when the committee have suggested a second bishopric for the Chinese converts, steadily keeping in view for China what it has laboured so successfully to develop elsewhere—the life and gradual independence of the native Churches in those fields in which its faithful labours have been so abundantly owned by the Spirit of God.

THE “CUTTY SARK.”—The Glasgow Herald has the following upon the outward voyage of the Cutty Sark:—The Cutty Sark passed Deal on the 20th November, and on the 23rd she was spoken 240 miles north of the equator. The distance from Deal by the chart to latitude 4 N. 23 W. (where she was spoken) is 3,400 nautical miles, making an average speed of 25½ miles per day, or at the rate of 12½ statute miles per hour. This certainly is a most wonderful speed for a sailing vessel, and, we believe, has never been surpassed or equalled. The Cutty Sark is a composite ship, 1,316 tons B.M. classed at Lloyd’s 16 years A1, is in the China trade, and owned by Messrs. J. Willis and Son, London. She was designed and modelled by Mr. Hercules Linton, and built by Messrs. Scott and Linton, Dumbarton.

The Silver Eagle, 8, troop-ship, arrived at Devonport on the 12th inst., and went alongside the dockyard to embark the troops for conveyance to Japan. On the 14th the draft of the 1st battalion 10th (North Lincoln) Regiment, consisting of Lieuts. Blake and Huntley; Ensigns Peyton, Short, and Paton, four sergeants, three corporals, one drummer, 268 privates, five women, and two children, was marched from the Millbay barracks, Plymouth, to Devonport, where it was embarked. The Silver Eagle remained in the harbour twenty-four hours after the troops were on board, and was then finally inspected. She sailed at noon on the 15th, but is detained in Plymouth Sound by the severe weather.

An application for a rule nisi for a new trial in the action of “Dent v. Nickalls,” in which a point of great importance to members of the Stock Exchange is involved, was granted on the 14th inst. The case will be remembered as that in which a clerk at Yokohama was registered by a stock jobber as a transferee of shares, and in which the practice of so registering men of straw was justified on the ground that it was the custom of the Stock Exchange.

Foreign Intelligence.

HAMBURG, Jan. 10.

When the King of Prussia awoke on the morning of New Year’s-day he found himself Emperor of Germany, and after attending Divine service in the beautiful chapel of the Palace at Versailles, he held a levée in the gorgeous Salle des Glaces, which had often been used for the same purpose by Louis XIV. and his successors. Though nothing official has transpired on the subject, it cannot be doubted that the question of his Majesty’s assumption of the Imperial title has already given rise to discussions at headquarters, though of course they are subordinate to the graver and more important deliberations on the military operations now in course of execution. The several cities of Germany where former Emperors were crowned are contending fiercely, and putting forward their respective claims for the honour of the coronation ceremony being performed within their walls. Among these are Frankfort, Aachen, and Nuremberg, and even Worms endeavours to prove its historical claims; perhaps the late appointment of Count Bismarck and General Moltke to the honorary freedom of the city may have had something to do with it, and be used as a captatio benevolentie in favour of the ancient Luther city. In the meantime there is reason to believe that the subject is not yet ripe for a decision, and that it will be left in abeyance till the war is over; certain it is that hitherto the King has not communicated his intentions to any of his most ardent supporters and intimate friends and relations. But whilst the other cities have contented themselves with putting forth their claims, the magistracy of Frankfort have perhaps stolen a march on their competitors by taking a decided step that has created great surprise and made a deep impression both at Berlin and Versailles; they have sent in a loyal address to the King, congratulating him on his election as German Emperor, and praying for the honour of his coronation, as has been the custom ever since the time of Friedrich Barbarossa. It is very possible that this consideration may have a certain degree of weight with the new Emperor, but I cannot help thinking that under the altered circumstances of the case he will be more inclined to break with the traditions of the past, and decide that the coronation shall take place at Berlin. If I were a betting man I should back Berlin against the field.

I have nothing to say to-day about commerce or shipping. The frost has been very severe, the thermometer having for several consecutive nights been as low as 17 deg. below zero of Reaumur, or 6½ deg. below zero of Fahrenheit. The Elbe is quite frozen over as far down as Glückstadt, and passable for artillery and loaded waggons. A regular service of sledges for passengers has been organised between this city and Stade. Within the last day or two, however, the cold is not so intense, and there are indications of an approaching thaw.

Our Hamburg regiment (the 76th of the Line) has been in nine different actions, and shown great valour and fighting qualities, but has suffered such severe losses that twice bodies of reserves have been sent off to France to bring up the regiment to its numerical strength on the war footing, till which they are kept out of active service in the field, and this will also give them time to recover from the hardships they have had to endure in marching and fighting during a hard frost, and bivouacking afterwards in the open air.

The North German Lloyd’s steamship Ohio, just arrived at Bremerhaven from Baltimore, has brought a magnificent sword of honour of American workmanship as a present from the German ladies at Baltimore to General Count Moltke. The blade is of silver, and the sheath, which is most elaborately chased and studded with precious stones, is of massive gold. The sword has been forwarded to the General at Versailles; it was insured for $3,000.

The Irkutsk Gazette publishes a list of 106 gold-washings to be let on lease, by public biddings, in virtue of the new regulations concerning private gold claims. At the same time, that journal announces the fresh discovery of forty-three gold regions in different parts of Siberia, as well as a bed of copper in the district of Jeneissensk, near the confluence of the Remir and Pika.

The advent of the new year has brought the Germans a great boon in the new Criminal Code, which has just come into operation, and is much more mild and humane in its judgments and penalties than any of its predecessors, the punishment of death being also abolished, except for high treason and treason against the State.

Accounts from St. Petersburg state that the subject of the Siberian Railway has again been discussed by the Council of State, and the three different tracings for the line compared, but as each of them had its supporters in the Council, no definite decision could be come to, and it is again postponed for another month.

The officers of Garibaldi's mixed corps that have been made prisoners are confined in the fortress of Königsberg, but only those of French birth are admitted to parole, all the other nationalities—Poles, Italians, Greeks, and Spaniards—being under prison discipline in the outlying Fort Habersberg.

On the 27th ult. a great fire broke out at Nijninovgorod, which destroyed three rows of warehouses, with their contents. The loss is estimated at 500,000 roubles.

Another remittance from the German residents in China for the relief of the sufferers by the war has been received here, and acknowledged in the local press.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Jan. 10.

The first days of the New Year brought us a new Cabinet; the homines novi being Messrs. Gericke and Booms—Messrs. Thorbecke, van Bosse, Jolles, Blussé, and Brocx, who, however, can scarcely be regarded as new men. The news was indeed a surprise. No one thought that the vague rumour, which I alluded to in my last, would be realised. It is said that on the 29th December the King directed Mr. Thorbecke to form a Cabinet; on the 30th he commenced his task, and the new list was published on the 3rd January by the Staats Courant. So much haste was made that the release of the Minister of War, Mr. van Mulken, from his duties as Minister for Foreign Affairs ad interim, was forgotten. I think that the new Cabinet has three advantages, the principal being that we have a Ministry. Three months we were without one, and people began to doubt whether seven persons could be found to accept portfolios; indeed, several papers say that these men have sacrificed themselves in behalf of the country. The second advantage is that this Cabinet is a constitutional one; and the third that it is Liberal. Another question is whether the public is contented, and this I think I must answer in the negative. There are but very few journals—only the thick and thin supporters of Mr. Thorbecke (such as the Arnhemse Courant)—who applaud the new Cabinet unconditionally. The other journals are all more or less reserved. You will remember that for some years there has been a split in the Liberal party; the followers of Mr. Thorbecke incline more and more towards Conservatism, and those of Mr. van de Putte remain what they were, without having the hardiesse to become Radicals. Months ago it was publicly said—and the behaviour of Mr. Thorbecke proved the truth of the on dit—that he, especially with regard to the Colonial question, adhered more and more to Conservative principles. Of course this creates a good deal of distrust, and both the leading papers, Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant and Handelsblad, warn the Cabinet that if the new Ministers do not hold faithfully to Liberal principles they will fight against them à outrance. There are, however, other respectable journals who are of opinion that the split will be removed by the formation of this Cabinet; it may be—but only time can show. The name of the President, Mr. Thorbecke, creates some distrust amongst the Liberal ranks; the more so is this the case with regard to Mr. van Bosse, who has been, mirabile dictu, appointed Minister of the Colonies. You will remember that in the last Cabinet he was charged with the Portfolio of the Department of Finance, and Heaven knows why he was not again appointed to that department instead of the Colonies. So much is certain, that he knows nothing about the Colonies but what he may have learned from books and Parliamentary discussion. But he is an able statesman, and perhaps he may do more good than those gentlemen who, year after year, promised the reforms which are so necessary in Java, but who never realised the expectations which were formed thereon; but on the other side the fear may be well founded that Mr. van Bosse is too petty a financial man for a Liberal Colonial Minister. The name of Mr. Blussé sounds better; he is a member of the old Liberal guard, a vehement enemy of the hated system of sending the produce of Java to Holland for sale, and believes it wiser to sell the produce of Java in Java, and to make the colony an open market for the world. He further may be regarded as a Radical with reference to financial matters—and a supporter of an income-tax, that horror of slow Dutchmen. Mr. Jolles, the president of the League for Peace, is said to be a most able jurist, who at last will release us from the "Code Napoleon," which is still in force in our country. The same good expectations are entertained of Colonel Booms, a young man who is thoroughly Liberal and energetic, and one who will certainly apply those reforms in our system of defence which are so necessary. Last, not least, comes Mr. Gericke, who is an able diplomatist, and thereabove a "Baron," so that he will find grace in the eyes of our Conservatives. This is in a few lines the chronique of the new Cabinet, which is regarded with both hope and fear. Future events will prove who are in the right, the optimists or the pessimists; but, as I said above, the greatest grievance is that Mr. Thorbecke, the soul of the Cabinet, has of late declined in popularity and strength. I hear that the Second Chamber will meet in the first days of February for the despatch of business. Another rumour I am obliged to insert, notwithstanding I do not believe one word of it—the Hague correspondent of the Utrechtsch Dagblad says that Mr. van Bosse has accepted the portfolio of the Colonial Department only for a time, in order that he should be appointed Governor-General of Java, in place of Mr. Myer, who will repatriate. The Handelsblad also says that this Minister is only appointed ad interim.

Some weeks ago I told you something about the Catholic movement for inducing the King to take diplomatic or even more urgent measures to restore the Pope to his temporal power. This movement has again been promoted, owing to the uncertainty which prevails with regard to the answer given by our Government to the circulars issued by the Italian Government on the 29th August and 7th September, 1870. The Minister of Foreign Affairs, ad interim, declared on the 19th December that the Dutch Government had remained quite neutral. The Kölnische Zeitung states, however, that our Government stated on the 22nd October, after the Italians had mastered Rome, that Italy had done enough for the Pope, and that no one could desire that anything more should be done. The Conservative papers ask for further information, of course, to please their beloved Catholic supporters. It is, however, very strange that the Staats Courant did not give some elucidation. This makes the behaviour of our Cabinet more questionable. The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant says to-day that the former Cabinet did not violate our neutrality with regard to Italy.

Like the wintry weather, the fierceness of the war undergoes no abatement. At the very outset of the New Year dreadful events seem to be impending, which will add to the catalogue of horrors and disasters. The fall of Paris, which from the progress famine appears to be making cannot be much longer delayed, it is not at all certain will have any effect in bringing the war to a close. Poor France! The sympathy of the Dutch, which at first was on the side of the Germans, has turned now towards the French, and large sums of money, besides great quantities of seed, are being contributed on behalf of the commission which has been established on behalf of the poor French peasants. Their interests are recommended to the benevolence of our compatriots in the East.

The first telegram which Reuter's agent forwarded us by the direct telegraphic line from Batavia was not very favourable. We were told by it that the Swiss soldiers belonging to the East India Army had organised a plot to murder the Governor-General and Mr. Myer—poor fellow!—and overmaster the isle. Of course no one believed the news; but it is, nevertheless, very strange that the Government would not spend f.150 in order to contradict officially, "by telegraph," the canard by which Mr. Reuter inaugurated this new line, which already has proved of the greatest importance, especially to trade.

At last the direct steam line between Holland and America will be carried out. I have reason to believe that a company has been formed here with a capital of f.900,000, the half of which has been furnished by the City bankers upon a mortgage on the two steamers which are to be built for this service. Messrs. Plate and Reuchlin are appointed managers.

I regret that I have to record the death of the eminent artist Mr. Van Schendel. He died at Brussels on the 28th December, and was born on the 21st April, 1806, at Terheyde, near Breda. His pictures were for the greater part sold in England, and for some of them more than 2,000 guineas were paid.

Mr. A. S. van Nierop has published a pamphlet to prove that the shareholders of the Oost Indische Maatschappij van Lyfrenten are, by Art. 31 of the Statutes, compelled to pay up the shares in full. You will remember that many of them have declined to do so.

The East Indiaman Maibit has arrived at Texel, and landed the pilot of the Soestdyk, about which steamer much anxiety prevailed. The belief was that she had foundered, but happily it is now proved that she arrived, all well, at Teneriffe.

The failure of a mercantile house at Amsterdam, which has been spoken of during the last day or two, is now announced to be that of H. M. von Hengel, in the India trade, with gross liabilities amounting to about £80,000.

The small-pox, which has prevailed for some time in several towns, has assumed a more epidemical character. The percentage of deaths of those attacked is very great.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

COFFEE.—The market looks very healthy. There is a firm demand for Malang, for which 35½c. is now readily paid. Good ordinary Java cannot be bought under 35½c. If our navigation was not still totally stopped, prices would make a further advance.

SUGAR (RAW).—Prices continue to creep up. About 38,000 piculs, floating, changed hands at full November value.

TEA.—The market is firm, but inactive.

SPICES.—There is an animated demand for Nutmegs, but holders decline to operate without a further advance. Mace: firm; prices unaltered.

INDIGO.—About 85 chests Java sold at steady quotations.

TIN has met with a good demand, and several lots have changed hands at f.77 to f.78; and ex coming spring sales at f.76. Billiton, on the spot, f.77; ex October and December sales, f.76.

By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Eppe has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." THE JAPANESE COLLECTION.

WE have received a general description of the contents of the Japanese Museum, collected by the late venerable Baron VON SIEBOLD during his long sojourn in Japan, which we recently noticed as likely to form a valuable acquisition for the British Government. BARON VON SIEBOLD's collection is at present exhibited in one of the departments of the Royal Museum at Munich, where it occupies several large rooms; so that a favourable opportunity offers for a British Commission to examine and report upon it if our suggestion should be taken up. There seems but little chance of the Bavarian Government being able to carry out their engagement with the Baron, as the Chambers have refused to vote the sum agreed upon, and are not likely to be made more favourable to the scheme by the prolongation of the war. A perusal of the catalogue before us confirms our impression that it would be a great pity that a collection so unique, and which it has cost so much labour to form, should be allowed to pass out of the jurisdiction of this country, which is so largely interested in Japan. The list comprises printed books and woodcuts illustrative of the history, geography, religion, laws, literature, and biography of the Japanese; drawings and paintings, including many portraits of eminent natives, besides agricultural, botanical, and zoological pieces; coins and medals; weights and measures; musical instruments; architectural models and decorations; arms and accoutrements; besides a large collection of natural products, animal, mineral, and vegetable; and an assortment of manufactures, including pottery and glass, lacquer-ware, leather, silk, embroidery, joiners' work, and many other branches of native industry. Having regard to the value of the collection, and the smallness of the amount for which it may be now acquired—£5,000—we hope that the desirableness of its acquisition will be pressed upon the authorities of the British Museum or similar institutions.

In another column we extract a second article on our policy in China from the Pall Mall Gazette. It does not contain the promised information; it is not a reply to ours of last week; it is simply a laboured apology for Mr. WADE's policy under the disguise of a criticism of Dr. THIN's book. We extract it mainly on account of its authorship, which it requires no supernatural penetration to discover. It is by such plausible arguments of the "how not to do it" school that the official mind often seeks to stem the tide of public opinion; and we should not be surprised if the present article were followed by two or three more in the same channel, and for the especial "edification" of CHUNG HOW, to whom, of course, the Pall Mall will be held up as the acknowledged organ of English sentiment. Until, however, the writer condescends to sketch out the policy which he really recommends, instead of excusing that which public feeling has unanimously condemned, his articles are not likely to lead to any practical result.

THE Bishop of VICTORIA (Hong Kong) once more proceeds to his diocese, after a lengthened absence, which does not seem to have in any way inconvenienced the community of that place, who, we suspect, do not believe in the utility of a bishop at all. We lately informed our readers that Bishop ALFORD and the Church Missionary Society were at issue as to the appointment of another bishop for North China, thus dividing and complicating the duties. We quote in another column a notice of the subject from the Record. We understand that the Rev. Canon BEACH, the Colonial Chaplain at Hong Kong, now at home, has applied for an extension of leave, and that it is very doubtful if he will again take up the post.

WE are glad to notice a great improvement in the intelligibility of the messages from Singapore and Batavia, although we regret to observe that the company have advanced the rates to £6 3s. for Singapore, and £7 5s. for Batavia. These rates are charged by the Indo-European as well as the Submarine Company. It will be some comfort for our China friends to know that no increase in these rates will be demanded for Hong Kong when the cable is laid. With regard to messages to and from the latter place, there is a further difficulty through the Dutch Government refusing to receive "symbol" messages except at the increased rates charged for "cipher" messages. This is a most unaccountable and arbitrary restriction, as the telegraphist has no more labour with "symbol" messages than any other words, being simply ordinary words which the sender and receiver arrange shall stand for certain meanings. A movement is now in progress which it is hoped will induce the Dutch authorities to remove this obstacle.

THE steamer Agnes, belonging to the Telegraph Construction Company, has left Falmouth for Singapore, via Suez Canal, with the first section—about 136 miles—of the Submarine Cable to be laid from Singapore to Hong Kong. She will be followed by the Belgian with 508 miles, the Kangaroo with 582, and the Minia with 406; total, 1,632 miles. The question of laying a link to Saigon is, of course, still undecided, owing to the continuance of the war. In all probability the cable to Hong Kong will be completed early in May.

WE are glad to see that the Lahloo, Captain SMITH, owned by Mr. ALEX. RODGER, of Glasgow, maintains her prestige, and has again made a splendid passage from Foochow, which port she left on the 13th Oct., arriving in the Thames on the 17th instant—96 days. The Leander, Captain PETHERIDGE, belonging to the Merchant Shipping Company, also noted in previous seasons for rapid passages, has not been so fortunate, having left Foochow on the 6th Oct., arriving also on the 17th—103 days.

Now that we have fairly entered upon 1871, we are reminded that the Consular returns for China, Japan, and the Far East for 1869 are not yet published. These returns are looked for with so much interest, and they are sure to contain so much valuable information, that we hope the Foreign-office will not allow any more time than is absolutely necessary to elapse before they are placed in the hands of the public.

THERE is no truth in the statement that a New Japan Loan will shortly be announced, and its origin must be traced to Stock Exchange influences, as the present Loan stands at £104, a point which probably does not suit the "Bears." The interest due on the 1st prox. has been announced, payable by Messrs. Schroeder and Co.

THE first of the steamers contracted for with Messrs. JOHN ELDER and Co., Glasgow, for the new direct line from Holland to Java, via Suez Canal, will be launched about the end of next month, and the service will probably open in May.

THE MISSION OF CHUNG HOW.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—Yesterday's telegrams report H.E. Chung How, the newly-appointed Envoy Extraordinary from China to France, as having arrived at Alexandria, and so, if what you anticipate in the last issue of the London and China Telegraph be correct, before you again go to press the Envoy and suite may be in comfortable quarters in London. This, in my opinion, will be a circumstance to rejoice at, for it marks the opening of a page in the mysterious book of China, which, if carefully attended to, may prove of great advantage in our future intercourse with that country. Unfortunately for the magnate, unfortunately for the cause of progress, the circumstances out of which the mission has been instituted are so painful and incomprehensible, that even the minds of men who have lived long in the country, and given heed to its career, are clouded in regard to the course which we ought to pursue.

Chung How himself comes to us charged, absolutely charged, by the Chambers of Commerce of Shanghai and Hong Kong, with guilty participation in the massacre of a score of Europeans, a dozen of them being helpless inoffensive holy women; but it should not be forgot, in thinking of this, that there is no direct proof in support of their allegation, while the correspondent of The Times, no mean expert at forming a judicial opinion, gives it as his (as quoted by you), that though the prefect and sub-prefect (equivalent to our Lord Mayor and the Recorder) tried to obtain his countenance to the proposed deeds, they failed; and while it is thought he knew of what was going to happen, it is certain he did nothing, even when applied to, to avert the deeds;—though (most marked feature in his favour), when they were done, he was agast with horror, and has not failed since in doing all in his power to alleviate the anguish the massacre has caused.

Desirous of seeing England and the world obtaining all the benefit that may be derived from the intercourse which may result from Chung How's presence here, and satisfied, from what I have said above, that he is hardly likely to find a fair field and reasonable favour until some of the doubts regarding him have been cleared away, permit me, Sir, to say a word or two more on his behalf.

Some weeks ago I wrote to you from Malvern that Tartar officials do not know how to act, and that, whereas they would deal reasonably with Westerns if they could, they are not permitted by a majority of the native-born officers, men of the lowest grade of feeling. Now Chung How happens to be one of these thwarted Tartar officials, and for several years past has been quite popular among foreigners at Tientsin, where he held the office of Taoutai or Superintendent of Customs. As a blood relation of the Emperor, indeed, no mandarin, in or out of the country, has more claims to our esteem on the score of respectability. But to understand the position properly I must refer you to another passage of my letter, in which I pointed out that the native officials are attempting to oust the Manchus from the throne. They will not attempt this openly, they are too cowardly; so they endeavour to gain their end by promoting internecine strife, and by embroiling the Court with foreign Powers. As I have shown, by what we learned from the Tartar Governors at Canton, when we held that city, and countenanced them in their offices as Viceroy and Commander of the Forces, this system of thwarting and cross purposing has been going on in the provinces for years; but it is only lately, since the reduction of the Taeping rebellion by British aid, that the schemes have been seen more distinctly. To such an extent, in short, has the native party obtained an ascendancy over the Manchu, that Prince Kung has to say he is sick, and his principal officers follow his example when they are satisfied they cannot carry out their intentions, an instance of this appearing when Mr. Seward, quondam political leader in the United States, could not obtain the interview Prince Kung had promised him; and it was a remarkable circumstance that both Prince Kung and Wensiang, the Prime Minister, were away altogether from Peking when the Tientsin Massacre occurred. Ay, Sir, if Chung How be guilty of participation in those Tientsin crimes, so also are the Regent and his Tartar colleagues! They knew what was going to be, but they were powerless to avert the acts. Viceroy Ma, at Nanking, was told of what was to happen there, and had he gone out of the way for a time, he might have been alive now. But he would not, and as a reward he was assassinated.

Surely, Sir, I need say no more to show that if Chung How were a participator in the crimes we deplore, he could not help it; and that it will be better for us to put away prejudice and listen patiently to the explanation he has to give, and which avowedly he goes to France to declare.

Who knows but he will make a clean breast of it;—will admit that both he and the Imperial party at Court were aware beforehand of what was going to happen at Tientsin, but had insufficient strength to avert it? Assumed that Chung How does this, the momentous question then follows—What next?

As regards the personale of the Envoy's suite, I notice that Mr. O. Brown's name stands first on the list, next M. Novion, and then M. Imbert—Tehming, the only other Celestial officer, being one of the party that accompanied Mr. Hart to Europe some years ago, and, as a matter of course, a kind of courier to the diplomat. Whether he be Tartar or Chinese is a question it would be well to be advised of. If a Chinese, he should be kept in the back ground, for his presence at an official interview would only be a bar to Chung How, and prevent him from opening his mouth as freely as he would. Mr. O. Brown, perhaps you know, has been in the Customs service, and lately engaged in drilling Chinese troops at Tientsin for Chung How. M. Novion, a Frenchman, was assistant Commissioner of Customs at Chefoo; M. Imbert, also French, is fourth clerk and student Interpreter in the Customs office at Shanghai. The reason for my giving you these apparently trifling details is simply to corroborate my opinion that a very great deal depends on the kind of interpreter we employ to meet the Envoy. Thomas Taylor Meadows, deceased, would have been the man to meet him, for he could converse in Manchurian.—I am, Sir, yours obediently, London, Jan. 13, 1871.

TAU.

FOOCHOW AND FORMOSA.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—The letter of your correspondent, "An Old Resident on the East Coast of China," on the proposed surrender of Formosa, says: "The withdrawal of the British consular establishments from the island of Formosa for reasons of economy induces me to give you a few extracts from opinions formerly expressed by officials and others regarding the expectations about the trade of the port of Foo-chow-Foo, showing that 'to err is but human.'" At one time it was seriously proposed to give up that port for some other, as the Chinese only very reluctantly conceded to the opening of it.

Sir John Davis, in his "China during the War and since the Peace," Vol. II. page 50, says, in speaking of the Treaty Ports, "That of Foo-chow-Foo had not yet been opened, but in June, 1844, Mr. T. Lay was despatched as Consul to that city, with such a limited establishment as the yet untried and not very promising features of the place seemed to warrant." And further on, at page 73—"The Consul (1845, at that time the most able of our Consuls) stated that the mandarins, whether they thought so or not, spoke despairingly of Foo-chow-Foo as a mart for foreigners." True, the Consul gave only the opinions of the mandarins, not his own—good diplomacy. After speaking of the timber trade carried on, Sir John says:—"The sugar is of a fine quality, and cheap, but it comes from Formosa."

Mr. Consul Jackson, in his report of Jan. 18, 1847, on the prospect of British trade at that port, said:—"Direct payment in coin to any great amount is out of the question. The only article which can command it is opium, of which the consumption is considerable. About 1,400 to 1,500 chests are annually disposed of, and specie is drained from all quarters to pay for it."

The barter of black tea would appear to offer the only solid basis whereon to establish a permanent British trade at this port. It has been shown, by inquiries made among the tea-growers in the Bohea districts, particulars of which are contained in Mr. Alcock's despatch to your Excellency, No. 35 of 1845, that this article (the most important staple of the province, and the only one which we could take in exchange, the others consisting principally of spars, bamboo, bamboo roots, and dried fruits) can be put down in Foochow at 20 and even 25 per cent. less than at Canton."

Before the Select Committee on Commercial Relations with China, 1847, the Rev. G. Smith, in answer to a question from Mr. Hawes (2844), said that Foo-chow-Foo was the most populous and the most important city of any of the northern four ports, but "it is not a place of very great trade, I should think. The number of junks there is not half what it is at Amoy."

On the 3rd June, 1847, the late Mr. G. T. Braine, in answer to Sir G. S. Staunton's inquiry, if he had any expectation that it (Foo-chow-Foo) would be a source of commercial advantage to us, said, "No, I was always of opinion, from what I saw of Foo-chow-Foo, that it would not be a place of very large foreign trade;" and when asked if it had advantages from being near the Bohea country, answered, for particular descriptions of tea it has geographical advantages, but those are descriptions of tea which are gradually going out of use in England—what are termed the Anko kinds of tea. For most kinds of tea I believe it is not so advantageously situated as Shanghai and Canton (4793). In answer to the following questions, 4794, he said:—"I apprehend that you never can extend trade in manufactures there except by the export of tea, for they have very little bullion there; their principal circulation is paper." &c. Mr. Braine concluded his evidence on the Treaty Ports with saying he thought the trade would be mainly divided between Canton and Shanghai, and that the other ports would be a mere insignificant percentage of the whole amount. These were the opinions of the officials, the learned, and the merchant—all three considered high authorities.

Now as to the result. In the year 1845 the import trade in five British vessels amounted to $346,308, and the export to $328,608, together $674,916; whilst the Americans had a trade of only $58,992 as imports and exports, making the whole amount of foreign trade in that year Tls. 554,892, in the year 1863 to Tls. 20,674,486, whilst the average of the last four years, 1866-69, was Tls. 22,177,116 per annum, viz.:

Import of foreign goods in foreign vessels	...	Tls. 4,099,279
Import of Chinese goods in foreign vessels	...	" 2,977,714½
Export of Chinese goods in foreign vessels	...	" 15,100,122½

The foreign trade of Formosa, during the same period, was of an annual average of Tls. 2,718,130, of which the value of imported foreign goods was Tls. 1,376,649 and the exported Tls. 1,060,672.

If time is given, Formosa, with its natural resources, "at present dormant, but known to be vast in extent," will have as progressively increasing a trade, as has been the case generally in new ports in China. It may be that Sir Rutherford Alcock takes into account only the trade carried on in British vessels, of which in 1866 only 4,354 tons were British, out of a total of 24,156 frequenting the port of Takow; but it leads to great mistakes if we estimate the national interest in the trade only by the flag that covers the cargo; we must look either to the source or destination of the cargoes, and even both of them may be foreign, yet still the interest of the venture may be British, or vice versa. The rumour of Germany's intention of occupying Formosa I thought had died away as quickly as it originated; as yet China has not given cause to Germany to "annex," and I am sure no desire exists in that quarter for doing so. Should the British consuls be withdrawn, which I, for one, consider bad policy, no doubt some of the other Treaty Powers will, by the appointment of Consuls, keep the ports open to trade, and as German shipping has been, and no doubt will again be, largely engaged in that trade, it would, of course, next to Britain, be the duty of the "Reich" to appoint such functionaries.

The only reason given for the proposed withdrawal of the Consul is to reduce the expenditure of the Consular establishment in China, an object which might be effected in more rational ways. A year or a few years' apparent saving now will surely cause a future greater expenditure, as has been the case already more than once in China.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

Hamburg, Jan. 7.

THE NEW CHINESE EMBASSY.

(THE GLOBE.)

In dealing with European nations China possesses two advantages, which must ever ensure for her a patient hearing in all questions in dispute. First, half the globe separates her from Europe; and secondly, she is the possessor of infinite wealth, in pursuit of which each Treaty Power is doing its utmost to outbid the others. Chinese statesmen fully appreciate the value of these safeguards. They recognise the growing disinclination on the part of European Governments to the idea of sending warlike expeditions to such a distant part of the world, and they have proved by experience what pacifying effects may be produced on the most impetuous foreign Cabinets by judiciously holding out to them expectations of the opening of a new port, or that the prohibition against the use of steamers on the inland waters may possibly be annulled. The golden bait thus constantly displayed before their eyes, but never allowed to reach their gaping mouths, has over and over again proved itself too much for the greedy Governments, the representatives of still greedier merchants. They have submitted to alights, they have accepted manifestly insufficient apologies for injuries received; they have foregone treaty rights, and all to what purpose?—to confirm the Chinese in the belief that we are grasping adventurers, and endowed with wisdom in inverse ratio to our greed. What have been the results of our wars with China? Instead of insisting on such international rights as would place ourselves on a footing of equality with that country, upon which such commercial advantages as may be justly demanded would of necessity follow, we have agreed to forego all such things, and to accept in exchange the boons granted us of a few more ports at which to trade, or a revision of the transit dues. After all, however, the advantages gained by our wars, though only of a sordid nature, have yet been distinct advantages; but what has been gained by diplomacy in times of peace? Nothing, and worse than nothing. The only time when there was an opportunity and a disposition to urge peaceably on the Chinese Government the advisability of granting increased facilities for trade, namely, when the time arrived for the revision of the foreign Treaties, they drew us from our purpose by the exhibition of a fresh and more glittering bait than had ever before been presented to our lustful eyes. They sent home Mr. Burlingame with instructions to speak hopefully, in case all ideas of immediate progress were abandoned, of the speedy introduction of railways into China, of the general opening of coal-mines to foreign enterprise; and they caught the religious world by promising that, if but time were allowed them, "the shining cross" should be planted on every hill. With such alluring baits what could his mission be but a triumph? One after another the Western Governments vied with each other in giving in their adhesion to his programme. The American Government first fell into the trap, granted all that they were asked, and despatched a new ambassador to Peking accompanied by a band of engineers and scientific men, in the vain hope that the Chinese were serious in their professed intentions of opening up the country to foreign enterprise. Our own Government was the next victim, and railway companies were talked of in London which were to cross "the land of Ham" in fifty directions. The Prussian and Russian Governments, being less easily deceived by vain imaginings, held back somewhat, but still expressed themselves contented to wait and see what China would really do. And what has she done? If we are to believe the verdicts on this point given by both Sir Rutherford Alcock and Mr. Brown, the late American Minister at Peking, she has, instead of showing a disposition towards progress, displayed unmistakable signs of a desire to curtail the rights at present assured to us by treaty. The abortive convention negotiated by Sir Rutherford Alcock is sufficient evidence of the delusiveness of the hopes held out of increased commercial advantages, and the massacre of missionaries at Tientsin is a parallel commentary on the promised wholesale introduction of Christianity.

But the traditional line of policy hitherto pursued by Western Governments towards China has been too long and servilely followed to be easily abandoned. Notwithstanding that time after time we have been deceived by vain promises and specious excuses, we are now as ready as ever to abate our just demands, in the hope that some gently hinted at advantages to accrue to us for our moderation will be realised. Our Government, in common with the other leading Governments of Europe, are now once more about to be put to the test. The Peking Cabinet having failed to satisfy the demands of foreign ambassadors arising out of the massacre at Tientsin, have despatched an envoy to make, as M. de Rochechouart expresses it, "what terms he can for himself and his Government" with France and the other outraged Treaty Powers. A very slight study of the policy hitherto pursued by China, will enable any one to form a fairly accurate idea of the sort of terms Chung How has been authorised to propose. Great regret will be expressed for the past, all discussion of immediate indemnifying measures will be avoided, and the old story of the prospective advantages to be returned for our present abnegation will be again rehearsed. When is this state of things to end? If the European Governments would only on this occasion allow wider political considerations to overcome their desire for gain, and, instead of lavishing courtly favours on the Envoy in exchange for vague promises never to be fulfilled, would cause him to be received only by the same class of officials as those with whom the foreign Ministers are obliged to communicate, and would insist as a proof of the friendly protestations he will be charged to deliver that the Emperor should give up all pretensions to superiority over Western Sovereigns by receiving their ambassadors, they would best be consulting both their own dignity and the true interests of all concerned.

THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

The New York Times, writing on the satisfaction accorded for the Tientsin affair, says:—"We can scarcely wonder that our countrymen and foreigners generally in China are getting somewhat impatient under the do-nothing policy which has characterised the conduct of their official representatives since the Tientsin massacre. Their anticipations of further trouble have been amply verified. The so-called 'satisfaction' exacted by the French Minister, M. de Rochechouart, amounts to this: Sixteen (some say fifteen) Chinese coolies were condemned to be executed on Friday, the 14th October last. On the Monday preceding their execution it was discovered that five hundred taels ($714) had been given by the Government to the family of each criminal, that costly silk robes had been furnished to the criminals themselves in which to suffer the extreme penalty, and that, finally, that acme of Chinese desires—a magnificent coffin—had also been provided for each body, in which it was to be handed to friends for interment in the usual burial-ground. But a very slight acquaintance with the conditions under which sentence of death is usually carried out in China is needed to make it evident that the course pursued by the Chinese authorities was prompted by deliberate bad faith. The ordinary criminal is deprived of all goods, chattels and money whatsoever; his relatives are, by law, reduced to abject beggary; his body is deprived of the rights of burial, and his head is exposed, a ghastly object, on the public highways, as a warning to other evil-doers. These 'coolies,' as our China correspondence designated them, had been condemned for murdering, outraging, and torturing not only men, but helpless foreign women. Yet the 'progressive,' 'unbigoted' Government of China inflicted on them a punishment lighter in native eyes than that inflicted on a common thief. The legitimate result of this action by the Peking authorities now appears. Further outrages have occurred, and, in one case at least, can be traced directly to the encouragement given to the murderous vagabonds of Tientsin."

Monetary and Commercial.

Mr. Andrew Cassels (late partner of Messrs. John Peel, and Co., Manchester, and of Messrs. Peel, Cassels, and Co., Bombay) has joined the Board of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China, in the place of Mr. John Allan, who has resigned, on account of ill health.

At the meeting of the Union Bank of London, Mr. Northall Laurie in the chair, the available total was stated at £120,125, and a dividend for the half-year was declared at the rate of 15 per cent. per annum, which will absorb £90,000, and leave £30,125 to be carried forward. The dividend was the same at the corresponding date of last year, and £24,269 was then carried forward. The deposits held are £11,207,634—an increase of £281,732 on the corresponding date of last year; and the liabilities on acceptances are £4,205,591—a decrease of £767,114.

At the meeting of the East and West India Dock Company, a dividend was declared for the half-year of 3 per cent., free of income-tax, making a total distribution of 6 per cent. for the twelve months. During the past year 2,002 loaded ships, representing 750,041 tonnage, entered the docks, against 1,955 ships, representing 660,071 tonnage, in 1869, showing an increase of 47 ships, and 89,970 tonnage. The increase has been chiefly from the East and West Indies, Australia, and New Zealand. There has been a slight reduction in the gross quantities of goods warehoused with the company, principally in the articles of tea and sugar. The export business still continues to maintain a favourable position.

Notice has been given that during the temporary interruption of the Lisbon-Gibraltar section of the Falmouth Company's cable, all messages for Egypt, India, Penang, Singapore, Java, China, and Japan should be directed "via Holland and Malta." The Associated Companies for direct communication between Great Britain, Portugal, Spain, Gibraltar, Malta, Egypt, India, China, &c., have issued a revised tariff for telegrams from the 15th inst.

The dividends of several joint-stock banks are announced. The Consolidated has an available total of £37,787, including a previous balance of £6,120, and the dividend will be at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, which will absorb £28,000, and leave, after adding £4,250 to the reserve fund, the sum of £5,537 to be carried forward. The Imperial has for division an available total of £17,177, including a previous balance of £3,543, and the dividend will be at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, which will absorb £13,500, leaving £3,677 to be carried forward. The available total of the Midland Banking Company (Limited) is £11,914, and the dividend will be at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, which will absorb £4,776; £6,000 is to be appropriated to the extinction of the "purchase of business account," leaving £1,138 to be carried forward.

The traffic receipts of the Falmouth, Gibraltar and Malta Telegraph Company (Limited), for the past three months, were as follows:—October, £7,689 16s. 8d.; November, £8,333 9s. 8d.; December, £4,641 15s. 11d.

The British Indian Submarine Telegraph Company (Limited) are informed that a further reduction of three-halfpence per ton has been made on the harbour dues at Aden. Vessels calling merely to deliver telegrams are not subjected to any harbour dues. The paid-up capital is £1,200,000, and the reserve fund invested in Consols is £300,000.

The suspension has been announced of Messrs. Liebert and Rogerson, East India and China merchants, of London and Manchester, with liabilities direct and indirect of about £250,000 to £300,000, the amount on which the firm are primarily responsible being only about £30,000. The house was established as recently as 1867. Annexed is the circular issued:—

"London and Manchester, Jan. 10.

"We beg to inform you that, owing to the death of Mr. James Rogerson and other unforeseen circumstances, we are compelled, in the interests of our creditors, to liquidate the business.

"With the concurrence of the executors of the late Mr. Rogerson, we have handed our books to Mr. J. W. Kealy, accountant, of 45, Cornhill, London, for the purpose of preparing a statement of our affairs, which will be laid before you without delay.

"Meantime we crave your indulgence,—and remain, yours faithfully,
"LIEBERT AND ROGERSON."

In reference to the above the Manchester Courier says:—"In this case the liquidation has not occurred through any absence of soundness, but from the necessity of repaying immediately the sum of £20,000 that had been advanced to the firm by the late Mr. Rogerson. We hear that the estate shows above 20s. in the pound, and the creditors will not have to wait any length of time for the realisation of their claims, whilst probably the pause in their business may only be temporary." It has throughout been considered, if not understood, that the firm will pay in full. The prompt action of the remaining partners upon the death of their senior reflects the highest credit upon them as practical men of business desirous of maintaining an honourable name.

The directors of the City Bank have resolved to declare a dividend at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, and to add £5,000 to the reserve fund, which will then stand at £100,000. The dividend and the addition to the reserve were of the same amount at the corresponding date of last year.

The directors of the London and Provincial Marine Insurance Company recommend a dividend for the half-year at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum.

The Ocean Marine Insurance Company will recommend at the meeting of the 30th inst. the payment of 5s. per share by way of additional interest, and a bonus of 5s. per share.

The British and Foreign Marine Insurance Company (Limited), Liverpool, recommend a dividend for the half-year of 4s. per share, being at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, together with a bonus of 6s. per share, making, with the interim dividend paid in July last of 4s. per share, a distribution of 17½ per cent. for the year, carrying £35,000 to the reserve fund.

The directors of the Assam Company have notified their intention to declare an interim dividend of £5 per cent.

Telegrams from Ismailia state that the receipts of the Suez Canal during December last amounted to £32,000, composed as follows:—Transit of 69 vessels, about £760,000; ditto small craft, £20,000; ditto merchandise, £20,000; total, £800,000—being £12,000 in excess of the receipts of the preceding month, and the heaviest return for the year. The work of deepening the Canal has been going on without interruption, and it is further stated that, notwithstanding the large dimensions of most of the ships, not the slightest accident has occurred and not a single case of grounding.

Mr. Ryle Holme has joined Mr. Henry Gribble, of Nagasaki, who established a firm in that port on the failure of Messrs. Glover and Co.

We understand that a further dividend of 1s. in the pound will be paid on the 16th inst. to the creditors of Messrs. Scott, Bell, and Co.

TEA.

The market has been steady, but without much activity. Siftings, broken-leaf, and fair to good common, have been dull of sale at about previous prices. Fair to good Kaisows have been sold at former rates; good and fine show no change. Paklin kinds and Amoyes remain in limited request. Black-leaf kinds, common to good common, have been less saleable at rather lower prices; fair to good medium, from recent arrivals, have sold about 1d. per lb. lower; good to fine remain firm, as also finest. New-make Canton kinds are steady; Oolongas show no alteration. Souchongs have been difficult of sale, and must be quoted 1d. to 2d. per lb. lower. Flowery Pekoes remain firm. Scented Teas show no alteration in the absence of fresh arrivals. In Un-coloured Japans there is no alteration. Green Teas have been without change; some Moyune kinds have sold privately and at public auction at previous prices. The public sales of China Tea on the 3rd and 9th inst. comprised 5,668 packages, all without reserve.

Messrs. Shepard, Harrison, Reiden, and Co. report:—The market has opened with a good healthy demand for all medium and better class Congous, chiefly second crop Oopacks and Ningchows, at 1s. 4d. to 1s. 7½d. per lb., also for useful to strong red-leaf Kaisow kinds, which were rather pressed to sale a fortnight since. Common Congou rules at 11d. to 1s.; Oonam kinds (Shantam district) show an easing tendency, late imports from Shanghai including a large proportion of this class; sales range from 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 2½d. per lb., a few parcels inferior making only 11½d. to 1s. 0½d. per lb. There is nothing to report in other descriptions of Tea.

Messrs. Percival and Co.'s Circular says:—Looking at the position of stocks, and the quantity afloat as compared with same date in previous years, we have every hope of a good and satisfactory result of business in the one we have just entered on; already buyers are showing a disposition, coupled with confidence, to increase their holdings, especially of medium and fine Congous, which threaten to become scarce before similar grades of new season's crop can arrive.

SILK.

There has been no alteration in the market since the commencement of the year; if anything, prices are a little firmer. In China silk transactions have been on a moderate scale, but in Cantons there is a very large business doing. Japan Silk is entirely neglected, excepting for coarse descriptions, a few parcels of which have been sold at comparatively high prices. Deliveries 1st to 11th inst., China, inclusive: 359 bales; Canton, 258 bales; Japan, 57 bales. Total, 1174 bales.

COFFEE.

There has been but a moderate demand for Plantation Ceylon since the re-opening of the market, but only a moderate supply having been placed on offer, prices show no decline upon the previously ruling range. The demand for Native has been active, and an advance in price has been obtained. The transactions for want of supply on the spot have been chiefly for arrival. The sales comprise:—On the spot, 936 casks 235 tierces and barrels 365 bags Plantation Ceylon, low middling to good middling bold greyish and palish, 58s. to 66s.; and 10 casks Native Ceylon, fine ordinary, 54s., peaberry, 57s. 6d.; 320 bags Singapore, good ordinary palish rather mixed, 50s. 6d.; bold even palish Bonthynce, 58s. to 63s. 6d. For arrival, 5,000 bags Native Ceylon have been sold at 53s. 6d. to 54s. 6d. without, and 55s. 6d. with guarantee of quality.

SUGAR.

During the past week the market has become quite excited, and prices have rapidly advanced, very extensive sales being effected, particularly of common brown qualities, which have been taken largely by speculators. The movement is due chiefly to the large demand for Refined for export. The transactions comprise 800 bags and 300 baskets Penang, low brown date, 19s.; common brown to middling yellow, 26s. to 30s.; 16,000 bags low brown Java sirops at 19s. 3d. to 19s. 6d.; and 186,000 bags Manila, Taal, and Zebu at 22s., Pangasinan at 27s. 6d. to 29s., common brown at 23s. 6d. to 25s. 6d., clayed, duty 4s. to 24s. 6d. to 26s. 6d., duty 4s. 9d. at 28s. per cwt. Afloat, a cargo of Manila (Taal) has been taken at 22s., landed, per cwt.

CUTCH.—There has been but little inquiry, and the business is confined to small sales of fine Pegu, at 22s. per cwt. 169 boxes Pegu Pagoda mark at auction were bought in at 23s.

COCOA NUT OIL.—Business is greatly restricted by the interruption of Continental traffic through the frost; the price of Ceylon, however, remains steady at £38 10s.

CANES.—In auction 29,900 Doghead were sold at $\frac{1}{4}$ d. to $\frac{3}{4}$ d., and 10,000 Whanghee at $\frac{1}{4}$ d. per cane.

CAMPOR.—No transactions in China or Japan.

CHINA GRASS.—The market is steady, 152 bales have been sold at £52 per ton. An arrival is reported of 240 bales, per Wild Deer.

GAMBIER.—There is scarcely any demand; offers amounting to 852 bales in public sale were bought in at 15s. 6d. to 15s. 9d. per cwt. In dock 150 bales have been sold at 15s. 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. ex ship.

ISINGLASS.—At auction, 5 cases Penang tongue were offered, and bought in at 2s. 8d.

JAPAN WAX.—The market is very dull; 100 boxes good saucers at public sale, were bought in at 74s. per cwt.

MANILA HEMP.—There is only a moderate enquiry but no pressure to sell is being manifested, and prices are well sustained; about 500 bales have been sold part on the spot at £43 for brown and £55 for Sorsagon, and part for arrival upon terms which have not been made public.

MOTHER O'PEARL SHELLS.—Continental business being considerably depressed by the war, trade in this article is upon a very limited scale, and quotations for all qualities, especially Macassar, are quite nominal. Both this description and Manila are high in price, and of the latter there are increased supplies afloat, 1,230 tons, which may unfavourably influence value. No auctions have taken place.

PRESERVES.—At public sale 150 cases China Ginger sold at 7 $\frac{1}{4}$ d., a few 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ d., 20 casks at 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 7d., 50 cases Chow Chow at 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ d., and 20 cases Comquats at 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.

PEPPER.—Black: The market is steady, with a moderate demand for Penang and Singapore at firm rates. On the spot about 3,500 bags have been sold, Penang at 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.; Singapore at 6d.; for arrival 700 bags Penang at 5 5-16d. to 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per lb. White is in good request; about 1,500 bags have been sold, Penang at 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 6 $\frac{3}{4}$ d., and Singapore at 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 7d. per lb.; for arrival, 7d. has been paid for the latter.

PLUMBAGO.—The market for Ceylon is firm, with an improving tendency; at public sale 125 barrels realised 17s. to 21s. 6d. for medium to fair lump, and 8s. to 9s. 9d. for dust.

RICE.—The principal feature in the market has been some large purchases of soft grain, spring shipment, estimated at 25,000 tons, Continental terms, at 10s. to 10s. 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. On the spot there is only a limited demand, and sales have been made on easier terms, viz., 11,000 mats field Siam at 8s. 6d., 400 bags do. at 8s. 9d., 21,000 bags Neeransie and Rangoon at 9s. to 9s. 6d. for first-class damaged, and 9s. ex quay for sound, 600 bags Madras at 9s. 4d., and 7,000 bags Bengal, Casla 7s. 9d., Ballam 9s. 6d. (quay terms), common white 9s. 6d. per cwt.; afloat a cargo of 563 tons Bassein at 10s. 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ d., one of 800 tons Rangoon at 9s. 9d., and 400 tons white Bengal at 10s. 3d. per cwt.

RHUBARB.—The market for China is in an unsatisfactory position, with heavy arrivals, slack demand, and no speculation. The stock of good and fine root is very moderate, nearly all in warehouse consisting of low and middling qualities, ranging from 2d. to 10d. and 1s. to 2s. per lb. With any demand from America or the Continent it is believed that prices for this sort would advance 1s. or 2s. per lb. The mixed and inferior descriptions are in superabundant supply.

SPICES.—There has been but little business doing. Cinnamon: Of 96 bales Ceylon offered only 20 bales sold, first sort 2s. 10d., second and third 2s. 4d. to 2s. 6d., fourth 2s., the remainder bought in, mixed quality at 1s. 6d. to 2s., middling third to first 2s. 7d. to 3s. Cassia: 69 cases Japan were offered and bought in at 45s. Buds: 68 cases of fresh import were bought in at £9 10s. Cloves: 45 cases Padang were bought in at 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. Nutmegs: 12 cases Panang sold, 75s at 2s. 9d., 81s at 2s. 7d., 83s at 2s. 6d., 2 casks wormy at 6d. Mace: Of 3 cases Penang offered 1 case good middling sold at 3s. 8d.

SAGO.—The demand is limited; at auction of 880 bags large pearl only 150 bags sold, at 19s. to 19s. 6d., at which the remainder was bought in; also 240 bags small pearl, at 16s. 6d. to 17s.

STAR ANISEEDS.—At auction an offer of 50 cases China was bought in at £6.

TAPIOCA.—At the public sales on the 11th a good supply of Eastern descriptions met a fair demand, and was chiefly sold at previous rates; 126 boxes 947 bags Singapore mostly sold, Malacca kind 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 1 $\frac{3}{4}$ d., fine white Rio kind 2 $\frac{1}{4}$ d., a few lots 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.; 750 bags middling dull Penang sold at 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 1 $\frac{3}{4}$ d., chiefly the latter price. Pearl: Supplies amounting to 750 bags 237 boxes were offered, of which 250 bags 237 boxes sold at easy rates, fair small 18s., fine ditto 19s., a few lots 19s. 6d., extra large but dull 17s. 9d. Flour: 225 bags Penang were withdrawn; 100 bag Singapore sold at 2d. to 2 $\frac{1}{4}$ d.

TIN.—The demand is active, and the market firm; Straits on the spot has been sold at £135, to arrive by steamer at £133 to £134, and January shipment at £132; also 300 slabs of Banca on the spot at £135.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

—O—

TEA.

There is no change in the market which continues to present a very strong appearance, the firmness being more noticeable in Black descriptions, for which there is a good demand, but holders evince very little disposition to operate, except at advanced rates. Green and Japan are in fair request at previous quotations.

SILK.

The following is from Mr. O'Donoghue's report:—The market still retains the position of inactivity noted in my last circular. Deliveries have been strictly measured by the immediate wants of the Throwsters; there is, however, no disposition on the part of holders to press sales, and prices for all silks which have been in favour are firm. This may be attributed in part to the continued steadiness of prices in China, and also to the comparative paucity of the supply of such silks in our own market. Usual reel Taalee and Tayseen, notwithstanding the low figures at which they are being offered, continue to remain neglected. Re-reeled Haineen and Taalee have been in fair demand, and have brought full prices. Re-reeled Canton, after the speculative movements recorded in my last, assumed a quieter tone; the deliveries lately have been of the inferior grades, and in small quantities. Japans still remain neglected.

There is a general anticipation that a sound and vigorous trade will follow the opening of the new year; our manufacturers are bringing to bear upon the business, particularly the making of piece goods, an increasing energy and skill, and the favour with which these goods have been received seems to substantiate the hope that this hitherto comparatively small branch of our industry may before long become one of great extent and value.

COFFEE.—The current quotations for East India kinds are Java Government bags 20c. to 22c.; Java mats, 20 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. to 21c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. to 19c. The market for Brazil is well supported, there being a fair demand and a not superabundant supply. In East India kinds the business done has not been important, though Java is attracting more attention than when we last reported. The sales have been 13,766 mats Java, ex Ida, and 500 mats from second hands at the rates quoted above, in addition to which the cargo of 10,821 mats, per Kingdom of Belgium, is reported to have been disposed of on private terms.

CAMPOR.—China is quoted 17c. gold (in bond).
ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.20; Cassia, $1.25 gold (in bond).

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 3 60-100c. to 3 65-100c. gold (duty paid).

HEMP.—The market for Manila continues to present a dull aspect, and the business since our last report has been comprised in the sale of 900 bales at prices not reported. The nominal ruling rates are 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. to 12 $\frac{3}{4}$ c. gold.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $7.50 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is $1.18 to $2 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—The market generally is inactive, and there has not been a single transaction in East India since our last report.

SUGAR.—There have been no sales of East India descriptions.

SPICES.—The movement in Nutmegs referred to in our last report was much larger than was then reported. In addition to the sales we noticed, some 2,500 cases were taken, on the spot and to arrive, on private terms. The market since has been quiet for most descriptions, Pepper being the only kind which has shown much activity. Prices for goods in bond are very firm, with an upward tendency on Nutmegs and Pepper. The general impression is that stocks in the interior are drawn down very close, and after the New Year there will be an active demand to replenish them. The business in goods in bond, or duty paid, delivered after 1st Jan., includes 50 to 60 cases Nutmegs, at 80c. to 82c.; 15 to 20 do. Mace, \$1.15; 1,200 to 1,400 mats Cassia, 30 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. to 37c.; 2,200 bags Pepper, 16c. to 16 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; and 300 bales Cloves, 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.

TIN.—The current quotations are—Straits, 32 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. to 33c.; Banca, 37 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. to 38c. gold. There has been a fair amount of business doing in Straits during the fortnight, the sales amounting to about 2,000 slabs, at the above quoted prices.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—DISCOMFORT.—Nothing tries human patience more severely than the incapacity for exertion. Pain many bear with fortitude, few can endure the weariness attending debility without complaint. This weakness commonly depends on a disordered digestion, and may be readily rectified by early resorting to Holloway's remedies, both of which act energetically, yet most safely, on the stomach and liver.

The Pills, dissolving in the stomach, act immediately on its secretions; the Ointment penetrates to all internal organs, tending always to restore their natural functions.

A short trial of these medicines will convince the most sceptical. Relief soon follows their use, and the continuance of them for a time in most cases effects a permanent cure.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

Dates from this port extend to the 4th Dec. The outward mail of Oct. 7 had arrived. There is nothing of any importance to add to our last. At Osaka the Mint is nearly completed, and is a remarkably handsome and solid freestone building, the first of its class ever built in Japan. The machinery will soon be in complete working order, but it is hazardous to say when it will commence work. The lighthouses are being pushed forward with all the speed possible, and they are of a quality as to construction and lights that would do credit to any country. Altogether there will be eighteen lights on the Japanese coast, two being lightships. Three of the lighthouses are under the superintendence of a French engineer, M. Verny, Chief of the Arsenal at Yokohama; the remainder under Mr. Brunton, engaged for the Government of Japan by H.B.M. Government for this particular work, but who, since his arrival in Japan has done the community and Government good service in a variety of ways in which his engineering skill could be useful. It is under his advice and supervision that the settlement of Yokohama is being drained and the streets made. He has also presented a scheme for lighting the settlement, which the Government have professed themselves willing to carry out so far as the provision of lamp-posts is concerned.

Sir Harry Parkes is absent on an official visit to Kobe and Osaka. He also takes advantage of an invitation from one of the nobles in the district to take a trip into the country from Osaka, and is or has been staying with Lady Parkes at Wakin-yama in Kishiu.

H.E. M. De Long, U. S. Minister, has recently paid a visit to the Inland Sea ports.

NAGASAKI.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NAGASAKI, Dec. 3, 1870.

My last, on the 16th ult., was forwarded via San Francisco. This morning the Pacific mail steamer Costa Rica arrived from Shanghai, bringing a portion of the English and French mails of Sept. 30 and Oct. 7, and the balance may be looked for by the steamer Tszru, expected here on the 6th inst.

Of general news there is a great dearth at the present time. A meeting of land renters took place here on the 2nd inst. at the Club, to consider what steps they ought to adopt to endeavour to get the Japanese Government to reduce the ground rent on the lots, which has been found to be so heavy as to seriously affect the value of house property now that extreme depression of trade exists. All the principal renters were present or represented, and all those who were absent promised to support any resolutions the meeting might arrive at by signing a memorial to the representatives of the Treaty Powers. A letter addressed to the Consuls was submitted to the meeting, which they considered fully embodied their views, and it was signed by all the persons present, and then handed to the Municipal Secretary to get it signed by the remainder of the land renters. In course of the proceedings it was stated that from 1861 to 1870 (both years included) the sum of $147,000 has been paid to the Japanese Government for the rent of bare ground only; the average of the past seven years is $17,150 (about) per annum, which is a very considerable sum when the size of the settlement is considered. It was proposed that front lots should be reduced to one-half, and rear lots and the hill or bungalow ones to one-third of the present rent.

The movements of vessels of war have been almost confined to departures, viz. H. B. M. steamer Salamis, for Amoy (via Shanghai), 18th ulto.; Ocean, for Amoy direct, 19th ulto.; Russian Boyarin, for San Francisco, 20th ulto.; Haydamack, for Hong Kong, 22nd ulto.; Almaz, bearing the pendant of Commodore Pilkin, for Yokohama, 27th ulto. The arrivals have been H. B. M. gunboat Leven, from Shanghai, 23rd Nov., and left for Hiogo on 25th idem; H. B. M. gunboat Elk, 22nd Nov., from Chefoo, and French gunboat Aspic, from Shanghai, 1st Dec., both remained in port. Freight to London, per Rollo, has been raised from £2 15s. to £3 per ton. Nebus 395 in the native town when buying $400 to $403 in transactions between foreigners. Exchange on London, 4s. 5d. to 4s. 6d., quite nominal.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Dates extend to Dec. 6. The outward mail of Oct. 21 was daily expected. Telegrams via Kiachta reached to Nov. 8.

The following summary is from the North China Herald of Dec. 6:—

The members of the St. Andrew's Society and their friends sat down, to the number of between forty and fifty, and passed a very pleasant evening, under the presidency of Mr. Fullarton Henderson, with Mr. A. Campbell as croupier. The walls of the club dining-hall were adorned for the occasion with various loyal and emblematic banners, the centre attraction, at the head of the room, being an illumined transparency, representing the worthy saint in the free drapery of the period. The national thistle was suggested by a specimen of the genus totally devoid of the characteristic "stob," which induced the imprecations of the annoyed Dane and saved the Scottish camp. Gorgeously mounted ramshorn snuff-mulls were added to the adornments of the table, and from their recesses ministered to the wants of those who favoured that pungent luxury. In the dinner carte such national dishes as "cockaleekie" and "haggis" retained their place of honour, and received the attention their undoubted excellence merited.

The second day of the S. Y. C. Regatta was on the 30th November, and produced some fine sport. Two races were run, one for yachts, which was won by the Phantom; another for ships' sailing boats, which was won easily by a cutter belonging to the Police Hulk. A race between the boats of the Monocacy and Colorado also came off at Woosung on Friday. The latter kept the lead throughout, and won in 44m. 20s., the Monocacy's cutter coming in 7m. later.

The North-Saddle Island lighthouse, which was lighted up on the 1st November, is by far the most powerful light in China. The North-Saddle Island, some eighty-three nautical miles distant from Shanghai, is well known to shipmasters frequenting this port, as it is generally in that neighbourhood they fall in with the pilots; and many steamers also round the Saddles in preference to taking the shorter though more intricate navigation past Gutzlaff, where a fixed light was so successfully installed last year. This light will be of utility to all vessels navigating the Senhouse Island Pass, as also to those adopting the more northerly course. The Saddle peak is nearly 800 feet high, which is too great an elevation for a catadioptric light, and occasionally for days together it is obscured by fog. A suitable site was chosen on a long narrow ridge on the northern extremity of the island, some 250 feet high. This, after some cutting down, afforded sufficient area for the light-keeper's dwellings. Each light-keeper has a sleeping apartment 16 feet by 14 feet and 10 feet high, provided with a speaking tube communicating with the light-room. There is a general mess-room, store-room, and engineer's room. The whole of the works have been constructed from the designs and under the superintendence of the chief coastlights' engineer, Mr. D. M. Henderson, C.E., who has been for the last two months at the North Saddle, completing the buildings and erecting the lantern and light. The height of the focal plane is 273 feet above high water of spring tides, so that in clear weather the light should be visible twenty-three and a-half nautical miles. The light is not obscured on any bearing in the lantern, but the False Saddle forms the eastern limit, whilst Elliott Islands form the western one. This light has been seen from the Barren Islands and Gutzlaff with great brilliancy, and some pilots report that it has been seen thirty miles.

Judgment was given on the 30th November in the case of the Borneo Company, Limited, v. Ts'ae-kwei-p'ei, alias Chow Kwei Poo, and his securities. The claim was for Tls. 15,000, being money belonging to the plaintiff's and unaccounted for by the defendant, the plaintiff's comradore.

Ts'ae-kwei-p'ei having unlawfully abstracted his master's money, it is meet and right that such sum should be recovered from him. As, however, the manager of the Borneo Company has detained the pledge-note for the fire-arms, it seems to the Court that he is to be looked upon as the present pledgee.

Ts'ae-kwei-p'ei having petitioned the Court to allow him a limited period within which to repay the amount, the Court now decrees that he shall repay the amount within a period of one month from the present date. Should the said defendant fail so to do at the time appointed, the securities, Kin-tze-kwei, Sen-kan-ting, and Hwang-e-kwei, will be called upon to pay the said amount in equal proportions, in accordance with the tenor of the security paper. The muskets ought to be handed over to the charge of the securities. Ts'ae-kwei-p'ei will still be kept in confinement, Ho-yuen-kwei (the pledger of the muskets) and the securities, Hwang-e-kwei and the others, must provide trustworthy security. The security paper handed in by the Borneo Company is held in the hands of the Court, for consideration.

The agents of the British barque Ellon Castle have published a letter thanking the commander and crew of H.M. gunboat Grasshopper for the valuable assistance they rendered on the occasion of her wreck. The Ellon Castle was wrecked on the bar of Newchwang on the 18th Nov., and was almost immediately boarded by some 400 pirates. There is no doubt that had it not been for the prompt assistance rendered from the Grasshopper every movable would have been stolen, and probably the ship's crew murdered for the crime of resisting. The gunboat crew had to fire upon the pirates with blank cartridge, and orders were given to load with ball before they were repelled.

The Chartered Mercantile Bank receives subscriptions for the Captain fund. Captain Denison, of H.M.S. Zebra, has written to the daily paper a timely reminder that nothing has yet been done in China to assist the sufferers by the wreck of the Slaney some months ago, although that accident might have appealed more particularly to the sympathy of residents in China.

Dr. F. Porter Smith has just issued a useful book from the Presbyterian Mission Press. It is entitled "A Vocabulary of Proper Names, in Chinese and English, of Places, Persons, Tribes, and Sects in China, Japan, Korea, Annam, Siam, Burmah, the Straits, and Adjacent Countries," and is dedicated by the compiler to Dr. S. Wells Williams, Secretary of the U.S. Legation at Peking.

A meeting of the Asiatic Society was held on the 5th Dec., when a paper was read by Dr. Macgowan on "Man's Place in the Materia Medica of China."

The Clara Babazan got ashore on the bar at Newchwang, and had to discharge into lighters.

We hear that the North German ships Marie and Canton have arrived at Ningpo from Newchwang. They and the other three North German ships in harbour were obliged to leave at the last moment, in consequence of the ice. The dock had been prepared for them; but the water was not high enough for them to get into it, when ice made its appearance. They had therefore to choose between being frozen in at the risk of getting crushed, and putting to sea with the risk of capture. Two of them, it will be seen, have come safely to port.

The export of tea from Hankow up to the end of November showed a deficit of 1,387,410 lbs., but there seems every likelihood that this will be more than made up before the end of the season. The greater portion of arrivals during the fortnight have found buyers, at prices showing an advance of two to five mace per picul on previous quotations. Some 2,000 chests have been sent to Shanghai. There has not been much doing in cotton goods, but prices are maintained.

We regret very much to hear of the sudden death of the Taoutai of Ningpo. He was one of the best officials who have been at Ningpo.

Mr. Graham Sandford passed through Shanghai, a few days ago, to take up the post of Secretary to H.B.M. Legation, vacant by the recent death of Mr. Conolly. It is said that Mr. Wade is likely to go home in the spring.

It appears that the statement that Mr. Seward was refused an audience by Prince Kung was incorrect. The facts are briefly as follows:—The Secretary, Admiral Rodgers, and Mr. Geo. F. Seward, the Consul-General, intimated a desire to pay a visit to Tsungli-yamen, as representing the Chinese Government. On the day named a note was brought stating that Prince Kung had been suddenly seized with violent colic, and would be unable to see them; but the other members of the Yamen were awaiting them, and would be happy to see them. They were received by the members of the Yamen with great ceremony and apparent cordiality. They were profuse in their expressions of regret at the sudden indisposition which prevented the Prince from being present in person. The interview lasted a considerable time; all business was discarded, and the high officials carried their relaxations to the borders of festivity.

Next day Prince Kung sent to Mr. Seward a note full of regrets at his having failed to see the distinguished stranger the day before, and asked when it would be convenient for Mr. Seward and his party to receive a visit from him. Accordingly to invitation, the Prince came to see them at their quarters at the Russian Legation, reiterated his apologies at great length, and expressed his gratitude to the Americans for their continued friendship, and especially his obligations to Mr. Seward in connection with the Burlingame Embassy.

The British ship Fontenay, Captain Taylor, 365 tons, sailed from London 6th July, and crossed the Equator 5th Aug., had no S.E. Trade; passed the Meridian of the Cape on 3rd Sept., S. Lat. 42 degrees. Experienced strong gales with very bad weather; on the 3rd September a severe gale from S.W., ship scudding under Close-reefed topsails and whole foresail; wind lulled suddenly, ship pooped and broached to, shipped a very heavy sea over the portside, carried away main deck ventilator. Started main hatch tarpaulins and portside of half deck companion, and washed top gallant bulwarks on both sides amid-ships; the water ran into the hold through the man-hole in the deck and damaged a large portion of the cargo. Nov. 7, sighted south end Formosa, a continuation of N.E. gales with very bad weather. Carried away foretop-sail yard, sails and lanyards, the main deck filled with water. On the 30th Nov. anchored in the river below Woosung.

HONG KONG.

Dates by this opportunity extend to the 13th Dec. The outward mail of 21st Oct. arrived on the 2nd Dec. with telegrams to 22nd Nov.

The China Mail says that his Excellency Chung How, before his departure for Canton forwarded the sum of fifty dollars as compensation for the protective service rendered to him by policemen during his sojourn in Hong Kong. The money has, of course, been returned to him. While he was at the City of Rams, says a correspondent—

"The Cantonese thought very little of Chung. At first they were of opinion that he was as much to be blamed for the Tientsin Massacre as the man in the moon; but now their tone has entirely changed, and they are impressed with the idea that he is not the devil they took him to be. The propriety of the acting American Consul paying a visit to a person whose name has become a by-word seems questionable, yet this he has done. With his thorough knowledge of Chinese language, it is, however, to be hoped that the visit of the reverend Consul will not be altogether barren of some good result; he must have doubtless succeeded in impressing upon the mind of the benighted heathen at least the grand principle of Christianity, viz., to do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

M. Rochechouart seems to be, unfortunately, as we think, anxious to grasp the blood-money offered by the Chinese. Tls. 100,000 have been taken from Canton, and Tls. 150,000 from Shanghai. If M. Rochechouart ventures on the distribution of this money before he receives instructions from home he will commit a serious diplomatic blunder, which not even the present state of affairs in France will excuse. He may hold it as a deposit—as a material guarantee for a future settlement—but to make use of it in any other way would only lead to unpleasant complications of an already very ugly matter.

The Graphic of October 1 contained what purported to be a likeness of "Chung How, Governor of Tientsin," but gave him a type of Chinese physiognomy which did not by any means do justice to the Chinese worthy who is now on his way to France. In the Graphic he was depicted as a mild benevolent-looking gentleman, with somewhat of an anxious expression, whereas he is in fact a—what he is shown to be in the photograph which has been taken of him by Messrs. Floyd and Co., of Hong Kong, and which will probably be accepted as a more truthful likeness than that conceived by the Graphic. Chung How has himself approved of Messrs. Floyd's photograph, and has presented a copy thereof to the Hong Kong Hotel. The proprietor of the China Mail, having obtained permission from Messrs. Floyd and Co., has issued a lithograph copy of their photograph with this overland edition of that paper.

The China Mail mentions a case of considerable interest which has been lately tried before the French Consul (M. Blancheton), at Foochow, with Baron de Meritens and Comte de Bonny as assessors. Dr. Vidal, medical attendant of the Arsenal, sued M. Giquel, first director of the institution, for the sum of $35,000, such being the amount of damages alleged to have been sustained by the doctor, who had been suspended by M. Giquel on the representation and complaint of two-thirds of the employés of the Arsenal.

Our readers will remember the mystery attending the heirship of the Earldom of Aberdeen, and the efforts which his family have made to find the missing scion. It now appears that the vessel in which the earl shipped as chief officer under the name of Charles Oswald has arrived in Hong Kong. She is the American schooner Hera, and reports that, a few days out, a heavy lurch of the vessel hurled the unfortunate nobleman into the sea, which was running too heavily to allow his shipmates to make even an effort to save him. The necessary formalities of proof of death have been gone through at Hong Kong, and the succession of the earl's younger brother, to the title which has been vacant for some time, is now assured.

Mr. Bailey, the newly appointed American Consul, arrived on the 5th December in the America. Colonel Goulding, the retiring Consul, was expected to leave for the United States, Jan. 12. Few consuls have been more popular here than Colonel Goulding.

The steam ship Acantha arrived from London, and her Galle and Penang mails were landed at once, but that from Singapore, containing some 150 letters to the leading firms here, was overlooked and not despatched to the Post-office until one o'clock the following day. The mail steamer left at twelve, and an opportunity was lost of replying to the Acantha's correspondence. Loud and bitter complaints were made of this oversight on Captain Grainge's part, and the Postmaster-General considered it his duty to bring the matter before the sitting magistrate. Mr. May, after pointing out to the defendant the great inconvenience and loss occasioned to the community by his carelessness, fined him in the mitigated penalty of $125, the full amount under the ordinance being $500.

On the 9th Dec. the steamer United Service arrived from Saigon flying the North German flag at the fore, and having on board several North German subjects, who had been expelled from Saigon by the French authorities. Messrs. Sornsen, Hauschild, and Lampoke, the former partners, and the latter employee in the house of Sornsen, Hauschild, and Co.; Mr. Detmering, employee of Messrs. Hale and Co., an English house; Mr. Von Bargen, a storekeeper, came on board the United Service; several other North Germans went from Saigon to Singapore, and the wife of Mr. Hauschild arrived in Hong Kong in the Achilles. Mr. Fritsch, the agent of the Comptoir d'Escompte, came up in the French mail steamer. He was sent away without even time being allowed him for arranging to transfer the business temporarily till the arrival of his successor. He was accused of having read a letter from the Admiral on board the United Service, in presence of the expelled Germans, and of having, at the termination of the reading, made an unseemly gesture. The gesture is denied point blank by Mr. Fritsch. However, this did not satisfy the authorities, and he had to decamp. The origin of these severe measures was, so far as is known, a letter written by a young man to his mother, giving various particulars about Saigon, and saying it ought to be taken by the Prussians.

A correspondent reports the occurrence of a fatal accident at Canton. A Chinese house on the bank of the canal caught fire, and the engines took up their station on the bridge, in order better to command the spot and extinguish the conflagration. The bridge was crowded with Chinese surrounding two fire-engines, and working away with capital energy and effect, when, without the slightest warning, the bridge gave way, and engines and men were plunged at once into the water. Many were crushed beneath the engines, others beneath the huge timbers of the bridge, and of the number who fell with the bridge, eighty or a hundred persons at least, but few appeared to the bystanders to rise again or get once more to land. Eighteen corpses only have been recovered up to the present time, but many more must lie beneath the unremoved debris. The bridge is one of those built by the allies during the filling in and occupation of Shameen, and it is extremely unfortunate that British engineering science should have constructed so miserable and temporary a fabric. The fall of the bridge will doubtless, on account of its foreign style and build, give rise to many rumours among the Chinese.

One thing Commissioner Bowra has commenced, though in a niggardly manner, the dredging of the river by the salt flats. This portion of the river has so filled in that the steamers cannot pass at low water, and boats have been recently engaged in dredging and carrying away the mud and silt. By this means the river has been deepened already some nine or ten inches, and a continuance of the work would be found of great benefit to the river steamers and great convenience to business. But this good work is stopped half-way and no explanation vouchsafed.

The Foochow gunboat which has left Canton was built, it is said, entirely by Chinese under European superintendence. She is officered and manned entirely by Chinese, and has not a single European on board.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to the 20th December. On the 9th the P. and O. steamer Emeru arrived with the London mail of 4th November. Telegraphic advices from Europe extended to the 1st December.

The following is from the Straits Times:—

After the busiest session that has been held since the formation of our Legislative Council, that body was formally prorogued on the 9th, having disposed of all the Bills before it. The work that has been gone through this session is not only exceedingly arduous, but will probably exert a material influence upon the commercial and social welfare of the colony. First in importance among the laws that have been passed are the Bankruptcy and Debtors ordinances, for the drafting and completion of which we are indebted solely to his Honour the Chief Justice, who has given them a great deal of time and attention.

This colony has been the first to follow the example of the Home Government in the passing of these ordinances; the Bills were originally merely an adaptation of the Acts of Parliament to the colony, but have undergone some material, and we think well-advised, alterations, until they are now as nearly perfect as it is possible to make such laws in the first place. It is, indeed, probable that defects may come to light from time to time in working them, but upon the whole we believe the colony may congratulate itself upon having a more perfect bankruptcy law than is possessed at home. The Debtors ordinance will come into operation at the same time, and will abolish imprisonment for debt. Two other laws that have been passed—the Contagious Disease and Gaming-houses ordinances, which were found to be sadly needed here—will, it is to be hoped, effect a decided improvement on the social and moral condition of the lower classes. In fact, the Gaming-houses ordinance has already exerted a highly beneficial influence in the suppression of the Wah Whay lotteries, and in doing away with the fortified gambling-houses, which were not only the bane of the Chinese population, but were able to defy the police and evade the law.

Towards the close of the session the Council voted $40,000 for a lighthouse on the North Sands, provided one could be erected within that sum, but it remains to be ascertained whether the nature of the bank will render the erection of the structure advisable. A great number of laws, some of them of considerable importance, have this year been added to our Statute Book, and we heartily endorse the encomium passed by H. E. the Governor in his closing speech upon the members of the Council for their labours in behalf of the colony, particularly the unofficial members, who have, often at great personal inconvenience, devoted so much time and labour to the public good.

The first fine on the keeper of a Wah Whay lottery, under the Gaming-houses ordinance, was inflicted by the magistrate on a Chinese named Yip Kit, who was arrested and mulcted $200.

The telegraph cable between this and Penang was opened to traffic December 16.

The only other local event of any importance is the conversion of St. Andrew's Church into the Cathedral of the diocese, which took place on December 18, when, after the installation of the Bishop, the Rev. J. A. Beckles was installed as canon of the cathedral.

On December 12 information was received here of the loss of the American ship Samuel Russell, on November 24, on Glass Rock, Gaspar Straits. The Samuel Russell was from Foochow, bound to New York, with a cargo of teas, cassia, fire-crackers, &c., and was a total loss. The master and crew were picked up by the ship Mogul, which brought them to this port on the 12th. The wreck and cargo were sold at public auction; the hull realised only $260, and the cargo only $110.

Among the passengers by the French mail steamer Labourdonnais on the 17th was H. E. Chung How, the mandarin who may be mainly held accountable for the Tientsin Massacre, who goes as an ambassador to France, to endeavour to settle the difficulty, and further, as Mons. Rouchechouart, the French Minister at Peking, says, to "clear himself if he can." Chung How landed in Singapore, but we believe his short visit was unmarked by any demonstration, either by the Chinese or European residents. The detention of the Labourdonnais from Hong Kong was occasioned by the delay in arrival of the Volga from Yokohama. The latter steamer left Yokohama on the 29th November, and on the 30th, off Van Diemen's Island, came into collision with the British ship Black Adder. The Volga then went into Majica, where she remained three days for repairs, and then proceeded on her voyage to Hong Kong.

The new Batavia Hundelsblad of the 8th Dec. gives the following later news regarding Wankang's rebellion at Banjer-massing. The newly-appointed Resident had only been there two days when Wankang, with 600 men, had the daring to attack Banjer-massing, which was garrisoned by about 250 men. He was beaten off and driven into the morasses to the N.E. of the town. From Sourabaya three companies of soldiers have been sent to Banjer-massing. It is strange that the Government seems to have heard nothing of the onward march of Wankang, so that he was able to make the attack early in the morning on the 25th Nov. He lost sixty men; on our side four men were killed and one man and two officers wounded. If the rebel be not speedily caught the Banjer-massing Residency will have again to expect a period of unrest and agitation.

We learn that the left wing of the 75th Regiment, now stationed here, will exchange places with the right wing stationed at Hong Kong. The head-quarters will, we believe, continue to be at Hong Kong.

THE SINGAPORE & PENANG TELEGRAPH CABLE.

Our readers will have learnt long since from our telegraphic intelligence of the completion of the first section of the British-Australian Telegraph line between Batavia and Singapore, which was opened to the public on the 19th November last, and which has ever since enjoyed a considerable amount of profitable patronage from the merchants of both the above-named places. Since then the Telegraph Construction Company's staff, who are engaged in carrying out the contract for the British Indian Extension Telegraph Company, have been active with reference to their lines intended to connect Singapore with Penang and Madras, and thus placing these distant countries in direct telegraphic communication with England, the whole way through lines exclusively worked by English hands. We have already informed our readers of the completion of the section between Singapore and Penang, and we now give them a few details of the operation of laying the cable.

The two ships engaged in this operation were the s.s. William Cory and the s.s. Scanderia, both of which ships, carrying together in all over 2,500 tons of cable under water, besides coals, machinery, &c., and drawing over twenty feet of water, passed through the Suez Canal to their destination. With reference to the laying of the cable between Singapore and Penang the first operation that had to be performed was the opening of a trench some five miles long from the town of Singapore to the cable-house at Pasir Panjang, where the submarine portion commences. This is a much slower operation than laying cables in the sea, in proportion of at least one to 100. It was therefore the 3rd of December before a commencement was made with the laying of the cable. On the previous evening the William Cory anchored into position about two cables' lengths from the cable-house. At daylight the next morning the shore end was landed, and all instruments being connected and adjusted, and other formalities, including the wetting of the end of the cable, having been gone through, in the presence of many of the leading Singapore people, including three ladies, the paying out of the cable commenced about eight A.M. Here, owing to the shallowness of the water, and the liability of the ships to cast anchor almost anywhere, when becalmed, the precaution was taken of laying a shore end thirty-six miles in length. The Governor's steam yacht the Peiho, with the previously mentioned party on board, under the charge of the Master Attendant, Lieutenant Burn, accompanied the paying-out ship for the first ten miles, and before leaving gave the paying-out ship a hearty farewell cheer, the ladies' voices adding much music to the sound.

Everything so far was going well, and paying-out proceeded with care, at the rate of from three to five knots per hour, until, about the fourteenth mile, voices were heard from the hold to go full speed astern; this was done without delay, but not until a foul flake came up in a tangled mass, carrying everything before it, until the cable was a mass of knots round the paying-out machinery, which well stood the enormous strain suddenly put upon it. However, Captain Halpin, who was in charge on the contractor's behalf, is not the man to be daunted by trifles; the cable was, therefore, very soon sealed up, cut, and buoyed in some sixteen fathoms, and the William Cory came to anchor close by to repair damages, the shore station being previously instructed to look out for signals early on the following morning. Twenty-two hours after this mishap paying-out was again commenced, and at about the thirtieth mile a similar, although not such a serious accident occurred, which caused a detention of three hours and a-half to repair; after this paying out went on still more cautiously up to sunset, and before coming to the end of the shore end the ship anchored for the night, in order to arrive at daylight at the buoy previously laid down by Captain Reed, R.N., at the entrance of a narrow and deep channel, between two sand banks. This was passed early the following morning, and fourteen miles from this position the paying-out ship passed the screw steamer Rainbow (lent by the Colonial Government), anchored in position on the edge of the western bank.

The Rainbow then proceeded a-head, to point out another buoy previously laid down, after passing which the Rainbow returned to pick up the two buoys, and then to follow on to Penang. Since commencing the main-cable portion nothing could be better and smoother than the way in which the paying out proceeded, at the rate of about five knots per hour, the breaks all eased up, and no registered strain on the cable. At the 105th mile the William Cory passed abreast of H.M.S. Algerine, commanded by Lieut. Gray, R.N. This ship was anchored in such a position as to secure the deepest water for the cable, and as it was some two hours after sunset a plentiful supply of rockets and blue lights were expended to show us our way. The William Cory was no sooner past this position than Lieut. Gray proceeded ahead at full speed to take up his next position, some eighty miles ahead beyond the Pyramid shoal. This position was passed the following day about three P.M., after which all dangers and difficulties were passed, and Lieut. Gray, having really rendered very valuable service, and having carried out his instructions in a most creditable manner, returned immediately to Singapore. Nothing occurred after this worth recording, as everything went merrily as a marriage bell, and on Wednesday, the 7th Dec., 284 miles having been paid out, the end was buoyed in thirty-five fathoms, and the William Cory proceeded to Penang, where she arrived the following morning, being saluted by the steamships Edinburgh and Scanderia, both laden with cable for this line.

The completion of this section was performed by the s.s. Scanderia, who on Saturday, Dec. 10, landed her cable end at Penang, and the following morning proceeded paying out, without a hitch, to the buoy. On this portion of the line the course was all plain sailing; the cable was paid out at the rate of from four to five-and-a-half miles an hour, and when 115½ miles were paid out we were alongside the buoy, and soon after the final splice was effected, which completed the electric marriage between the extreme limits of Her Majesty's Straits Settlements. This was performed on the 12th inst. On the 15th inst. the official tests of the laid cable having proved highly satisfactory, Mr. H. C. Forde, the engineer to the British Indian Telegraph Company, granted his certificate, and the line was opened to the public on the following day. The latter seem inclined to make a good use of it, and therefore we take this opportunity of congratulating the shareholders on their prospects. On the 19th Dec. a commencement was made in laying the Madras section, an account of which we shall probably be able to give in our next issue.

The route for the cable has been most carefully selected on the western side of the Straits of Malacca, in order to be as much out of the track of ships as possible, and also to secure as deep water as possible. The mean temperature of the sea is 83½ deg. Fahr., and the mean depth of water in which this cable lies is 24 fathoms. The main cable weighs about 3½ tons to the mile, and is well protected from corrosion. The track is most accurately laid down on the charts.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—The market had been almost at a standstill throughout the interval, transactions having been on a most limited scale; prices were nominally unchanged, but the business had not been sufficiently extensive to afford a test of values.

TIENTSIN.—The ice was not expected to close the navigation before the middle of November. The following were the current quotations:—Grey Shirtings, 8½ lbs., Tls. 2.25; 7 lbs., Tls. 1.80 to 1.81. White Shirtings, 64 reed, Tls. 2.10. English Drills, Tls. 3.01; Jeans, Tls. 2.26 offered. T-Cloths, 7 lbs., Tls. 1.45. White Brocades, Tls. 2.36. Gentian, Tls. 3.15. Scarlet Camlets, HH, Tls. 11.35. Figured Lustres, Tls. 3.40.

HANKOW.—Grey Shirtings: Arrivals moderate, but notwithstanding that prices had advanced in Shanghai, holders had with difficulty obtained previous rates; dealers only buying for immediate requirements. White Shirtings: Little inquiry. T-Cloths in good request, but demand freely met by holders; prices, Tls. 1.55 to 1.58 for good Mexican 7 lbs., and Tls. 1.80 to 1.85 per piece for 8 lbs. Drills advanced a mace per piece, and closed firm, with moderate inquiry, at Tls. 3.05 to 3.15 for English, and Tls. 3.20 to 3.25 for American makes. Fancy Cottons: No improvement in price or demand. Woollens and Worsted—Camlets: Rather large sales reported, but at very unsatisfactory prices. Black advanced 5 mace per piece. Lastings: A small business in favourite chops at previous rates. Long Ells: No demand; quotations nominal; dealers still well supplied from the large re-sales reported some time since. Spanish Stripes in limited demand, at weak rates. No sales of Cloths. Figured Orleans: Prices of good assortments well maintained; ordinary not asked for. Lead: Holders asking an advance on last quotations, but no sales effected.

SHANGHAI.—Immediately after the departure of the last English mail an excited demand sprang up for 7 lb. and 8½ lb. Grey Shirtings, and the stock of hard cargo proving inadequate, holders forced the price of Dewhurst's best Eagles up to Tls. 1.78.80 and 2.26.27 per piece respectively, common chops showing a like advance. The cargo of the Elgin, and of one or two other vessels which arrived soon afterwards, were immediately placed at the top rates; but the demand, which was chiefly for the last of the Northern steamers, was soon satiated, and the demand became again inactive. T-Cloths, in common with Grey Shirtings, participated in the effort which closed the Tientsin trade for the season, but did not share in the advance which took place in them. When business slackened prices fell, and at the close there was only a limited inquiry. Drills: Some 30,000 pieces of all kinds had changed hands, English still receiving chief attention. There was little or no change in value. Jeans: Extensive transactions in American, but at somewhat lower rates. English and Dutch maintained former values, with stocks much reduced, and in few hands; there is little chance of decline. The market for Fancy Cotton and Woollen manufactures continued in a wretched state. The Long Ell market was simply ruinous. Lead: More inquiry, and holders asking slightly higher rates. Two barter transactions are reported in which Lead was taken by Teamen at Tls. 4.60 per picul. Iron: Business trifling. Closing quotations:—G. E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., Tls. 1.72 to 1.73 per piece; 8½ to 8½ lbs., Tls. 2.18 to 2.23; 9 lbs., Tls. 2.25 to 2.30. American Jeans, Tls. 2.30 to 2.35. English Drills, Tls. 2.95 to 3.03; T-Cloths, 6 lbs., ordinary, Tls. 1.26 to 1.30; 7 lbs. do., Tls. 1.42 to 1.45; 6 lbs. Mexican, Tls. 1.35 to 1.40; 7 lbs., Tls. 1.50 to 1.60; 8 to 8½ lbs., Tls. 1.75 to 1.85; XX, Tls. 2.25 to 2.30. The North China Herald has the following on the condition of the market:—The almost simultaneous arrival of several sailing ships with supplies from home, together with the close of the Northern trade, have lately caused some importers and speculators to arrive a little uneasiness, which is manifesting itself in an increasing desire to realise at rapidly declining rates. That there is little cause for alarm holders need only look to the present position of our stocks, and compare it with the stocks of the last two or three seasons at the same time, and to the supplies required by the riverine ports during the months of December and January annually. Besides, there remains the fact that the greater portion of the goods lately arrived, and of those now afloat and still to be shipped from home, cost over our present prices; and further, looking to the past of our shirting market, the outturns for some time have not been such as to induce excessive receipts during the winter months.

HONG KONG.—Cotton Yarn: A little enquiry had resulted in sales at last ruling rates for the lower counts, but at a further decline for Nos. 28 to 32 Yarns. Grey Shirtings: A few 7 lbs. taken at a decline of nearly 10 cents per piece; 8.4 lbs. also fractionally weaker and quite neglected; heavy goods unchanged. White Shirtings wholly neglected, prices more or less nominal. Business in T-Cloth on a very small scale; 6 and 7 lbs. difficult to place at quotations; 36-inch comparatively firm, being in moderate supply. Spotted Shirtings: No business, dyed wanted at quotations. Brocades: Saleable. Damasks: None in stock. Chintzes and Velvets: Very flat. Drills: Fair demand at quotations; Dutch firmer; prices of English and American without change. Spanish Stripes: No business; prices nominal. Long Ells: A few sales at a further decline. Camlets: Nothing doing. Lastings: Unchanged, but difficult to move. Orleans: Sales at low prices. Blankets: Very quiet. Iron: Nail Rod lower, quotations down about 5 cents. Good demand for soft Bar, which was scarce. Lead: Some speculative inquiry "to arrive." For parcels on the spot, quotations nominal. Closing quotations:—Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $106.00 to 114.00 per bale; 28 to 32, $115.00 to 117.50; 38 to 42, $135.00 to 142.50. Grey Shirting: 7 lbs., $2.10 to 2.15 per piece; 8.4 lbs., $2.65 to 2.70. T-Cloths: 6 lbs., ordinary, $1.55 to 1.60; 6 lbs., Mexican, $1.70 to 1.75; 7 lbs., ordinary, $1.80 to 1.92½; 7 lbs., Mexican, $2.00 to 2.25; 8 to 8.4 oz. (36 in.), $2.45 to 2.55. Spotted Shirtings: Dyed, $3.50 to 3.60. Dutch Drills: 40 yds., 13½ to 14 lbs., $3.60 to 3.75 per piece. Long Ells: Scarlet, $7.0 to 7.10 per piece; Assorted, $6.50 to 6.75.

BATAVIA.—The following is from Messrs. Hunter, Houghton, an Co.'s Circular:—The purchases made by our dealers in anticipation of the native New Year have been on a much smaller scale than is generally the case at this season of the year. The retail demand, however, has continued so slight that transactions on a large scale were not to be thought of, and now, considering the season of the year, it is but natural to expect a limited business for a couple of months to come. Cambrics: 15/16's in a little more request; but to effect sales low prices have to be accepted; best makes f.4.20 to f.4.90; medium f.4.10 to f.4.15; and ordinary f.4 to f.4.05 per piece short credit; 24's of fair quality command f.2.75 to f.3 per piece. Shirtings: White, 45-in., move off slowly at f.9.75 to f.10 per piece; 76 cases advertised for sale by public auction; 40/41-in. very quiet at f.8.75 to f.9 per piece; 36-in. 64/66 reeds saleable at f.7.75 to f.8 per piece. Shirtings, Grey 38½ yds: No demand. Madapollams, 24 yards: English Grey 3 lb. only to be placed at lower rates, f.2.80 to f.2.90 piece one month. White of common quality at f.3.25 to f.3½ per piece. Turkey Red Cloth, 24 yards: Small transactions at f.6 to f.6.50 for English. Grey Drills: Dutch declining; English are worth f.7.50 to f.7.75 per piece. Grey Twist, in accordance with the season of the year, is in less demand; 40's we cannot now quote above f.365 to f.370 per bale, one month credit; 30's command f.345 to f.3.50; 24's, f.330 to f.340; and 20's, f.315 to f.320 per bale.

SINGAPORE.—Messrs. Boustead and Co. report as follows:—The Market for Manchester goods has been excessively dull during the fortnight, and in some staples a further slight decline has taken place. We have no improvement to note from neighbouring markets. 39-inch Grey Shirtings: Light stocks, moderate demand for 8½ lb., sales at $2.60 to 2.65. 7 lb. very dull, trifling transactions at $2.12½ to 2.10. 6 lb. neglected, quoted nominally at $1.85 to 1.80. 45-inch no change; limited demand for 9 and 10 lb. at last quotations; other weights in no request. 36 inch White Shirtings: Stocks heavy, very little demand. Offers lower. 45 inch: Stocks light, but very little enquiry; small sales at $3.60 to 3.57½. 36-inch White Spots: Last sold at $2.67½ to 2.60, and not enquired for. White Brocades very dull, a small sale at $2.80. 32-inch Grey T. Cloths: Sales at lower rates. Stocks of all weights heavy except 5 lb., which was in moderate enquiry. Transactions reported in 5 lb. $1.37½ to 1.26, the bulk at $1.32½, and 6 lb. at $1.55 to 1.47½. 7 lb. without enquiry, and quoted nominally $1.80 to 1.85. 32-inch Grey Maddapollams: No inquiry; 3 lbs. $18½ to 19, 2½ lbs. $17½ to 18, but quite nominal. Stocks heavy. 30-inch White Maddapollams in no demand; nominally, 13 by 8, $19 per corg. 45-inch White Cambrics: Very limited inquiry, quotations unchanged. 32-inch Turkey Red Cambrics: Sales at lower prices. 2½ to 2½ lbs. placed at $2.07½ to 2.10; 3 lbs. still saleable at last quotations. Light weights not wanted. Turkey Red Mulls: No inquiry; a sale reported of 1½ lb. at $27. Grey Yarn: 18/24's and 30's very dull at $84 to 88, and $110 to 106½ respectively. 40's less inquired for and weaker. Small sales at $122 to 121. Woollens without any improvement. Some 32 lb. Scarlet Camlets forced at $13½.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—Towards the close there had been some activity, and settlements to the extent of about 5,000 piculs had been made, consisting of most grades, but the bulk medium to fine leaf. Prices had ruled irregularly, some of the earlier settlements being at a considerable reduction, which could not be repeated, and the demand continuing brisk, holders were firm at slightly reduced quotations. Supplies had been moderate only, and stocks therefore were somewhat reduced, but were still heavy. The last P. M. S. S. Co.'s steamer took 166,108 lbs. for San Francisco and 144,885 lbs. for New York. The Horatio with 331,310 lbs.; and the Abbey Bacon with 375,406 lbs. for New York had sailed; the G. T. Ray, 356 tons, was fully engaged for the same port. Quotations:—Common, $20.00 to 23.00 per picul; Good Common, $24.00 to 26.00; Medium, $28.00 to 30.00; Good Medium, $32.00 to 34.00; Fine, $35.00 to 38.00 per picul; Finest and Choice, nominal.

HANKOW.—There had been an active demand throughout the fortnight, and all arrivals had been secured at full rates. The total supply for the season seemed likely to exceed that of last year. Settlements had been 6,152 chests; shipments 1,970 chests, and stock was estimated at 1,100 chests. The prices had been as follows:—Oonams and Oopacks, Common, Tls. 11.50 to 11.60 per picul; Fair, Tls. 13.00 to 14.00 per picul.

SHANGHAI.—Black: Transactions since the departure of the last mail had not been large, nor did they exhibit any quotable alteration in price. The bulk of the purchases consisted of Shuntam Teas of not very good kind, and these had been taken in many cases in barter. Several chops of desirable Ningchow had been settled, and scarcely a parcel of creditable character remained unsold. The stock was again slightly reduced, and was insignificant. Settlements for the fortnight, 8,200 chests; re-shipment on owners' account, 3,200 chests; stock, 36 chops, or 11,400 packages. Quotations (duty paid, exchange at 5s. 10½d., freight at £2): Hohow, fair, Tls. 17½; Oonam, common, Tls. 15½ to 16.85; Ningchow, fair, Tls. 18½ to 20½. Green: The market had been comparatively quiet during the fortnight, and the reported settlements did not exceed 22,800 half-chests. Transactions principally in the common and medium grades, which were in large stock, as Teamen seemed more desirous to be quit of these than of the better quotations. Little change in prices; desirable chops of common Teas continued firmly held, but some medium Moyunes could be bought at a decline on last quotations. Few parcels of fine Teas on hand held for extravagant rates. Quotations: Common to fair Fychows and Moyunes, Tls. 23 to 34; medium to finest Teenkais and Moyunes, Tls. 37 to 48. Settlements for the fortnight, 22,818 half-chests; re-shipments on owners' account, 687. Stock, 140 chops, or 65,177 packages of Fychow, Moyune and Teenkai Teas; 9 chops, or 4,782 packages of Pinguey and Shanghai-packed Teas.

FOOCHOW.—Scarcity of tonnage, a rising exchange, and increasing firmness of teamen, who were endeavouring to obtain slightly higher rates, had tended to restrict business for England. Large transactions in Oolong for America, of which particulars of only a portion had been made public; reported purchases 25,219 half-chests. Congou: Neither buyers nor sellers had shown anxiety to do business. Prices fully maintained, and in some cases an advance of half a tael given. Demand chiefly for fair to good common. Current quotations:—Dust and siftings, Tls. 4½ to 7; broken leaf to ordinary, Tls. 7½ to 11; fair to good common, Tls. 11½ to 14; flavoury to fair flavoury, Tls. 14½ to 17; good flavoury, none on the market. Souchong: No change in prices; small purchases. Quotations:—Common, Tls. 12 to 15; medium, Tls. 16 to 20. Oolong: Over 50,000 half-chests, chiefly cargo teas, settled during the fortnight, but prices of only 25,219 half-chests declared. These had been somewhat irregular, but, taken as a whole, showed no decline. Some chops containing better lines had been taken at Tls. 23 to 26. Quotations:—Common cargo, Tls. 15 to 17; fair to good cargo, Tls. 18 to 21. Scented Teas: Further settlements of common at Tls. 14½ to 18½. Flowery Pekoe: Purchases 60 chests low quality at Tls. 16, and 40 chests at Tls. 50.

AMOI.—Oolongs: Settlements had amounted to 7,419 packages mainly fair to good cargo grades, at from $20 to 23.50. Common to fair kinds had found buyers at $15 to 18.50. Stocks reduced to about 400 half-chests, to which must be added about 400 more yet to arrive.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—There had been more demand, chiefly for the better classes; inferior sorts of Mybash being neglected. Settlements estimated at 220 bales. Prices firm, with a tendency to higher rates. Arrivals moderate; unsold stock 2,800 bales. Silkworm Eggs.—The season had closed with a total export of 1,300,000 cards, against 1,450,000 last year. There was an unsold stock left on the market of 300,000 cards of inferior quality. Quotations for Silk.—Hanks: Mybash and Sinchu, Best, $750.00 to 800.00 per picul; Medium, $650.00 to 700.00; Oshu, extra, nominal; Best, $890.00 to 860.00; Medium, $770.00 to 820.00; Inferior, $680.00 to 730.00.

SHANGHAI.—The following is from Messrs. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular, dated 6th Dec.—The French mail left on the 30th ultimo, without taking any Silk. Prior to her departure about 400 bales were settled at last quotations, since then there has been an active competition and prices have advanced from Tls. 10 to 15 on chop Silk and Red Peacocks, while ordinary 4 and 5 Tsatlees are fully Tls. 20 higher, Hainins and Chin Cum Taysams are neglected, Re-reeled Hainin is again in favour, one-fourth of the settlements being comprised of them and for some of the better qualities extreme rates have been paid for the American market. Settlements for the fortnight are 1,100 bales, nearly 200 of which are for America. The following are a few of the purchases:—Chooching and Koofoungsing chop 3, Tls. 590 to 605; Dragon chop, 1 and 2, Tls. 620 to 640; Blue Flag chop, Tls. 540; Old Lion, Tls. 535 to 540; Gold Lion, 1, 2, and 3, Tls. 510 to 520; Red Peacock, Tls. 510 to 520; Ku Kee Chin Jan, Tls. 530; 4½ Tsatlee, Tls. 500 to 520; Re-reeled Hainin Pang-e-tah chop, No. 1, Tls. 620; Re-reeled Tsatlee, Tls. 600 to 620. Good Kahings are scarce and much wanted, while the common sorts are neglected.

THE EDINBURGH REVIEW ON CHINA.

We refer to the article on "The Foreign Relations of China," which we reproduced in a condensed form from the Edinburgh Review in our issue of the 19th, more out of respect for the authority under which it appeared than from any value which can attach to its statements, or any beneficial result that can be expected from its line of argument. We will not attempt to conceal the disappointment with which we found an article, thirty pages long, on a subject so interesting to our readers and ourselves, and of such peculiar importance at the present moment, brought to such a "lame and impotent conclusion" in the time-honoured blue and yellow covers which formerly contained the masterly treatises of MACKINTOSH and MACAULAY. "At length," we said to ourselves, as we opened the book—"at length China is beginning to receive due attention. Better late than never. Now we shall have an exhaustive review of the circumstances which have brought about the present crisis, and fresh and sensible advice on the course of action which it is necessary for us to take. Now we shall see the platitudes of the Foreign-office, and the sophistries of the Pall Mall Gazette, scattered to the winds. Now we shall have something earnest, thoughtful, and, above all, practical." Alas for the futility of human hopes! We read on to the end, through mazes of reasoning so exactly like that of the Pall Mall that, if we trusted to internal evidence, we should pronounce it to be the production of the same pen, until we were conducted to the "moral" of the article, and there found the reviewer, apropos of an anecdote of the late Lord MELBOURNE (which had nothing to do with the subject), asking "if we cannot leave China alone, so far as any effort is concerned to force upon her what some Utopian philosophers call PROGRESS AND CIVILISATION?" It is needless to say that the article which we fondly expected to find in the Edinburgh has yet to be written. We shall look for it in the pages of its older rival, for we cannot believe that it is a subject which the world will "willingly let die" such a natural death as the Edinburgh Reviewer would consign it to.

We wish, however, that dulness and affectation were the worst blemishes of the article under notice. Unfortunately, it is distinguished by a rancorous ill-will against commercial men in China which it is hard to account for, except by personal motives on the part of the writer, since every one of his facts tell most strongly against his assumptions, his inferences, and his conclusions. Having started with telling us that "the one great end of our intercourse with China" is our commerce; that that commerce "employs a vast capital and gives profitable employment to more than seven thousand ships under the British flag;" that the duty levied on tea alone produces one eighth part of the whole revenue raised by our customs; and that our exports to China have "a constant tendency to increase at the average annual rate of £3,500,000," he proceeds to assure us that the "most fortunate" of our merchants "are simply able to pay their expenses. None are making fortunes save those who have no capital to lose, and call themselves bill-brokers." Surely the non sequitur argument was never pushed to a greater absurdity; our merchants are doing such a rapidly increasing trade that their profits have fallen to zero; and the only persons who are making fortunes are those who have no capital to lose, so that China is such an exceptionally prosperous place that the absence of the one needful element of successful trading in every other part of the world is a passport to wealth there. It would be as idle to follow out arguments based upon such theories as it would be to dispute the reviewer's statement that "China gave, in long past ages, the three great discoveries to Europe, by which the nations of the West have mainly achieved their superiority—the compass, printing, and gunpowder;" or to see in that admitted fact any good reason why the Chinese should not "now receive the law from the descendants of the Teuton and the Celt," meaning the Chambers of Commerce at Shanghai and Hong Kong; when those "descendants of the Teuton and the Celt" wish to repay their obligations by inducting them into the principles of "civilisation and progress," so unpalatable to the critical successor of BROUGHAM and SIDNEY SMITH.

The only point that deserves serious notice about the present article seems to us to be the fact of its being published just before the meeting of Parliament, and by way of excusing the "do-nothing" policy of Lord MELBOURNE, which the Reviewer so warmly recommends. We do not think that his recommendation will carry much weight with the present Government, which, we believe, is at length fully alive to the importance of placing our future relations with China on a secure and permanent basis. As for the Reviewer's sneers at the "merchants and missionaries," they are too evidently dictated by personal feelings to call for any reply. We are only surprised to see them in the usually dispassionate pages of the Edinburgh Review, and wonder that, when the Editor found the MS. on his table, he did not put it aside with ST. AUSTINE'S motto:—

Hanc mensam indignam noverit esse sibi."

"DEATH BLOW TO CORRUPT PRACTICES."

In a recent issue we drew attention to a Chinese work which, though it had been for a long time privately circulated by the lower mandarins and literati, was only lately discovered by the members of the Christian missionary societies, who rendered essential service to the cause of progress and civilisation, as well as to that of religion, by translating it. The original work, it will be remembered, was entitled "A Death-Blow to Corrupt Doctrines." It purported to be merely "a plain statement of facts," compiled by "a man distressed in heart" at the introduction of Christianity into China, and "published by the gentry and people." As a matter of fact, it is a farrago of such loathsome and incredible calumnies—such enormous and hateful falsehoods—as, though they could not impose upon any but the most ignorant, must necessarily exercise great influence on the minds of the ignorant on whom they were imposed. This book has, therefore, as we explained in our former notice of it, been secretly used as a powerful engine against foreigners; every copy of it that has been discovered has been traced to the local yamun; and there can be little doubt that the animus, which resulted in the massacre at Tientsin, was greatly excited by its official circulation by the mandarins. Various causes, the most prominent among which is the abhorrent nature of its contents, must prevent even the translation of this work from being generally circulated in this country, notwithstanding the undoubted influence it has exercised, and the curiosity which it has therefore naturally excited among those interested in Chinese affairs. As, however, it throws important light on the organisation by which the mandarins strive to excite the people to hatred and outrage against foreigners under the pretext of religion, we willingly comply with the request of several subscribers that we should make known the kind of charges which are brought by the Chinese against Christian missionaries, their co-religionists, and converts.

The author of this libel, with great pains and no little research (for, unless his authorities are forged, he has attempted to verify all his assertions by quotations from Chinese writers), has collected every false and slanderous charge within his reach, and makes them the occasion of an appeal to the people to rise against foreigners and exterminate them. We quite agree with the translators that this "is not an ordinarily obscene book; nor are its obscenities their own end. They have a subtle aim. It is to connect with the very idea of a foreigner associations the lowest and most repulsive; and for this reason its obscenity constitutes one of its most dangerous features. It may seem to some that, in a book so full of wholesale falsehoods, its excesses are its own refutation; but the author doubtless understood his readers better than we do. He knew their extreme ignorance in everything relating to foreigners, and with what credulity they drink in such stories as those here presented." Of these stories, so far as they are connected with sensual crimes, we cannot, of course, enter into any description here. It must suffice to state that they are so revolting as to lead to the idea that they are intended by their inventors to disgust their countrymen with Christianity by reason of practices alleged to be involved in it. Of the other false charges which the author brings against foreigners, the principal are the scooping out of the eyes of dying persons for the sake of using them in some process by which to increase the value of silver; the administration of medicine in the form of pills which deprive the recipients of reason, and so place them in the power of the missionaries for vile purposes which are said to be part of the ceremony of "conversion" to the Christian religion, or rather of admission into the Christian Church; and the teaching their converts to abandon or desecrate their ancestral tablets, or pedigrees, of all things the dearest to the traditions of the strict Chinese.

By way of casting contempt upon Christian foreigners, treating them as wizards, and teaching how they may be exorcised, or rendered harmless, their reverence for the symbol of the Cross is brought against them as a cabalistic sign; it is said that they dare not step upon it, or pass over it, and therefore the Chinese are recommended to describe crosses in their road if they wish to detect them or drive them back. It may, from this, be thought that the book is mainly directed against Roman Catholics, and that Protestant missionaries are not implicated in it; but the translators inform us that, in the body of the book, "Protestants and Roman Catholics are expressly declared to be the same; and it is explicitly stated that the distinction made between them in the recent treaties is a mere pretence or subterfuge, devised for the purpose of avoiding the obloquy, which the previous history of that religion has brought upon itself. It is furthermore notorious that the masses of the population class all Europeans together, and their religion they regard as one."

The book concludes with a copy of a petition for the expulsion of the "non-human species," as the foreigners are described. This petition, we are informed, grew out of the persecution of Roman Catholics in Hunan, about ten years since. Though professedly an apology for that persecution, it is in reality a justification of it; and it is introduced to show the manner in which foreigners should be regarded and treated at the present time. This document charges the "followers of the sect of Jesus" with inciting rebellion throughout the Chinese Empire. It alleges that every one who enters this sect must first chop to pieces his ancestral tablets and the tablets of the five gods; and it repeats the fabrications concerning the so-called "medicine of seduction, pretended to be the pill of immortality," and the cutting out of the eyes and hearts of dying men, to which we have already alluded. After stating that the Christian foreigners opened shops for the sale of candy and medicine, "by which very many children were purged to death, while grown people were crazed, and wished to enter the sect," it proceeds:—"The sect has several tens of boats that ply throughout the year, which load and carry goods from place to place, making several trips every month. Each boat has on it several hundred wooden casks, which are received and discharged at the Shang Shui temple outside the city. These casks are sealed up very tightly, and there is no knowing what they contain." "If, after the EMPEROR had made the treaty with them, they had in any reasonable degree restrained themselves, the sect being only a sect, and the people still only people (i.e., if they had confined themselves to their religion), we might mutually have remained at peace, and had no disturbance. But they contemned our laws, mocked our ancient sages, corrupted our customs, destroyed our social virtues, treated our

"mandarins with indignity, allured our children and younger brothers, and spied out our cities and suburbs." The end of this tirade is a supplication to the EMPEROR to "drive out violently the non-human species."

Such is a sketch of part of the system by which the mandarins strive to excite hatred of foreigners in the minds of the lower orders, who are not naturally hostile to them, and who have, indeed, every reason to welcome their presence among them, since wherever Europeans have penetrated the opportunities for the extortion and oppression of the mandarins and literati have been circumscribed. Of this class CHUNG HOW, the newly-appointed Envoy Extraordinary, is of course a member, and the report which he takes back with him on his return from England and France will necessarily exercise great influence on their future policy. Prejudiced as we may be, both by the associations of the party to which CHUNG HOW belongs, and by the report of his own conduct on the occasion of the massacre at Tientsin, it is most important that we should receive with patient attention whatever explanation of that unhappy affair he may be prepared to give. We fully agree with our correspondent "TAU," whose letter we print in another column, that CHUNG HOW may possibly "make a clean breast of it," though we own we are not sanguine on this point. But, in any case, we must give an impartial hearing to whatever representations the Chinese Envoy may be prepared to make, if we expect him to attach due weight to our own demands.

MESSRS. H. STARR AND CO., the London agents of the Pacific Mail Company and the Union and Central Pacific Railways, have just issued a map showing all the connections of the line, and we understand that a special traffic agent, is now making a tour of the Far East, and may be expected in London shortly, via Bombay. This tour was undertaken to gather practical experience of travelling throughout the ports of India, China, Japan, and Australia, and to make arrangements with the various steam companies connecting those places for granting through or "round voyage" tickets at a saving on the present rates. In connection with the Pacific Mail Company, we hear by last advices from New York that the company's paddle-steamer Alaska, 3,000 tons, is intended to follow the Arizona—noticed in our last—via Suez Canal, to take up her station on the China line. Passengers for Singapore and China can avail of this opportunity by joining at Suez. Her large cabin accommodation renders her a very desirable vessel for the heat of the Red Sea. We can also state that the company have arranged with the railways for the transit of goods to and from China and Japan.

THE directors of the P. and O. Company have at length resolved to revise their tariff of fares, and to make the rates exclusive of wines and spirits. This is a sign of the times, and an evidence that the directors rightly appreciate the force of public opinion. The system of making those who do not drink wine pay for those who do is a relic of a bygone age, which the directors have done well to sweep away. It must be very encouraging to our friend Mr. JONES, their loquacious but "thorough" shareholder, to find his prophecies beginning to come true, and the "potent signors" of the Board yielding to reforms which they have so long opposed. The revised tariff will be issued in a few days. We may also mention, in connection with this company, that the working of the steamers from Calcutta to Galle, Suez, and Bombay and back by Suez and Galle to Calcutta, will be continued, the China steamers, as before, plying between Bombay, Straits and China. The Candia has been ordered home, through the Suez Canal, to take the home station for a time.

THE acquisition of Saigon, in French Cochinchina, for a German naval station, as part of the indemnity to be exacted from France, has been discussed from time to time by the German press, and the Berlin Geographical Society has just issued a report which is favourable to the project. It is urged that the increasing German trade in Eastern Asia renders the constant presence of men-of-war necessary, and that in so remote a part of the world the German fleet requires for its protection a station where it can rendezvous and refit.

LORD NAPIER has accepted the offer of an extension beyond the ordinary period of his Government of Madras, and will therefore remain for the present in the Presidency. This fact disposes at once of the discussion which has prevailed in Ceylon for some time past, relative to the appointment of Sir HERCULES ROBINSON to the post.

NEWSPAPER POST TO THE EAST.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE TIMES."

SIR,—A memorial from bankers, merchants, brokers, and others engaged in the trade of China, Japan, Australia, and India, praying for a reduction in the charge for postage on newspapers conveyed by post between Great Britain and those places, has been circulated with a view to submission to Her Majesty's Postmaster-General. You are aware that Her Majesty's mails for Egypt, Aden, Ceylon, India, Singapore, Penang, Borneo, Java, the Philippine Islands, China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, and the Mauritius, are on this side of the Isthmus of Suez conveyed in two distinct packets and by two different routes. One portion is carried by sea from Southampton, via Gibraltar and Malta, to Alexandria; the other is conveyed by rail to Brindisi, in Italy, and thence by sea to Alexandria. The postage by the former route is considerably cheaper than that by the latter, the time occupied being, on the other hand, from seven to eight days longer. I venture to suggest, for the consideration of the memorialists and the postal authorities, whether it would not be convenient to convey the whole Eastern mail via Brindisi, and to abandon the Southampton route altogether. It ought not to cost very much more to convey the whole than it now does to convey the partial mail by the former route to Alexandria. The entire outlay on the Southampton route would, on the other hand, be saved, and the Government should thereby be enabled to effect a considerable reduction in the postage by Brindisi. That even a large reduction would result in eventual gain to the Post-office I do not doubt. A letter may now be sent to America for 3d. but it is not possible to send one to Alexandria for less than 6d., or to India for less than 9d. It is often urged that a reduction in the rate of postage to the East would not, as has been the case elsewhere, result in any increase in the number of letters. The correspondence consists, it is said, of letters between commercial houses and their agents, and between well-to-do people in the East and their relatives at home, each of which would be sent whatever the postage. That a reduced postage would result in an increase even of commercial letters is not, in my opinion, open to doubt, and that letters of friendship would largely increase is, I think, equally certain. The European community resident in the East is almost exclusively drawn from the middle classes at home. To the members of that community the heavy postage, owing to the comparatively small purchasing power of money in the East, is not perhaps a heavy burden, but to those who would correspond with them from home the rate is, unless in the case of near and dear relatives, absolutely prohibitory. Very many letters of friendship, which a lower postage would permit, are thus absolutely barred, for a correspondence cannot be continued from one side only. Even between relatives a lower rate of postage would permit the despatch of many letters not now sent, and correspondence now too frequently suspended after short terms of separation would be maintained for longer periods and with greater frequency. The experience of families whose members have dispersed, some to the Eastern and some to the Western hemisphere, is certainly in favour of this opinion. The recent reduction of letter postage from 1s. 1d. to 1s. on letters conveyed to India by the Brindisi as compared with the former Marseilles route has given great satisfaction; but I do not doubt that, were the change I have suggested effected, a much greater reduction would be possible. As to the postage on newspapers, the European population in the East, being, as I have said, drawn from the middle classes at home, is an intelligent and reading population. Owing to the rapid advance of civilisation the educated and intelligent portion of the native communities in our Eastern dependencies is from day to day becoming larger. Politically, it ought to be an important object to the Government to induce and facilitate its attention to and interest in the affairs of the civilised countries of Europe, and thus enable it to bring a more intelligent judgment to bear on its own administration. A ready access to the journals which mould and guide the public opinion of England ought, above all things, to be afforded by the Indian Government to the native community of India. Our Eastern subjects would thus be rendered familiar with the motives which actuate our Government, and enabled to take truer and more correct views of its public policy; and the groundless fears which from time to time agitate them, such as that which preceded the Mutiny of 1857, would be, to a large extent, counteracted. While this ought to be the aim of the Government, the large transmission of European literature to which, considering the intelligent character of the communities of the East and the interest they take in the politics of Great Britain, it may be safely inferred that a cheap postage would give rise, should make it the aim of the Post-office also. What is the postage which the Post-office has thought it right to impose? A copy of your paper may be conveyed to San Francisco, a distance of over 6,000 miles, for 2d. It cannot be sent to India by the quick route for less than 8d., which is virtually a prohibitory rate.

I venture to hope that this matter may be thought worthy of the attention of your journal, and that the interest now being taken in it will result in the adoption of the Brindisi route for the entire postal communication with the East, and of a scale of postage on the transmission of letters and papers thereby, more adapted than the present to the requirements of the community, and which will ultimately be without doubt beneficial also to the postal revenue. ORIENT.

TRIAL TRIP OF THE "ENTERPRISE."—On Friday, the 20th inst., the S.S. Enterprise, built by Messrs. Henderson, Coulborn, and Co., Renfrew, went on her trial trip before leaving for London to load for the East. Her dimensions are: length, 260 ft.; breadth, 34 ft. 6 in.; depth to upper deck, 28 ft., and she is fitted with the builders' compound engines of 280-horse power nominal, working up to 1,300 effective. The trial was made under somewhat disadvantageous circumstances, as her propeller was not properly immersed, but in spite of this she ran from the Cloch to Cumbrae lights in sixty-two minutes, giving a speed of 13.225 knots per hour as an average, on a consumption of sixteen tons of coal per day. Her arrangements are of a somewhat novel type for thorough ventilation in a hot climate. She is built to the highest class in Lloyds, as a three-decked ship, but above this all the accommodation for passengers and crew is placed in the form of a full poop; for passengers long bridge under which the officers' quarters are placed, and topgallant forecabin for the crew. By this means all the inconveniences of confined space and heat from the engine-room, usual under the third deck, is obviated, a most invaluable point for hot climates. From her great power and speed this vessel is expected to be amongst the foremost, if not the quickest steamer, engaged in the China trade for tea. This vessel arrived to-day from Glasgow, averaging nearly 13 knots with head winds.

ARRIVAL OF THE "DIOMED" FROM HONG KONG WITH TROOPS.—The screw steamer Diomed, of Liverpool, Captain Penrice, arrived at Spithead on the 21st inst., and shortly after entered Portsmouth harbour. She has brought home from Hong Kong the officers and crew of Her Majesty's troopship Adventure, who have been relieved by another crew, several naval invalid officers and men from different ships on the station, besides thirty-two men, women, and children 75th Regiment. Her list comprises Lieut. G. C. Carter, Lieut. Bloxome, Surg. C. A. Lees; Mr. Topp, Chief Engineer; Assist.-Surg. J. M. Carty; Navigating Sub-Lieut. G. W. Henderson; Assist.-Paymasters A. P. Whiting and A. W. Askham; Engineers, J. King, J. Woodfield, T. Hancock, and J. Smith; gunner, Mr. F. F. Hall; boatswain, Mr. Barry, from the Adventure; Engineers, Mr. F. Blackburn and Mr. F. Phillips; Acting-Lieut. T. Haigh; Chief Engineer, Mr. Murray, from the Princess Charlotte; Paymaster, Mr. T. North; Clerk, Mr. J. Boulton, from the Barrosa; Asst.-Paymaster, Mr. A. Clements, from the Hornet; Navigating Lieut. H. Jarrard, from the Sylvia; 262 seamen, including time-expired men and invalids. The troops disembarked in the course of the afternoon, and were sent to quarters in the garrison, and the naval officers and seamen were removed to the Duke of Wellington, flagship of Admiral Sir J. Hope, K.C.B. The Diomed has made a good voyage, in fifty-four days, via Suez Canal, having left Hong Kong November 20, 1870. She left for London to discharge her cargo of tea.

THE "STANDARD" ON THE FRENCH ACTION IN THE TIENTSIN AFFAIR.—Even if the Chinese Government should be compelled to pay the money now demanded, European interests in China will gain nothing from such a submission. The right way to punish the Chinese for such outrages as that committed at Tientsin is to make them grant fresh concessions to commerce and fresh securities for the safety of foreigners. If European Powers were as backward in civilisation as the Chinese themselves, they could demand blood money in compensation for wrongs. We, who ought to aim at promoting true progress in China, should seek our redress in the victories of progress. Tenderness for Chinese prejudice leads us to forbear from insisting on various concessions which the real interests of China, as well as of European countries, render desirable. If each fresh act of barbarism committed by the Chinese were signalised by the seizure of new privileges for Western nations, the Chinese authorities would feel themselves punished, and at the same time permanent good would be effected.

THE CHINESE IN CALIFORNIA.—By the State laws of California a Chinese is debarred from giving evidence in courts of law. Some time ago, however, a Chinaman brought an action to recover a large sum of money from a citizen of the State, and the judge before whom the case came decided to receive the Chinaman's evidence, on the ground that the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution of the United States override and repeal all statutes of State legislatures inconsistent with them. The defendant appealed to the Supreme Court of the State of California, where, strange to say, the decision of the Court below has been reversed, on the ground that the Constitutional Amendments cannot affect and do not abrogate or annul a State law regulating the practice in the courts of law. It is scarcely possible that this ruling can be maintained. If it is, then it is evident that the Amendments must, to great extent, remain a dead letter.

JUDGMENT was delivered on the 21st inst. in the appeal of Mr. Harrison against the decision of Vice-Chancellor Stuart, substituting his name for that of his confidential clerk, Mr. C. J. Johnson, on the list of contributories of the Bank of Hindustan. The question turned on the validity of the transfer in 1866 of six hundred and forty shares by Mr. Harrison to Mr. Johnson. Their lordships being of opinion that the transfer was perfectly valid, held Mr. Johnson liable to pay the call now made on Mr. Harrison. The appeal was, therefore, dismissed.

The Russian Steam Company to India and China, via Suez Canal, which we noticed some time since, have announced their first steamer, the Nachimoff, 2,000 tons, to leave Odessa for Bombay in this month. The Tchihatchoff, 2,000 tons, leaves in February for Hankow, calling at the ports en route. The company announce that "in no case will the rates of freight or passage be higher than the P. and O. Company or other lines."

The examination conducted by the committee to examine into the affairs of Messrs. Higson, West, and Co., Manchester, have found that the business has been conducted in a very unsatisfactory manner, and simply resolved itself into procuring as much property as possible on credit, and getting advances on the same. Purchases have been made up to within a few days of stoppage, and goods pledged which had been advanced on. The balance-sheet shows £77,764 liabilities, against £7,359 assets. The private expenditure was also excessive; horse-racing and other fast propensities seem to have formed part of it. Mr. Higson drew out, since 1864, £17,000, and Mr. West £11,000. During all this time no profits are apparent. It is believed that the partners have made themselves liable to a criminal prosecution under the Bankruptcy Act, and warrants are out for their arrest. How is it that sellers and advancers cannot take more pains, and avoid supporting such unprincipled men? How is it possible for respectable and responsible firms to trade against such odds? No wonder that the China markets are glutted while advances on goods are made so carelessly.

At the meeting of the proprietors of the City Bank, the directors' report was adopted. The gross profits for the six months amounted to £44,282 with the balance brought forward. A dividend was declared at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, leaving, after making provision for current expenses, and rebate of interest on bills discounted not yet due, and adding £5,000 to the reserved fund, increasing it to £100,000, the sum of £1,585 to the credit of the present half-year. The current and deposit accounts, letters of credit, &c., amount to £2,436,186, and the acceptances to £1,837,729.

The report of the Alliance Bank (Limited) shows an available total of £18,975, and recommends a dividend of 3 per cent. per annum, which will absorb £14,559, and leave a balance of £4,079 to be carried forward. The net profits of the Metropolitan Bank amount to £10,944, out of which it is proposed to declare a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum. The London Joint-Stock Bank report shows the net profit for the half-year to be £110,293; a dividend and a bonus equal to 18½ per cent. per annum for the six months are recommended. The North-Western Bank (Limited), Liverpool, has declared a dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, and an addition of £10,000 to the reserve fund. The directors of the Union Bank of Manchester have announced a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, and a bonus of 3s. per share. The Bank of Egypt dividend is announced at 10 per cent. per annum, and a bonus of 30s. per share. The report of the National Discount Company shows an available total of £69,958, including a previous balance of £2,497, and recommends a dividend at the rate of 17 per cent. per annum, which will absorb £67,819, and leave £2,139 to be carried forward.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta £399,000, and to Bombay £1,000. The minimum price was fixed as before, at 1s. 10d. on all the Presidencies, and tenders at 1s. 10½d. will receive about 66 per cent. These results show a further slight diminution in the demand for means of remittance to the East.

Messrs. William Turquand and R. P. Harding, the liquidators of Overend, Gurney, and Company (Limited), have issued a report in which it is stated:—

"In our last report we informed the shareholders that a bill had been filed against the directors of the company, with the view of making them responsible for the losses incident to the purchase of the business, which have been sustained by the shareholders. The bill was demurred to by the executors of the late Mr. Gibb, and the demurrer was argued before Vice-Chancellor Malins, who overruled it, but on appeal to the Lord Chancellor the decision of the Vice-Chancellor was reversed. This, in effect, would have put an end to the proceedings, but from the great importance of the case we considered it to be our duty to submit the judgment of the Lord Chancellor and the opinions of counsel thereon to the Vice-Chancellor, who thereupon directed an appeal to the House of Lords. This appeal is still pending, and we are advised that it is hardly possible it can come on for hearing during the next Session."

An application was made on the 21st by Mr. Linklater, under liquidation proceedings instituted by Messrs. Julius Liebert and Edwin Rogerson, merchants, for the appointment of a receiver, and for an interim injunction to restrain actions which were pending against the debtors. The debtors, who had been in a very extensive way of business, filed their petition on Thursday last, and Feb. 9 was appointed for the first meeting. The liabilities of the firm were estimated at no less than £300,000, of which the unsecured creditors represent about £80,000, with assets of considerable value, consisting of consignments, goods on the premises at Manchester, and in various docks and warehouses in London, and outstanding debts. At the instance of the Consolidated Bank, an action was pending against the debtors; an action had also been brought by one Maximilian Low for commission; and in the interest of the general body of the creditors it was desirable that the property should be protected. The Court appointed Mr. Kealy, accountant, of 45 Cornhill, receiver, and granted an interim injunction.

The Bank of Hindostan announce that all claims have now been paid with interest except one in dispute by the Bank of Bombay. A report showing the liquidation will shortly be issued.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

Public sales of China Teas, comprising 10,344 packages, were commenced on the 17th inst., on which day 5,302 packages passed, and 4,108 packages found buyers, all being without reserve. The sales presented no feature of interest, chiefly consisting of broken and dusty teas, inferior to common Congou. A few parcels of new season's teas brought previous rates. Several breaks of low Amoy Congou sold at 7½d. Ping Suey and coarse Moyune Green sold heavily at a decided decline for the lower kinds. The sale concluded on the 18th, when 3,875 packages sold, all being without reserve. Two breaks of medium black leaf, in half-chests, brought 1s. 6½d., private contract rates. Two parcels of low Foochow dusty siftings sold at 3½d. to 4d. Green teas showed no improvement on the first day's depressed rates. The following is the classification of the teas offered at the sale:—Congou, 4,978; Moning Siftings, 20; Kaisow Siftings, 91; Scented Caper, 287; Souchong, 270; Scented Orange Pekoe, 7; Twankay, 116; Hyson, 196; Young Hyson, 898; Yong Hyson Siftings, 21; Imperial, 795; Gunpowder, 2,665; Total, 10,344 packages. Another sale, comprising 5,087 packages, all "without reserve," took place on the 19th. In Teas of new import a chop of inferior black leaf Congou brought 10½d., and a chop of half-chests, of fair quality, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 2½d.; these prices showed no alteration. About 2,000 chests and half-chests of old season's red-leaf Congou sold heavily at 10½d. to 11½d. An invoice of inferior Moyune Green Tea sold with rather better spirit, but at about the previous public sale rates.

SILK.

There is little if any change in the market; for China there is a steady demand at prices which have slightly stiffened, and for Cantons continued inquiry for Tattee reel, for which the quotations are now a shade higher. Japan Silk continues neglected, transactions being of a most limited nature. Deliveries are satisfactory.

COFFEE.

The demand has continued to run chiefly upon Native Ceylon, for which an active demand has been shown principally for floating parcels; at auction of 810 bags offered 230 bags were sold, small at 49s. 6d. to 50s., peaberry at 56s. to 58s., the remainder being bought in, fine ordinary at 56s., bold at 60s., subsequently 154 casks fine ordinary sold at 55s.; for arrival 3,000 bags have been sold at 55s. without guarantee, and 55s. 6d. quality guaranteed; privately sales of good ordinary have been made on the spot at 54s. 6d. to 55s., and 1,500 bags have been sold for arrival at 55s. 6d. to 56s., quality guaranteed. For Plantation Ceylon an active enquiry was exhibited immediately following our last report, and 423 casks 108 tierces 89 barrels 1,029 bags sold, triage and ordinary, 45s. to 54s. 6d., small, 55s. 6d. to 60s. 6d., low middling grey to middling greyish, 59s. 6d. to 61s., bold ditto, 64s. to 69s., middling color, 61s. 6d. to 67s., good to fine middling bold, 69s. 6d. to 75s. 6d., good, 81s. 6d., pea-berry, 70s. to 76s.; these prices showing an advance of about 6d. per cwt. upon those previously ruling; the market since has been less active, the sales only amounting to 48 casks 2 tierces 26 bags, realising: small, 57s. to 58s. 6d., middling, 64s. 6d. to 65s., bold, 74s. 6d. to 75s., pea-berry, 77s. Sales of other East India kinds have comprised 250 bags Singapore at 50s. to 64s. per cwt.

SUGAR.

The active demand noticed in our last report continued until the close of the week, when prices showed an advance of 6d. upon common and 1s. 6d. upon good descriptions over the prices of the previous week. Since then a quieter tone has been manifested; the demand for suitable refining kinds continues steady, and prices are in some instances dearer, but common qualities are only in moderate request, and the total transactions are not extensive. The sales reported include the following:—At auction 300 bags brown Penang at 25s. 6d. to 27s. 6d. and 1,800 bags clayed Manila (duty 4s.) at 25s. 6d.; an offer of 3,200 bags low Java syrups was bought in at 20s. 6d. and 520 bags fine Java (duty 5s. 8d.) at 39s.; a floating cargo of 570 tons Java No. 12½ which was offering in the market has been sold at an outpost at about 31s. 10½d., privately 2,000 bags good clayed Manila (duty 4s. 9d.) have been sold at 28s.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—There is still only a moderate demand for Ceylon, but prices remain steady; at public sale 32 pipes fair sold at £38 10s., 10 puncheons at £38 10s., and 45 hogsheds at £38 15s. to £39; very low dark £31. Privately a small business is doing at £38 10s. for pipes, and £39 5s. for hogsheds.

CUTCH.—The market continues very quiet; at auction early in the week 500 boxes good Pegu were bought in at 23s., and about 500 bags at 19s. 6d. Since the auction a portion of the boxes has been sold 22s. 6d.

GAMBIER.—There is still but limited inquiry, and transactions continue to be on a limited scale, the only sale since our last being, for arrival, 30 tons distant shipment, at 15s. 3d. ex ship.

GALLS.—Offers of China have met with a fair demand, and sales are reported of 51 boxes at 41s., and 192 cases at 41s. 6d. to 42s., one lot realising 42s. 6d.

HIDES.—At the last sales the large quantity of East India Hides offered attracted a full attendance of both home and foreign buyers, and with a good general demand the catalogues were nearly cleared. Prices were somewhat irregular, but generally ruled from extreme former rates to ½d. per lb. advance. 29,914 Singapore and Penang Cow Hides offered, 24,871 sold—Dry, best light, 10½d.; seconds, 8d. to 9d.; best heavy, 9d.; extra heavy, 5d. to 7½d.; extra heavy, 5½d. to 8d.; best small, 10½d.; seconds, 7½d.; third do., 5d.; small and Calf, 5d. to 8½d.; thirds, 4½d. to 6½d.; fourths, 3½d. to 5½d.; brined, light, 9d.; heavy, 8½d.; extra heavy, 8d. per lb. 479 Coochin Brined Hides offered and sold—Seconds and small, 7½d.; thirds, 6½d. per lb. 1,612 Ceylon Hides offered, 1,612 sold—Light and small, 6d.; heavy, 5½d.; extra do., 5½d.; thirds, 5d.; fourths, 4d.; Buffalo, 4½d. per lb. 4,907 Singapore and Penang Buffalo Hides offered, 1,955 sold—best heavy, 4½d. to 5½d.; seconds, 3½d. to 4½d.; light, 6d. to 6½d. per lb. 1,386 Manila Buffalo Hides offered, 911 sold—best heavy, 4d.; seconds, 3½d. per lb.

HEMP.—There is still but an inactive market for Manila; at public sale 1,883 bales offered met little demand and were nearly all withdrawn or bought in, fair to fine roping at £53 to £56, only 150 bales being sold, Sorsagon at £54, fair at £53, brown at £46. Subsequently about 100 bales withdrawn from the sale were sold privately, Boluzan at £55.

ISINGLASS.—A large supply both of Brazil and East India offered at auction met less demand, and only a portion found buyers at some decline. Of 26 cases 18 bags Penang offered a few lots leaf sold at 3s. 4d. to 3s. 10d., 6 cases 9 bags Singapore were chiefly sold, good to fine tongue at 3s. 8d. to 4s., middling to fair 3s. to 3s. 6d. per lb.

For arrival 2,000 bales Penang October shipment have been sold at 5 9-16d. White has met a good demand, about 800 bags Singapore have been sold at 7d. to 7½d. short to full prompt, showing an advance. Subsequently the demand became more active, and large transactions, amounting to about 2,500 bags, were effected at advancing prices, commencing at 7½d., and closing at 7½d.

ARTICLES OF EXPORT.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

During the week this market has been strong and fairly active, and a considerable amount of business has been done, particularly in fabrics suitable for the India and China markets. Prices remain unchanged since our last report, and are, as a rule, firmly adhered to by producers. Buyers seem generally to have supplied their wants for the moment, and are disinclined to extend their commitments unless at some reduction upon current values.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

In general debility, mental depression, and nervous irritability, there is no medicine which operates so like a charm as these famous Pills. They purify the blood, soothe and strengthen the nerves and system, give tone to the stomach, elevate the spirits, and, in fact, make the patient sensible of a total and most delightful revolution in his whole system. They may be commended most unreservedly as the very best family medicine in existence. Though so powerfully efficacious they are singularly mild in their operation, and might be given with perfect confidence to delicate women and young children. They contain not a grain of mercury, or any other noxious substance, and cannot do harm. Delicate females and all persons of sedentary habits will find these Pills a blessing.

LAYING OF THE BRITISH INDIAN EXTENSION TELEGRAPH COMPANY'S CABLE BETWEEN PENANG AND MADRAS.

Our readers will have learned some time since from our telegraphic news of the successful completion of the last section of the above named company's cable, which took place at Madras on the 31st December, 1870. The following is a description of the laying, which will be read with interest:—

On Saturday, the 17th December, the preliminary arrangements on shore at Penang were in a forward state, and the steamships Scanderia and Edinburgh, of a combined net tonnage of about 4,300 tons, and with 1,426 knots of cable on board, were in complete readiness to commence their important operations. On the invitation of Captain Halpin, the representative of the Telegraph Construction Company, his Excellency Colonel Anson, R.A., Lieut-Governor of Penang (or Prince of Wales's Island), with Mrs. Anson and suite, visited the s.s. Edinburgh, and were entertained at tiffin on board. The day was bright and fine, the two ships were dressed in their gayest colours, and as the Governor and his party approached the ship—both vessels fired a salute, and the Edinburgh manned yards in true man-of-war fashion. This ceremony was repeated when the Governor and his party left the ship and returned to the shore.

At daylight on Monday, the 19th December, the s.s. Scanderia commanded by Captain Carrol, came to anchor in position about one mile from the cable house, and in a few hours after the heavy shore end was passed from ship to shore, the usual tests taken, the speaking arrangements adjusted, and a little before noon paying out had commenced, and proceeded slowly and cautiously for nearly three hours, when ten knots of heavy shore end was paid out clear of all probable anchorages, and then the intermediate sized cable, weighing nearly 3½ tons to the knot, was commenced to be laid, and this extended a further distance of 160 knots, until the water deepened to about 200 fathoms, when the paying out of the main or deep sea cable commenced. Previous to arriving at this point, the paying out ship had passed the last sounding, viz., 55 fathoms, that is marked on the chart, and from this to a point about twelve miles from Madras there is not a sounding on the chart, although there can be little doubt that the greater part of the distance is in water varying from 1,500 to 2,000 fathoms, and probably more. This is a serious disadvantage to those responsible for the safe laying of the cable, which latter, to add to the difficulties, is of much greater specific gravity than any of the Atlantic cables, and in proportion to its weight in water has far less intrinsic strength to resist heavy strains.

The want of soundings was not, however, the fault of the directors, or of anybody connected with the company, as the original line selected—viz., Point de Galle to Penang—had been at their request sounded, the result of which showed that the depth of water for nearly the whole distance was pretty uniform, varying from 2,000 to 2,300 fathoms. It was almost at the last moment, and to meet the views of the Indian Government, the place of departure from Ceylon to Madras was altered, when there was no time to have soundings taken.

This omission, as the result has shown, was really of no disadvantage to the cable as actually carried out; but it proved to all on board connected with the paying out of the cable a source of much anxiety and prolonged trouble, especially when we take into account six days of continuous bad and squally weather, with high and very lumpy seas. It certainly had the effect of keeping everyone on the alert both day and night. This, no doubt, induced more than ordinary caution in the management of the paying out machine, as well as attention in the holds, where the cable was beautifully coiled. The result has proved a complete success, and this cable is probably, taken as a whole, one of the best, if not the best, laid cable hitherto placed at the bottom of the sea. Its iron and steel sheath, further protected with asphalt outer covering (in accordance with Latimer Clark's patent), should be proof against all contingencies that might possibly happen to it.

The two ships kept close together during the operation of laying, and Captain Halpin kept the non-paying out ship busy sounding, which arrangement answered very well until 600 fathoms were exceeded; after that there was neither time nor sufficiently good tackle on board to enable the captains to get really reliable deep sea soundings. About 1 p.m. on the 2nd the steamship Scandaria had expended her 391 miles of cable, and the end was buoyed while the splice with the Edinburgh's cable was making. The depth of water at this place, according to soundings taken by the Edinburgh, was 1,284 fathoms.

At 7.30 p.m. the transfer was complete, the joint and splice made, tested, and proved, and paying out recommenced, the Scandaria now becoming the attendant ship, for taking soundings. At daylight on the 23rd December the paying out ship entered the Sombrero Channel, between the Nicobar Islands, and before sunset we were getting clear of the channel, and deepening our water pretty rapidly. Up to this point the weather proved fine, but from the time the splice was made between the two ships we got into a strong N.E. monsoon, with high and very lumpy seas, continuing until the 29th inst., until we were within a day's run of Madras. The unsettled weather commenced with a great exhibition of waterspouts, and on one occasion a very large one burst about three miles astern of the paying out ship.

Fortunately for all on board, no really stirring event occurred during the whole time paying out proceeded, and the only thing that interrupted the monotony was an occasional change of tanks, when the ship had to be slowed down gradually, and eventually stopped until the paying out was safely transferred from one tank to the other. This operation was performed in about twelve minutes from the first time of slowing down the engines to going on again at the usual speed.

At 7 a.m., Dec. 28, the Scandaria's boat came alongside with Captain Carroll to receive instructions as to proceeding a head to lay down a buoy at about ten miles from Madras, where the junction with the shore end is to be made. At noon the Scandaria made an ineffectual attempt to get soundings, and having parted and lost some 1,200 fathoms of sounding line, she then proceeded at full speed a-head for Madras.

The next night about 10 p.m. the Madras light came in sight on our starboard bow, and shortly after a rocket from the Edinburgh soon brought a response from the Scandaria, then in position on our port bow; the course was then changed, and three hours after the ship's engines were stopped, the anchor down, and the cable remained attached to the ship without strain until daylight on the 30th Dec., when the cable was cut and buoyed, and soon after both steamers were at anchor in Madras roads. Experience of the surf and Mussoolah boats was soon gained by many on board who were anxious to set foot on shore once more, having had enough of the anxiety and dirt of paying out ships.

The remainder of the day was fully occupied in making preparations to land the shore end, and through the kind exertions of Captain Elphinston Dalrympal, the Master Attendant, and his assistants, a very fine raft was constructed, and several Mussoolah boats and some two hundred naked coolies were engaged, besides a heavy anchor being buried in the beach, to which was attached a single purchase crab to assist the hauling on shore. These preparations took nearly all night to get ready, while nearly all the rank and fashion of Madras were enjoying themselves at the Governor's ball. And the next morning, Saturday, the 31st December, while the above said rank and fashion were in bed, the extra heavy shore end was landed through the surf by means of the raft, a chain of boats, and the 200 naked coolies. It was an extraordinary, exciting, and noisy scene, and one that was quite worthy of a photograph. Unfortunately this was not taken, as none of the inhabitants had any idea the landing would take place so soon.

At 11.30 a.m. the Edinburgh had her anchor up, and commenced paying out towards the buoy; the Scandaria proceeded ahead, picked up the buoy and end of cable, and also picked up about three-quarters of a mile of the deep sea cable. The end was then cut and passed over to the Edinburgh, which about three p.m. had completed the laying of the shore end. The final splice was at once proceeded with, and, as the last sun of the year 1870 went down, the splice that consummated the marriage of Penang and Madras was, with many hearty cheers from both ships, committed to the deep. Six hours after that the contract time would have expired; but as the contract was then finished, all on board took the opportunity of enjoying themselves; and with firing of guns, burning of blue lights and rockets, with an excellent performance on the fore-castle of the Edinburgh of six nigger melodist sailors, and a supper of cold meats and hot baked potatoes, handsomely provided by Captain Cato, of the Edinburgh, washed down with champagne, enabled us in a becoming manner to see the old year out and the new year in.

Thus was a very important extension of telegraphs between Madras, Penang, Singapore, and Batavia of 2,400 miles in length successfully completed. The electrical condition of the cable throughout was excellent, and two days' official tests by Mr. Forde, the engineer to the British Indian Telegraph Extension Company, were ample to convince him that the work was well and truly performed. That gentleman's certificate was yesterday handed to Captain Halpin, who conducted the expedition so successfully for his employers, the Telegraph Construction Company, and the line has this day (Jan. 4, 1871) been opened to the public.

CONSULAR REPORTS FOR 1869.

The Commercial Reports of the British Consuls in China, presented to both Houses of Parliament in August, 1870, have just been published in a Blue-book. Considering that the work consists of only 251 octavo pages, and that most of the documents reprinted in it are dated in the spring of last year, it is difficult to understand what sufficient reason could have existed for the delay in not bringing them before Parliament till last autumn, and not issuing them to the public till the present month. We observe that even yet the Shanghai report is not published. The present returns are from Kiukiang, Swatow, Ningpo, Canton, Foochow, Newchwang, Chinkiang, Chefoo, Amoy, Tientsin, and Hankow, and we give the information they contain, in the order which will be most acceptable to our readers.

HANKOW.

Mr. Consul Caine reports the total value of the import trade for 1869 as Tls. 16,392,453, or an increase of Tls. 1,295,515 over 1868. The total value of foreign goods imported was Tls. 10,144,388, or an increase of Tls. 195,127 on the previous year. The value of native imports also rose from Tls. 5,148,065 to Tls. 6,248,453. In opium there has been a great falling off since 1866. In sugar there is also a marked decrease. In sugar it is impossible for the foreigner to compete with the native, and the diminution in the quantity of foreign opium is, of course, attributable to the large tracts of land now exclusively devoted to the cultivation of the poppy in Szechuen and adjoining provinces. The great drawback to the advancement of this port to its natural position as one of the principal outlets for Manchester goods in the East is the very unsatisfactory mode of receiving all imports indirectly from Shanghai. There is no reason why sailing ships and steamers should not load direct for this port. During 1869 400 steamers passed up and down the river without casualty. But at present all the advantages of this port are reaped by natives and speculators, who make purchases at Shanghai for resale here, thus creating more middlemen between the manufacturer and the consumer. There is hardly any limit to be placed on the quantity of Manchester goods which might be consumed here if such could be imported at a low cost and of good wearing material. Native cloth is manufactured in these provinces to an enormous extent, and it is estimated that, on an average, 50,000,000 lbs. of cotton per annum are worked up into cloth.

The total value of the export trade was Tls. 14,840,037, or Tls. 640,930 less than 1868; but this difference is altogether attributable to the valuation of the tea. In 1868 the tea exported direct from this to Great Britain amounted to 41,446 piculs, valued at Tls. 1,390,260; and in 1869 to 44,981 piculs, valued at Tls. 1,218,915. There is in reality an increase in the export trade of the port for the last year. The total value of the whole trade of Hankow for 1868 amounted to Tls. 30,578,505, and in 1869 to Tls. 31,232,490, or an increase of Tls. 653,985, which may be looked upon as satisfactory. The province of Szechuen alone is computed to produce an annual average poppy crop of 6,000 piculs, though this last year it fell off one-third, the season being unfavourable, and Yunnan is said to produce more opium than Szechuen. The means of communication are good enough to enable Szechuen and Yunnan to supply every portion of the empire with such a portable article. Its cheapness is not the sole inducement to use native, to the gradual exclusion of Indian opium; when once the taste for the native drug is acquired it will perpetuate itself even if the economical consideration should pass away. Mr. Consul Caine believes that Hankow would become a large entrepot were such places as Ichang, Liang-tan, and Han River opened to foreign commerce. But trade must get more and more into the hands of the Chinese, and before long the foreigners will have little more than the carrying trade left unless they are permitted to reside where they can find the best markets and to travel at pleasure. The bugbear to direct trade with Hankow has hitherto been the dangers of the Yang-tze; but, with care and good pilots, these, which have been greatly exaggerated, could be overcome; and the opening of the Suez Canal might have a most beneficial effect on the trade of Hankow if steamers were loaded here with teas direct for foreign countries via the Canal.

KIUKIANG.

Mr. Consul Hughes reports the total value of the imports in foreign vessels, exclusive of treasure, £990,228. Of this sum rather more than one-third is represented by the value of cotton and woollen goods, chiefly of English manufacture. Opium stands for less than one-third; and the balance is principally made up of lead and tin, sugar, silk piece goods, dried fish, edible seaweed, and raw cotton. There is a decrease in the value of imports as compared with 1868 of £129,850; but the amount imported in that year was so much in excess of former years that large surplus stocks must have remained on hand. The chief cause of the decrease was, however, the rise in the waters of the Yangtze, which reduced the agricultural population to the greatest distress. No such destructive inundation has occurred since 1849. Despite these adverse circumstances, the import of grey shirtings and T-cloths, though less than in 1868, was more than double the average of preceding years, notwithstanding that the native cotton cloth is preferred by the humbler classes generally, on account of its superior thickness and durability. Camlets were imported to the value of £42,650, or more than in any previous year; and the increased demand for such expensive stuffs may be taken as an indication of the improved prosperity of the inhabitants. The value of cotton and woollen stuffs, which in previous years amounted to only about half that of opium, exceeded this year, as it did in 1868, the value of the opium traffic. In fact, for the past four years there has been a steady decrease in the importation of opium, but this is no proof that the practice of opium smoking is on the decline. There is no decrease in local consumption, but places formerly supplied from Kiukiang now obtain their supplies elsewhere. Native opium is not in favour here any more than in other districts of China, where the inhabitants have been inoculated with a taste for the foreign drug, though the latter is greatly adulterated. In 1869 the quantities of lead and tin imported exceeded those of any previous year, amounting to, lead, £35,588, tin, £34,065. The only other important item of imports which shows an increase is dried fish, principally cuttlefish from Ningpo, which is regarded as a luxury. The value of this import was £46,754, being an increase of £11,198 over 1868. In the other principal imports there is a decrease compared with the last year.

The total value of the export trade was £2,232,141, the single item of tea representing nine-tenths of this amount. The greater portion of the tea was shipped by Chinese merchants. The export of chinaware shows a slight increase on last year; so also does that of grass-cloth, for which this province is celebrated. Coal is a new article of export from Kiukiang. For household purposes it appears to be nearly equal to English coal, and for steam purposes superior to any other native coal, though it is not so clean as English coal, and steamers like Her Majesty's gunboats, fitted with tubular boilers, would require to clean the tubes once or twice a day. In ordinary river steamers it is, however, sufficient to clean the boilers at the end of the voyage of three or four days. The collieries are situated at the foot of the Ming-shan, near the district town of Laping. The price of coal at the river bank is said to be about 12s. a ton.

It will be noticed that the exports of Kiukiang are more than double the imports. This inequality would probably disappear if account could be taken of the salt and rice which do not appear in the Customs' returns, being carried in native vessels, of which no statistics are obtainable. The number of junks has greatly increased since the opening of the river to foreigners and the suppression of the rebellion, and would still further increase if the number of stations for the levy of leking, or war tax, which sprang up since those events, were diminished in number.

Inland taxation does not in this province press heavily on that portion of the trade in which foreigners are directly interested. The transit dues on teas are somewhat in excess of the rates which foreign merchants could be called on to pay according to the Treaty of Tientsin, but this grievance will no doubt be remedied whenever the transit pass system comes under the supervision of the Chinese Customs administered by foreigners. The greater part of the import trade is in the hands of the Chinese who go to Shanghai and buy at first hand from the direct importers. This tendency to centralise business contributes also to deprive foreigners of the export trade. The steam-carrying trade must, of course, long remain in foreign hands, and a considerable business may be done by commission agents. As our privileges to trade with China are extended, the numbers of groups of foreigners scattered over the country may increase, but the days of large communities at minor ports, with little or no direct trade with England, are passing away. There is no bank established at Kiukiang; bills are generally drawn by private firms on Shanghai at 5 per cent. discount—that is to say, Tls. 95 Kiukiang currency are equivalent to Tls. 100 Shanghai; the average value of the Kiukiang tael for the year was 6s. 3d.

CHINKIANG.

Mr. William Stronach, assistant in charge, reports the Custom-house returns for 1869 to be Tls. 7,579,637 (Chinkiang) in imports. The increase in Grey Shirtings is nearly 150 per cent.; in T-cloths, 290 per cent.; and in woollens more than 60 per cent. On the other hand, the insignificant trade in exports has retrograded, and is lower than it was even in 1867. Raw Cotton is practically a forbidden article to foreigners at present, the Haiwen and Tung-chow officials having established a tax upon the cotton hongs, calculated at a certain rate for every bale sold. This tax must ultimately fall on the consumer, that is, the foreigner; and the right is thus arrogated to tax him beyond the amount stipulated in treaties. The increase in duties is nearly 45 per cent. in the totals. The most gratifying fact to foreigners is that the transit dues are only a few hundred taels short of one-half the revenue from this port, and exceed the figures of last year by more than 400 per cent.

NINGPO.

Mr. Consul Fittock reports an import trade in British and other foreign vessels amounting to 7,239,979 Haikwan taels in 1869, against Tls. 6,528,724 in 1868—or an increase of Tls. 711,255; and exports showing Tls. 7,226,416, against Tls. 6,073,559 in the previous year—or an increase of Tls. 95,898 in 1869. In the same time the British and other foreign shipping entered inwards shows a decrease of 18,770 tons; and that cleared outwards a decrease of 19,269 tons. The preponderance of tonnage under the American flag is solely attributable to the fact that the large steamers running between this port and Shanghai are under that flag; but the company's shareholders comprise all nationalities. The imports of cottons and woollens continued to advance steadily, and metals remarkably; the total estimated value of the metals imported in 1869 amounting to Tls. 682,077. Opium showed an increase of Tls. 41,142; very little, if any, opium being produced in the province of Chekiang. Tea continues to rank first in the list of exports; and, notwithstanding the unfavourable weather, shows an increase of no less than 23,000 piculs over 1868. The silk exported from Ningpo exhibits a decrease of Tls. 264,225, or more than one-third. Cotton is an important item in exports, being set down at Tls. 800,000; but foreign interest in this export is confined at present to its carriage, nearly all the raw cotton shipped hence being destined to other ports for redistribution in the country. Duties and tonnage dues exhibit an increase of Tls. 95,897, and the revenue derived from transit-passes is stated to have been Tls. 26,546, which sum, added to that received for import and export duties and tonnage dues, gives a total of Tls. 690,352 paid into the Imperial Treasury directly derivable from foreign merchandise. The above figures will show the great and growing importance of the port of Ningpo, and the contemplated opening of the port of Wen-chow will still further develop the commercial resources of the rich province of Chekiang. The inhabitants of the province continue to deserve their reputation for civility, and the authorities exhibit the same earnest disposition to maintain friendly relations with foreign officials as heretofore.

TIENTSIN.

Mr. Consul Mongan reports the total net value of the trade of this port in 1869, in goods, produce, and treasure, as £8,570,565, showing an increase of more than half a million sterling on the corresponding value of the trade of 1868. The net values of the imports were Tls. 17,127,610, against Tls. 16,437,708 in 1868. The cotton goods imported amounted to £2,022,623, or an increase of £111,791. These goods are pre-eminently the most important class of foreign products imported into Tientsin, their value during the last two years having been more than double that of all the other foreign imports. Tientsin is the largest consuming market in China for cotton piece goods; and the woollens imported there are, like the cottons, almost all of English manufacture. Their consumption is not, however, likely to be very great in this part of China, chiefly on account of their expensiveness. The importation of opium fell from Tls. 3,893,438 value in 1868 to Tls. 2,849,478 in 1869—a sterling decrease in value of £322,975. This yearly falling-off in the importation of foreign opium, together with its continual reduction in price, is attributable to the increasing use of the native drug. In spite of the prohibition of the cultivation of the poppy in China, opium-growing is very profitable, and is consequently increasing everywhere. See-chuan alone sells opium to the natives of other provinces to the value of Tls. 3,000,000 annually. The relative prices of Malwa and the native drug vary considerably; the latter as a rule, selling at from Tls. 125 to Tls. 200 per picul less than the former. The provincial mandarins notoriously connive at the production of the interdicted article, and derive revenue from taxing it.

Mr. Consul Mongan describes the conditions under which Indian opium now enters the China market. The farmers upon gathering in their crops of the Malwa drug offer the juice daily in the nearest country markets, and it is there purchased by other natives (who may be denominated packers), who in their turn pack the drug in balls, and thus prepare it for transmission to Bombay. These packers then sell the opium thus prepared to other native merchants, who purchase it especially for sale upon the market of Bombay, where exporting and foreign merchants buy it for shipment to China, &c. The importing Bombay merchant before attempting to take the drug to Bombay from the hand of the packer has first to procure a pass from the Government Treasury, costing Rs. 600 per chest, which pass frees the opium from further taxation in transitu certifying that the drug has paid its duty. Upon reaching the market in Bombay, as aforesaid, it is purchased by the exporting merchants, who, before operating, naturally base their operations on the China demand and quotations, and thus the market in Bombay, and necessarily through the producing districts, is governed by the markets of China. The quantity placed under cultivation by the growers is also almost entirely dependent upon the demand, both present as well as that of the preceding season, and thus the crops usually range from 35,000 to 50,000 chests per annum. No opium is allowed by the English Government to be re-imported into India. The demand for China having decreased during the last three or four years, the cultivation in India has been lessened in like degree. Bengal Drug, grown in Behar and Benares, is cultivated entirely by the Government itself, which employs men for the special purpose of cultivating the poppy, collecting the juice, inspecting and packing it into balls. The drug is supposed to cost the Government, laid down in Calcutta, Rs. 400 per chest. On arrival at the Government godowns in Calcutta it is sold by public auction in lots of five chests to the highest bidder. On the fall of the hammer the buyer has always the option of there and then securing as many succeeding lots as he wishes at the same rate as the lot he has just bought. The purchaser of any parcels has to pay on the fall of the hammer bargain money at the rate of Rs. 50,100 per chest, and the balance of purchase money within a fortnight. It is not compulsory, however, to take immediate delivery of the opium, as the Government allow it to remain, free of warehouse charge, for an indefinite period. These auctions take place once every month, a limit of 400 rupees per chest being placed on the drug; therefore all it realises over and above this price goes towards increasing the revenue, and is a profit to the Government; no private individuals are allowed to store opium in their godowns; all so found is looked upon as smuggled, and confiscated. When a buyer wishes to export his purchases they are shipped for him by the Government agent, and delivery cannot be taken in Calcutta.

Such being the conditions under which opium is exported from India to China it would seem that they might be so modified by the Government as to check the increased production of the drug in China without probable injury, and with even probable advantage, to the Indian exchequer. This might be effected by lowering the transit duty on Malwa, and by offering larger quantities of Bengal opium. The result of the first measure would be that the exporting merchants at Bombay could afford to supply the China market with Malwa at a cheaper rate, that an increased demand for it would consequently spring up in those parts of the Empire in which the taste for Indian opium still predominates, and that the Indian Government would probably gain more revenue by the lower rate levied on a larger quantity brought down to Bombay for exportation than it now does from the higher rate levied on a smaller quantity. The result of the second measure would be similar, as the Government would probably derive larger actual, though smaller relative profits, from the increased quantities sold monthly at Calcutta; while the purchasers of "Patna" and "Benares" could afford to sell their opium cheaper in China, and would therefore compete on more equal terms with Chinese producers.

These remarks upon the opium question are made solely with reference to its financial aspect, as affecting our Indian revenue, and have no reference to the moral bearings of the trade. It may, however, be argued with much force that the unproductive consumption of this drug in China diminishes the wealth of the people, and thereby prevents their purchasing such an annual quantity of our manufactures as they would otherwise be able to consume.

The most important foreign imports are metals, needles, watches, and window-glass, and on these four the whole increase in the value of imports in 1869 is accounted for, all other imports remaining stationary. The market must, indeed, have been glutted with needles in 1869, as more than 800,000,000 were imported. These needles and watches are chiefly German; during the last two years, however, both articles have been imported in small quantities direct from England, and last year the first ship that ever came direct from France arrived in Tientsin, being also the first direct ship from Europe to come as far up the river as the British settlement. The native imports are very numerous, sugar, silk, piece goods, and paper being the principal, and they increased from Tls. 4,789,841 in 1868 to Tls. 5,961,166 in 1869.

As yet no produce has been shipped from this port to Europe or America, Shanghai and Hong Kong, as a rule, taking all the exports of Tientsin. The most valuable of the exports in 1869 were tobacco, medicines, dates, young deer horns, skins and skin clothing, and felt caps, their aggregate value being Tls. 669,629, while that of all the others was only Tls. 293,336, making a total of Tls. 962,965, against Tls. 946,165 in 1868. None of the Russian cloth which was imported overland from Kiachta to Tientsin in 1868 was subsequently shipped south; but in 1869 upwards of 1,000 pieces thus passed through this port. The export overland to Kiachta of Hankow tea, brought up the coast in English and American steamers, and entered here, in transit, for the Russian market, exhibits the enormous increase from Tls. 797,654 in 1868 to Tls. 1,952,015 in 1869. A probable result of the Convention of 1869, which is revisable again in five years, may be that more Russian cloth will in future be sold at Kalgan than at Tientsin for distribution over the north of China. Tientsin, however, seems to be now regarded by the Russian Government as the most important centre of Russian trade in China; and in January, 1870, the Russian Consulate at this port was consequently raised to the rank of a Consulate-General. The Russian transit trade in cloth and tea exhibits a total increase in value in 1869, as compared with the preceding year, of no less than Tls. 1,187,609, and was the branch of the Tientsin trade which contributed most to the generally increased net value of the whole. The countries which, as producers and consumers, were most interested in the development of the trade of 1869 were Great Britain and Russia. The sale at Tientsin of cottons and woollens manufactured in England represented a value of more than £2,000,000 sterling, while that of opium grown in British territory, or in territory under British protection, and yielding in either case a large revenue to the Indian Government, represented nearly another £1,000,000. The value of tea sent through Tientsin to Russia, and of Russian cloth sent through Tientsin to South China, was nearly £700,000. The countries employing most tonnage to Tientsin were Great Britain, the United States, and the States of the North German Confederation. Tientsin is a port which, as a rule, is accessible only to shipping from the breaking up of the ice, about the end of February or beginning of March, to its formation about the middle of December. Of the 199 sailing vessels that entered this port in 1869 no less than 111 cleared either wholly or partially in ballast, and of the 135 steamers 16 cleared in ballast.

Thomson's road steamer, or traction engine, Mr. Consul Mongan says, seems well adapted for the plains of North China; and if a foreign merchant at this port would import one of these engines—say one of four-horse power (nominal), which is made to drag a load of twelve tons on a level, but could probably drag one of thirty tons, and which costs in Edinburgh £500—to run at first over the thirty odd miles between Taku and Tientsin, for the carriage of goods and passengers between those two places at moderate rates, the speculation would in all probability not only pay, but it might be productive of important ulterior results.

Two physical changes are operating on this port—the first unfavourably, being the increasing deposit of mud along the face of the bund, which can only be removed by dredging; and the second beneficially, being the gradual deepening of the Taku bar from the wash caused by steamers crossing it when there is barely water enough to float them. The average of the water on the bar in 1868 and 1869 showed an increase of about six inches in the latter year. The Shabi-tien Lighthouse has not yet been commenced, but the place was surveyed again in 1869 by a marine commissioner.

In conclusion, Mr. Consul Mongan states that the appointment of three mandarins attached to the Custom-house, to adjudicate summarily on petty thefts, breaches of the peace, and other offences, has worked well; but another institution, the Kung-ku or Public Shroff Office, is turning out a failure because the foreign and Chinese merchants, who framed its rules, and agreed to receive Kiung-ku shroffed silver only in payment for goods sold, have been unable to hold out against the counter combination of Chinese buyers, who decline to purchase on such terms. The Chinese Government has determined to open and work, with foreign appliances the Kai-ping coal mines to the north-east of Tientsin.

CHEFOO.

Mr. Acting-Consul Lay reports the number of British vessels arriving at this port in 1869 as 228, against 219 in 1868. Of foreign vessels 370 were entered, against 329 in 1868. Of this increase North Germany claims 26; as carriers on the coast the North German ships have, from their economical working, been gradually assuming a very foremost lead. The import of piece goods has fallen from 900,000 in 1868 to 850,000 in 1869. Grey shirtings, brocades, Turkey red cloths, &c., show a large decrease; while drills, T-cloths, damasks, and velvets, mark a large improvement on the previous year. Opium is steady, there being merely a decrease of 163 piculs. Nearly 10,000 tons of coal were imported during the year, but they are not saleable, and 7,500 tons were in store at the date of the report. The total value of imports in 1869 was, Tls. 4,921,837, against Tls. 5,047,951 in 1868. In exports, peas, bean cakes and oil, show a marked improvement. The general import trade has fairly progressed, but there has been a falling off in the import of treasure of 977,953 taels, and 203,244 taels in the amount of re-exports. The large decrease in the export of treasure is due to the spurious quality of the sycee, which gets worse and worse every year, and thus causes the Chinese to send a great deal of their money in paper. The total value of the export trade was, for 1869, 5,424,730 taels, against 6,251,797 taels in 1868. Chefoo has not increased in trade this year, but it has taken a large quantity of British manufactures, notwithstanding the failure of the harvests. Seven British vessels arrived from England during the year, being an increase of one over the year before.

NEWCHWANG.

The Acting-Consul, Mr. King, reports that the trade of this port in 1869 is only inferior to that of 1868. This steady increase of trade and the great employment it gives to British shipping will make this port one of very considerable value. The excessive exportation of silver, and the indiscriminate importation of general merchandise, are, however, unfavourable influences, which require to be counteracted. The total imports in 1869 amount to £753,866, against £1,691,152—a natural consequence of the over-importation of the former year. The increase in the trade in iron and in drills, and the decrease in grey shirtings, are equally remarkable. It is absurd to see iron pouring into a country full of iron, full of coal, and with a population a large portion of which lives in enforced idleness because they cannot work the mines properly themselves, and the Government refuses to allow them to be worked for them. This year has seen the first instance of direct importation from England, and the result has been satisfactory. Although the terms of the revised tariff and Convention are not yet published, it is generally understood that an additional duty of 2½ per cent. is thereby added to most of the imported foreign articles except opium, in commutation of all inland taxation. The importation of opium in 1869 is smaller than in 1868 by 238 piculs, and the consumption of the foreign drug has been about 300 piculs less. This does not result from the increase in the supply of native opium, but from the high price of foreign opium and of the silver with which it is purchased. The trade in foreign commodities with Corea does not show any sign of improvement, but rather the reverse. At the fair held in May, 1869, the trade was limited by a proclamation issued by the Korean Government prohibiting the admission of foreign goods.

The exports of pulse and its products increased very remarkably in the past year. Pulse shows 1,466,547 piculs, against 807,994 piculs in 1868; bean cake 1,922,567 piculs, against 1,284,767 piculs; and bean oil 35,358 piculs, against 15,084. The grain crops suffered much from the heavy rains; on the average of the country they cannot be reported at more than 60 per cent.; the present high prices are attributable to the alarming amount of speculation on the part of Shansi and other influential Chinese merchants, who keep up prices to avoid having to look their losses in the face. In the mean time the farmers are the gainers, and their wealth will ultimately increase the foreign import trade. The great scarcity of silver in these provinces has much interfered with the sale of imports. Although the price of opium and all imports is received by foreign merchants in silver, once out of their hands, the price is computed in cash. For a long time during the summer the exchange of silver was over 11,400 small cash a Tael, and at one time it reached 12,300. The exportation of silver was much less than in 1868, little more than half; yet the excess of treasure exported over imported is Tls. 843,272. The difficulty of selling piece goods for silver has caused some barter transactions, and it is very desirable that the Government should abstain for a time from making remittances in silver to the capital, in order to assist in remedying this evil.

The number and tonnage of British and all foreign shipping are far greater in this than in any previous year, the excess over 1868 being 148 vessels and 43,140 tons. In this increase the North German has slightly the advantage over ours. The junk trade is annually decreasing, and must soon be extinguished by foreign vessels. The duties received this year at the foreign Custom-house amount to Tls. 254,109, and the tonnage dues to Tls. 6,873; of the former Tls. 130,408 was paid on trade in British shipping, and Tls. 92,930 on that in North German.

FOOCHOW.

Mr. Consul Sinclair reports that the import trade presents no feature of novelty. The same description of goods is imported, only in varied quantities, as before, with the exception of lead, opium, and a small proportion of cotton goods. The working classes throughout this district prefer the native cotton cloths, and white shirtings, scarlet woollens, &c., are used more for show and for coverings of furniture, the whiteness of the English cotton cloth being much preferred for outer mourning garments. Long credit has crept into a custom, and has had the effect of reducing the import of cotton and woollen goods by foreign merchants. Sales for cash are not practicable. Even the opium trade is no exception. The trade by foreigners in foreign productions is becoming more and more restricted to their sale at the great centres of import like Shanghai and Hong Kong. The sales of opium continue to show a diminution of the consumption in Foochow. In 1868, 4,694 chests were sold; in 1869, only 3,816 chests. The native-grown opium consumed at Foochow is principally derived from the Prefecture of Wenchow-foo, in the adjoining Chekiang province. The total receipts of lead during the year are estimated at 59,700 lbs., being about 430 piculs less than in 1868. In tea, prices current for the first crop of 1869 were 25 to 30 per cent. under those of the previous year; as to quality, the finest chops were greatly inferior to those of 1868. The decrease in all the kinds, excepting that to the United States, may be accounted for by the excessive quantities sent home, and the over speculation in 1868, which every one expected was going to be the one "good year" so long looked for. Mr. Consul Sinclair, is of opinion that there are two many persons engaged in the tea trade, and too many ports open in China for the export of tea. The working of the foreign Custom-house continues to give satisfaction; but the revenues are scarcely applied to meet the requirements of the port. There are as yet no lights to indicate the approaches to the dangerous River Min, and there is a total absence of buoys in any part of the stream. The revenue of the Custom-house from foreign trade in 1869 was 1,776,303 taels, inclusive of coast trade duties, tonnage dues and transit dues.

AMOY.

Mr. Consul Pedder reports the total value of the imports and exports, including treasure, in foreign bottoms during 1869 as exceeding that for 1868 by £442,871. Excluding treasure, in which there has been a decrease of £419,670, the value of general merchandise shows an increase of £862,541. In British shipping entered and cleared there is an increase of 68 vessels and 36,929 tons. All other foreign vessels show an aggregate increase in entries and clearances of 213 vessels and 68,443 tons. The direct trade in British vessels increased £262,245, and the indirect trade £239,762, making a total increase of £502,007. As regards vessels other than British there is a decrease of £255,548 in the value of the indirect trade, and an increase of £616,082 in the value of the direct trade, showing a net increase of £360,534 in the total value of cargoes by those vessels. The decrease and additions shown under the above-mentioned heads are, however, rather nominal than real as regards the general trade of the port. Taking everything into consideration, it may be held that there has been a substantial improvement during the year, and this is more than could have been hoped for, considering the enormous burdens laid on the trade by the local mandarins in open defiance of the letter and spirit of the treaty.

SWATOW.

Mr. Acting-Consul Alabaster reports that, though the year has not been a successful one, and the returns show a considerable falling off, a more than average share of the business done has passed through foreign hands. Chinese cotton cloth runs foreign manufactured goods so closely, both in price and quality, that our market is in continual danger. But the impetus given during the first half-year has sufficed to give an increased import of Manchester goods during the twelve months; and, if a stand can continue to be made against the levying of octroi duties by the mandarins, contrary to the treaty, there is a prospect of this port eventually becoming a large consuming centre. Five millions of persons should, considering its geographical position, be supplied from it, and, though three millions of these may not consume more than a yard and-a-half each per annum, the gross quantity required is not inconsiderable. If, however, as soon as the goods have passed out of the hands of the foreign importers, the Chinese Government may levy what imports they like upon them, it is of no use to expect increased demand. In opium there is a considerable falling-off; and it would have been greater but for a successful stand made against the leking, and the heavy import-dues in force at Amoy. The districts south of Swatow are now practically closed, Chinese junks being able to import drug at the numerous ports between this and Hong Kong on payment of a duty of 20 taels, whereas drug imported here pays 30 taels import duty, and 10 taels leking, or 40 taels in all. It is impossible to struggle against such differential duties. The other large article of import, beancake, shows also a considerable falling off, owing to the price of rice having been for the past two years so low that it does not pay the Chinese to manure their paddy-fields, to the sugar trade having proved so unprofitable to cultivators, and to the import of oilcake from Hainan, which has sprung up since the pirate fleets, which used to levy black mail on the Hainan trade, have been scattered.

The staple export, sugar, shows a considerable falling off. The price ruling here has been too high to encourage shippers to England, and the class of sugar is scarcely suited to the American market. There is, however, great probability of a sugar refinery being started, which will enable Swatow to obtain a share of the San Francisco trade. It is in British shipping that the most serious falling off is apparent. Not only has the total number of vessels entering and clearing been less than in former years, but a larger number of German vessels have secured cargo in preference to English ships. This is partly attributable to the fact that the shipowners of Hamburg and other North German ports have placed vessels of light draught, twelve or thirteen feet, and carrying a cargo of 6,000 piculs, or some 300 tons measurement, on this coast, for which they are best adapted, since small cargoes are more easily obtained, and vessels drawing more water are unable to visit the northern ports with the same facility and safety; but there is another cause which has pressed heavily on English vessels—it is the action of our Legislature, which prevents their carrying more than one-third of the number of passengers allowed by the Chinese and other Governments to be carried in foreign bottoms. These two causes are sufficient to account for the gradual disappearance of British sailing ships. In steamers the trade is still in the hands of the two English companies which have hitherto possessed it, but opposition is threatened under the North German flag.

In other respects, the year has been marked by considerable progress; a far better understanding than previously existed having been arrived at between natives and foreigners. Wherever a gunboat could reach, foreigners were safe; and the result of the combined display of force and moderation has been that foreigners have felt security at Swatow, and in their peregrinations through the country. The field open to missionaries has been considerably extended; and a step has been made towards stopping the wrecking so frequent on the coast. It is, however, hopeless to expect perfect respect to be paid to the Treaty when vessels can be plundered under the eyes of the mandarins without the slightest attempt being made to prevent it. Various attempts have been made to improve the locality by the institution of municipal authority, &c., but not with any great success, from the impression deeply rooted in the native mind, that heavy taxation, night passes, and black policemen are the necessary concomitant of foreign administration. At one period of the year considerable apprehension of a popular rising was felt among the official classes, in consequence of the authorities at Peking having insisted on measures being taken to assert the power of the Government, and to enforce the payment of taxes many years in arrear. Fortunately, however, no outbreak took place, and the security of foreign life and property has been materially advantaged by the unwillingness generally felt to give cause for foreign assistance being rendered to the Imperial army. The recovery of debts, however, continues as hopeless and irritating a task as ever, and, unless some material guarantee can be laid hold of, it is rarely, if ever, that the European creditor obtains any satisfaction.

CANTON.

Mr. Consul Robertson reports the value, in Mexican dollars, of the trade at the port of Canton to have risen from $34,673,350 in 1860 to $36,625,468 in 1869. Cotton, once an important article of import, has continued to fall off year after year, and shows a decrease in the past year of 78,074 piculs compared with the former one of 1868. It is difficult to account for this unless it be that the consumption of foreign manufactured goods is on the increase, and consequently the demand for the raw material has proportionately declined. "The price at present is very low, which indicates either heavy stocks or lessened consumption," (writes Mr. Robertson, in March, 1870). "Yarns, however, hold their place; and there is even a slight increase." There has always been a fair demand for metals; and there is no reason for supposing that demand has lessened, although the Custom-house Returns show a considerable falling-off. The trade in ginseng has also considerably declined, owing to the process of classification being established at Hong Kong. The Manchurian is the finest of the four kinds of this product, and highly appreciated by Europeans for its medicinal qualities; but, being an Imperial monopoly, the finer sorts are never seen in the market. There is an increase of about 300 piculs in the returns of opium for the year. Native-grown opium has long been more or less in the market; in strength and flavour it is far inferior to Indian, and, as it averages 40 per cent. less in price, it is used to adulterate it. The question is whether the native drug will ever drive the Indian out of the market, and the returns of the last sixteen years seem to show that the import of Indian opium has reached its limit. In 1854-5 it was 78,354 chests; in 1863-6, 76,833 chests; and in 1868-9 it was 75,458 chests. The price also shows a marked decline. The importation of silk piece-goods has rather improved; they are, however, intended for native consumption, and unsuitable for the European markets. Woollen manufactures are so completely in Chinese hands that it is impossible to tell correctly the quantity imported. The importation of peas has increased from 17,800 piculs to 100,000 piculs, in consequence of the adjustment of a dispute between the Chinese authorities and the dealers, but the trade is in the hands of the Chinese exclusively.

There is a falling off of about 8,000 piculs in the tea export of the year; but, as considerable quantities were sent away in native craft to Hong Kong and elsewhere, the export of 1869 will average that of 1868 as nearly as possible. The export of silk, raw and thrown, exceeds that of 1868 by 1,200 piculs; indeed there has been a gradual increase since 1864, when the export was only 2,800 piculs, against 12,700 piculs in 1869. The demand for sugar is very fluctuating; the export for the past year was, 20,000 piculs more than in 1868, and 44,000 piculs less than in 1867. Generally the trade of the port of Canton for the past year presents no new features; it is a steady business, which varies little, but exhibits some slight signs of increase.

LEGAL.

JUDICIAL COMMITTEE OF THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

(Before Lord CAIRNS, Sir J. NAPIER, Sir J. COLVILLE, and Sir L. PEEL.)
RODGER AND OTHERS V. THE COMPTOIR D'ESCOMPTE DE PARIS, AND THE CHARTERED BANK OF INDIA, AUSTRALIA, AND CHINA.

Counsel for the appellants, Sir R. Palmer and Mr. Manisty; for the respondents, Mr. E. E. Kay and Mr. Holl.

This was the last step in this long pending case, commonly known as the Min case, arising out of the bankruptcy of Messrs. Lyall, Still, and Co.

This case, it will be remembered, related to certain consignments of goods by Messrs. Liebert and Co., Mendel and Co., and Calvert, of Manchester, in November, 1866, to Messrs. Lyall, Still and Co., of Hong Kong, which were shipped on board the Min, bound for Hong Kong. Upon the security of the bills of lading the respondents had made advances. The goods, on their arrival in Hong Kong, were stopped in transitu by the consignors. The respondents brought an action of trover in the Supreme Court of Hong Kong, to recover the value of the goods, and obtained a verdict for $55,816 for principal, $2,146 for interest, and $5,580 for costs, for which judgment was signed in due course on the 3rd of June, 1867, and the amounts subsequently paid over to the respondents upon their entering into the usual bond to perform the judgment, sentence or decree, of Her Majesty in her Privy Council on the appeal, for which leave had been granted by the Supreme Court.

In February, 1869, the appeal came on for hearing before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, who reversed the judgment of the Court below, and directed a nonsuit to be entered, but no question of interest upon the moneys paid in pursuance of the judgment was raised before the Judicial Committee, and the form of the order of Her Majesty in Council affirming the judgment of the committee was as follows:—"And it is hereby ordered that the said judgment of the Supreme Court of Hong Kong, of the 3rd of June, 1867, be, and the same is hereby set aside, and that a judgment of nonsuit be entered in lieu thereof. Whereof the governor, &c., of Hong Kong, for the time being, and all other persons whom it may concern, are to take notice and govern themselves accordingly."

In conformity with the judgment of the Privy Council, a nonsuit was entered, and an application was made to the Supreme Court of Hong Kong for a rule calling upon the respondents to pay back the amount which they had received for principal, interest and costs, together with interest upon the whole amount, after the rate of 12 per cent. per annum, from the time of its receipt until re-payment, and also appellants' taxed costs of the action in the Supreme Court. Chief Justice Sinalé granted all that was asked, except interest, and this he considered that he had no power to give in the absence of any contract or statute, interest not being payable at common law.

The appellants conceiving that interest followed upon the nonsuit, as a necessary part of the restitution to be made by the respondents, although no mention was made of interest in the order of the Privy Council, nor, indeed, in the argument before that tribunal, presented their petition of appeal, for the purpose of supplementing or giving effect to the order of the Privy Council. This came on to be heard on the 26th of January, 1870, and a report of the case appeared in The London and China Telegraph of the 7th of February, 1870. The Judicial Committee declined to entertain the application in the form of the petition, and intimated that it must be the subject of a distinct appeal, but, in order to save expense, it was arranged that the petition should stand as an appeal, that printed cases and an appendix should be dispensed with, and a short printed record substituted, and that the matter should stand over until the parties had had time to communicate with China, and that then, if necessary, a special day should be fixed for the argument of the question of interest.

The appeal now came on for argument, and the sole question was the right to interest on a sum which was neither the subject of contract express or implied, nor of statute.

Divested of technicalities, the contention of the appellants was, that the respondents, who were bankers, and knew very well what to do with money, had notice of the appeal, and had the option, under the Order in Council of 21st January, 1846, regulating the practice of appeals from Hong Kong, either to take the money and give security to refund in case the judgment of the Privy Council should be against them, or to take security from the appellants to perform the judgment on appeal if against the appellants, and they had elected to take the money; that they gave no notice or intimation that they had set the money apart, but, in fact, used it in their business, and, it must be assumed, had made profit of it, and were aware that they might have to refund it; that the Hong Kong instructions as to appeals by Her Majesty in Council provided as follows:—"We do further ordain and direct that the said Supreme Court shall in all cases of appeal to us conform to, execute, and carry into immediate effect, such judgment and orders as we, in our Privy Council, shall make thereupon in such manner as any original judgment or decree of the said Supreme Court can or may be executed." That, the Privy Council having reversed the judgment of the Supreme Court, the appellants were entitled to be replaced in the same position as they would have held if the money had never been taken from them; that complete restitution could not be made without payment of interest, at the current rate prevailing in the colony, and that the Chief Justice at Hong Kong ought to have given them that interest. It might be that strictly they could not have interest on the interest, or on the costs, but they thought no distinction ought to be made.

The respondents, on the other hand, contended that, sitting in a court of law, the judge had no power to order payment of interest; that interest was not a necessary incident to money, as rent was to land, but must be given by contract or statute, and that the Privy Council was asked to do what the judge could not do, and, if this power were assumed, an appeal would be necessary for supplementing the powers of the judge below in every case where something was required which the law did not empower the judge to give; that restitution was restoring what had been received, and that, by analogy to judgments on writs of error, where restitution was ordered and a writ of restitution formerly issued, in which no mention of interest was ever made, the money received, and nothing more, should be restored; that you cannot have damages in addition to restitution; that agents were not chargeable with interest on money in their hands, unless demand were made, and notice given that interest would be charged, and then they came under the statute—could you inquire in each case what profit had been made?—if so, and a loss had been made, would compensation be given? Even in a Court of Equity interest would not be given in this case. This is not a case of fiduciary character, in which wilful default might be charged, nor of fraud; the respondents were not bound to employ the money. And if a Court of Equity had not given interest in an original decree, it would not give it afterwards, and it was too late now to ask the Privy Council to do what both Courts of Law and Equity would refuse.

The Court having referred to an unreported case of "Blake v. Mowatt," in the House of Lords as one in which interest had been given, the order was sent for and observed upon. It appeared to have been a suit to set aside a transfer of scrip, fraudulent representations were charged, and interest had been given in the original decree. The House of Lords ordered restitution, and interest was given.

Lord Cairns delivered the judgment of the Court. After glancing shortly at the position of the proceedings, as given above, and observing that the question involved was one of considerable importance, he said that, in considering it, their Lordships had endeavoured to arrive at the substantial justice of the case without too closely pressing analogies. It was in the option of the respondents either to allow the sum recovered to remain in the hands of the appellants upon the usual terms, or to have execution of their judgment, giving security according to the provisions of Her Majesty's Order in Council affecting appeals at Hong Kong. The respondents knew that the appeal was to be brought, and that they might have to refund the money, and obey the order of the Privy Council. They gave the security, and took the money. The Privy Council reversed the judgment. The order of the Privy Council did not express more than that the judgment was to be reversed and a nonsuit entered, and that all persons concerned were to take notice of it; but the general regulations in regard to appeals from Hong Kong, in the last sentence, stated that the Supreme Court should "conform to, execute, and carry into immediate effect such judgment and orders as should be made by the Privy Council in the same manner as any original judgment or decree of the Supreme Court could or might be executed." The result, in the opinion of their Lordships, was that it was in the power, and was the duty, of the Chief Justice of Hong Kong to make such an order as was fairly consequential on the judgment of the Privy Council. The Chief Justice of Hong Kong felt that he had power over principal and costs, but held that he had no power to order payment of interest on any part of the sum paid over. The question is whether he had or had not this power, and whether, if he had, it was proper for him to exercise it. Their Lordships are of opinion that one of the first and highest duties of the Court is to take care that no injury is done by the Court to any suitor. We do not apply this to the final Court of Appeal only, but to every Court, from the lowest to the highest, of what may be called the aggregate tribunal. It is contended on behalf of the respondents that the principal only should be restored, and that the appellants have no right to the interest. But this contention was a grave injury to the appellants. They thereby recover back, after a long lapse of time, their bare principal, without its ordinary fruit, while it has been enjoyed profitably by those who, by mistake, have received the money which did not belong to them. On principle, therefore, great injustice is done to the appellants, and a perfect judicial determination is not obtained unless the money is restored with interest for the time the appellants have been deprived of it. It is said that there is no authority for the payment of interest; cases of writs of error were cited which are hardly to be received as precedents; they are highly technical. It was the custom in these cases to stay execution, and when restitution was ordered in the case of a money payment, interest did not follow. It is not necessary to enter more fully into these cases; the case of "Blake v. Mowatt," in the House of Lords, is more analogous, and in that case the money was ordered by the Court to be restored with interest; probably this was not a solitary case. It is undoubtedly the habit of the English Courts on a reversal of judgment under which money has been paid to order repayment with interest. Their Lordships believe that the precedents in Indian cases are in favour of repayment with interest, and consider that it is in accordance with principle and justice, and more especially when, as in the present case, the judgment in favour of the respondents gave them interest up to the date of the judgment. Their Lordships deem it their duty to hold that the Court below should have ordered interest to be paid, and they think that such interest should be calculated, not on the principal only, but on the principal and interest paid over in a gross sum under the judgment. They see no distinction between the principal and a sum added to it in the form of interest or damages, but they think that no interest should be ordered on the sum paid over for costs; it is not the practice to give interest on costs, and there may be obvious reasons for making this distinction. Their lordships consider that the case having raised a point of some novelty, and the expense incurred not having been large, they should say nothing about costs. Each party will therefore bear his own costs. As regards the rate of interest, if it is not agreed, it must be the usual interest allowed by the Court at Hong Kong.

THE CHARTERED MERCANTILE BANK OF INDIA, LONDON, AND CHINA V. DICKSON AND TATHAM.

This was an appeal from a judgment of the Supreme Court of Ceylon, dated in December, 1868, dismissing the claim of the plaintiffs as to Dickson. The sum in question was £5,000 on a promissory note. Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Mr. Field, and Mr. F. Everett for the appellant; Sir John Karslake, Q.C., and Mr. J. C. Mathews for the respondent, Thomas Dickson. The case occupied the whole day. The principal point was whether the promissory note had been presented within a reasonable time. A long legal argument took place between the learned counsel.

Lord Cairns, after consulting with the other members of the committee, gave judgment, reviewing lucidly the law and the facts on the case. Their lordships, on applying the law to the facts, could not concur in the opinion of the Court below, by which Mr. Dickson was discharged from his liability, and they would therefore humbly recommend to Her Majesty that the appeal be allowed, with costs, and the judgment of the Court below be reversed.

The appeal was allowed, with costs.

IN RE LIEBERT AND ROGELSON.

This case came before the Court last week, when a receiver was appointed, and an interim injunction granted. The debtors were merchants and commission agents, of East India Avenue, City, and of Manchester. Their liabilities are of the extraordinary amount of £280,000; assets supposed to be considerable. Mr. F. Knight now applied for an extension of the injunction until after the meeting of creditors on the 9th proximo. Mr. A. J. Murray, for the Consolidated Bank, who are creditors for upwards of £3,000, asked that the usual undertaking as to damages should be given. This was agreed to, and the injunction was extended, as asked.

A meeting of the creditors of this firm was held on the 27th inst., at the offices of Messrs. Sale, Shipman, Seddon, and Sale, solicitors, Manchester. The statement of accounts showed:—

IN RE ANDREWS.

The debtor, Edward Vine Andrews, a merchant of Liverpool and London, trading under the firms of Cunningham, Andrews, and Co., and Straith, Ripley, and Co., filed a petition for liquidation in October last, with liabilities of £27,637. At the first meeting forty-seven creditors, whose claims amounted to £20,069, voted in favour of the liquidation, and eighteen creditors, with debts of £7,567, dissented, but they passed no resolution. Owing to the number of creditors present it was arranged that the solicitors on either side should lodge objections to proofs, and the result was that all the proofs were objected to; and on the resolutions being tendered to Mr. Registrar Keene for registration he declined to receive them without notice to every creditor to attend. Mr. Reed now applied for the appointment of a substituted first meeting, at which it was proposed to deal with each proof as it was presented. He pointed out the inconvenience of the creditors being required to attend at the Registrar's office, and stated that nearly the whole of the creditors who had dissented now assented to the arrangement.

The Court granted the application.

THE CONSULAR REPORTS FOR 1869.

THE resume of the China Consular Reports for 1869, which we give in the present number, extends to such great length, by reason of the importance and variety of the information it contains, that we must defer for the present any examination of its bearing on the policy of the Government. It will doubtless be perused with interest, and we think our readers will agree with us that the various Reports afford conclusive evidence, not only of the increasing importance of our commerce with China, but also of the diligence and conscientiousness with which they have been compiled by the several Consuls. The Blue-book just published is, indeed, so valuable that we cannot but regret that so long a time should have been allowed to elapse before it was issued. It appears quite an anomaly that information which was collected in the first three months of the past year should require the remaining nine months to be consumed in printing it, especially as it is not accompanied by any general comment, or abstract of the whole. The Report of each of the open ports must be read by itself; and, if the same system is continued, we cannot see any good reason why the Reports for 1870, which must be now nearly ready, should not be published in April or May instead of appearing twelve months after the date to which they refer.

The principal subjects of interest which strike us at first sight are the general increase in shipping, especially in German vessels; the growing disposition of the natives to take other European manufactures besides those of Manchester; the rapid development of the trade of Russia with China; the continued steady decline of the demand for Indian opium, and the extending cultivation of the native drug; and the increasing manufacture of piece goods from native cotton. This last it will require all the energy of our manufacturers to counteract it by increased competition; indeed, it seems likely that, if English piece goods cannot be manufactured cheaper than the Chinese can work up their own material by hand, English machinery will, at no distant date, be exported to China, and one of our great markets in the Far East be gradually closed to the home trade. The development of the coal-fields of China seems to indicate the probability of the Chinese profiting by the mechanical improvements of our manufacturers in other trades.

The absence of any report from the Consul at Shanghai is not explained: nor is it compensated for by the copious extracts from the report of Messrs. MICHIE and FRANCIS, the delegates of the Shanghai General Chamber of Commerce, notwithstanding the valuable nature of the information collected by those gentlemen. It is not necessary to remind our readers that the cost of inland transit both in dues and freights, and the prohibition of foreigners from residing in the districts most favourable for their trade, together with the heavy burden of losses by shipwreck, wrecking, &c., and the insecurity of life which deters all but the most adventurous from travelling and trading, are the chief hindrances by which one of the wealthiest populations in the world is practically shut out to a great extent from European commerce. Even partially to remove all these difficulties will no doubt be a work of time; but the present Blue-book encourages the idea that, if the hostility of the smaller mandarins could be overcome, it would not be hard to reconcile the people to foreign intercourse from which they derive such manifold benefits. "On the one side there has been, and still is, the whole mass of the people patiently desiring extended intercourse with foreigners and increased facilities for trade; on the other side there is the mandarin interest all over the Empire opposed to any movement that might affect their power of private and irresponsible taxation." How to extend commercial measures in China without the cumbrous and wholly unnecessary intervention of war is the problem which Messrs. MICHIE and FRANCIS urge on the consideration of foreign statesmen of every nationality, and they are of opinion that great improvements can be introduced by peaceable means. But to this end it is clearly necessary that Great Britain, Russia, Germany, and the United States—to say nothing of other Foreign Powers not so largely interested—should unite in one common policy tending to the security and extension of all alike. The decline of the Indian opium trade in China—or at least its having ceased to increase during the last four years—is a subject which presses for attention solely by reason of the important consequences which would be entailed by the continued reduction of the revenue it yields to our Indian Empire. We only refer to it here in order to draw our readers' attention to the exhaustive account of this trade given by Mr. Consul MONGAN in the admirable report he has sent from Tientsin.

MESSRS. MATHESON AND Co. have addressed a letter to Lord GRANVILLE in explanation of the views of the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce and the merchants in other parts of China on the mission of CHUNG HOW. They urge that no part of the question should be withdrawn from the hands of Her MAJESTY's representative at Peking. The policy of the Chinese Government has always been to treat the Envoys of foreign nations on a footing of inferiority, to postpone by delay the settlement of any disputed point, and in cases where they may be compelled to make any concessions to conceal them from their own people. If any agreement were made with the present Envoy, it would be represented by the Chinese Government as a concession to them, and would have, under present circumstances, a most prejudicial effect on our future relations with China.

DR. THIN's letter, which we publish in another column, reveals the fact that the Pall Mall Gazette has refused to insert his reply to the articles in that journal in which his recent work was condemned in unmeasured terms. The writer in the Pall Mall has shown that he is not content with the thin veil of the anonymous, in which the Editor has permitted him to shroud himself; he is well aware that if the arguments of the other side were permitted to be heard, his own influence with his readers would at once be dispelled. By refusing to listen to the "other side" of the question, the Pall Mall Gazette has so fully confessed that it is bound up with Mr. WADE's policy that its future advocacy of such a line of conduct will be deprived of the force which it would have acquired if it had not shrunk from admitting an opponent's arguments for fear of being convinced against its will.

OUR present number contains a special report of an appeal case heard before the Privy Council, arising out of the bankruptcy of LYALL, STILL, and Co., of Hong Kong. The action originated in the Supreme Court of that place, before Chief Justice SMALE, as to certain goods sold to the bankrupts by Manchester firms, and shipped per Min to their consignment. The said goods not having been paid for, were made over to the Chartered Bank of India and the Comptoir d'Escompte, and the proceeds, by the verdict of the jury, were paid to them. This was received in the early part of last year, but the question of interest was reserved. It is now decreed that the banks must pay interest at the customary rate of the Court at Hong Kong. We also publish the Colombo appeal case "The Chartered Mercantile Bank v. Dickson and Tatham, of Colombo, which has been decided in favour of the Bank. This case was noticed in our issue of the 30th September last, under the heading "The Law's Delay in Appeal Cases."

THE Japanese Government has given another evidence of its perception of the value of Western improvements by giving an order in Frankfurt for the manufacture of a large amount of bank notes. A large building has been devoted to this purpose, and we understand that the arrangements have been designed by the Commissioner WOYENO OKURA and Baron Von Siebold, now in Europe, in connection with the Japanese Government.

In our last issue we noticed the proposed reduction of passage money per P. and O. Company. This reduction will take effect on March 18. The rate to Galle will be £65 from Southampton and £60 from Brindisi; to Singapore and Penang £80 and £75; Hong Kong £90 and £85; Shanghai and Yokohama £100 and £95, exclusive of wines and spirits, and of transit through Egypt £3.

MR. HANBURY, of Shanghai, has published a letter in The Times on CHUNG HOW and the Tientsin Massacre, and we willingly reproduce it in the present number, with no further comment than that which Mr. HANBURY could hardly be expected to supply himself—namely, that he was the only dissident from the resolution adopted at the meeting of the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce.

We understand that several schemes are now afloat for steam companies to India and China, and one or two may be completed shortly. A fine steamer of 1,600 tons is now building on the Clyde, intended for the local lines of Messrs. AUGUSTINE HEARD and Co., China.

THE PACIFIC TELEGRAPH CABLE TO CHINA.

(NEW YORK TIMES.)

At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Samuel B. Ruggles, Chairman of the Standing Committee on Telegraph Affairs, &c., presented a report to accompany the resolution of the Chamber, recommending to Congress the passage of laws facilitating the laying of a submarine telegraphic cable connecting the western coast of America with the eastern coast of Asia, and not creating any monopoly. The report and resolution were ordered to be printed. The following is the report:—

"A submarine telegraph under the Pacific Ocean forms an all-important link in a general telegraphic chain, or system, to surround the globe. This great circle may be best described and understood in segments showing their various extent by degrees of longitude. It embraces two grand divisions, each containing a continent and an ocean. The western embraces the Western Continent and the Atlantic Ocean, extending from San Francisco, in California, to Valentia, in Ireland, over 112 deg. of longitude; while the eastern embraces the Eastern Continent and the Pacific Ocean, extending from Valentia to Shanghai, in China, and over the remaining 248 deg. of longitude, of which the Eastern Continent covers 132 deg., and the Pacific Ocean the remaining 116 deg., thus completing the entire circle of 360 deg. Of these two segments of this terraqueous line, the first, from San Francisco to Valentia, has been finished, largely, if not mainly, by the energies of the citizens of the United States. Of the remaining segment, the portion covered by the Eastern Continent is now nearly completed. Two continuous lines extend eastwardly from Valentia, one taking a northerly direction through the United Kingdom, Germany, European and Asiatic Russia, to the present temporary terminus at Kiachta, an important Russian entrepôt in Eastern Siberia, near the Chinese frontier, in north latitude 51 deg.; while the other pursues a south-easterly course toward the equator, through France, Austria, Turkey, Persia, and other Asiatic countries, to Bombay, in Hindustan, and thence to Point de Galle, in Ceylon, near the equator, in north latitude 6 deg.; Kiachta is 116 deg., and Ceylon 91 deg. east from Valentia. This land line through Turkey and Persia being liable to occasional interruption in regions only partially civilised, a submarine line has also been laid from Italy through the Mediterranean Sea, the Red Sea, and the Arabian Sea to Bombay.

"By the lines above described, commercial and other messages are now regularly telegraphed without interruption from London to Kiachta and Ceylon. The charge from London to Ceylon for ten words is $10 25c. in gold; from New York to Ceylon, $15 25c. The steamer letter postage from Ceylon to Hong Kong, near Canton, is 37c., and the time of passage from fourteen to sixteen days.

"The Committee have learned on good authority (the commercial agent of Messrs. A. A. Low and Brothers, residing at Hong Kong, and now in New York), that active measures are in progress for extending a submarine telegraphic line from Ceylon to Singapore, through 23 degs. of longitude, which will probably be completed by the 1st March next. Singapore lies between 1 and 2 degs. north of the equator, and has become an important focal point in the commerce of the East. It was founded by the British Government in 1824, and already enjoys a yearly commerce of nearly $50,000,000. The distance from Singapore to Hong Kong is about 1,400 miles, the steamer mails being carried in six days. The submarine telegraph line now in progress, will probably be completed within the present year or the year following. A submarine line, is also in active progress from Hong Kong to Shanghai—about 1,000 miles. The newspaper Overland Mail, published at Hong Kong, states that the wire has all arrived, so that the speedy completion of the line is now assured. Induced by political or religious scruples, the Chinese Government has hitherto prohibited the laying any telegraphic line on their territory, so that the terminus of the line on the Eastern Continent will probably be established for a time in the light-ship at Shanghai, in the estuary of the Yang-Tse-Kiang, the great river of Eastern Asia. At this important point, the junction between the northern and southern lines will be made, through the enterprise of a Danish company at Hong Kong, now actively constructing a line on land from Kiachta about 1,400 miles to the Sea of Japan, to be extended by a line under its waters of about 800 miles to Shanghai. The completion of these lines on the Eastern Continent, in connection with the lines now established in the Atlantic and upon the Western Continent, will afford to the merchants of the United States without any line in the Pacific, a constant telegraphic communication not requiring more than three days at the utmost with every important commercial port in the civilised world north of the equator. Similar facilities will soon be extended to the Southern hemisphere by the Australian branch, leading south-eastwardly from Singapore, across Sumatra, Java, and other islands of the great Eastern Archipelago, or along their coasts into Australia as far as Melbourne in 37 deg. south latitude. It is especially noticeable that the commerce of the United States with this interesting portion of the globe, just entering on its career of civilisation, is rapidly increasing in importance. The exports of the United States to Australia alone in 1868 were $4,848,000 exceeding by one-fourth the total exports to all the nations around the Baltic, which were only $3,611,000. It must be manifest that the commercial welfare of the United States would be greatly promoted by a telegraphic line leading directly across the Pacific, while its peculiar value in war, in properly directing naval operations in those distant waters, can hardly be over-estimated. We should also bear in mind that a telegraphic line under either the Atlantic or the Pacific Ocean connects the two continents, so that any interruption in one of the oceans may be remedied by the working of the line in the other.

"A far higher public necessity for a line directly across the Pacific is found in the fact that the whole of the land on the American Continent over which it would be extended to the Atlantic, and thence to Europe, is subject to the sole political rule of the United States or of the adjacent maritime provinces of British America. The populations of these English-speaking portions of the world would be fully able if consolidated by political union, or allied by proper treaties, to protect the line, whether on the land or in either of the oceans, from hostile interference; while, on the other hand, the line laid on the land of the Eastern Continent, occupying the territory of numerous nations of Europe and Asia, widely differing in language, civilisation and forms of government, will be necessarily exposed to capricious and arbitrary interruption, if not to violent aggression.

"Two telegraphic lines under the Pacific have been suggested to the Committee, one commencing at San Francisco, in latitude 37 deg., and deflecting southwardly to the Sandwich Islands, in latitude 20 deg., and thence inclining northwardly, by way of the Midway Islands, in latitude 27 deg. north, to Yeddo, in Japan, in latitude 35 deg. north, and thence south-easterly to Shanghai, latitude 32 deg.; its length will be 6,515 nautical miles. The other and more northern line will extend from San Francisco along the coast of British Columbia and Alaska, and thence near the Aleutian Islands to the eastern coast of Russia, and thence along the coast of Japan to Shanghai, in China. It is claimed that this line will be shorter than that by the way of the Sandwich Islands. The Committee do not desire to pass any judgment on the merits of the two lines in question. They would only insist on the vital importance of keeping any and every telegraphic line, under the Pacific or any other ocean or sea, as far as possible free from any exclusive privilege or monopoly."

CHUNG HOW AND THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE TIMES."

SIR,—A letter having recently been forwarded from the Chamber of Commerce at this port to the Chairman of the London Committee of China merchants, with the object of preventing the reception of the mission of Chung How, on the ground of his being notoriously implicated in the murders of the 21st of June last, it seems only an act of justice to point out that no such accusation was ever formally brought against him either here, at Tientsin, or at Peking, before the mission started, and that the Chamber of Commerce avowedly looks with suspicion and dislike on all missions to Europe the object of which is to explain China's difficulties to Western statesmen.

The atrocious massacre at Tientsin on the 21st of June last has caused universal feelings of indignation and sorrow among all foreigners resident in China, and a loud call for the condign punishment of the murderers and their abettors.

At first this dreadful occurrence was looked on by many as only part of a long-formed and carefully-matured plot to drive foreigners out of China. Many residents believed that the Chinese Government was privy to the scheme, and that all the leading mandarins either connived at it or lent their active aid to its maturity; hence the state of extreme alarm at Shanghai and other ports during the months of July and August. As time passed, and no fresh outbreak occurred, the anxiety which most people felt during the summer has been in great measure allayed, and the residents at the northern ports have determined to remain at their posts during the winter, when the navigation is suspended by the freezing of the rivers, while in this and the neighbouring province confidence is so far re-tored that it is an every-day occurrence for parties of two or three to proceed into the interior, a distance of one hundred miles or more on shooting excursions, while others have visited the large cities of Nankin, Sochow, and Hangchow, without escort, and the testimony of these excursionists is unanimously to the effect that they have been well received.

This restoration of confidence is, in my opinion, partly due to the action of the Chinese Government since the massacre, which, although subjected throughout to extremely hostile criticism on the part of the Press here, has been such as plainly to show that it had no part in planning the Tientsin massacre, nor in plotting for the expulsion of foreigners from the country.

All evidence from Tientsin goes to show that the arrests made there, and the execution or banishment of those judged by the Government to be guilty of the outrage, have been done at the expense of its popularity, and that a portion of the inhabitants, including the two mandarins already condemned by the Government, are alone directly and justly responsible for the deplorable occurrence of the 21st of June. It is very undesirable now to divert public attention from those really guilty by attempting to fix the blame on any one else for the sake of frustrating a political mission sent to Europe by the Chinese Government at the request of Count de Rochechouart, the French Chargé d'Affaires.

The charge against Chung How of complicity with the massacre contained in the letter of the Chamber of Commerce is not borne out by facts. He has been the consistent friend of foreigners during the past ten years; he had many Europeans in his employ at the time of the massacre, and he is said to have addressed friendly warnings to Consul Fontanier before the 21st of June, begging him not to treat so lightly the excitement of the populace growing out of the supposed kidnapping. M. Coutrix, the only Frenchman saved on the day of the massacre, was protected in Chung How's residence, where doubtless Consul Fontanier would also have been safe had he remained.

There is no proof whatever that Chung How denied protection to Europeans; the 600 disciplined troops spoken of were not available at a moment's call, being scattered over the city at their own homes, and not in barracks; had his order to open the bridge of boats been obeyed, it is not improbable the dreadful occurrences of the 21st of June might have been avoided.

The feeling against him by those who were implicated in the massacre is best told in the words of Messrs. Lees and Hall, Protestant Missionaries at Tientsin:—"The rioters have notoriously claimed, openly, the sympathy and approval of all the local officials, except his Excellency Chung-King Pau (Chung How), who has, from his supposed complicity with foreigners, become the object of intense popular hatred, being misnamed 'foreigner' and 'Romanist,' and having had his proclamations insultingly defaced."

After the massacre Chung How's conduct was not that of a guilty man; he wrote during the night of the 21st of June that he would meet the Consuls the next morning at ten A.M.; the meeting was held, all the foreign Consuls being present. He expressed his deep sorrow at what had occurred, and said he never dreamt that matters could have gone to the extremity they did: that he was quite unprepared to put down such a sudden rising of the people, and that consequently they were temporarily masters of the situation; yet it is now said that Chung How's ability to suppress the attack is clearly shown by his volunteering to send 600 foreign drilled troops on the day after the massacre to protect foreigners in the settlement. As well might one argue on the ability of the Lord Mayor of London to prevent the Fenian explosion and consequent dreadful destruction of life in Clerkenwell. In short, so evidently beyond all suspicion was the conduct of Chung How, that not one of the Foreign Ministers at Peking ventured to make an accusation against him, and Count de Rochechouart requested the Chinese Government to appoint him as special Ambassador to France,—a step it is impossible to conceive the Count's taking without being well satisfied of his innocence.

As to the statement that those arrested and executed for the murders were innocent persons, not a tittle of evidence is brought forward to disprove the direct charges made against each individual by the Chinese Government; if it be admitted (and it seems likely) that the families did receive money, it only shows the undoubted and well-known weakness of the Government who adopt this device to prevent the strong popular feeling in Tientsin, which undoubtedly exists, from bursting forth into open rebellion.

Seeing, therefore, that so much can be said to prove that Chung How was not implicated in the murders of June, it surely is not competent for an Association representing purely mercantile interests, at a distance of over 500 miles from the scene of the massacre, and without the formal examination of a single witness, to take the initiative and make so serious an accusation five months after the occurrence, and after the departure of the person against whom it is aimed.

Presuming Chung How to be innocent, I fail to see that any danger can arise to foreign interests from his reception at Paris or London, and would rather hope that an admirable opportunity may be afforded of impressing on the highest official from China who has yet visited the West the absolute necessity for a better system of control, which shall for the future render impossible such dreadful occurrences as the Tientsin massacre.—I am, Sir, yours faithfully, Shanghai, Dec. 6.

THE PALL MALL ON CHINA.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—As you have copied in your journal two articles that appeared lately in the Pall Mall Gazette, in which, under cover of a critique of my little book, an attempt has been made to mislead the public as to the state of the China question, in which an increasing interest is being daily excited, it may be worth while to state that the Pall Mall has declined to publish my reply. As far as I am concerned, I should be content to let your readers, who know the circumstances, and can have no difficulty in identifying the authorship of the two articles, appreciate the sneers and misrepresentations of the writer at their true value, and judge what parts of my little book have provoked this undignified, personal outburst. From a public point of view, however, the circumstance is significant, as showing that one at least of the London daily journals is as far from being ready to allow a fair and impartial discussion of this very important question as it was two years ago, when the Liberal press distinguished itself by a persistent advocacy of the Burlingame Mission, and systematically suppressed those facts which would have saved the people of this country from being deceived regarding a grave matter of public policy.—I am, &c., Jan. 25, 1871.

LITERATURE.

The Phoenix presents us with an interesting number for December. Mr. R. Swinhoe contributes an article on "The Chinese Dialect Spoken in Hainan," and Mr. H. H. Howarth one on "The Northern Frontages of China." Mr. E. H. Parker continues his "Month in Mongolia," and Mr. B. H. Hodgson "The Literature and Religion of the Buddhists." "My Silent Grief," the memoir of a Japanese Naval officer on the promulgation of the Christian religion, is one of the most valuable papers in the number, and does great credit to the scholarship of the translator, Baron Von Siebold, of H.B.M.'s Civil Service in Japan.

The ninth number of the Silk Supply Journal contains an account of an important meeting of the silk trade at Macclesfield, under the auspices of the Silk Supply Association, to receive information from Mr. Dickens, the chairman of the Central Committee, with reference to reeling from the cocoons as a new and profitable branch of industry in Macclesfield, and to inspect the model of an improved doubling and throwing machine invented by Mr. Dickens, and explained by him to the meeting. The model was made by Mr. Enoch Rushton, of Macclesfield. Mr. Dickens explained that the Central Association had ordered a new single reeling machine from Italy, and it was now in London at the wharf; but to work it properly they must have one or two skilled reelers from Italy or France, when they would be able to produce precisely the same kind of silk as had hitherto been confined to those countries. Having once shown that Brutia or any other silk was as good under Macclesfield skies as under the skies of Italy, then let them look about for any economy of production that might suggest itself. Mr. Cornes said there was evidently a very good feeling in the town in favour of the efforts of the Silk Supply Association, and, on the motion of Mr. Wright, a resolution that the machine should be purchased by the Association was carried unanimously. The lecture which followed was of a very interesting character, and was closed by a vote of thanks to Mr. Dickens.

Nature thinks that it is highly probable that the Boehmeria nivea, or China grass fibre, will, ere long, become a regular article of import to this country, both from the fact of the recent reward of the Indian Government for the invention of machinery suitable for its cleaning and preservation, and from the nature of the plant being such that the climate and soil of many of our colonies are quite suited for its culture. There is no doubt that it is well adapted for a variety of uses, and could, by careful preparation, be applied to purposes for which our present commercial fibres, though to some extent used, are nevertheless unsuited. The Chinese bestow an immense amount of care and labour upon its preparation, hence the very fine fabrics which are produced in that country. In Sumatra, also, much care is given to its cultivation and preparation; the stems are usually cut when they are about six feet high. They are sometimes allowed to dry before the fibre is taken from them, but the most common practice is to take it as soon as the stems are removed from the ground. A viscid gum is found on the stem which in Macassar is scraped off and used as a mild sort of arrow poison. In China three crops of the stems are usually obtained in one year, but the second crop is considered to yield the best fibre.

NAVAL AND MILITARY.

We are glad to hear by a telegram from Singapore that the Juno, with marines for China or Japan, arrived out on 23rd Jan. Accounts from Bombay stated that she left Suez on the 7th Dec., broke down in the Red Sea, having fallen short of coals, and was thereby detained two days, being eventually supplied from the Jumna.

The statement made some time since in these columns that orders would be sent out by the Admiralty to Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett, K.C.B., to survey all the old class of gunboats on the China station as to their fitness for sea service, for river service, or for sale, has been fulfilled, the orders referred to having been dispatched last week.

A report has appeared in several newspapers that the 2nd battalion of the 10th Regiment would shortly be removed from Japan. This is incorrect; the draft which has just sailed in the Silver Eagle will proceed to Yokohama, where the battalion will, according to existing arrangements, remain for some little time.

Major Grain, recently appointed commanding Royal Engineer at Hong Kong, sailed from Liverpool on the 22nd inst., in the steamer Agamemnon.

The Admiralty appointment is notified of Commander George Robinson to the Rinaldo, vice F. C. B. Robinson, invalided.

THE COLLEGE AT PEKING.

With reference to the notice of the Imperial College at Peking, we learn that it came into existence about two years ago, in rooms provided in the Imperial arsenal. Mr. Fryer, the gentleman first in charge, came from England to assist Bishop Smith at St. Paul's, Hong Kong. He did not remain long in Victoria, and was at Peking when a call was made on him to assist in founding a Chinese school under the auspices of Church missionaries at Shanghai, and an excellent school was consequently established for youths whose parents could afford to pay Tls. 50 a-year each for them. Being without books, Mr. Fryer undertook the translation of some English works for his scholars; but the labour proved too great, and he was compelled to devote his whole attention to the Imperial scholastic establishment. The Church of England school consequently ceased to exist, and the Imperial College was established in the arsenal, where we are informed that Mr. Fryer and his family are now installed in the quarters originally built for the executive foreigners.

We hear from Ceylon that the weather having set in favourably for the operations at the Basses Rock, Mr. Douglas, the executive engineer, has left Galle with the steamers Arrow and Hercules, each having a cargo of stones (about ninety in number) for the first and second courses of the lighthouse tower, also taking down rock moorings for the craft, and all necessary gear and tools for using in landing and setting the stone. Should the monsoon prove a fine one, it was hoped that the whole of the base of the tower (twenty courses of stone) would be placed in position.

We have received the prospectus of a new weekly newspaper, to be published in the French language at Shanghai, under the title of Le Nouvelliste de Shanghai. This will be the first French journal printed in China.

We are glad to notice that an extensive traffic is already established over the new direct telegraph line to Singapore, the receipts being from £800 to £900 daily.

The total receipts of the Suez Canal Company for 1870 amount to f.6,387,284.

On the 1st of January Hamburg possessed 425 vessels of together 79,523 commercial lasts (of 3 English tons each), against 483 vessels, with 85,806 lasts last year, showing a considerable falling off both in number and tonnage. This was partly owing to the war, as thirteen Hamburg vessels were captured and carried to French ports, one was deliberately sunk by the French in the North Sea, and another abandoned by them and allowed to drift on shore, where she became a wreck. Among those now on the lists there are 36 sea-going steamers, whilst the sailing vessels comprise 34 wooden and 11 iron full ships, 194 wooden and 6 iron barques, 66 brigs, and 16 three-masted schooners: the remainder are smaller craft under 100 tons. On the whole 77 were lost, captured, and sold, and they have been partially replaced by 19 new vessels of various descriptions.

THE General Post-office at Berlin has given notice that letters, &c., to the East Indies, China, Japan, and Australia, can now be sent from any part of Germany by way of Brindisi. In all cases letters (common and registered), printed matter, and samples must be prepaid. The postage of a single letter is 8½ groschens, or 29 kreuzers, per lot of 18 grammes (against 8 groschen via Trieste); newspapers, circulars, and other printed matter 1 groschen per 2½ loths (the same as via Trieste). The fee for registered letters is the same (2 groschens) by both routes.

THE "SCOTSMAN" IN DESPAIR.—It is difficult, says the Scotsman, to understand clearly what is going on in China. We have just heard that the French Admiral in Chinese waters has demanded a large indemnity and is threatening to bombard the ports, and that the Chinese, with diplomatic cunning, have appealed to the Prussians for protection. Now we hear from the British representative, Mr. Wade, that all is right. The proceedings of the French Admiral breed some doubt as to all being right now, and suggest the probability that before long there will be something wrong. Either Mr. Wade is deceiving us or the French Admiral ought to be summarily checked.

We notice the establishment, by Mr. Holmes, of a new hotel at Hong Kong, the "Cosmopolitan." The increased facilities of transit to the Far East afforded by the opening of the Suez Canal have rendered necessary the establishment of more accommodation for those visiting the various ports; and there is no doubt but that the new venture, as supplying an actual want, will be successful.

THE Portsmouth and Mansion-house Committees for relieving the widows and orphans of those who perished in the Captain have raised nearly £50,000 towards that object. At a meeting held on the 25th inst. it was mentioned that a subscription had been started in China, and the Committee expressed their gratification at the circumstance.

Monetary and Commercial.

Large imports of bar silver, Sycee, and a few Mexican dollars are expected by next mail from China, owing to the low exchanges there, and the reduction of the P. and O. rates to 1 per cent. According to the present quotations, the outturn will yield 5s. 10d. per Shanghai tael.

The directors of the London and County Bank, agents for the Hong Kong Bank, have decided to recommend to the annual general meeting on the 2nd of February the usual dividend of 6 per cent., with a bonus of 3 per cent., being together 9 per cent., for the half-year ended the 31st of December. This, added to the June dividend, is equal to 17½ per cent. for the year 1870, and the amount carried forward to profit and loss new account will be £4,300.

The report of the Universal Marine Insurance Company, to be presented on the 2nd of February, recommends a payment of 7s. 6d. per share, with a bonus of 2s. 6d., making, with the ad interim dividend in July, a total distribution of 12½ per cent. for the year. In the previous year the distribution was 10 per cent.

The report of the London and Provincial Marine Insurance Company, to be presented on the 1st of February, recommends a payment of interest for the past six months at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, and an addition of £15,000 to the reserve fund, which will then stand at £60,000. The dividend was at the same rate at the corresponding period of last year, and the addition to reserve was £20,000.

The report of the Ocean Marine Insurance Company, to be presented on the 30th inst., shows an available total of £88,346, and recommends a dividend of 5s. and bonus of 20s. per share (as at the corresponding period of last year), and the appropriation of £15,000 to reserve—thus raised to £90,000.

The British Shipowners' Company (Limited) have declared a dividend for the half-year ending Dec. 30 of 10 per cent. per annum, making, with the interim dividend paid in July, 7½ per cent. for the year. £10,000 has been placed to depreciation account, now amounting to £62,500, and a balance of £2,428 3s. 3d. is carried forward to next year's account. Mr. C. Turner, M.P., who presided at the meeting, made some allusions to the operation of the Suez Canal on the freights obtainable by sailing vessels. He said there was no doubt that, from the success that attended the working of the Canal, steam vessels were absorbing a large part of the trade to the East. Articles such as iron, coal, beer, &c., would, however, still be carried by sailing ships. The comparative cessation in the building of the latter, he said, tended on the other hand to enhance the value of such property, and the company were thus enabled to declare the usual dividend.

The directors of the Merchant Shipping Company announce that the profits on the voyages completed during the past six months do not admit of the payment of the customary interim dividend, but that as there is a great improvement in the rates of freight in India, it is anticipated that a satisfactory dividend will be recommended at the annual meeting to be held in July.

Communication with the United States is still carried on solely through the French cable, all attempts to raise and repair the English cables having been postponed until the Spring. The Falmouth, Malta and Gibraltar Telegraph cable is still out of order.

The Herald of the Morning, belonging to Mr. Buchanan, Glasgow, has arrived from Penang with a general cargo, having been six months on the passage. Risks were taken at Lloyd's at 30 guineas, and the day before her arrival 50 guineas was asked.

The steamers loading for the Straits, China, and Japan, via Suez Canal, now number ten, and the freights have fallen considerably, rates to China being about 50s. to 60s.

Messrs. Joseph Tetley and Co., wholesale tea dealers, announce that they have received into partnership, from the 1st inst., Mr. Joseph Tetley, jun., the son of their senior, and Mr. Samuel Furniss, who has been associated with the firm for eighteen years.

Tables published in the East India, China, and Japan Monthly Shipping Register illustrate the rapid development of the route by the Suez Canal. Out of a total of 1,629,744,424 yards of cottons shipped to the East in 1870, 933,760,170 yards went by way of Egypt, and 26,239,137 lbs. twist, out of a total shipment of 62,692,056 lbs. From the same tables it also appears that while the exports to Calcutta have increased 2 1-10th million pounds sterling, those to Bombay have decreased three-fourths of a million. To Hong Kong there is nearly a million excess, balanced by a reduction to other Chinese ports. The tendency to build large ships and steamers for the Eastern trade is shown by the fact that only 1,655 vessels sailed in 1870, against 1,880 in 1864, although the total tonnage in 1870 was 1,523,397 tons, while in 1869 it was 1,572,551 tons.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

There has been a fair amount of business done without material alteration in prices of Congous. The arrivals have offered a good selection of fair to good red and black-leaf kinds, and the trade have bought freely of these. Common Teas, especially those below the standard of good common, have been difficult of sale, and for these prices must still be quoted in favour of buyers. The latest telegrams from China show a decrease of over 18,000,000 lbs. in export, with only moderate stocks, and these chiefly of low qualities, for which there is at present but little market here, the home consumption this year having reverted to a better quality of Tea than for some years past.

Red-leaf Congous.—Siftings have again sold rather in favour of buyers, also broken-leaf kinds. Fair to good common, of old season, sold at public sale ½d. per lb. lower. New Teas of the same kind have been dull of sale. Common to good Kaisow kinds have been sold to some extent from 1s. to 1s. 4d., showing rather easier prices for the lower grades; fine to finest show no alteration. Pak Lin kinds, in half-chests, have been taken at about former prices. Black-leaf kinds: Low qualities remain difficult of sale; clean fair common, of recent import, has sold at 10½d. per lb., showing ½d. per lb. decline; good to superior common remains firm at former rates. Fair to good medium kinds have been saleable at previous prices; fine have been in moderate demand at full prices, also the finest kinds. Amoy kinds show no change for the better; some of very low quality sold, at public sale, at 4½d. per lb. Oologs: the fresh supplies of these have not met with so ready a sale, and prices must be quoted 1d. to 2d. per lb. lower. Souchongs: Common kinds have been sold rather lower, also good to fine, which are in over-supply at the moment. Flowery Pekoes remain as before. Scented Teas: Canton Capers, ex Fiery Cross, found ready buyers at fully previous prices. Foo Chow kinds have sold about 1d. per lb. lower. Canton Orange Pekoes have sold at about former prices. Uncoloured Japans show no change. Green Teas: There have been heavy arrivals, a large proportion of which have been offered both privately and at public auction. The finer kinds go off steadily, but at a decline of 2d. to 3d. per lb. on previous prices; the common to medium kinds are still without improvement, the low prices current do not appear to increase the consumption.

Messrs. Shepard, Harrison, and Rehden's Circular says:—There has been a great weight of Tea offered the past fortnight, principally of the grades below medium, and merchants have shown some anxiety to quit their holdings of common to fair, while dealers act cautiously, as the requirements for these grades for some time past have been smaller than usual; prices are lower by 1d. per lb. on Congous ranging from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 6d. per lb., and to-day's quotation for good common black leaf stands at 11d. to 11½d. per lb. Latest telegrams from Hong Kong, via Singapore, to 11th Jan., as to the export, give a deficiency compared with last year of about 15,000,000 lbs. Such a falling off, however, will not be seriously felt, as the stock in bond is beyond the present wants. For the Continent there have been a few purchases of good common Congou in anticipation of the spring demand.

At a public sale on the 27th inst. 2,680 packages (China) were offered without reserve, on account of the importers, and all sold as follows:—313 chests good medium black leaf Congou, 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 4d.; 360 half-chests Shanghai packed ditto, 7½d. to 7¾d.; 576 ditto red leaf Congou, chiefly Paklings, ex Shun Lee, 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 4½d.; 783 boxes ditto, 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 4½d.; 648 half-chests Moyune Green—No. 1 Gunpowder, 3s. 2½d. to 3s. 3d.; No. 2, 2s. 7d.; No. 1 Imperial, 1s. 10½d. to 1s. 11½d.; No. 2, 1s. 6½d. to 1s. 6¾d.; No. 1 Young Hyson, 2s. 7d. to 2s. 7½d.; No. 2, 2s. 0½d. to 2s. 0¾d.; No. 3, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 2½d.; No. 1 Hyson, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¾d. There was only a moderate attendance, and prices were all in buyers' favour. The half-chop of black leaf Congou at 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 4d. shows a marked decline as compared with the duplicate sold in the 22nd November sale. The Green Teas were also cheaper.

SILK.

During the past week the Silk market has remained very firm, Tasitees still being in favour at full prices. Importers as a rule are not at all anxious to sell with present state of politics. Cantons are still enquired for. Japans and Bengals remain neglected.

Deliveries from 1st to 25th inst.: China, 1,866 bales, against 2,809 bales; Canton, 622 bales, against 501 bales; Japan, 209 bales, against 493 bales; Bengal, 292 bales, against 433 bales; total, 2,989 bales, against 4,236 bales.

M. Arles Dufour and Co., in their Circular, dated Lyons, Jan. 14th, say:—The present crisis is paralysing the silk manufactures in France has nearly entirely shut up the principal markets for raw silk. The consequence is that a rather large proportion of the produce of last year's crop remains unsold. In comparing actual prices with those of similar disturbed times, it must be acknowledged that they appear comparatively high. For European silk this may be accounted for by the profits realised during a period of eight years of uninterrupted prosperity, which have permitted producers to hold their stocks. The future of the silk trade seems now to depend principally on the duration of the war, as French manufacturers, who alone have no stocks of raw silks, will not enter the market again as long as peace is not restored.

COFFEE.

There is a good inquiry for all descriptions, and the offers at auction, which have not been very heavy, have been taken off at 1s. advance for Plantation Ceylon, and at fully last week's prices for other kinds. The prices paid for Ceylon have been:—Plantation, triage, 50s. to 57s. 6d.; small grey, 57s. to 57s. 6d.; low middling grey, 59s. 6d. to 62s. 6d.; bold grey, 66s. to 70s.; small colour, 59s. to 62s.; middling colour, 64s. to 69s. 6d.; good middling to good bold 70s. to 79s.; pea-berry, 74s. 6d. to 79s.; Native, fine ordinary, 57s.; pea-berry, 60s. 6d.; fine bold, 59s. 6d. to 60s. For arrival, 1,000 bags Native have been sold at 55s., without guarantee of quality. At later sales Plantation Ceylon again went off with good competition and colour qualities sold at a further advance of 1s. per cwt. 380 casks 65 tierces 26 barrels 212 bags sold; triage, 45s. to 57s.; small, 58s.

to 60s. 6d.; low middling to middling grey, 61s. 6d. to 65s.; middling to good middling colour, 65s. 6d. to 75s. 6d.; fine middling to bold 76s. 6d. to 82s. 6d.; pea-berry, 75s. to 80s.

SUGAR.

The quiet tone which pervaded the market at the date of our last report has culminated in an almost entire cessation in the demand, and sales can only now be effected at a reduction in the current rates; this being resisted by holders business has been extremely limited. In East India there have been no public sales, and privately the only transactions reported consist in the sales of 4,200 bags clayed Manila (duty 4s. 9d.) at 28s., and 580 bags white Java (duty 5s. 8d.) ex recent auctions at 36s. per cwt.

COIR GOODS.—Several weeks having elapsed since the previous auctions, some accumulation has taken place, and at the sales this week a large quantity of yarn, amounting to 3,050 bales and 250 tons, was brought forward. But with an active demand for all qualities nearly the whole has been disposed of at a general advance of £3 to £5 per ton, the greater rise being for better qualities. Fibre sold readily at some improvement in value. Rope sold slowly at previous rates; 434 bales fine Ceylon Yarn offered, 300 bales sold; good to fine £39 to £46 5s., very fine to superior bright thin £50 10s. to £62 15s. Of 129 tons in dholls about one-half sold, common £23 to £25 15s., low medium to medium, £28 to £30 10s.; good medium to good, £32 to £36; fine, £39 to £45 5s. Of Ceylon Fibre 9 bales sold at £29 10s.; 30 tons sold, low, £15 to £17 10s.; common, £19 15s.; good common, £23; fair, £27 10s.; 9 bales 460 bundles brush, chiefly sold at £31 5s. to £32 15s. Of 1,520 coils (36 tons) Cochin Rope, about one-half sold, 2½ to 5½-inch of middling colour at £24 5s. to £26; 483 coils (6 tons) Cocanada were withdrawn.

CANES.—Of 172,750 Tonkin at public sales 13,125 damaged sold at ½d., the remainder bought in at ¾d., 31,966 black Bamboo bought in at 1d. Of 1,553 bundles Malacca 414 bundles sold at 2½d. to 3½d., and 1½d. to 1¾d.

CUTCH AND GAMBER.—No transactions.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The export being again practicable, there has been more inclination to buy; Ceylon on the spot is now worth 38s. 6d., and fine Cochin 45s. per cwt. At auction 212 pipes Ceylon sold at 38s. 6d., and 55 puncheons and hogsheds at 38s. 6d. to 39s.; 112 hogsheds fair Cochin realised 43s. 6d. per cwt. Privately 150 tons Ceylon are reported for arrival at 39s. per cwt.

HEMP.—The market for Manila is steady, but owing to a scarcity of good quality little business has been done; the sales have been about 500 bales at £54 15s. for good, and £53 10s. for fair roping; also 200 bales good Sorsagon, and 200 bales good roping Cebu, at £53 10s. per ton.

HIDES.—At the periodical sales held on the 26th of East India Kips a fair demand prevailed, and the greater part was disposed of at previous prices, the remainder, being held for extreme rates, were bought in. Buffalo met an improved demand without any alteration in prices. Since the arrival of the Herald of the Morning off coast with 400 tons Penang the market has been quieter, and by private contract 2,000 bags ex that vessel have sold at 5½d., and subsequently 500 bags at 5½d.; for arrival 1,500 bags Penang, November-December sailing, have sold at 5½d. White: There has been a continued steady demand at the advance referred to in our last; at auction of 517 bags Singapore, chiefly of recent import, offered, about 200 bags sold at 7½d.; good, 7½d.; old import, 7½d.; privately 1,500 bags Singapore have been sold at 7½d.

SHELLS.—MOTHER O'PEARL: At the periodical auctions Manila were Tortoise: At the sales a considerable supply, amounting to 12,420 lbs. of all descriptions, was offered; fresh arrivals sold with good spirit at steady rates, but parcels of old import were slow of sale on previous terms and were chiefly bought in. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—INFLUENZA COLDS.—In diseases of the throat and chest, ever prevalent in this country, nothing so speedily relieves or cures as these inestimable remedies. These disorders are too frequently neglected at the commencement, or are injudiciously treated, resulting in either case in disastrous consequences. Whatever the condition of the patient's complaint, Holloway's medicines will restore it if recovery be possible. They will retard the alarming symptoms till the blood is purified and nature consummates the cure, gradually restoring strength and vital nervous power. By persevering in the use of Holloway's preparations, tone is conferred on the stomach and frame generally, the fluids are regenerated, morbid matter is expelled, and a happy revolution occurs throughout the system.

BEGINNING OF A NEW VOLUME.

"Good Words are worth much and cost little."—HERBERT.

GOOD WORDS.

SIXPENCE MONTHLY, ILLUSTRATED.

NORMAN MACLEOD, D.D.,
One of the Deans of the Chapel Royal.

ADDRESS FOR 1871.

What shall we say by way of Prospectus to the Twelfth Volume of Good Words? Not a repetition of what we have said in former Prospectuses; that would be tiresome. Not an assurance that the forthcoming volume will be found vastly superior to all competitors; that might be deceptive. We will simply state that while we shall in no respect relax our efforts to render this Magazine equal to the best in literary and pictorial merit, we shall, with not less anxiety, aim at maintaining the special tone and spirit by which it has been all along characterised.

The public already know that Good Words does not strive after the imposing qualities of sensation and excitement—to ignobly interest or frivolously amuse; but seeks rather to provide the wisest instruction in the pleasantest manner, without neglecting to supply wholesome entertainment for every diversity of taste.
At starting, we chose a distinctive walk for ourselves, and after a course of eleven years, which gratitude rather than vanity induces us to term singularly fortunate, it is our ambition to make the Magazine answer more and more to George Herbert's motto—"Good words are worth much and cost little."

The contents of the January and February Parts printed below, will serve to give a good idea of what may be expected in the volume for 1871:—

* * * The Publishers are not in the habit of quoting Opinions on such a well-known publication as Good Words, yet the following is such a striking tribute to its worth that they cannot refrain from citing it here:—
"Among serials for the educated, there is first of all Good Words—a phenomenon of periodical literature—a phenomenon in its circulation of 150,000 a month, so that it is known wherever the English tongue is spoken, and was the first thing asked for by the Pitcairn Islanders from a ship that lately visited them—a phenomenon in that it gives for 6d. the original thoughts not only of men who are foremost in the republic of letters, but numbers among its contributors those who are highest in rank, both in Church and State."—From the Paper on Periodical Literature read at the Dublin Church Congress.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

We have received by telegram from San Francisco news in advance of the incoming mail, with dates down to 24th Dec.

The Pacific mail steamer America arrived at San Francisco from Hong Kong via Yokohama, on the 17th January, bringing forty passengers for San Francisco, fourteen for New York, one for England, fourteen young Japanese noblemen, who have through tickets for New York, overland, and 160 Chinese. She had a full cargo of teas and miscellaneous goods. The young Japanese will proceed to New York to enter college.

Among the passengers was his Excellency Ito Okura Daijo, Assistant Minister of Finance of the Empire of Japan, who is accredited as Commissioner to the Government of the United States. His suite included secretaries, physicians, aids, &c., in all twenty-two persons. They will remain here for two weeks, and visit the public institutions of San Francisco before proceeding to Washington. It is announced that Ito's mission to the United States is to study the financial system—the Currency, Treasury, and Revenue laws. It is said that he is a man of liberal views, and is well-disposed towards foreigners in Japan. He has been liberally educated. Physically he is a man of fine appearance. Several of Ito's companions are Japanese bankers. The movements of the party at San Francisco were under Mr. Charles Walcott Brooks, the Japanese Consul.

At the date of the departure of the steamer from Yokohama business in Japan was utterly stagnant.

The American Minister, Mr. De Long, and Sir Harry Parkes had been on a visit to Kishiu. Satsuma had massed a large number of troops, and it was feared a civil war could not much longer be deferred.

The roads in the vicinity of Yokohama were again becoming unsafe; foreigners were frequently attacked. The Government had ordered a vigorous prosecution of the work on the railroad between Osaka and Hiogo.

In the southern provinces the rice crop had suffered severely from unseasonable weather, and also from the effects of an earthquake.

On the 20th December half a square mile of houses were burned in Yedo, and on the same night the premises of Walsh, Hall, and Co. took fire, and much damage resulted before the flames were extinguished. A powder magazine exploded, and several lives were lost. The shock was so severe that some persons supposed it was caused by an earthquake.

Mr. Grauert, an old merchant of Yokohama, committed suicide in a fit of despondency caused by losses in business.

Mr. Portman, the interpreter of the United States Legation, has been suspended by Minister De Long, owing to complaints made by Japanese, and some angry correspondence had passed between the Minister and the Interpreter.

A correspondent writes on Dec. 7th:—The railway works are progressing. Mr. Morel has returned from Kobe, and a staff of engineers and workmen will at once be sent there, to commence operations. Attacks on foreigners by two-sworded men seem not quite to have died out. A German gentleman riding towards Yedo the other day was cut at, but the thickness of his coat and the movement of his horse prevented the cut having much effect. A concert given by the Germans in aid of the wounded passed off most favourably, some six hundred dollars being collected. No further news as to the movements of the 10th Regiment has reached us, but it is likely that they will remain here, whether the marines come or not, at least until some definite steps with regard to China have been taken. Small-pox is very prevalent in the settlement, and one case of death has occurred. Trade is dull, as usual, but the expense of printing a circular, wherein everything is bracketed "nothing doing," is carried on, showing an amount of intelligence on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce one could hardly have expected. The following ships of war are in harbour:—English, Ringdove, Havoc, Manila. French, Venus, Dupleix, Linois. American, Benicia, Idaho. Prussian, Medusa, Hertha.

A sad accident has to be recorded in the death by drowning of Commander Brooks, of H.M.'s Ringdove. It appears that, being an ardent sportsman, accompanied by Paymaster Bowles, of H.M.'s Manila, he went across the bay on a shooting expedition. A somewhat strong breeze was blowing, and a sudden puff of wind upset the boat. Three of the crew managed to swim on shore, and report that the last they saw of Captain Brooks was his sitting astride the bottom of the boat. Captain Brooks, Mr. Bowles, and two seamen were drowned, and only one body, that of a seaman, has been recovered. Captain Brooks had only lately arrived from Honolulu, but had been on the China station, in the Odin, under Lord John Hay. He had, we understand, received the Royal Humane Society's medal for saving life.

CHINA.

CHEFOO.

A Chefoo correspondent writes, under date the 10th Dec.:—The weather is cold but clear. The river at Newchwang, we hear, is not yet closed; neither is the Peiho. But a week more may alter matters considerably. As this last steamer leaves, we are beginning to realise the prospect of our isolation for the winter, and to envy you the news which you will go on receiving of the current of affairs in Europe.

HANKOW.

A translation of a memorial by the Governor of Hunan respecting the late insurrectionary movements in that part of the Empire explains their grave nature. A remarkable feature in the memorial is a covert hint conveyed of the influence held by the Tseng family in Hunan. Tseng-kwo-tseuen, to whom the Governor says he has intrusted the chief command of the army, was in command of a host of Hunan braves round Nanking, and was nominally degraded after the occurrence, on the strength of various accusations. But the Tseng influence was too strong, and the Peking Government had to let the matter drop. There is little doubt but that the head members of the Ko-te-hwei are the petty officers of his and Tseng-kwo Fan's disbanded troops. We may be pretty sure that when the Tseng family have any interest in making trouble, there will be trouble in these up-river provinces; when it is to their interest to keep the peace, there will be peace.

SHANGHAI.

Dates are down to the 21st Dec. The London mail of Oct. 28 arrived on the 15th Dec. Telegrams via Kiachta extended to the 28th Nov.

The most interesting event of the week was the inauguration of a statue to Admiral Protet, the account of which we extract from the North China Herald. Those who were living in Shanghai eight years ago will remember well the circumstances of Admiral Protet's death, at the attack on the Taeping stockades at Najow. A subscription was opened here to erect a statue to his memory, and it is the completion of this design which we have now to record. It was largely attended, both by the general public and by the subscribers to the memorial. Detachments of the Volunteer Corps from both sides of the Yang-king-pang, of seamen from the French ship Cortogon, and of the Franco-Chinese drilled troops, were also present. Over the gateway to the grounds the French flag was flying, supported on either side by those of Great Britain and America. The Consuls and others who had been specially invited, with officers of the French, American, and English men-of-war in harbour, were received by Comte Mejan, the French Consul-General. The Consul-General was more immediately attended and supported by Captain Pritzbeur, of the ironclad Alma, M. Millot, of the French Municipal Council, the other members of that body and of the Shanghai Municipal Council, and was also attended by the (two) magistrates of the Mixed Courts. Admiral Rodgers and suite, from the American war frigate Colorado, were also present. When the signal was given for the statue to be unveiled the guard presented arms, the Chinese disciplined trumpeters and drummers announced the event, the French Volunteer Artillery fired a salute, and the Consul-General delivered an eloquent address from the steps of the pedestal. The figure is erect and commanding, but there is no stiffness of bearing, and the moulding of the face displays with singular lightness and natural expression the lineaments of a man of firm character and gracious demeanour. The right hand grasps a telescope, and the other is occupied with the cloak, which falls in flowing folds from the shoulders, and forms, in such slight degree as is permissible in this style of art, a background to the figure. Altogether, the sculptor may be congratulated on having produced a fine specimen of bronze statuary, and the community on having received a work at once illustrative of that art and commemorative of the noble man to whose memory it is dedicated. The pedestal is likewise a monument to the officers and men who fell in the same service with the Admiral—whose names are here inscribed; and a Chinese version also appears on one side. The principal inscription, however, is the following:—

"A l'Admiral Protet, aux officiers, marines et soldats, tués glorieusement devant les rebelles, sur la terre de Chine, 1855—1862."

A meeting of delegates from the various companies of the Shanghai Fire Department has been held, for the purpose of nominating chief and district engineers. The following gentlemen were put in nomination:—For chief engineer, Mr. C. P. Blethen; for district No. 1 (Hongque), Mr. J. L. Hammond; No. 2 district, Messrs. W. E. Stephenson, O. Bullock, F. E. Gwyn, and R. Mackenzie; and for No. 3 district, Messrs. Severana, Teillot, and Fajard. Mr. John Thorne, who has for the past year been acting chief, declined to stand, preferring to resign the position back to Mr. Blethen, the former chief.

The following items are from the same paper:—

Inquiries made as late as December 10, by some of the missionaries in Hangchow, have failed to discover any evidence of the proclamation upon the subject of the Tientsin massacre being published there. When we remember the obscure manner in which this proclamation was posted in Shanghai, it is not surprising that in other places there should be an entire disregard of the promise "that the proclamation shall be published in all parts of the Chinese Empire."

A memorial has been drawn up by the Protestant Missionaries, for presentation to the Foreign Ministers at Peking, regarding the present aspect of affairs as bearing on missionary work. It records their high appreciation of the enlightened policy of the treaties of 1858-60, made by Christian nations with China, in guaranteeing not only extended commercial privileges, but also full toleration of the Christian religion, with protection for those who teach and those who profess it; and expresses the regret and apprehension with which they have viewed, within the past few years, the inauguration of a different policy from that which made and sanctioned these treaties, and approved our missionary operations under them; and it deprecates such a course towards the Chinese authorities as will allow them to escape from their treaty engagements, and as in other regards so also in the license hitherto secured to Christian missionaries for their specific work.

We are glad to hear that the charity for the relief of Chinese poor is in active operation, and relieving two to three hundred people every day, sleeping accommodation being provided for about two hundred and fifty. A number of wadded garments have been purchased, and have been served out to the most necessitous. A foreigner has been engaged to organise a labour system. Tools, baskets, &c., have been purchased, and a useful commencement has been made in attempting to drain the village of Sinza, and filling up an offensive stagnant pool in the direction of the gasworks, inside of the defence ditch. There are plenty of other similar nuisances which may be taken in turn. The Municipal Council have placed native policemen at the bridges crossing the defence ditch, to prevent beggars from returning to the settlement after they have been relieved at the refuge.

The man Ross, who was committed for trial some weeks ago on a charge of having shot a Chinaman at Au Chalet, has been tried and acquitted. In the course of the trial Dr. Jamieson raised a point about fees to skilled witnesses, which much needs to be settled in Shanghai.

A parade of the volunteer corps for the presentation of prizes won at the rifle meeting was held on Wednesday. The ladies' prize was given by Mrs. Goodwin, the remainder by Mr. Dixwell, the chairman of the Municipal Council.

It is worth a walk up the French road to Sikawei just now to see the change which is being wrought in the creek which runs alongside it. The creek had filled up so much that for a long time it had been dry at low tide, and barely navigable even at high water. For two or three weeks now hundreds of coolies have been at work deepening the bed, which has been sunk several feet throughout its length, and nearly to the proposed depth. When the authorities have finished this laudable work it is to be hoped they will turn their attention to some of the bridges in the neighbourhood, which are in the last stage of shakiness and decay. The rebels broke down the stone bridges; the wooden ones were erected after their departure. These are now worn out, while the stones of the former structures lie cumbering the bank alongside. Why not re-erect them?

The N. C. Daily News has some interesting remarks upon the trade of Tientsin. Adverting to the large import trade now conducted there, now second only to Shanghai, it observes that, in consequence of the absence of any export trade, there is an export of nearly Tls. 7,000,000 to square accounts. It goes on to notice a statement made some time ago by the Commissioner of Customs at that port, to the effect that the Chinese Government contemplated working the coal in the hills to the east of Tientsin, which, if combined with the construction of a tramway, would probably cause a large export of the mineral. Unfortunately, however, the high official who was to accomplish all this has now gone to Europe, under a dark cloud of obloquy; and the events of the past year have directed the attention of the Chinese authorities rather to the enlargement of the Taku forts than to works of a more peaceful character. But even under Chung How, who was supposed to be favourable to improvement, no step was really taken. The mine-owners and people expressed a frank desire for extended trade, and it is believed the Tsung-li-Yamen once went so far as to promise Mr. Hart that a road should be constructed, but halted immediately, in terror at the concession. Still there is no doubt the subject was entertained during 1868-9; and if only a flow of traffic could once have been established, the experiment of a tramway might have been eventually tried. For the time, however, the project seems to have completely lapsed.

The Blackadder, belonging to Messrs. John Willis and Co., from London, arrived out on 11th Dec., having been in collision with the Messageries steamer Volga, which struck her amidships, causing considerable damage. She was ordered into dock, and the estimate for repairs is £1,500 to £2,000. The Volga was considerably damaged, and her fire compartment filled.

The following is from the Courier :*

Some two months ago a Protestant medical missionary who had been prosecuting his good work, in accordance with treaty stipulations, at Wuhu, an important city on the south bank of the Yangtse, a hundred miles or so above Nankin, was returning to Chinkiang. He hired a common Chinese house-boat, and travelled along the canals which everywhere intersect that part of the country. Passing the large and important town of Taiping-fu, about forty miles below Wuhu, he had advanced fifteen or sixteen miles nearer Chinkiang, when he came to a Chinese gunboat at one of the numerous Custom's barriers. The people on board the gunboat shouted in a very insolent tone to him to stop, and when they saw that he took no notice of them, they fired a blank shot across his bows and forced him to come to. They then boarded his boat and charged him with smuggling opium. Of course they found none; nevertheless, they said he must come back with them to Taiping-fu for examination before the magistrate. Thus compelled, he went back to Taiping-fu, where he was marched to the yamen of the magistrate among crowds of people, who heaped upon him every imaginable opprobrious epithet. The magistrate, on hearing the facts, felt bound to set him at liberty, but left him to run the gauntlet of abuse and threatening back to his boat, in which he reached Chinkiang without further adventure. He was urged to make an official complaint on the subject to his Consul, but declined to do so, on the plea of not wishing to cause trouble. The fruit of this forbearance is seen in the fact that we have just heard of another missionary receiving similar ill-treatment from the same gunboat at the same spot.

Turning our attention to the foreign buildings of the settlement, we are first struck by the superb, yet somewhat deceptive, facing they give to the Chinese slums which lie behind them, and even to the City, which they partially conceal. While theorists and philosophers are writing themselves and a few others into the belief of China's advancement and civilisation, we have here before our eyes a practical demonstration of the wide chasm which divides them from the nations of the West. While the Chinese worthies canvas the possibility of foreigners in China being driven into the sea, and Anglo-Saxon statesmanship has driven into a policy which contemplates their being forced into ships of war for refuge, our buildings indicate the firm faith of our merchants and capitalists, that our foothold on the Chinese soil is permanent, and that the only changes possible are those in the direction of extension and development. We might point to the growing extension of our wharf accommodation, to the building up of all available space in many of our compounds in proof of this. But the most prominent and striking illustration of it may be seen by comparing the new Oriental Bank on the Bund with its neighbour towards the south; the one the symbol of a commercial speculation that was tentative and problematical, the other the proof of a conviction that foreign influence and foreign trade in China will be permanent and increasing.

FOOCHOW.

The Foochow Autumn Race meeting was held on Dec. 15 and 16. Universal delight was felt at the triumphs of the Baron de Meritens and of his jockey, one of the best and bravest British officers who ever filled a Gunboat Commander's uniform. The time was not good in most of the races. A ball was to be given on the 28th, and it is believed that anything so gorgeous as this is to be has not been seen, heard of, or prophesied about, as yet in China.

HONG KONG.

The dates by the present mail extend to Dec. 28. The outward mail of Nov. 4 arrived on Dec. 18, with telegrams to Nov. 28.

The China Mail has the following letter from Canton :—

"The gunboat Anlan, which left this some time ago for a place on the West Coast where a steamer was wrecked, with the officer of the wrecked vessel on board, has returned, but has brought nothing from the wreck excepting a piece of the boiler, in certification of her having executed what has turned out to be a bootless mission.

"A bank of shells seems to have been discovered at the entrance to the Blenheim Reach, Whampoa; and a number of fishermen, assisted by a European, are said to have been making a good thing of it by selling boat loads of shell to the lime makers. But the mandarins coming to the knowledge of this new branch of trade lost no time in pouncing upon the poor fellows by demanding a heavy tax, which they point blank refused. The Feelong and Anlan were consequently despatched on Sunday last to the spot with orders to take possession of all shell-laden boats found in the neighbourhood.

* The mail summary of the Courier, Dec. 21, has not reached us to-day.

"It is stated that the Spark and the Speck have been taken over by the Steamboat Company at a valuation of $100,000."

We learn that as the Siamese steamer Kalahome, from Singapore, via Manila, was steaming through the Lyceum Pass she struck on a sunken rock about half a mile to the westward of North Point. As no indication of the danger appears on the latest corrections of the charts up to May, 1865, the captain felt justified in keeping nearer the shore than he would perhaps have done otherwise. The vessel touched about twenty minutes past five, and but a slight shock was felt, but as she commenced making water very fast, it was deemed advisable to beach her, which was done about six o'clock, on the soft mud just off Messrs. Jardine's premises at East Point, where she now lies. One of the divers from H.M.S. Ocean, who has made an examination, reports one of the iron plates, just about the gangway on the port side, broken in two places, the apertures being about the width of a man's finger. The steamer had but a small cargo, principally cotton and sugar, the latter we presume a total loss, as in the compartment bottomed by the broken plate the water was above the lower deck beams.

We learn with pleasure that an effort is being made to relieve our colony from the stigma which now rests upon it through the gambling licences. A petition to the Home Government to refuse its assent to the renewal of the licence to the gambling-farmer at the expiration of the present licence, under which the gambling hells of our city, like their prototype and namesake, stand open day and night, has been prepared, and will soon be in circulation for signatures. That it will receive the hearty and almost unanimous support of the community can scarcely be doubted. It is simply disgraceful to Hong Kong that the present system should be continued. It cannot be excused by any argument on the ground of police necessity, while it weakens confidence and generates suspicion between the Chinese themselves and between them and their foreign employers. When the petition comes before the public we shall have more to say upon its intent and meaning.

The following account, duly certified, of the average amount of bank notes in circulation in Hong Kong during the month ending Nov. 30, 1870, is published for general information :—

Banks.		Average Amount.	Specie in Reserve.
Oriental	...	$247,249	$82,417
Chartered Mercantile of India, London, and China	...	674,080	250,000
Chartered of India, Australia, and China	...	149,900	100,000
Hong Kong and Shanghai	...	1,534,815	600,000
Total	...	$2,606,103	$1,032,417

The Trade Report says:—It is becoming more and more evident that the Chinese Government has no intention of fulfilling its promise of posting the Edict regarding the Tientsin Massacre all over the Empire. As mentioned some time ago, it was discovered that this document was posted in Shanghai in such a way that it would be certain not to attract attention, and it has now come out that neither at Tungechow nor at Hangchow, at both of which places missionaries are stationed, and concerning which therefore information is available, has the proclamation appeared. The promise, therefore, appears to have been only a subterfuge to get out of the demands which were being pressed, and it seems clear that the Chinese Government are endeavouring to shirk what is the most important part of any reparation that is to be given, as the object of the demands made is of course chiefly to prevent the recurrence of outbreaks and to re-establish foreign prestige.

The Hon. W. H. Seward and his party were assaulted with stones on their visit to Wuchang, near Hankow. The action was simply apparently carrying out the now recognised mode of receiving foreigners at most places away from the treaty ports; and it is becoming daily more clear that these demonstrations will be of still more frequent occurrence than they are at present, unless some steps be taken to bring the Chinese officials to their senses.

Writing on the present state of trade in Hong Kong, the Daily Press, after observing that much of what is termed the badness of trade results from the natural working of competition, and that the trade has not diminished in magnitude though it has done so in profitableness, observes that there is a point at which the trade in Hong Kong, like that in all parts of China, is unquestionably open to all the complaints that are made against it. That profits to individuals should diminish as trade progresses is an unavoidable necessity, but in ordinary places this is counteracted by its becoming more extended. In Hong Kong, perhaps more than at any other place in China, trade lacks this power of expansion to a marked degree; and in consequence its profitableness is reduced, more than it would be by the natural working of competition were it not for this additional obstruction.

Mr. W. H. Seward arrived here, in the P. and O. steamer Travancore, from Shanghai, on Christmas day. After leaving Hong Kong, Mr. Seward intends to visit Manila and the Straits.

The Rev. J. Legge, D.D., on Dec. 14 inaugurated a series of lectures in the Union Church. His subject was "Confucius, the Sage of China."

The Canton correspondent of the China Mail thus describes the recent francis at Kunsh on the occasion of a picnic:—Precautionary placards had drawn together an immense crowd. The very first boat load of people who landed from the Feelong proceeded to charge the crowd, in order, presumably, to drive them off their own village green and leave space for the foreigners. This created much terror and confusion among the villagers; but notwithstanding, the ladies got landed and en route for a neighbouring monastery without any mishap. A large crowd followed, of course, and the children were noisy and troublesome, as might have been expected. A request was just about to be made for less noise and crowding, when suddenly the gallant Captain — rushed at the crowd with a thick stick, with which he threatened everybody who came in his way. Justly incensed at belaboured behaviour the rustics raised a cry of "ta" (hit this in), and stones were thrown. An attempt was made to continue the picnic, but all chance of peace and quietness was at an end. The crowd declined to "move on," and the disgusted merry-makers retreated to their steamer amidst the laughter of the villagers.

The fifth ordinary meeting of the shareholders of the China Traders' Insurance Co. (Limited) was held at the company's office, No. 48, Queen's-road, on Dec. 21, Mr. G. I. Holland in the chair. The report, which was adopted unanimously, shows that, after carrying forward to the next year's account $30,620 for premium received in respect of risks taken before October 31st, but not yet terminated, and after carrying forward $71,753.83 to suspense account to meet unsettled claims put forward, there remains a balance to the credit of profit and loss account, in respect of transactions already closed of $190,000, available for dividend of the company for the year. $47,500 to be carried to the reserve fund and invested by the committee, $47,800 to be divided pro rata among contributing shareholders, and the sum of $95,008, or $475 per share, to be paid to shareholders as general dividend. The two retiring directors, Mr. Hitchcock and Mr. Kaye, and the auditors, Mr. Sage and Mr. Inkes, were re-elected, and an extra allowance of $100 per month granted to the general agents, who have been under considerable ($3,000 per annum) in removing the office of the company to Queen's-road, whereby the business of the company has been materially increased.

COCHIN CHINA.

SAIGON.

The United State Consulates at Saigon has been suppressed. We observe by the last advices there were 29 vessels in harbour, and as none of these were German it would seem that all the ships under that flag had made good their escape. The shipping in port consisted of 12 British, 13 French, 2 American, 1 Swedish, and 1 Chinese vessels. Accounts from the interior describe the crops as abundant and trade generally very active.

There had been an active demand for rice on the part of the Chinese for shipment to Hong Kong, and all old grain at market had been eagerly bought up and shipped. New grain was being brought forward, and several small cargoes had been sent to Singapore. There was some demand existing for Japan, and first contracts of new Gocong had been made for shipment to that quarter. No purchases of new grain had been made for Europe, but several cargoes of old had been taken by French vessels on owners' account.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

The Siam Weekly Advertiser says that a new fort is being erected in Krung Charoen-street. It will be able to sweep the Krung Charoen street up and down, effectually preventing all access to the First King's Palace from the south on that street, and effectually sweeping both sides of the cross street, and preventing the approach of people from the east or the west on that street to force their way to the palace up the Krung Charoen-street, where it is bisected. There will probably be a similar one where the above-mentioned cross street bisects the Krung Bamrung-muang-street. If one is constructed here it will protect and prevent the rush of masses to the palace on the north side. Those in possession of these two forts will have the entire city within the walls at their mercy. When in possession of the friends of the King, his Majesty will be perfectly safe from a land attack of masses of men with small arms, and if they ever fall into the hands of the enemies of the King, his Majesty's hope could only be found in successful flight. These forts, however, would be perfectly useless if the city was attacked by vessels from the river. If forts are constructed in these positions, the four corners of the bisecting streets must be greatly modified, to leave ample room for a thoroughfare all around them.

Siam is quietly but still surely increasing her navy. We notice three vessels on the stocks, and, by the close of another year, they will be launched, fully equipped and manned. In fact, since 1865, the Siamese Government has given special attention to the increase of her navy. The Impregnable, one of the neatest and smartest of the Siamese men-of-war, was, we believe, the first vessel ever really commissioned by them, and that was in 1865, when an European was appointed to her, with the rank of commander. For the next three successive years, Commander Walrond retained the command of this vessel. In 1868, Commander Walrond was appointed to the Siam Supporter, with the rank of captain. The Siam Supporter is the largest man-of-war which the Siamese possess, being about 700 tons burthen, and armed with two pivots (Armstrongs) and six broadside guns.

We learn that the new lighthouse at the entrance to the river has been so far completed that it was expected it would have been ignited before this, but the foundation being of a very unstable nature, it has settled considerably, and may hinder the appearance of the light for an indefinite period.

The Siamese authorities are not only drilling men for soldiers, but they are forming a brigade of elephants, and are daily exercising them near the palace of H.M. the Wang Looang.

With reference to the report of a new grammar of the Siamese language being about to be published by Dr. J. T. Jones, the Bangkok Summary states that Dr. Jones has been dead for thirteen years, and the new publication is undertaken by the Rev. S. J. Smith.

The new buildings in the street leading to Wat Sakate (Babel's modern tower) are to be two-storied, of a uniform height, and having an airy verandah on the second story. This is a step in the right direction, and one that strikes at the root of an old Siamese prejudice, viz.:—Their decided antipathy to live in the lower story of a house where any person, especially women, are living in the apartments over-head. This old superstition has now, we hope, received its death-blow.

JAVA.

BATAVIA.

The Java Bode of the 28th Dec. furnishes the following particulars of an intended mutiny amongst the foreign soldiers of the Netherlands Indian Army:—"We learn that the military authorities at Batavia have, through the fidelity of a Swiss, got into their hands the threads of a conspiracy formed by foreign soldiers belonging to the Netherlands Indian Army, with the object of effecting a rising at various places. The ringleaders appear to be in garrison at Buitenzorg; for there have been at least fourteen Swiss taken into custody there, and the conspiracy had ramifications at Weltevreden, Cheribon, and perhaps at some other places. By means of intercepted letters, written in a dialect unintelligible to strangers, but deciphered by the help of an officer acquainted with that dialect, the persons concerned have been discovered and made harmless. The evening of Dec. 31 or New Year's day had been chosen by them for the carrying out of their criminal plans."

[This information explains the meaning of Reuter's telegram which we published in our issue of the 9th ult., which, it will be remembered, was the first telegram received by the new Singapore and Batavia line.—Ed. L. & C. T.]

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to the 4th Jan. On the 23rd Dec. the P. and O. steamer Malacca arrived with the English mail of the 18th November, and on the 29th the Donnai came in with the French mail and London letters to the 25th November.

The Straits Times says the Christmas and New Year holidays were accompanied by an almost incessant downpour of rain, which effectually prevented all out-door enjoyment, and rendered many of the roads all but impassable.

The beginning of the year, however, though the weather has been unpropitious and commercial matters are stagnant, is marked by events likely to exert a favourable influence upon the trade of the colony. On the first of January the new Bankruptcy and the Debtors Ordinances came into force. The amount of dishonesty that has prevailed among the native traders under the old law, and which has reached a climax during the past year, entailing very serious losses upon the European merchants here, leads us to hope for a great improvement in this respect from the operation of the new law during the present year.

Another event likely to prove of great importance to mercantile interests is the opening of direct telegraphic communication between this colony and England, by means of the submarine cable between Singapore, Penang, and Madras. This line will be supplemented this year by two more cables, one to Hong Kong, and the other from Java to Australia; until these are laid it is improbable that the line will be kept very busy, but when all is completed, it is quite possible one wire may prove insufficient for the work.

On the 21st Dec., the news was telegraphed to this from Penang that the King of Prussia had accepted the title of Emperor of Germany. The Germans here, of whom there are a considerable number, immediately held a meeting and prepared an address to his Majesty, congratulating him upon his accession to his new title, and expressing their loyalty. This address was telegraphed back to Penang to overtake the mail steamer, which would convey it to Galle, whence it would again be telegraphed direct to Berlin. Whatever may be the subsequent results of the change, if the newly made Emperor finds the rest of his subjects as loyal, he has little ground to fear any immediate internal opposition to his Empire.

Her Majesty's steamer Algérie, which left this on the 17th Dec. to inquire into the piracy committed on board the schooner Sree Singapur, went first to Malacca, where she found the schooner repairing. She then took the schooner in tow, and proceeded to the mouth of the Selengore river—the scene of the piracy—and here captured four men who had been implicated in the piracy.

Captain E. E. Patterson, of the American barque Alycone, rescued two Chinese from shipwreck, under remarkable circumstances, on his voyage from Amoy to this port. The natives had been driving about in a gale which had forced them from Formosa, since the 3rd or 4th November; they managed to subsist from day to day by catching fish and birds, which they ate, and for water they had merely what they could catch when it rained. But for the humane perseverance of Captain Patterson in working his ship up to them, attracted only by the light which they displayed as a forlorn hope, their fate must have been starvation in all its horrors. The boat had drifted S. W. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. 1,000 miles during the thirty-two days, being an average of a fraction over thirty-one miles per day. When found the men were so exhausted that, one too weak to get on board the Alycone fell over and was lost.

The inquest on the bodies of the three Javanese pilgrims, whose death under suspicious circumstances we reported some time since, has been concluded. On analysing the contents of their stomachs arsenic was found in that of the boy, and also in the remains of the tea which they had been drinking. The jury returned a verdict of wilful murder against some person or persons unknown, but the Malay who lived in the house with the deceased has been detained in custody on suspicion, and will be dealt with before the magistrate.

We are glad to find that the good service done to these Settlements during many years by Mr. Abraham Logan have met a recognition from many of the old Straits people at home, both in his capacity of secretary to the Chamber of Commerce and in the public press. A complimentary letter, accompanied by a watch and chain, has been forwarded to Mr. Logan, at Penang, by Mr. Ed. Boustead, of Newman's-court, Cornhill.

Mr. Nai Naitre, formerly Siamese Vice Consul at this port, has received the appointment of Governor of Paknam.

The arrivals from home via the Suez Canal during the fortnight were the Ada on the 27th and the Nestor on the 29th December; and the departures for London by the same route were the Elgin on the 27th and the Lord of the Isles on the 30th December.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

HANKOW.—The market for Grey Cottons had been fairly active; but with heavy arrivals prices had given way. Woollens, with the single exception of Camlets, had remained extremely dull, and sales were unimportant. Grey Shirtings: 7 lbs. had been eagerly sought for, and considerable sales of "hard cargo" as well as "to arrive" were made at Tls. 1.80 to 1.83, but the demand had been more than satisfied out of subsequent large arrivals, and prices had fallen 5 candareens per piece. Holders of 8½ lbs. had shown great desire to sell, meeting buyers at daily declining rates; closing prices, Tls. 1.74 to 1.80 for 7 lbs., Tls. 2.18 to 2.23 for 8½ lbs., and Tls. 2.38 to 2.45 for 9½ lbs. White Shirtings: Enquiry very limited; prices without change. T-Cloths: There had been less business doing, chiefly attributable to firmer feeling shown by holders. Drills, with excessive imports, prices had declined; best English lowered to Tls. 3.08; season closing. Camlets: Demand confined to favourite chops; Scarlet saleable at Tls. 10.30 to 11.15 per piece; Black and Purple advanced. Metals—Lead: A sale at Tls. 4.75 per picul, showing a slight rise.

SHANGHAI.—Extreme quickness had prevailed throughout the fortnight. A slight inquiry for one or two articles of Plain Cottons for Chefoo had existed, but the whole business had been insignificant, and could not be classed higher than a retail trade; prices, generally, had declined. Grey Shirtings and nearly every description of Grey Goods were lower, the decline being most marked in Shirtings, which had fallen to Tls. 1.69 to 1.75 for 7 lbs., and Tls. 2.10 to 2.15 per piece for 8½ lbs. Arrivals had considerably increased the stocks. White Shirtings: Business had been confined to resales by the natives of their former purchases, at slightly easier rates. T-Cloths: 6 lbs. and 7 lbs. had been inquired for, and a small business had resulted. Sales of ordinary 7 lbs.—15 by 15 count—had been made at Tls. 1.34 to 1.36, and fair to very good Mexicans at Tls. 1.47 to 1.52 per piece. 6 lbs. had depreciated to nearly the same extent. There had been no change in other Cotton Goods; regarding Woollens there is little to be said. C.P.H. Scarlet Long Ells had been sold at Tls. 5.02½, and ordinary chops assorted at Tls. 4.20 to 4.45 per piece. H.H. Assorted Camlets found buyers at Tls. 10.20 per piece; and a few Figured Lustres had changed hands at last quotations. Metals.—Iron: Some 8,400 bundles Nail Rods at Tls. 1.92 to 1.95 per picul for small sizes; other assortments not inquired for; quotations unaltered. Lead firm; principal holders refused to sell at Tls. 4.75 to 5; small transactions concluded at Tls. 4.50. Coals: Cardiff sold from ship's side at Tls. 10; fair inquiry for foreign account. English rates unchanged. American, less doing.

HONG KONG.—The market both for Cotton and Woollen goods had been dull and depressed; no improvement was anticipated before the Native New Year. Cotton Yarn: Market very dull, with a downward tendency. Grey Shirtings: Small business at a further decline. White Shirtings: Nothing doing. T-Cloths: 6 lbs., pressed for sale, and lower; 7 lbs., both common and good, difficult to move; 36-inch goods in moderate request. Spotted Shirtings: No business. Turkey Red Shirtings: Weak and declining. Brocades: Firm. Chintzes: Very flat, and in excessive supply. Velvets: No demand. Drills: Fair demand, especially for Dutch, at current rates. Woollens:

No business, prices nominally lower. Metals.—Iron: Market quiet; Soft Bar, 10 cents lower. Lead: Limited business, price tending downwards. Coals: The only arrival had been a small cargo of Cardiff, for which holders would not accept current quotations, and prices for both Australian and Cardiff had further advanced; for the former $8.50 could be obtained "for arrival;" English had not participated in the advance. Current quotations:—Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $108.00 to 114.00 per bale; 28 to 32, $112.50 to 117.50; 38 to 42, $132.50 to 140.00. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.10 to 2.12½ per piece; 8.4 lbs., $2.62½ to 2.65; 9.12 to 10 lbs., $3.30 to 3.50. T-Cloths, 6 lbs., ordinary, $1.50 to 1.55; Mexicans, $1.70 to 1.75; 7 lbs., ordinary, $1.75 to 1.90; Mexicans, $2.00 to 2.25; 8 to 8.4 oz. (36 in.), $2.45 to 2.55. American Drills, $4.10 to 4.25 per piece; Dutch, $3.60 to 3.75; English, 4.00 to 4.05.

SINGAPORE.—Messrs. Boustead and Co.'s report contains the following:—Grey Shirtings: 8½ lbs., in demand; sales at $2.55 to 2.57½; at the close held for the higher quotation. Stocks moderate; 7 lbs. very dull and lower, small transactions at $2.07½ to 2.10; 6 lbs. neglected, quotations nominal; 9 lbs. in light stock, moderate inquiry at $2.87½ to 2.90; 10 lbs. very slow of sale, at $3.15 to 3.17½. T-Cloths: Very limited demand, stocks heavy, except of 5 lbs. Maddapollams: A small transaction reported in 2½ lbs., at $17½. Long Cloths unsaleable, prices nominal. 36-inch White Shirtings: Stocks heavy, low and medium in little demand; fine, fair inquiry. 45-inch in limited inquiry. White Spots dull; small transactions in 15 by 14 at $2.57½, and 14 by 14 at $2.55 to 2.52½. White Brocades dull; small sales at $2.82½ to 2.80. White Cambrics: Medium and low qualities neglected. A limited demand for 15-16 at $27½ to 28½, according to quality. Dyed Shirtings: Almost nothing doing in Plain or Figured. Dyed Brocades without inquiry. Velvets out of demand. Woollens without improvement, only small sales at low rates; some 12 lbs. Scarlet Long Ells at $7.25, and since offered at $7. Grey Yarn: All counts in little demand, at lower rates. 40s placed at $120 to 121, closing at the lower rate; 18/24s and 30s saleable to a small extent, at low quotations. Coloured Yarn dull, and sales showed a decline.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

HANKOW.—Business had been checked by dearth of supplies; arrivals had been of very inferior quality, but an advance of half a tael was asked, and when unobtainable, holders had preferred shipping to the Shanghai market. Settlements—1,196 chests, shipments 2,739 chests. Quotations were:—Oopacks, common, Tls. 13.75. Oonams, common, Tls. 11.6 per picul.

SHANGHAI.—Black: The amount of business transacted during the fortnight had been small. Prices showed no material alteration. Supplies had been on a fair scale for the time of year, and the stock on offer was slightly increased. News of European complications had caused buyers to be cautious, and the market closed quiet, at perhaps slightly weaker rates. Settlements for the fortnight, 4,200 chests; re-shipments on owners' account, 1,900 chests; stock, 40 chops, or 3,300 packages. Green: Transactions had been small, total purchases only amounting to 17,150 half-chests. No appreciable decline could be quoted in the prices paid for these, although the market appeared to have a downward tendency, as large stocks of almost unsaleable Teas were accumulating. The settlements had again been principally confined to the medium and lower class Teas, as the few fine chops on hand seemed to meet with little attention at the extreme rates demanded. Settlements for the fortnight, 17,150 half-chests; stock, 132 chops, or 61,810 packages of Teenkai, Fychow, and Moyune Teas; stock, 10 chops, or 4,759 packages of Shanghai-packed and Pingsuey Teas.

FOOCHOW.—A fair business had been in progress during the fortnight, interrupted towards the close by the race holidays. Settlements of Congou and Souchong amounted to 28,218 chests, and 1,768 half-chests of Oolong; and the arrivals had been 7,714 chests Congou and Souchong, and 1,150 half-chests Oolong. Congou: Dust and Siftings in little request, and purchases made at lower rates. Foochow Packed Dust freely offered at Tls. 4½ and Siftings at Tls. 6 without inducing business. Some little inquiry for Broken Leaf: the value had slightly declined. Ordinary Common fully maintained its former position, but was not in demand; bulk of the stock consisted of these lower grades. Buyers had paid attention chiefly to Good Common and Flavoury, for which they had paid about half a tael, and in case of some Teas with more decided flavour, fully a tael higher. Towards the close, some Teamen, anxious to realise, had accepted rather easier rates in order to make sales. Quotations: Dust and Siftings, Tls. 4½ to 7; Broken Leaf to Ordinary, Tls. 7½ to 11½; Fair to Good Common, Tls. 12 to 14½; Flavoury, Tls. 15 to 17; Good Flavoury, none on the market. Souchong: Moderate business, purchases amounting to 1,523 chests, of which some was taken at a decline on former rates. Quotations: Common, Tls. 12 to 15; Medium, Tls. 16 to 20. Oolong: Teamen had been holding out for higher prices than buyers would give, and business had accordingly been limited. One chop of 1,706 half-chests was settled at Tls. 24, and some small purchases had been made for England. Quotations nominal at Tls. 15 to 17 for common cargo, and Tls. 18 to 21 for fair to good cargo. Scented Teas and Flowery Pekoe neglected, owing to the undesirable character of the stocks. The only settlements consisted of 1,087 boxes Common Scented, at Tls. 14½ to 15½.

AMOI.—Settlements of Oolong had been 603 half-chests at $14 to 22 for Low Common to Fair Cargo, and the season had closed; only 120 half-chests remaining in stock.

CANTON.—In Scented Teas the settlements reported had been almost entirely of common kinds at former rates. The market was cleared of all the better grades, and although advices from home continued favourable, business had been very limited, there being very little demand for the common descriptions offering. One chop of Country Congou had been taken for England at Tls. 20.9. Settlements: Scented Orange Pekoe, 600 boxes at Tls. 20 to 24; Scented Caper, 5,000 boxes at Tls. 11.50 to 26; Gunpowder, 1,000 boxes at Tls. 12.50; Country Congou, 622 chests at Tls. 20.90.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—The following is from Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular.—The activity mentioned in our last has entirely ceased since the receipt of advices announcing the difficulties arising on the Eastern question, foreigners generally declining to pay present rates in the face of a drooping market at home native dealers, however, cannot be induced to lower their prices more than Tls. 10, and at that reduction about 500 bales have been settled. Stocks have gradually increased. The following are a few of the purchases:—Old Lion, Tls. 542½; No. 3 Gold Lion, Tls. 500; Green Elephant, Tls. 480; Hangchow Teatlee, Tls. 450; Re-reeled Hainin, Tls. 580; Re-reeled Teatlee, Tls. 575; Medium Szechuen, Tls. 360. Some Kahings have been taken in barter at Tls. 500 proportion, 24s. 9d. for Ting How and Guanling.

CANTON.—A few bales, principally fine Loonkonga, had been purchased for London. For medium descriptions prices may be considered easier, but the quotations for fine kinds had advanced, owing to these descriptions daily becoming scarcer, and the steadily-continued demand for them for America, for which market fine Teatlee Reels had been taken. Settlements: For Europe, 150 bales; for America, 300 boxes.

JAVA, SIAM, AND STRAITS PRODUCE.

BANGKOK.—Rice: Dearer, owing to favourable advices from China. Sales of Namuan Mill cleaned at $1.45, and of Nasuan at $1.60 per picul, equal to 5s. 10d. and 6s. 5d. per cwt. respectively f.o.b. outside the Bar. Harvest prospects were excellent, but supplies of old grain were inadequate to demand, and prices were likely to advance. Sapanwood: Neglected. Sticklac: No supplies. Gum Benjamin: Good quality held for Tls. 120 per picul. Gamboge: None in the market.

SINGAPORE.—There had not been much change in quotations since last mail. There had been a steady demand for most articles, and a fair amount of business had transpired. Gambier was in good demand, and the price was slightly firmer; about 1,450 tons had been contracted for at $2.85 to 2.87½ per picul. Black Pepper rising—contracted for at $9.15 to 0.30 per picul, dealers asking a further advance; the new crop is coming in slowly. White Pepper nominally much higher, and could not be procured. Bontyne Coffee in good demand; quotations showed an upward tendency, market cleared at $11.70 per picul. Tin advanced on the receipt of telegrams of a rise on the Home market; good demand; market nearly cleared. Pearl Sago firmer, and in fair request; a moderate business done. Sago flour steady, supplies readily taken up. Tapioca unchanged; supplies less plentiful; little business; price firm.

BATAVIA.—Arrack, f.72.50 per leaguer; small transactions. Cloves: f.25 per picul nominal. Coffee: The Government sale held on December 17 averaged as follows:—10,000 piculs Pranger, f.35.47; 10,000 piculs Samarang, f.32.46; 5,000 piculs Kadoe, f.32.87; total, 25,000 piculs. Gutta Percha: f.100 to f.150 per picul; in less request. Gum Dammar: f.27 per picul; few arrivals. Hides: Cow, f.30 to f.40; Buffalo, f.21 to f.27 per lb.; sales. India-rubber: f.98 to f.100 per picul; only small parcels are coming to market. Mace: f.150 to 190 per picul; sales. Nutmegs: f.90 to 110; small supplies. Rice: Table, none in the market; first quality, f.155 to f.165 per coyang; second quality: f.130 to f.140 per coyang; cargo, f.100 to f.110 per coyang. Rattans: Borneo, f.11 to f.13 per picul; Padang, f.8 to 9.25 per picul. Sapanwood: Manila, no stocks; Java, f.250 to f.3. Tin: Billiton, none in the market; last average price f.73.82.

BRITISH SETTLEMENTS IN THE STRAITS OF MALACCA.

The general meeting of the Fellows of the Royal Colonial Institute was held last week in the theatre of the Institute of Civil Engineers, Great George-street, Westminster; Mr. JAMES A. YOUL in the chair. Prior to the commencement of the business of the evening, the chairman alluded in terms of the deepest regret to the lamented decease of Sir William Denison. He then called upon

Mr. LEONARD WRAY, who read a paper upon the British Settlements in the Straits of Malacca. The essayist set out by lamenting the ignorance generally prevalent in respect to these settlements, observing that they were unknown except among colonists and colonial merchants. The settlements comprised the island of Penang, Singapore, and Malacca, the latter of which he considered as identical with the Ophir mentioned in Holy Writ, whence gold was brought to Solomon. There were many rich tin mines, but mining enterprise was nipped in the bud by the onerous laws in force and the unjust mode in which they were administered. The settlement was not by any means in a flourishing condition, though for agricultural purposes the land and climate were everything which could be required. He traced the history of the settlements from the time the island of Penang was acquired by purchase in 1786 up to the present. The commerce was not great, but, though variable, yet on the whole there had been a general increase, especially during the past ten years, the imports showing an increase of 70 per cent. The labour market was well supplied with Japanese, Siamese, Chinese, Bengalese, &c., and in no part of the world were labourers better treated. Singapore was a free port. In ten years its commerce had increased 51 per cent., and he considered that the ever-increasing trade of Hong Kong had an inimical effect upon the trade of Singapore. Under the East India Company's rule land could be brought in perpetuity for $2½ per acre, but since it had become part of the empire the price had risen to something like $8 per acre.

An interesting discussion followed the reading of the paper, in which General Cavenagh (late Governor of Singapore), Mr. H. E. Montgomerie, Mr. Booth, Mr. Leveson and others, took part.

General CAVENAGH, with reference to the remarks made by Mr. Tidman, stated that it was true that one of the causes of the want of progress in Malacca was the tenour under which, for a long period, it was supposed that the greater portion of the land was held by a few of the old Dutch families, and the Government thus prevented from issuing freehold grants. This evil had, however, been grappled with, and any misconception that existed as to the relative rights of the State and the landed proprietors fully removed by the passing of the Malacca Land Act, by which the latter were permanently confirmed in their annuities, and the Government vested with full power to sell or lease all its waste lands. Under the powers thus obtained grants of large tracts had been made to Chinese speculators, and the cultivation of tapioca, to which Mr. Wray had alluded, had been carried on to a considerable extent; but it was not only necessary to give to speculators the power of obtaining and cultivating the soil—it was also essential to afford to them the means of conveying the fruit of their labours to the best market, and this also had been done by opening up the country in every direction by good roads. The results of these measures could hardly yet have been realised, but he believed that in due course they would be obtained, and that there was a bright future for the Settlement, and he need scarcely mention that he should watch its increasing prosperity with the greatest interest.

Mr. LEVESON doubted very much whether there were any good grounds for thinking the Mount Ophir of Malacca mentioned to be that spoken of in Scripture. It was more generally supposed by the people in the East to be a mountain of the same name, and twice the elevation in the interior of Sumatra, but either case was very problematical. He also took exception to Mr. Wray's remarks that the production of tin was falling off in the Straits of Malacca, being of opinion that the present supply is as large as it has ever been.

General CAVENAGH subsequently remarked that he believed it was in his power to explain an apparent discrepancy between the statements made by Mr. Wray and Mr. Leveson. The cessation of mining operations in the district of Kasang was not owing to the duty levied by Government, which was similar to that imposed in all Malayan States, but to the crude manner in which these operations were conducted. A Chinese miner simply cut an open trench, from which he removed the water by means of his endless pump; when the water gained on him he abandoned his digging and commenced work in some other locality; hence, his mining being merely on the surface, he never really exhausted the mineral supply; but having, it might be said, merely scratched over the earth, he started in search of virgin soil. Hence by degrees the greater number of the Chinese miners had left the British territories and migrated into the neighbouring native States of Salangore, Simjé Ujong, &c. Still the men belonged to Malacca, all their supplies came from that station, and many of them had their homes there, whilst all the tin obtained by their exertions was disposed of to Malacca merchants, and bore their stamps or chops. At one time there had been an intention of forming a company for the purpose of fully developing the mineral resources of the settlement, and the Government, had the intention been carried into effect, expressed its readiness to reduce the duty by one-half.

LEGAL.

DIVORCE COURT.

STONE V. STONE.

This was the husband's petition for a divorce, on the ground of his wife's adultery. Dr. Spinks, Q.C., and Mr. Lanyon were counsel for the petitioner, who was married to the respondent at Marseilles, in October, 1860, the petitioner at the time being Purser in charge of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company's station there. They resided there up to 1864, when they removed to Suez. After they did so they made the acquaintance of a person of the name of Antonio Filgerts, who became a constant visitor at the house. In November and December, 1866, the petitioner was absent on business, and while he was away this gentleman visited the respondent, and on several occasions slept with her, while the connection resulted in the birth of a child in May, 1867. This gentleman has since committed suicide, and the adultery was admitted by both parties to it.

The case was proved, and the Court pronounced a decree nisi with costs.

MORICE V. MORICE AND WALLER.

In this case the husband sued for a divorce on the ground of his wife's adultery with the co-respondent. Both the respondent and co-respondent answered and denied the adultery, but the case was in reality undefended. Dr. Spinks, Q.C., with whom was Mr. Bayford, appeared as counsel for the petitioner, who is in business in the City, having been engaged in China as a captain in the opium trade, and was married to the respondent in March, 1862. After the marriage they travelled in various places, in Scotland, on the Continent, and in China, where they became acquainted with the co-respondent, Waller, and became very intimate with him. On their return to China they took up their residence at Inverness-terrace, Bayswater, and there are two children the issue of the marriage. In 1869 the petitioner in the course of his business returned again to China, and he left his wife at their residence at Bayswater in charge of Mrs. Waller, the mother of the co-respondent, who had by this time returned home from England. The petitioner returned from China in July, 1869, and it was alleged that during his absence the co-respondent frequently visited the respondent and committed adultery with her. After his return he found his wife quite different from what she had been before. In July, 1870, she was confined, and soon after she went to Broadstairs, from which she wrote home making proposals for a separation, and informing him that the last child was not his. Ultimately the present suit was instituted.

After hearing the evidence the Court considered that the adultery had been proved, and pronounced a decree nisi with costs against Waller, the co-respondent.

THE DEATH OF MR. M. C. MORRISON.

The Pall Mall Gazette has the following remarks upon the death of Mr. M. C. Morrison, an event which it will be remembered was noticed in our columns some months since:—"As assistant and Chinese secretary, interpreter, and consul, until his retirement with broken health in 1866, he laboured indefatigably in the desire to effect something beyond the mere line of his duties—at one time supplying the place of a medical man among cholera patients at his post when none could be obtained, at another camped out for three months during a severe winter on the wreck of H.M.S. Racehorse taking place, in order to carry on communications with the Chinese for the benefit of the survivors, and, if possible, to save the ship. Before coming home, although with impaired health, he made a journey of 2,000 miles on horseback through parts of China where no European had before penetrated, to collect information as to trade routes between India and China, especially that which passes through Yarkand and across the Gobi to the north-western part of China Proper. This was made at his own cost without any extraneous aid or encouragement either from the Government or the mercantile communities. All these years of hard and cheerless work, added to the most self-denying and abstemious habits, probably injured his constitution, and brought him to a comparatively early grave last November; but this is the history of many whose lives are spent in the public service at such distant points, unhonoured and unknown beyond a narrow circle of personal acquaintances. The trade routes through Asia by which even in the days of the Roman Empire caravans found their way from China to the borders of Persia and India, must remain for other labourers to trace. The late Mr. Morrison had, indeed, collected at great cost of time and money a vast mass of information, with maps and other data; but it is to be feared the whole work has been left in too fragmentary a state to be turned to any account by other hands. He was busily engaged on a map until within a few days of his death, and it is much to be regretted on public grounds that he did not live to give something of completeness to his labours."

THE TEA TRADE AT HAMBURG IN 1870.—Notwithstanding the state of war in which Germany was plunged for nearly half the year, and accompanied as it was by a blockade of the Elbe for a couple of months, and the withdrawal of all the young men liable to serve in the army, yet it does not appear that the tea trade suffered so much as might have been expected—certainly less than any other branches of business. The year began with a stock of 14,153 chests, to which have to be added 32,180 chests, the quantity imported, making a total of 46,333 chests for the requirements of the trade. The sales of the year amounted to 30,869 chests, against 33,356 chests in 1869, thus showing a falling off of 2,487 chests; and as the imports were 2,315 chests less than in 1869, the stock on hand at the end of December was as nearly as possible the same as at the end of 1869. But though the imports and deliveries were not quite so large as in 1869, they both show a very considerable and marked increase over those of previous years. The great bulk of the transactions consisted of Congou, and whilst the prices of ordinary and low middling at the beginning of the year were remarkably low, and those of the finer descriptions out of all proportion higher in comparison, a reaction ensued in the second half of the year, by which the very reverse effect was produced, so that the quotations of good to fine middling were so low at the end of December as to attract the attention of speculators, by whom considerable purchases were made. There was a lively demand for Souchong, which lasted throughout the year, and prices remained steady all the time. Pekoe exhibited a tendency to rise all through the year, which was justified by the very reduced stock, and the falling off in the imports. The transactions in Caper, Pouchong, and Orange Pekoe were not important. In Green Teas, Toukay, Hyson, and Imperial commanded a fair amount of business; whilst, on the other hand, Young Hyson and Gunpowder were much neglected, and appeared out of favour. Reduced to quarters, the total sales of the year consisted of 22,029 chests Congou, 4,108 do. Souchong, 17 do. Caper, 224 do. Pouchong, 1,868 do. Pekoe and Black Leaf Pekoe, 38 do. Orange Pekoe, 574 do. Hyson Skin and Toukay, 164 do. Young Hyson, 423 do. Hyson, 914 do. Imperial, and 520 do. Gunpowder. The greater part of the Tea was imported direct from China, and the remainder from England and Holland.

"THE TIMES" ON THE CESSION OF PONDICHERY TO THE GERMANS.—"All we can say is that we shall regard the change of ownership with indifference, perfectly certain that, whatever Power holds the place, it will be in our hands within a few weeks after its owners give any cause of anxiety to our Indian Government. Pondicherry is a third-rate settlement, with no good port; as at other places on the same coast, persons and goods have to be landed by flat-bottomed boats, on account of the small depth of water and the violence of the surf." This is "tall talk" with a vengeance; but we cannot credit the leading journal with ignorance of the fact that the shelving shore of Pondicherry may be as easily fitted with a pier at which steamers of large tonnage can deliver persons and "goods" (whatever they may be) as they have done for some years at Madras, eighty miles off on the same coast, and under similar conditions. And it is, to say the least of it, a strange form of welcome for our new German neighbours to tell them that in a few weeks after they give cause for uneasiness they will be turned out. It is, however, possible that Pondicherry is itself in rather a hazy condition of mind on the subject of allegiance. Since the year 1672, when it was bought by the French from the King of Bejapore, it has hardly had a fair opportunity given it of becoming attached to its owners. It was taken from the French by the Dutch in 1693, and restored to them in 1697; it was besieged by the English in 1748; it was taken in 1761 by the army under Colonel Coote, and restored to the French at the peace of 1763. In October, 1778, it surrendered to the British forces under Sir H. Munro, and was again restored at the peace of 1783; it was again taken in 1793, again in 1803, and restored in 1815. It is now leaving the French once more, but there can be little doubt that it will return to them some day, when it is to be hoped it will be permitted to settle down at last.

MR. SEWARD ON THE YANGTZE.—We learn that Mr. W. H. Seward, whose visit to Peking we lately reported, has since made an excursion up the Yangtze; and we regret to find that he was attacked by a number of natives at Hankow. It appears that Mr. Seward and his party, accompanied by Mr. Hobson of the Customs and Mr. Fitz Messrs. Russell and Co., went over the river from Hankow to Wuchang, and then proceeded up the hill to the pagoda. On their arrival they found the usual crowd of boys and beggars, all of whom were clamorous for a cumshaw of cash. Being refused they began to pelt the chairs with stones, and seriously damaging one of them. No personal injury was sustained by Mr. Seward, or his party, and Mr. Hobson, the Commissioner of Customs, has since received a letter of apology and regret from the Taoutai Hankow for the occurrence.

THE 13th inst. will be an eventful day in the Customs. From that date the new system of passing tea entries will come into effect, the tea and warehousing branch of the Long Room will be abolished, and the Warrant-office reduced to one third of its present dimensions.

CLIPPER PASSAGES.—The Kaisow, just arrived from Foochow, has made the passage in 100 days. The American ship Surprise, from Shanghai to New York in eighty-three days, which is the shortest on record.

THE MISSION OF CHUNG HOW.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR.—Reverting to my letter in your issue of the 19th inst., in which I drew attention to the prejudice attaching to H.E. Chung How, Chinese Ambassador to France, and pointed out that the ill feeling was greatly enhanced by erroneous ideas of his Excellency's position at the time of the Tientsin massacre, I would again notice through your columns an immense injury to the man by the editor of the Overland China Mail, a paper published at Hong Kong. As a sensation for the times, a lithographed likeness of Chung How was given with each number of the edition accompanying the Envoy to Europe, and a very fair likeness it may be; but it is not the likeness, it is the letter press at the foot in which the stab is contained. These are the words:—"Chung How, Governor of Tientsin, China, at the time of the Massacre, on June 21, 1870, of eleven French and one English Sisters of Mercy, a French Consul and his Chancellor, three Russian subjects, and other persons, in all twenty-four; Ambassador to France" to explain and apologise for that atrocity."

Very deliberate is your contemporary, you will see, in "piling the agony;" most careful is he to let the world know that the man of all others who should have been able to curb the rioters, and afterwards avenge the victims of their fury, is now before them.

But, Sir, what is the fact? Why, that Chung How was no more Governor of Tientsin at the time in question than you or I, and he will have had just as much executive power to curb the riot and punish the guilty as would the president of our trade to interfere between those London brewers and General Haynau when the Austrian soldier was punished for bearing the character of a Hungarian woman flogger.

What more I have to say on this subject would be better, perhaps, in the shape of an admonition to the Hong Kong friend who, in perfect innocence (ignorance), I believe, has done his best to impede Chung How's progress for good; it being quite possible for the editor of a Hong Kong paper to live and write in the colony for half-a-dozen years, and know as much about the Government of China when he ends as when he began. Suffice it to tell him, however, that when the massacre occurred there was no such functionary as Governor (such as we understand by the designation) in Tientsin, the officers responsible for the emette being the Chi Fu, or prefect of the department, and Hsien, or district magistrate; and writing from Peking to a friend of mine, Yung Wing (who learnt Christianity in the Morrison school, Hong Kong, graduated at the Harvard University, U.S.A.;—for services to his Government was elevated to the rank of intendant of circuit, and was selected by his countryman Ting Footai to aid him in investigating the particulars of the massacre), this Yung Wing says:—"The Tientsin affair is considered among officials settled by the execution of some of the guilty, and the banishment of others, including the Foo and Hsien of Tientsin"—"and," he adds, "I have taken special pains to investigate the whole affair, and, if time will allow, I purpose publishing the facts."

This publication, it is to be hoped, he will make in all due time, and we may then be better able to see why the Foo and Hsien, instead of being banished only were not decapitated.

One word more for Chung How, and I conclude. In the Shanghai paper, the Cycle, of December 3rd, occurs the following passage:—"In the Peking Gazette (which reached us this morning too late for translation) there is an important edict, abolishing the office of San kow-ta-chen, hitherto held by Chung How. A Taoutai, with the title of Tsin-hai kuan-too will discharge the duties. Chen Ching, who is at present secretary to Maoling, will be the first incumbent of the post." As the editor does not give the characters in which these titles are given, I regret that I cannot furnish you correct renderings; but it will be sufficient to comprehend from them that Chung How's successor will be confined to the simple duty of Superintendent of Customs, and that, unlike his predecessor, he will have nought to do with managing the Imperial Arsenal, drilling squads under European officers, building powder-mills, &c.—Heartily hoping that what I have now said will be sufficient to neutralise the prejudice I allude to, and afford to Chung How that great love of an Englishman, "a fair field for a fight, I remain, Sir, yours obediently,

THE SHANGHAI CONSULAR REPORT.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR.—In your issue of the 30th ult. I observe you publish a resume of the Consular Reports and Returns from China for the Year 1869, and draw special attention to the omission in the Blue book of those from Shanghai, the principal port.

Whilst in Shanghai, in June last, I had occasion to learn that Her Majesty's Consul at that port had drawn up his report on trade, &c., for the previous year, and that the Chamber of Commerce had applied to him for permission to publish it, together with those from the other ports on the spot.

From the following extract of the Chamber's Report of the 31st October last, published in the Shanghai Evening Courier, you will perceive that this valuable proposal fell to the ground.—Yours, truly,

A CHINA MERCHANT.

London, Feb. 4, 1871.

In consequence of the delay in the issue of the British Consular Reports on trade in China when printed in England, these documents were published in Shanghai for the year 1868, and the Committee, learning that those of last year would probably likewise be published here, provided that fifty copies were subscribed for, obtained the names of members of the Chamber to a list circulated for the purpose. A sale of more than the required number of copies was thus guaranteed, but H.M. Chargé d'Affaires declined to authorise the issue of the reports in China previous to their appearance in England, and the proposal therefore fell to the ground. The value of trade reports to the public greatly depending upon the promptitude of their publication, the time which expires before their receipt in China, when printed in England, renders these otherwise interesting documents almost useless to merchants here, as they are not likely to be available for more than twelve months after the expiration of the year to which they refer.

HOW AMERICAN CORRESPONDENTS POST UP THEIR FRIENDS IN THE STATES.

(SAN FRANCISCO NEWS LETTER.)

What a queer place Yokohama is! And how horribly uncomfortable the ladies feel on making its acquaintance for the first time! Japan is not at all the place for modest young American damsels, to whom the leg of a piano is the limb; the men go almost stark naked, and the women almost as bad. Is the weather hot? and forthwith every Jap arrays himself in a suit of "buff" with just a fig-leaf. The women go about with a sort of dirty wrapper round them, wearing high sandals, and showing off the "Grecian bend" to perfection. There can be no question where the "Grecian bend" came from. Japan, if behind the world in anything else, can set at least one fashion to her Eastern friends. But it is not so very far behind. A railway is to be built; think of that, ye discontented ones, who look down upon your almond-eyed friends. We are to have a grand railway twenty miles long; and they have got engineers, and assistant engineers, and acting assistant, &c., all at the expense of the poor Japanese, in order to do what a smart Yank would do all by himself. And haven't they got into a mess about it!

Mr. Horatio Nelson Lay, C.B. (no relation of the Trafalgar Nelson, by the way), engaged the engineer-in-chief; the engineer, on the lookout for the dollies, throws over Mr. Lay for the Japanese Government, and the assistant-engineers, who were sent out by Mr. Lay, go back disgusted. Another comes and stays, and I suppose that in some way the railway will be built. But Mr. Lay has the rhino, and if he doesn't shell out, the whole affair will come to one everlasting grand smash. That's how the Britishers manage things out here. We are like you in one respect at least; we have too many earthquakes to suit our own comfort. The other night we had four within half-an-hour, and a week ago there were about ten in the twenty-four hours. Nice country, Japan. There is, however, one feature about the Japs which is somewhat interesting, muchly so to all bankrupts and office-seekers. As suicidists the Japs take considerable tickets. The other night a silkworm egg manufacturer, being bankrupt and afraid to go back to the interior, quietly ripped up his belly with his "toothpick," and forthwith expired. Another blockhead, who, because he was anxious for his country's good—noble pleasure that—sliced himself into "hash," in the hope that his petition, which he carried conveniently in his pocket, would reach the boss Jap. It did reach his mightiness, or whatever he is called, and the man's companions got fits for their pre-supposed crime in backing up their pal. Hara-kiri they call that delightful process of cleaning out one's inside for the purpose of sending a petition. How Congress would rejoice if every office seeker had to perform hara-kiri in order to get his petition heard. There would be mighty few office-seekers hanging round the White House under those circumstances, and poor Grant would be able to smoke his daily cigar; he only smokes one, I hear, but that lasts all day, and he smokes it in detachments.

I would recommend some member of Congress to suggest that hara-kiri would be an appropriate, not to say original, means of getting rid of bankrupts and bores. A young ensign in the British regiment here lately managed to blow himself into eternity from the mouth of a revolver. Like many other young men he thought he knew all about it, but has discovered that a ball through the stomach, including liver and a few other anatomical features, is not conducive to learning or future advancement. His death caused quite a sensation in the place, and as it happened the day before one of the great Yokohama balls it was inconvenient, to say the least. At this ball Mrs. Walsh, an American lady, and the leader of society here, even before Lady Parkes, shone out to perfection. Her dress was a marvellous fabrication from the hands of some Paris modeste, and when she was in the room, every other lady wilted right away.

Of news, of hard sober facts, I have nothing to tell you. We had races, and all the attendant "busts." The demi monde—we have six, I think—reaped grand harvests, and Yokohama was demoralised accordingly. There has been a row about the British Consular Chaplain refusing to attend funerals unless he has something like a week's notice, and we have been quite in a ferment about a possible line of English steamers from Hong Kong to Yokohama, San Francisco, and Australia; but 'tis but a tempest in a very small teapot. The great event, and the last I shall touch upon, has been the appearance on the stage—such a stage!—of a British lawyer, one F. J. Barnard, whom local history calls the "social hero." This wonder volunteered to recite "The Village Apothecary" and "The Hermit."

THE SUEZ CANAL.

(FROM OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENT.)

There has been a report abroad that the company has sold the Canal to an English association, but this has been denied.

We besieged residents were surprised the other day by the re-appearance of the Journal of the Canal, with an announcement that it would be published fortnightly, or more frequently, should the interests of the shareholders demand it, until circumstances should allow of its resuming its regular weekly appearance. It is a puzzle to everybody why the journal should reappear now, when the company is shut out, or, rather shut in from news from the East, and when the paper cannot leave Paris. The directors of the company think, perhaps, that it is not well to let themselves and the Canal be entirely forgotten, and they have therefore taken up a statement which appeared in the Verité, to the effect that M. de Lesseps was in London negotiating the sale of the Canal to an English company, whereas that gentleman is not in London, but in Paris at the present moment. Of course it would have been quite sufficient to have addressed a letter to the Verité and to the Official Journal on the subject, to contradict the rumour in question, but the director has thought it better not only to write sharp letters to the editor of the Verité, but also to half-a-dozen other journals that copied the statement, and these all appear in the new number of the Journal of the Canal de Suez.

La Verité stated also that the Canal was loaded with a debt of more than sixteen millions sterling, and in reply to this the Journal says that the company has only one debt, namely, its loan of four millions sterling. To this it is objected by a writer in the Journal des Travaux Publics that the director omits to mention the coupons of that debt which are now overdue. The Journal goes on to state that the company has expended, besides this loan, its capital of eight millions sterling, making a total of twelve millions. The Canal, it is true, adds the Journal, has cost about 450 millions of francs (£18,000,000), but the difference between these two amounts of 300 and 450 millions of francs has been covered by the receipts and profits that the company acquired from the undertaking in the course of the execution of the works.

The writer already referred to says, in reference to this:—"Who, on reading the above paragraph would not be induced to believe that the undertaking of the Canal had really produced of itself a revenue of 150 millions of francs, whereas the greater part of this sum was derived from the indemnity paid by the Viceroy and the interest of the money belonging to the company during the construction of the Canal? The facts respecting the actual earnings of the Canal are so well known that it is strange the company should risk controversy by putting forth so ambiguous a statement as that referred to. The canal is a grand work, whether it was worth doing still remaining an open question; but it is to be hoped that as so much capital has been sunk, and so much talent and perseverance displayed, the directors as well as the shareholders will some day see fitting returns for their money; but at all events nothing will be gained by putting forth statements that lead to unpleasant discussion. France has had a severe lesson on the frightful mistake of making matters look nice for the public, and ought hereafter to practice with the utmost determination plain statements and full publicity. The press, as well as printing and publication, are now entirely free in France, and should the Republic establish itself, they will doubtless remain so; under such a state of things the course alluded to will be the only possible one, for any attempt at varnishing will only call forth relentless contradiction. For four months we have scarcely heard a word in Paris about the Suez Canal; it may have been thronged with ships of all nations, or silted up, for aught the public here knows."

GERMAN TRADE IN THE FAR EAST.

The memorandum of which the following is a translation was drawn up by M. Drouyn de Lhuys, by desire of the Emperor Napoleon, and was handed to his Majesty on the 1st of March, 1869. The original document, in the handwriting of the then French Minister of Foreign Affairs, was found at St. Cloud, and is now in the possession of the North German Government:—

"The nation among all others which, without incurring any of the risk or cost of the war with China, has derived the greatest advantage from it, is, unquestionably, North Germany.

"In former times the sole trade between Europeans and the Chinese that of opium, was monopolised by the English. Thus the Hanseatic towns had in China factories of but little importance. Since 1865 and 1866, however, when several colossal English firms, which for a long series of years had held exclusively in their hands the trade of the Far East, became bankrupt, a number of new firms have been established on their ruins, and several of the most flourishing of these new firms are North German.

"Statistics prove that, if, during the last three years, the merchant vessels of Bremen, Hamburg, and the other annexed ports—all of which carry the North German flag—have not yet taken the lead in the waters of China and Japan, in number they are already almost equal to those of England and America. They have secured for themselves a large share of the coasting trade. As for the merchant shipping of France, it would escape notice but for the packet service of our Messageries Impériales.

"In addition to a keen commercial aptitude, the Germans possess over the French the advantage of quitting their native country without reluctance, and over the English that of living frugally. Their business qualities are so highly appreciated that several French houses established in Japan have placed Germans at the head of their branch establishments. In 1866, out of ten or twelve French firms at Yokohama, the five leading ones were conducted by three Germans, one Swiss, and one Maltese.

"The commercial interests of North Germany in that part of the world have hitherto been protected by the presence of the squadrons of France, England, and the United States; for the appearance, at long intervals, of a few Prussian ships of war in the waters of China and Japan cannot be considered any real protection.

"As soon as Germany shall possess such a Navy as will enable her to maintain a squadron permanently in the Far East, it may be anticipated that her trade, under such protection, will increase enormously."

THE REAL VALUE OF OUR TRADE WITH CHINA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "PALL MALL GAZETTE."

SIR,—There is in the Edinburgh Review for this month an article on the "Foreign Relations of China," of which I would speak with all due respect, inasmuch as the views which it contains are both reasonable in themselves and reasonably urged. They are also, unless I am mistaken, such as your journal has frequently advocated. The writer comments very judiciously on the exaggerated pretensions put forward by our mercantile classes connected with China, or those who affect to speak for them; their passion for interference in the internal affairs of that great and embarrassing Empire, their perfect conviction that the armies and navies and tax-paying classes of Great Britain exist chiefly for the purpose of compelling the Chinese (or as many as are left of them, for recent statisticians contend that the revolutions of late years, towards the production of which we have contributed no insignificant share, have diminished the population by one-half) to buy our manufactures. But he weakens his position to some degree by quietly admitting the very doctrine on which the Anglo-Chinese in question lay the greatest stress—the supposed enormous importance of the China trade to ourselves as an industrious community. A greater fallacy was never put in figures. A trade which practically consists in the importation of a mere luxury can be but of trifling consequence to any nation. Let us see. I take the very words—quoted by the Edinburgh Reviewer, I am sorry to see, with acquiescence—in which some of the advocates of a pushing Chinese policy, whom he is controverting, put this part of their case.

"From India, China, and Japan we import nothing that we eat or drink, except a luxury, and a grain which is something more or less than a luxury—rice. Yet the stoppage of our mercantile connection with these countries would inevitably carry with it the starvation of large numbers of the English labouring classes. If the Indian and the Chinese markets were shut against us, our workmen would have to starve or pinch as infallibly as if some convulsion of nature suddenly cut us off from the vast corn-fields of the Mississippi Valley or of Southern Russia."

That this formidable prognostication is the merest delusion will, I think, appear to any one who will take the trouble to apply his mind with a little attention to the real circumstances of the case.

Our imports from China amount annually to ten millions' worth of tea, let us say, and three millions' worth of silk. I speak at random, not having the figures before me, but their correctness is of no importance to my hypothetical argument. The tea is, as the writer quoted puts it, a "luxury;" which means that the consumers in this country are rich enough to spend ten millions on an article which they could do without. In order to obtain this tea, the consumers must either buy and export to China an equivalent value of British manufactures, or they must pay in gold, which can only be obtained by the sale of British manufactures. So far, therefore, it is quite true that the consumers of tea are encouraging British manufacturing industry.

But now let us make a very simple supposition. Let us imagine that the English nation was suddenly to become sick of tea—no insalubrious supposition, if some medical authorities are to be believed. Let us suppose that not a pound more of tea found a purchaser in England. The consumers would have their £10,000,000 in their pockets. I cannot certainly tell what they would do with the money; but I will assume as the safest supposition that they would spend the whole sum on some other luxuries. For instance, let them spend it on coffee, beer, wine, tobacco; then the China trade (as regards tea) would be defunct. But in what respect would the country be the worse? A trade to precisely the same amount, encouraging precisely the same amount of manufacturing industry, would grow up with Ceylon and Java, France and Spain, and the beer-procuring interests of our own country.

I scarcely need add that if the production of tea were suddenly arrested, not by a change of taste among ourselves, but by war or commercial prohibition in China, the result would be precisely the same. The purchasing power in this country would remain identical. It would only be applied to the procurement of some other commodities, probably some other luxuries.

The remainder of our imports from China consists almost wholly of raw silk, and as to this the results would no doubt be very different. Raw silk is a material used in our manufactures, and any interruption in its supply would increase its cost, and to that extent damage our industry. So far the China trade is of consequence to us. But the amount of that portion of it is not such as to make its interruption matter of very serious national concern. As regards the real staple, tea, nothing can be clearer than this: the loss of it would be, to more than one half of the British human race, privation of something which they like very much; but not one English spindle the less would be at work in consequence, nor would the wages of our manufacturing artisans be interfered with.

I venture to think that this view of the case is of some little importance, not as encouraging statesmen or politicians to reckless interference with a branch of commerce which supplies us, at all events, with a very popular commodity, but as showing that we may really use inercy and justice towards some hundred million of our fellow men, abstain from the employment of violence against them, and deal tenderly even with their prejudices, without incurring the slightest danger whatever of "starving or pinching" our workmen, or impairing the productive energy of our country.

MR. HANBURY'S LETTER ON CHUNG HOW.

THE letter of "OMEGA," in refutation of Mr. HANBURY'S apology for CHUNG HOW, which we print in another column, reminds us of the summing-up of a late eminent Judge on the occasion of the trial of a sheep-stealer. The prisoner's counsel made little or no attempt to combat the evidence against his client; but he called several witnesses to his previous good character. The Judge accepted the depositions on both sides with equal confidence, which, indeed, they appeared to be entitled to; and he then summed-up thus:—"Gentlemen of the jury; here is a very respectable man who has stolen a sheep; you will find your verdict accordingly." We have no doubt that the jury of English readers who have read the evidence of CHUNG HOW'S guilty complicity in the tragedy of Tientsin will arrive at a similar conclusion, notwithstanding the special pleading of his solitary apologist. We must own that it is with great pain that we find Mr. HANBURY taking up a position in London which he had already found wholly untenable in Shanghai. We give Mr. HANBURY all credit for sincerity, of course; but, at the same time, we cannot but think that the arguments, which did not find a single respondent voice among his countrymen in China, who were well acquainted with the circumstances, and who made every reasonable allowance for his pertinacity, should not have been reproduced in England, where his idiosyncracies are not so well known, without a saving clause in the form of a confession that he stood, and stands, alone in his ideas of CHUNG HOW. It would certainly have been more high-minded on his part to have made that admission voluntarily than to have left it for "OMEGA" and ourselves to draw attention to the significant fact—as we did in our last issue. At the same time we must give Mr. HANBURY credit for the spirit which has impelled him to sign his name to his published apology for CHUNG HOW. This candour, however little it may redound to his perception, or his capacity of being convinced, at any rate redeems him from a place beside the anonymous writers in the Pall Mall Gazette, and elsewhere, who have "made their modesty the flambeau of their merit," and indirectly praised their own policy, while chanting pæons in honour of the "do-nothing" system ascribed—we believe erroneously—to the late Lord MELBOURNE. As for the "arguments" in Mr. HANBURY'S letter to The Times, we may dismiss them without a word; for they are too completely demolished by "OMEGA'S" reply to need one. The defenders of the "policy" of Mr. WADE are better skilled in fighting for a bad cause than Mr. HANBURY would ever care, or consent, to be. They know that it is much easier to call their indignant and endangered fellow-citizens "Philistines" than it is to rebut their arguments, or stem their remonstrances. Mr. HANBURY, less cautious, has ventured openly on the discussion of the question on its merits; and has probably done more good to the cause he has opposed than even those who have always consistently advocated it. We have been content with proving that they were right; it was reserved for Mr. HANBURY to show that the other side—meaning himself alone—was utterly wrong.

A VISIT TO THE SCENE OF THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE FOUR MONTHS AFTER.

(FROM A RESIDENT AT PEKING.)

For some miles outside Tientsin, coming from the north, and, in clear weather, from all sides, the Roman Catholic Cathedral and the Jen-tsi-tang are seen towering high above the city walls and gates. As in Peking, so in Tientsin, such high buildings—and still more foreign ones—must be an eyesore to the Chinese, and awfully prejudicial to their ideas of Fengshuey. In Peking no buildings are permitted to overtop the palace.

On completing the necessary arrangements we visited the scene of the outrages. The Sisters' establishment, the nearest to the settlement, was first visited. It stands in the suburbs, immediately outside the east gate. These extensive premises were in ruins; barely a piece of timber was to be seen, and even that in the walls, to prevent the damp ascending (a custom very common here and rendered necessary by the soda and moisture in the soil), have in most cases been torn out. Not a window, lintel, or doorpost was to be seen; the very stone doorsteps and staircases were demolished and removed, and many of the square bricks of the earthen bed platforms had been torn up and carried away. There must either have been an immense number at work on the 21st June to have so completely gutted these extensive buildings, or the work of demolition and robbery must have been carried on for some days afterwards. Not a tile or brick of the adjoining Chinese houses has been disturbed. Precautions, I am informed, had been taken to protect the neighbouring buildings by having the roofs covered with wet felt. To prevent the escape of the foreigners some of the lanes in the vicinity were barricaded the previous day. Vespers are being sung, the youth are being educated, the sick cured, and a hellish plot for the extermination of the hated foreigner and the mercy-loving Sisters is being concocted over their wall and under their very eaves! There is a good deal of rubbish in the chapel and other buildings, not yet cleared, and seeing that there are five Sisters still unaccounted for, it would be well to have the ruins turned over with this object. Their non-production is horribly suggestive of what was doubtless the motive for so completely destroying all traces.* Between twenty and thirty boys and five or six girls are still missing, and these most probably sought refuge in the vaults, and there perished in the flames. The infuriated men, however, were particularly careful, as far as possible, to save Chinese life, and all were urged to escape. Some clung in death to their foster sisters and perished with them, not desiring to be separated in death as in life. Some, who were unable to escape on account of disease, were carried to the magistrates' office, one of whom afterwards became a patient of mine at the capital. From all I could learn from the native female converts who were spectators in part of the dreadful agonies on the memorable 21st of June, until they were themselves, on account of their obstinacy in clinging to the Sisters, rendered insensible by the blows of the assailants, the foreign Sisters seem all to have been first stunned by the blows from the fire-brigade, who carried large bludgeons, armed at the end with a hook, which they use in the demolition of houses in the case of fires. (The Chinese never put out a fire, they only seek to limit the area and prevent it spreading.) The lady dispenser seems to have been first despatched as head and front of the supposed kidnappers, and guilty of the vile practices attributed to the Sisters. The Irish lady followed, and then the Lady Superioress. The latter was pierced in the head by the fire-hook, and was dragged to the front, accompanied by the only remaining Chinese Sister, both streaming with blood, and there they were felled to the ground. The Chinese female pertinaciously clung to her until she was hooked up by the wrist and borne off. She still lives, and bears the marks of this ill-treatment. The remaining Sisters fled to the furthest extremity of the premises, but were quickly pursued by their infuriated enemies, and similarly treated. Their hands and arms were cut into a thousand pieces—the rest we know were so treated, and doubtless also all the others—and their breasts and abdomens laid open, and their hearts dug out. They were then thrown into the burning pile or into the river. This accounts for the meagre remains—a backbone and a few ribs of five of the Sisters—sent afterwards to the Settlement. As we look upon these sad ruins, a monument of the rage of the Chinese, our hearts and hopes sink within us. The buildings have now been handed over to the Roman Catholics, a few of whom, along with several new arrivals, are living on the foreign settlement, although the Chinese soldiery still guard the place. No crowd followed us hither, as is generally the case in China. We were left alone to ponder over the sad desolation; no expression of sympathy or sorrow from the stolid Chinese was vouchsafed us. Verily the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the Church. No sooner are twelve innocent Sisters killed than others arise to take their place. Several new priests are here for this and the neighbourhood, and doubtless Sisters also will be at their post as soon as the buildings are restored next spring.

Two or three Chinese women with a handful of scholars inhabit the old Custom-house at the east end of the settlement.

We next proceeded to examine the little chapel of the London Mission, the station of the late lamented and murdered

* I have since heard that bones have been picked up in what was formerly the dormitory. Will our officials not listen to our repeated solicitations, and order an examination?

Mr. Williamson. We found it barricaded with millet stalks plastered over with mud. This we found the case with all the smaller chapels, which were rented shops, more properly speaking. At the larger place of the American Board there was a guard, as at the Roman Catholic establishments; the furniture and fixtures had all gone. The chapel of the Methodist Mission, which we next visited, was in a similar condition, partitions, panelling, furniture and goods belonging to chapel-keeper and friends, whose private property the house was, were carried away to the extent of 150 taels.

The Cathedral and French Consulate next received a visit. The walls and tower of the former alone remain. This structure was just recently finished, built of solid brick, and in the usual durable style of the Roman Catholics. The Chinese have been much chagrined that the imposing structure still stands, a continual reproach to their barbarity and futile efforts to destroy it. The cross, which rested on a gilt globe over the gateway, being within easy reach, speedily disappeared, but the gilt cross on the top of the tower still stands, an emblem of the Christianity which its enemies sought to wipe out. The gateways bear marks of great violence having been applied. The Cathedral and Consulate stand on what was once an Imperial residence, at the junction of the Grand Canal with the Peiho. Here both turn at right angles due east, giving the form of the letter T, the Cathedral on the north side, and looking down the river towards the bridge of boats, and commanding also right and left the Peiho and Canal. The position is the finest in Tientsin, and in any direction, and from any point of view, the outlook is grand. The Chinese must long have looked with envy on this Imperial site—a standing memorial of the success and power of French arms. Part of the Imperial building, to the left on entering, has passed through the fiery ordeal unscathed. Not a vestige of the religious and political structures has been allowed to remain that could be pulled down. Two handsome marble tablets covered by pavilions have also fallen a prey to the devouring element. We picked up a few burnt leaves of a French and Latin Bible, with Latin notes, which we cherish as souvenirs of this dire calamity. Two or three of the charred pillars upon which rested the roof still exist, surrounded with hoop iron girders. The interior of the Cathedral is filled with the rubbish of the fallen roof. Father Chevrier and a Chinese priest were murdered here, dreadfully hacked, and afterwards thrown into the river. The three floors and roof of the main and side towers have also been burned, and the handsome brass French-made bell, with the eagle upon it, now lies at the bottom of the main tower, with the suspending part broken off, probably having had its course altered in its fall against some of the unburnt rafters, although there are evidences of their having tried the quality of its metal. There were three officials in charge, who kindly showed us over the Consulate, which immediately adjoins, and pointed out the graves of the victims. They afterward enquired our names, with the view of reporting our visit to the mandarins. Here the idea of desolation is modified, the compound having been cleared for the funeral of the victims. The Consulate is a mass of ruins, and the beautiful verandah and pavilion which overlooked the river, and gave it the very appropriate name of Wang-ho-lien, have likewise disappeared.

We proceeded next to the chapel of the London Mission, which is in entire ruins. While inspecting this, one was heard to say, "Oh, they are going to begin work," followed by the significant shah, kill. We were now within the city. The premises of the American Board, the largest of the Protestant places, and capable of containing two foreign families, chapel, &c., were next seen. Fortunately the sanitary condition of the city had driven the foreigners from this hotbed of filth to the settlement, and so their lives were spared; but the infuriated populace seem to have wreaked their vengeance upon the devoted chapel and buildings. Hardly a brick is left; the bell has been stolen, and the chapel cylinder stove is said to be in one of the yamens. A little mud house has been erected on the waste, and an official is here stationed. These premises from first to last have cost some $6,000. Their entire claim for damages and compensation will hardly cover this large outlay, not to speak of furniture, fixings, losses and sale of the native staff and complete disorganisation of the mission work. After the massacre the officials offered any sum that might be named to our consuls and missionaries to keep matters quiet; now they higgie over a few thousand taels with poor Christians who have suffered dreadfully. It is to be hoped the higher officials will yet consider the question. Religious teachers may leave the country at once if the Chinese are to be allowed to ignore the native claims. By treaty, converts are not to be molested. The progress of Christianity can thus be hindered at any moment when it becomes disagreeable to the officials. This point ought not to be given up by our authorities, and we are sure the British Minister will be fully alive to the importance of this question. If loss of life is to have compensation so must loss of property. I understand one Protestant convert was killed, for whose family a sum of Tls. 500 is demanded. The other claims for loss of goods, sustained by about fifty persons, amount in all to about Tls. 2,500. The Chinese mandarins would like to treat their own people according to their own ideas of justice. It is perfectly well known that the families of the executed received some Tls. 500; are the claims of the Protestant converts to be altogether disclaimed and ignored? Besides replacing chapels, eight in all, the damages for rent for six months, furniture, fixings, salaries, &c., of the Protestant staff of all the missions, amount only to about Tls. 8,000, against Tls. 500,000, the sum paid to the Roman Catholics.

Another chapel near the west gate, belonging also to the American Board, is at present being rebuilt by the mandarins. It is likewise intended to allow the officials to replace all the chapels for the sake of the more effect upon the people. Heathen officials are made to build the hated chapels for the hated foreigner, which are destined ultimately to undermine their own corrupt and effete systems! Near this chapel I was accosted with the epithet "There go the scoopers out of eyes and hearts." I immediately seized the rascal, a southern man; a crowd collected, who looked sullen and fierce, and I appealed, but in vain, to two of Li-hung-chang's soldiers to take him into custody, who refused, on the ground that their duty did not lie within the city. Finding matters beginning to look unpleasant, I demanded an apology, which was at once given, and so the matter ended. In every other place such decided action would have left the foreigner in undisputed possession of his victim and the position. Not a hand would be raised against the foreigner or for the native, and the pluck of the Western would be admired by all. But here matters are changed. There was a determined and impertinent expression portrayed on the countenances of all.

We passed out at the south gate after this little episode, through one of the vilest and dirtiest quarters I ever beheld—filled with squalid children and pigs innumerable. A residence in most parts of China, and particularly here, is well adapted to strengthen one's anti-porcine feelings. Close to this gate, on the plain, is the old military cemetery, where decay and ruin mark everything. The enclosing brick wall is tottering down, the gravestones and monuments are in a dilapidated condition—one of the graves is actually open—the trees are all dead—the bricks are being stolen, and altogether it reflects no credit upon the British Government, which pays, I understand, $6 monthly to the keeper (?). The cemetery at Taku is in the same condition. In the rainy season they are inaccessible. The new cemetery at the settlement, under the immediate care of that public-spirited merchant, Mr. Henderson, contrasts favourably with the old military one. Here a neat brick roofed wall, with handsome gatehouse and entrance, strike the eye. The interior is beautifully laid out and planted with willows, firs, pines and rosebushes. The victims were all interred here at first, but the large mound over their mutilated remains has now disappeared, and only a Chinese Sister, known at the inquest by her neck ornaments, lies here, awaiting removal by the French priests. The newly married Russian and his young wife, the sister-in-law of one of the Russian merchants here, who were brutally murdered or ere the marriage rejoicings were completed, lie in this cemetery side by side. The murdered and yet unavenged Williamson, once, the picture of rosy health, is also here. The other Russian also reposes here. History has here been made in a day. M. and Madame Thomaison, also recently married, and on their way to the Legation at Peking, and who came by the same steamer that sheltered, until the storm was overpast, the defenceless women and innocent children of the British settlement, lie buried, as we have already said, at the French Consulate. The whole circumstances of this massacre render it one of the saddest the world has ever witnessed.

The city was certainly quieter than I expected. There was a disagreeable stillness and sullenness depicted on the faces of the people; no kind or sympathising word or look was given, no questions asked, not even the ordinary Chinese salutations. Old friends, acquaintances, and shopkeepers, who used to greet the missionaries with a nod, a chin-chin, or a smile, now, we were told, take no notice of them. The streets are unpleasantly quiet, no crowds follow, and the city is said to be filled with secret police. No doubt strict orders have been given to molest no foreigners, and to get into conversation with none. Many of the people must have enriched themselves by the pillage of the chapels, houses, and Consulate. Things are said to have been offered for sale in Peking and Taku, whither the ringleaders chiefly fled, and where they still are, some of whom had the hardihood, encouraged by official complicity and countenance, to expose the bloody garments (mementoes of their bravery), the property of the victims. By-and-by we shall doubtless learn all that transpired on and preceding the fatal 21st. The callous indifference of the Chinese, once all danger of foreign complications is over, will lead them to disclose the hidden sources of this furious outbreak, the chief actors in the tragedy, and the possessors of the stolen goods.

Foreign Governments have the future of China and the Chinese in their own hands. The Chinese will be and do what we make them. The responsibility of future massacres, troubles, and misunderstandings lies with Foreign Governments. What is especially wanted to ensure greater progress to Christianity and commerce—i.e., peace to prosecute our various callings—is more power, the appearance of power, and not the continual confession of weakness and inferiority.

CHUNG HOW AND THE TIENSIN MASSACRE.— ANSWER TO MR. HANBURY.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE TIMES."

SIR,—In The Times of January 26 there appeared a kind of vindication of the character of the new Chinese Envoy to France, from Mr.

Thomas Hanbury, of Shanghai. Chung How's connection with the Tientsin massacre had already been discussed by the members of the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce, of whom Mr. Hanbury is one; and on that occasion the substance of his present letter to The Times was addressed to the Chamber. Mr. Hanbury's views did not then meet with a single supporter; but, as few of your readers have had the opportunity of acquainting themselves with both sides of the question, I beg your permission to point out briefly a few of the fallacies in Mr. Hanbury's argument, which will probably make it clear that he, at least, has not happened to get on the right side.

Mr. Hanbury wishes us to believe that Chung How was innocent of all participation in the Tientsin massacre, and that the Chinese Government (whatever meaning Mr. Hanbury may attach to that phrase) has done its duty as far as possible since that lamentable event. That there should be no misunderstanding, however, as to the estimation in which he holds the crime itself, Mr. Hanbury is at some pains to inform us that "the atrocious massacre of Tientsin . . . has caused universal feelings of indignation and sorrow." &c. It is from no tenderness towards the sin, therefore, that Mr. Hanbury endeavours to shield Chung How from any unpleasant consequences of it.

The first two pleas for Chung How may be dismissed as unworthy of serious criticism. One is previous good conduct—"he has been the consistent friend of foreigners for ten years;" the second is that "he had Europeans in his employ at the time of the massacre."

Of the remainder of Mr. Hanbury's vindication it is hardly too much to say that, coming as it does from an avowed apologist, it is almost more damnable than anything which has been alleged by the hostile public against Chung How. What, for example, is to be inferred from this?—"He is said to have addressed friendly warnings to Consul Fontanier before the 21st of June, begging him not to treat so lightly the excitement of the populace growing out of the supposed kidnapping." Why, the worst that has been said of Chung How is that, knowing the serious character of the so-called "excitement," he did nothing to allay it, and the mockery of warning M. Fontanier against a danger which it was in Chung How's power to avert altogether, but over which M. Fontanier had no more control than he would have had over an earthquake, seems rather to fill the cup of his guilt than to furnish ground for his acquittal. Mr. Hanbury, indeed, neutralises his own argument by advancing, in another part of his letter, the utterly contradictory plea of the unforeseen nature of the tumult, which he compares for suddenness to the Fenian explosion at Clerkenwell. How Chung How is to get the benefit of both hypotheses is left unexplained.

Great stress is laid on the fact that "M. Courtrix, the only Frenchman saved on the day of the massacre, was protected in Chung How's residence," and Mr. Hanbury adds his opinion that Consul Fontanier would also have been safe there had he remained. But, supposing M. Fontanier had been saved by the accident of his being in Chung How's residence, what of M. and Madame Thomassin, M. and Madame Chalmisson, and the nine Sisters of Charity? If Chung How's residence was the only safe place for a Frenchman that day, why did not Chung How, following up his alleged previous warnings, invite the whole French community into so secure an asylum? Mr. Hanbury forgets two important things,—one, that the sole reason for either M. Courtrix or M. Fontanier being in Chung How's quarters at all was that the attack on the Consulate had already commenced; the other, that Chung How's refraining from murdering M. Courtrix under his own roof was in no wise inconsistent with the theory of his even having secretly instigated the massacre, of which, however, no one has yet thought of accusing him. Nor does the acknowledged fact that Chung How was the least guilty of all the local authorities and was despised by the extreme anti-foreign party for his alleged foreign proclivities exculpate him. To fall between two stools in this way is by no means an uncommon fate of men who are at once weak and wicked.

We are next told that Chung How's conduct after the massacre was not that of a guilty man. Mr. Hanbury does not state how a guilty man would have comporting himself under the circumstances. We are only left to infer that his behaviour would have been the reverse of Chung How's. But let that pass. This, at all events, is Mr. Hanbury's version of how Chung How evinced his guiltlessness. He met the Consuls at ten A.M. the next morning, "and expressed his deep sorrow at what had occurred, and said he never dreamt that matters could have gone to the extremity they did." Every person who reads these words is ready to ask,—“How far, then, did Chung How expect or intend that 'matters' should go before he interfered? There were twenty-one people massacred. Would a lesser number have met Chung How's views of what was adequate to the occasion, or would the burning of the Consulate and hospital have satisfied him without the butchery?” It is Mr. Hanbury's chosen line of defence which prompts these inevitable reflections.

One more of Mr. Hanbury's strong points, and I have done. "All evidence from Tientsin," he says, "goes to show that . . . a portion of the inhabitants, including the two mandarins already condemned by the Government, are alone directly and justly responsible for the deplorable occurrence," &c., whence we are expected to infer that Chung How, not being in the above list, is necessarily innocent. Were Mr. Hanbury in the possession of exclusive information from Tientsin we could hardly conceive it to be of so exhaustive a character as to enable him to prove a negative of this kind. But Mr. Hanbury, like every other foreigner in China and out of it, is indebted to common report for his knowledge of the massacre and its attendant circumstances. When the common report is wrong—that is, against Mr. Hanbury's views—he dismisses it without benefit of clergy; when it is agreeable to him he calls it "evidence" without more ado, thus betraying the special pleader.

If this, then, be all that can be said in favour of Chung How, his cause must be a bad one. If, on the other hand, his cause be good, he has been singularly unfortunate in his advocate. To realise the weakness of the case, however, it is necessary to refer for a moment to the conspicuous omissions in Mr. Hanbury's letter. It is professedly a criticism of another letter, which is hardly yet before the British public. In the latter document it is distinctly pointed out that Chung

How must have known of the preparations for the massacres, which were conducted under the superintendence of his subordinates, that he was the proper person to have prevented it, and that, finally, the British Consul on three separate occasions wrote despatches to Chung How, urging him to quell the popular excitement which was being actively inflamed by the placards, &c., of his subordinate officers, which despatches remained unnoticed by Chung How up to the time of the massacre. Without a clear explanation of these points, it is manifestly idle to construct any defence of Chung How.

One word more in conclusion. Mr. Hanbury has apparently misunderstood the position taken up by the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce. He objects to their taking the initiative in making so serious an accusation against Chung How "without the formal examination of a single witness." But what if the absence of proper inquiry into the case and the non-examination of witnesses were the very circumstances which drove the Chamber of Commerce into "taking the initiative?" As far as their written words indicate their policy, their whole aim was to adduce "sufficient prima facie evidence to show that before being received as Ambassador Chung How should be called on to exculpate himself." Whether or not the Chamber of Commerce is the proper party to take the initiative in such a matter, surely nothing can be more reasonable than that, if the grounds of suspicion against him are sufficiently clear, Chung How should be in some form or other put on his trial before he is fettered as his predecessors have been.—I am, Sir, yours faithfully, OMEGA.

UNDERWRITERS' GRIEVANCES.

A letter has appeared in The Times with reference to an important question in connection with marine insurances, and the interest alike of merchants and underwriters—namely, the position that should be occupied by professional "average adjusters." We extract the following passages from the letter:—"Last April attention was first publicly called to the giving of discounts or allowances on their fees by average adjusters to claimants who employed them. In May a meeting of the Association of Average Adjusters passed a resolution for the immediate expulsion of any member thereafter guilty of this unprofessional practice. It is also understood that the Committee of Lloyd's have determined to exact a pledge from adjusters desiring to become subscribers that they will not make such allowances. But there is a growing feeling that much more has to be done before the question of the statement and settlement of claims under marine policies is finally and satisfactorily settled. In former times the practice of employing adjusters to make up claims on policies of marine insurance was not so general as it has since become. Their services were not resorted to without the previous consent of the underwriters, who paid their fees. The underwriter could only have been charged with the fee on the principle of the adjuster being a quasi referee, which implied his being consulted in the matter. The first adjusters existed by virtue of qualifications which made them peculiarly suitable for their office, but when adjusting became a lucrative occupation it attracted recruits into its ranks, some of them possessing inferior claims to confidence. To this tendency the only check seems to be that if their innovations were too barefaced their statements would so invariably be distrusted that delay and difficulty would arise with every statement made up by them, however unobjectionable it might really be, at which stage they would cease to be useful to their employers. Indeed it is well known that this really does operate to some extent, though not sufficiently to counteract the opposite tendency. But it may be urged that the underwriter ought to understand his business, to know what he is liable for, and to examine in all details the demands made on him, and that if, by ignorance, carelessness, or timidity, he does not keep the adjusters in check it is his own fault. This argument would be very well on the supposition that the adjuster was avowedly acting in the interest of the assured only, as in the case of a solicitor conducting a negotiation for a client, and whose fees are paid by his employer; but such a view of the relation of the adjuster to the two parties is inconsistent with the history of his origin, and with the fact that it is the underwriter who is expected to pay his fees. Nor is this evil, which is a fast-growing one, and visibly sapping the relations of mutual confidence which ought to exist between parties to a marine policy, one which concerns the underwriter exclusively, or even chiefly.

"Among the correctives put forth in various quarters are the following:—1. That the practice of consulting the underwriter, and handing the papers which are the foundation of the claim to an adjuster in whom both parties have confidence, should be again resorted to. In this case the underwriter would pay the fee of the adjuster. 2. That if the underwriter were not consulted as to the choice of an adjuster by the claimant the latter should pay the adjuster's fee, leaving it to the underwriter to employ and pay another adjuster to examine the claim, if he thought fit. 3. That the Committee of Lloyd's should appoint an examiner of claims, to whom all disputed cases might be referred for his report.

"While setting forth these various proposals, I add that it appears to me that the second plan, by which each party would pay the average adjuster of his own selection, is that which would work best in practice; but the third plan is undoubtedly the easiest to carry out, and would not prevent the adoption of either of the other plans in conjunction with it, for in neither of them would the adjustment be final and binding, but reviewable by the official examiner, whose opinion would, if he objected to the adjustment, carry sufficient weight to relieve the private underwriter from the imputation of obstructiveness in declining to abide by the adjustment."

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps has attained by his homeopathic preparation of Cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." (GLOBE.)

It is not often that an ambassador on arriving at his post is met by a charge of complicity in the wholesale murder of subjects of a Power to which, amongst others, he is accredited. Such, however, is the present position of Chung How. The Shanghai Chamber of Commerce have accused him to their confreres in London of having been privy to the plot which ended in the massacre of the French missionaries at Tientsin, and they have incited them to urge upon the Government the necessity of calling upon him to exculpate himself from the charge before receiving him as Ambassador. One of their number, Mr. Hanbury, has protested in the columns of The Times against the Chamber taking the initiative in making so serious an accusation against him without the formal examination of a single witness; and for this very temperate remonstrance has drawn down upon himself the wrath of another correspondent signing himself "Omega," who reiterates the charge made by the Chamber, and attempts to refute Mr. Hanbury's arguments by a repetition of the hearsay evidence upon which that body condemned Chung How. We have no desire to find fault with the Shanghai Chamber, but it was, to say the least, discourteous on their part so entirely to ignore the investigation made on the spot by the Foreign Ministers at the Court of Peking as to petition the English Government to re-open the inquiry into his guilt or innocence. We have already stated our belief, and the grounds upon which that belief is based, that Chung How was entirely innocent of all complicity in the plot, and we have shown plainly that the occurrence of such an outbreak was directly opposed to his own interests. After a careful examination into the details of the massacre, the Foreign Ministers unanimously acquitted him from the charge which is now for the second time brought against him; and so completely was M. Rochechouart, the French Charge d'Affaires, satisfied of his innocence, that it was at his special request that Chung How was chosen as Ambassador to the European Courts.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Jan. 31.

The Cabinet is again complete. Colonel Booms, who has been compelled to resign because of ill-health, being succeeded by Colonel Engelvaart. Le roi est mort, vive le roi! Some Conservative papers assure us that Mr. Booms never intended to become a Minister, but that he was appointed by Mr. Thorbecke, who composed the Cabinet in a few hours without being consulted. I cannot ascertain whether this is true, but so much is certain, that Mr. Booms has left the Hague, and even the country, to recruit his health. Very few particulars are known about his successor; we only know that he is one of the ten colonels of our infantry and Governor of the Military Academy of Breda. There is, however, reason to believe that he adheres to the same principles as Mr. Booms, and that he will re-organise our means of defence and the constitution of our army. The Arnhemse Courant, which is very affectionate towards the new Cabinet, entertains the belief that he will prove to be the "right man in the right place." Time will show if this opinion is correct; he may be an able Minister of War, but it is quite certain that he will be a very costly one. In the meanwhile the Ministers are working day and night to prepare their Bills, which are to be laid before the members of the Second Chamber, which, however, will not meet before the first week in March. It is a matter of course that the next sitting will be a very unproductive one. A good part of the summer will be spent in the discussions upon the Budgets. It is to be feared that the well-nigh interminable talk of our M.P.s will again block the course of business, spoil the programme of the new Cabinet, and will render difficult the passing of the most urgent and necessary Bills. About the programme of the Ministers the greatest secrecy prevails, and what Mr. van Bosse intends to do no one knows, there is not even a rumour circulating about it. The political correspondence from the "residency" is, in default of political news, filled up with particulars about measures which were not taken by the local authorities to check the epidemic of small-pox, which prevails not only at the Hague, but also here and in Utrecht to a fearful extent. It seems certain that the members of the "Red Cross" brought this horrible disease from France to the Hague, but nevertheless the greatest sympathy still prevails for this institution, and so much money is still subscribed that extraordinary means are necessary to obtain funds to relieve the wants of our poor, who suffer greatly by this long and severe winter, which checks business and general traffic. Of course the new institution of the "Blue Cross," which is designed to render assistance to the French and German prisoners of war, does not meet with the least sympathy under these circumstances, and I doubt that, if even the weather were less severe, the cold not so intense, and the wants of the poor not so great, the committee would collect a great deal of money.

I regret that I have to record the death of Mr. Jan Jacob Rochussen, an ex-Minister and Governor-General of Java, who died at the Hague, at the age of seventy-three years. He has rendered to his fatherland many important services, and was a most eminent man, but rather a cœur d'or than a statesman. He was one of the promoters of Liberal principles, but lately he has adhered to Conservative views, especially with regard to Java. In 1858, when he was appointed Minister, Mr. Thorbecke was one of his most violent opponents, but it is quite probable that the programme of Mr. Rochussen of that year will be the programme of Mr. Thorbecke this; qui vivra verra. I regret to notice also the deaths of Mr. F. A. H. Miguel, Professor at the University of Utrecht; and of Mr. Ter Bruggen Hugenholtz, member of the Council of State.

The mail correspondence from Java is very unsatisfactory. Some days ago we received papers of Dec. 14, subsequently the mail which was forwarded on the 8th of that month arrived, and to-day we have again advices to the 14th. The telegrams are also very scarce, and many complaints are made that they are not intelligible. The last "official" telegram stated that the expedition to Borneo had obtained the greatest success, and that Wang Kang had been killed. The general opinion here is that this "affair" was "much ado about nothing." More impression was created by the article of "V.L." in the Nieuw Bataviasch Handelsblad, "Our Programme." The effect was so great that even the most Liberal papers remain silent respecting it, as if they were afraid to awaken the public opinion in Holland.

The capitulation of Paris has not in the least improved the prospect of the Stock markets. A dull tone still prevails, with complete absence of business. There is to-day a slight tendency in the downward direction. The demand for money is rather more active, though there is still a great accumulation of capital. The Bank rate of discount remains unaltered. I hear that the report to be proposed by the Oost Indische Maatschappij van Lyfrenten will be subjected for approval to the creditors and shareholders. The principal points are the following: that the life rents and annuities shall be paid in full; that the other creditors will receive 40 per cent. in ready money and 40 per cent. in shares. They will thus lose 20 per cent., and this loss is to be borne by the shareholders.

Good ordinary pale Java is scarce, and is held for 37c. The transactions include 3,300 b. Java, ex County of Berwick; 6,100 b. do., ex Philips van Marnix; 1,800 b. do., ex Singapore; 1,350 b. Padang, ex Jan van Brakel; 925 b. Java, ex President Plate.

SUGAR.—The late advance of f. $\frac{1}{2}$ above November prices is fully supported, but there has been very little doing, owing to the elevated pretensions of holders, who have further raised their prices, which buyers have not yet been willing to submit to. The transactions only include about 12,000 kranjangs floating, of which 5,000 piculs, per Europa, sold at f. $\frac{1}{2}$ above November.

TEA.—Prices are firmly supported, but no transactions are taking place.

RICE.—The market is inactive.

JAVA TOBACCO.—About 3,000 bales of different head-marks have been sold by private tender.

TIN.—Banca looks firm; holders decline to operate at the ruling rates, f.78 to f.78 $\frac{1}{2}$. Some transactions have taken place for delivery, ex the coming spring sale, at f.77.

INDIGO.—There is a steady demand. About 200 chests Java have been disposed of at unaltered rates.

SPICES.—There is some demand for Nutmegs, No. 2 and No. 4, but no particulars about transactions have transpired.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—Ceylon is quoted f.26, Cochin f.28 $\frac{1}{2}$.

BLACK PEPPER.—3,850 b., floating per Albert Victor, Anna and Sophie, and Jason, have changed hands.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 2.

Information has been published here that the large mills known as the Hilversumche Stoom Spin en Wevery, at Hilversum, near this town, have stopped payment. This limited company was only a few years since established as a steam mill for spinning and weaving. It started originally with a capital of about £50,000 in shares, and a few months ago contracted a new loan. Up to now the liabilities and assets have not been ascertained.

Monetary and Commercial.

At a meeting in bankruptcy of the creditors of Messrs. Higson and West, Manchester, on the 3rd, it was stated that the liabilities amounted to £170,000, and various debts were proved to the extent of £84,000. Neither of the bankrupts attended, and it was believed that they had left the country; consequently, no statement of accounts was produced. Mr. F. W. Mason, of the Union Bank; Mr. J. Kay, and Mr. W. Robinson were appointed a committee of inspection, and the public examination was adjourned.

Messrs. John Pender and Co. have issued an elaborate coloured diagram showing the fluctuations which have taken place in the markets for cotton and Manchester goods, and in the bank rate of discount in each month during the past ten years—namely, from 1861 to 1870.

The biddings for £400,000 in bills on India were held at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta, £299,500; to Bombay, £100,000; and to Madras, £500.

The following relates to the British Indian Telegraph Company:—

"British Indian Submarine Telegraph Company (Limited), 68, Old Broad-street, London, E.C., Jan. 27.

"Sir,—In accordance with the arrangement made at the general meeting of shareholders, I beg to inform you that the gross traffic receipts of the British Indian Submarine Telegraph Company (Limited) for the past three months were as follows:—October, £5,156 17s. 2d.; November, £7,453 2s. 10d.; December, £3,920. The line of the British Indian Company was broken from the 24th of September to the 13th of October. The Falmouth cable was broken on the 29th of November, and is not yet repaired. These breaks have seriously diminished the receipts of both companies, and the directors cannot, therefore, recommend quarterly dividends. The steamers Chiltern and Hawk sailed from Gibraltar on the 24th inst. to relay the section of the Falmouth cable in which the break occurred, the bad weather having frustrated further attempts at successful grappling. We may therefore expect communication to be shortly re-established.—"Yours truly, JOHN T. BURT, Secretary."

The report of the India-Rubber, Gutta-Percha and Telegraph Works Company (Limited), to be presented on the 10th inst., describes a great increase of business during the past year, and recommends a dividend of £6 15s. per share, being at the rate of 15 per cent. per annum, which will absorb £49,599 and leave £8,202 to be carried forward after placing £30,000 to the credit of patents, goodwill and depreciation account. The works, it is added, are now fully employed on large contracts for the Government.

The report of the General Credit and Discount Company, to be presented on the 9th inst., shows an available total of £76,726, and recommends a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, which will absorb £37,500, leaving, after an appropriation of £35,000 to reserve (thus raised to £75,000), the sum of £4,226 to be carried forward. The report adds that the business of the company has steadily increased, and that its assets are entirely free from all complications. The paid-up capital is £1,500,000, the deposits held are £4,608,438, and the acceptances are £125,291.

The report of the Home and Colonial Marine Insurance Company (Limited), to be presented on the 8th of February, recommends a dividend of 3s. per share, or at the rate of 6 per cent per annum.

We are informed that Mr. Joaquin de Mancha, of the firm of Mancha and Co., merchants, has joined the board of the City Bank. On the 31st March next Mr. J. W. Duncan will retire from the joint management of the City Bank, the sole charge of which will thereafter devolve on Mr. A. G. Kennedy.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Tanjore, from Southampton, on the 4th inst., was, in gold, to Alexandria, £165,000; in silver, to Singapore, £1,000; to Shanghai, £1,600; total in gold, £165,000; in silver, £2,600.

BULLION AND SPECIE.

GOLD.—The demand for the Continent has sensibly declined, and we look for an influx to the Bank during this week of some portion of the late arrivals. There were withdrawals of gold from the Bank in the early part of the week amounting to £77,000, and sovereigns to the value of £201,000 have also been taken out for Egypt. The Massilia has taken £28,300 to Alexandria.

SILVER.—Fine Bars remain as last quoted; the demand is entirely for Holland, and there are buyers at 60½d. per oz. standard. The Nile has brought £45,900 from the West Indies, the Nyanza £387,224 from China, the Nebraska £10,000 from New York, the Siberia £11,000 from New York, and the City of Paris £30,000 from New York; the Seine has taken £17,150 to the West Indies.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—From the West Indies and New York we have received during the week about £110,000 of this coin; with the exception of a few trifling orders for China, they have been taken for refining purposes. Quotations, 4s. 10½d. to 4s. 10½d.

SILK.

The market keeps steady, but without any noticeable change. There is a fair inquiry for China and Canton Silk, and full prices are obtained. The political crisis in France is giving a slight check to business generally, but without in any way affecting quotations. Red Peacocks are 26s., and best chop 3rds 29s. 6d., which prices have been freely paid this week.

The following is from Messrs. Durant and Co.'s Circular:—We have to report a month of small daily business, gradually increasing towards the end without any general quotable advance, but prices rather hardening as the doings became more frequent. The announcement of the capitulation of Paris induced some buoyancy of feeling and a desire for purchase, but importers seemed fully alive to the chance of improved prices. Hence the transactions have not been really large, nor can we quote even now any positive advance, but the highest prices of September and the first week of November are easily obtainable. Japan Silk remains neglected. Canton Silk, on the other hand, has had a full share in the business done, and the deliveries show that it is entering largely into consumption—in this class we can trace a full 6d. advance. The next periodical public sales are fixed to commence on the 22nd inst.

COFFEE.

The recent improvement in the demand has been upheld for all descriptions, except for native Ceylon, which has sold slowly. The demand for Plantation has not quite equalled that in the previous week, but being very steady, the supplies brought forward have been taken off at fully former rates to a further slight advance for coloury kinds, the prices realised being, triage 45s. to 57s., small grey 57s. 6d. to 59s., low middling grey and greyish 61s. to 65s., bold ditto 65s. 6d. to 72s. 6d., small coloury 60s. to 62s. 6d., middling 66s. to 71s. 6d., good to fine middling 72s. to 80s., good bold bright 82s. to 84s. 6d., pea-berry 75s. to 80s. Early in the week a strong desire to buy floating parcels of Native Ceylon prevailed, and 600 bags were sold at a further advance at 58s. without guarantee; the demand has since fallen off, and sales can only be effected at some reduction; at auction garblings have realised 25s. 6d., chips 40s. 6d., small 52s., good ordinary 56s. to 57s., fine ordinary bold 58s. to 59s.

SUGAR.

Little if any speculative demand has been shown, and the trade have confined their purchases to middling to good refining qualities, which have brought firm prices, while commoner qualities remain neglected at about previous quotations; the transactions are again small. In East India kinds there has been but one transaction on the spot, consisting of the sale by private contract of 7,500 bags fair clayed Manilla (duty 4s.) at 27s. per cwt. The floating cargo, per Aquarius, 1,150 baskets, Java No. 19 (duty 6s.) has been sold at 40s. duty paid been for London.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The market has exhibited an upward tendency, and for Ceylon at public sale higher prices have been paid; of 229 casks offered, 208 casks sold, viz., 142 pipes good to fine at £39 15s. to £40, a few lots £40 5s., 36 puncheons at £40 10s., one lot £40 15s., and 30 hogsheads at £40 10s. to £40 15s.; for arrival 50 tons have sold at £40.

CAMPBOR.—The market has been very quiet, the sales being limited to a few hundred cases China, at 72s. 6d. to 75s.; a few lots Japan are reported sold, at 80s.; 1,000 tubs have arrived per Diomed, but have not yet been offered; the large parcel arrived per Hopewell has also yet to be brought to sale.

CHINA GRASS.—The market has been steady, but large arrivals which have taken place, per Geraint and City of Hankow, have rather checked the demand that was previously ruling; privately 200 bales fine white have realised £52 per ton—the previous value; and at auction 240 bales sea-damaged have been offered and withdrawn.

CUTCH.—There has again been an absence of business; an offer at public sale of 500 boxes Pegu was bought in at 22s. 6d. per cwt.

CANTHARIDES.—An offer of 2 cases China small and bold mixed was bought in at 2s. 6d.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Anniseed has advanced to 9s. 1½d. to 9s. 3d.; the latter price has been paid, and afloat 9s. Cassia sells in retail quantities at 4s. 6d. per lb. Citronelle is very dull of sale at 2d. to 2½d. per lb. for good average quality; about 100 cases offered, and half sold. Lemon Grass: 3 cases Winter's sold at 3½d. Nutmeg: 20 cases retired at 7½d. to 7½d. per oz.; 2 cases slightly tinged placed at 7d.

GAMBIE.—There has been some slight inquiry, and about 2,000 bales have been sold at 15s. 3d. to 15s. 6d., chiefly the latter price.

GALLS.—China: The market had been for some time past very dull, parcels of rather dark and dusty being sold at 41s., better quality at 41s. 6d. to 42s. 6d., when probabilities of peace caused buyers to anticipate a rapid revival of trade, and this idea being assisted by a little speculation, an advance was obtained, dark and very dusty and foul selling at 43s. to 43s. 6d.; a small lot of fine at 45s. Japan: Firm; an arrival has taken place, but is not yet on the market.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Dull of sale, quotations quite nominal; of 200 cases at auction, only 20 sold—fair 2nds Sumatra at £7 15s. to £8, ordinary at £7, and 3rds at 82s. 6d. to 85s., 4ths retired at 60s. Damar has been in improved enquiry, and sales of Batavian have been effected privately at 51s. 6d. to 52s. 6d. per cwt.; very pale and bold Singapore has been quitted at 52s. 6d. to 53s. Gamboge: Of 25 cases offered in public sale, 14 cases sold at a considerable advance, realising £12 10s. per cwt. for good pale pipe rather small and drossy, and £11 for blocky.

HEMP.—The dull tone of the market for Manila continues, and holders having shown some pressure to effect sales, prices have a declining tendency; the week's auctions have presented a total of 2,727 bales, which met with only a moderate demand, and 600 bales sold at easier rates, good common at £48; Sorsagon, £53; the remainder being bought in, Boluzan at £55; good fair, £58; very inferior and mixed with Cadiz, £43 to £44; privately 300 bales Manila have been sold, brown at £44, fair at £50, Sorsagon at £53 10s.; also for future delivery 2,000 bales January to March at £50, April to June at £48 for fair current.

JAPAN WAX.—At the last sales, out of 324 boxes saucers offered 308 boxes were sold—good bold at 72s. to 72s. 6d., fair to good fair at 67s. 6d. to 70s., stained at 61s. 6d. to 67s., dirty at 60s. to 66s. per cwt.

MUSK.—There has been an active demand, and 36 caddies have been sold at an advance in price of 5s. to 9s. per oz.; good genuine plump pods, slightly damp and a little mixed, realising 35s. 6d. to 36s. 6d.; fair, 34s. to 35s.; pile 2, of good shape, but very damp and many false packed, 25s. to 26s. 6d., but falling to 19s. to 21s.; pickings, 15s. to 24s. 6d.; trimmings, 6d.; mixed grain, 45s. 6d.; good ditto, but roughly got up, 55s.; 1 caddy Yunnan has been retired at 35s., and 5 caddies Cabardine, small and skinny, at 14s.

PEPPER.—Black: Although a further advance of nearly ½d. per lb. has been established for Penang the demand is not active; privately about 1,300 bags Penang have been sold on the spot at 5 13-16d. to 6d., and for arrival 8,500 bags chiefly, near at hand, at 5½d. to 5 15-16d.; at auction only 736 bags Penang have been offered, at which 350 bags sold at a further advance, West Coast at 6d., damaged at 5½d. to 5½d. White: The inquiry has been limited, and no sales have been effected.

RICE.—An active demand has prevailed throughout the week for all kinds, both for export and home use, and large sales have been effected at rising prices; an advance in prices of nearly 6d. per cwt. has been established; 6,877 bags Rangoon from the Cape sold, sound at 10s., inferior at 8s. to 9s., chiefly damaged at 8s. 3d. to 9s. 6d. The private transactions on the spot comprise 1,400 bags Ballam at 9s., ex-quay; about 50,000 bags Rangoon ordinary to fine 9s. 9d. to 10s. 10½d., and 15,000 bags Necranie at 10s. 6d. to 10s. 9d.

RHUBARB.—There has been little change in the market for China since we last reported upon this import; at public sale about 150 cases have been sold at the following prices—common and slightly wormy, 6d. to 8d. for flat, 9d. to 10½d. for round; pale horny coated, and mixed wormy break, 1s.; ditto, sounder and of better break, 1s. 9d. to 1s. 10d.; fair but small, 2s. 3d. to 2s. 5d.; good, slightly mixed, and of pale pinky fracture, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 8d.; even and brighter, 2s. 9d. to 3s.; and fine, 3s. 5d. to 3s. 6d.

SPICES.—Cassia: At the last sale 22 cases bold coarse broken quill and pieces, but of excellent Ligna flavour, ex Ellenborough, from Hong Kong, were retired at 110s.; 69 cases good curly Japan, of fair flavour, ex Danube, were also retired at 45s. Buds: The important quantity of 178 cases was offered, but the highest bid being £9, were all retired—fine bold genuine undrawn at £9 10s., ordinary and very stalky at £8. Since the sale a few cases ex Diomed have been placed at £9, CB in diamond mark, very good quality. Nutmegs: Are 1d. to 2d. lower. Of 20 cases offered only 6 cases sold—70 to 71 to the lb. at 3s. to 3s. 1d. per lb.; 68 retired at 3s. 8d.; 81 to the lb. retired at 2s. 7d. Privately a string of 70 to the lb. are reported sold at 3s. per lb.

SAGO.—Only 201 bags good small have been offered by auction; these sold rather dearer at 17s. 9d. Flour: In auction 2,109 bags Borneo, of fresh import, were bought in at 17s., except a few lots which sold at 16s. 6d.

TAPIOCA.—The late speculative demand has induced holders to raise their pretensions, and the import is generally held for advanced rates; at public sale of 2,160 bags Penang (chiefly of old import) offered, only 690 bags sold, fair but greyish at 2½d. per lb.; the remainder, fair to good white, being held for 2½d. Of Singapore, 1,049 bags offered, and about 770 sold at steady rates: fair mixed quality at 2d. per lb.; but in a subsequent sale, 445 bags ordinary to common lump realised the same figure; good Rio kind was held for 2½d.; fine for 2½d. Flour: 202 bags good retired at 2½d. Pearl Tapioca: Of 118 boxes and 203 bags offered, only 40 bags sold at 20s. for fine white medium grain, the remainder being held for higher prices, and retired, yellowish medium and extra large for 20s., and fair small in boxes for 21s.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

Messrs. Beebe's Circular, dated 20th ult., is as follows:—Since the opening of the new year our market has been active and the transactions large, with an improvement in prices of most descriptions of goods on the spot. We estimate the sales by importers thus far during the present month at 39,000 half-chests Green, 30,000 half-chests Japan, 37,000 half-chests Oolong, and 2,000 half-chests Souchong and Congou; of these about 14,000 half-chests Green and 10,000 half-chests Oolong are old crop. Our revised quotations indicate closing duty-paid values, as nearly as they can be fixed at the moment in the somewhat unsettled state of the market. Reference to these will show that old crop Greens of the better sorts, as well as new crop generally, have improved, more or less, over the closing prices of 1870. The non-arrival of the cargoes per Riga and Mikado until the 15th has been the chief agency in securing this improvement. These having been largely sold to arrive, and (that per Riga especially) resold by the jobbers for prompt delivery after the 1st inst., made it necessary in many cases to substitute other goods, and the competition for such as were available enabled holders of the little good old remaining in stock, and the few new arriving by Pacific Mail route, to secure the advance. The large clearances from bond since the 3rd inst. indicate an extensive business for future delivery by the trade toward the close of the year just ended, and satisfactorily account for the apparent reduction in the consumptive demand. Opening prices for new crop Oolong show a marked advance over the rates ruling for similar grades of old, and thus far those received from Amoy, we are happy to say, leave a fair profit to the importer. Our figures for Foochow goods are mainly nominal, the receipts to date consisting almost wholly of common to fair cargo.

The following are the current quotations (in gold, duty paid):—Greens (Meyune, Twanki, and Fyehow): Gunpowder, common to good, 50c. to 85c.; fine to finest, 75c. to 118c.; Imperial, common to good, 40c. to 80c.; fine to finest, 48c. to 100c.; Young Hyson, common to good, 38c. to 75c.; fine to finest, 42c. to 110c.; Hyson, common to good, 37c. to 65c.; fine to finest, 46c. to 85c.; Hyson Skin, 27c. to 40c.; Foochow, Oologs (new crop), common and good, 47c. to 54c.; superior and fine, 57c. to 75c.; finest, 80c. to 95c.; Amoy Oologs (new crop), common and good, 46c. to 53c.; superior and fine, 56c. to 63c.; finest, 65c. to 70c.; Souchong and Congou (new crop), common and good, 31c. to 42c.; superior and fine, 47c. to 58c.; finest, 65c. to 80c.; Japans (new crop), common, 48c. to 55c.; medium, 58c. to 62c.; good medium, 65c. to 68c.; fine and finest, 70c. to 78c.; choice, 80c. to 85c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Jan. 18, 1871, were as follows:—Greens, 2,270,192 lbs.; Japans, 1,538,915 lbs.; Souchongs, 366,521 lbs.; Oologs, 1,954,949 lbs.; other sorts, 3,200 lbs.; total, 6,133,777 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 16,748,661 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 22,882,438 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Jan. 18, 223,845 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 6,462,425 lbs., there remains a total of 16,196,168 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Jan. 1 to Jan. 18 amounted to 6,133,777 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 6,462,425 lbs.; and the exports to 223,845 lbs.

SILK.

The following is from Mr. O'Donoghue's Report:—Although there is a fairly active demand, confined to the finer grades of silk, the market does not evince much strength, and prices are ruling considerably lower than those quoted a month ago. Usual Reel Taysam and Tsatlee are in fair supply, and with little inquiry. Re-reeled Haineen and Tsatlee meet a ready sale at about quotations. Re-reeled Canton, particularly of good fair quality, is in steady demand for twist and sewing; very little used for fringes. Japans, no business.

Prices current for China and Japan Silks (currency six months terms):—Tsatlee, No. 2, $9; No. 3, $8.75; Nos. 4 and 5, $8.25. Taysam, No. 1, $8; Nos. 2 and 3, $7.25 to 7.50; Nos. 4 and 5, $6.75. Canton, re-reeled, good, $6.75 to 6.7-8; fair, $6.25; coarse, $5.75. Tsatlee, re-reeled, good, $9; fair and medium, $8.50 to 8.75. Haineen, best, $9; fair, $8.75. Canton, re-reeled, extra fine, $7. Mahang, $5.50 to 5.75. Japans: Maibash, Koshio, and Atchezan, nominal; no demand. Sodai, fair to medium, $8.75 nominal.

COFFEE.—The current quotations for East India kinds are, Java Government bags, 19c. to 21c.; Java mats, 18c. to 20c.; Singapore, 16c. to 17c.; Manila, 14c. to 15c.; Native Ceylon, 15c. to 17c. The market for Brazil is quiet but steady. The business in East India has been in Java exclusively, the market for which is firm and active, prices as quoted above showing some advance on the rates previously current; the sales reported are 17,593 mats superior, ex-Sanderson, on private terms, and 6,000 mats ex-Cyclone at the current rates.

CORDAGE.—The market has continued dull, and prices generally have been materially reduced. We quote Manila Cordage, 17c.; do., 6-thread and 9 thread (3/4 and 5-16 in. diameter), 18c.; do. 12-thread (3/4 in. diameter), 18c.; do. Hay Rope, 18c.; Manila Cordage, Bolt Rope Yarns, 19c.; do., 6-thread and 9-thread, 20c.; Tarred Manila, 17c.; fine Tarred Manila Lath Yarn, 18c.

CAMPOR.—China is quoted 17c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.20; Cassia, $1.25 gold (in bond).

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 3 60-100c. to 3 65-100c. gold (duty paid).

HEMP.—The auctions of Manila at Boston, referred to in our last included 3,800 bales, ex Mutlah, at 10c. to 10 1/2c., 1,500 bales, ex Bunker Hill, at 9 1/2c. (both gold), and 500 bales, ex Peruvian, on private terms. The New York market continues dull; the only sale had been 435 bales, ex Bunker Hill, at 9 1/2c. gold; the arrivals are reported of 3,500 bales, per Glenallan, and 3,040 bales per John Banfield.

INDIGO.—There is but a limited business doing in Manila, holders as a rule requiring higher prices than buyers are disposed to pay; the sales have been about 30 cases at $1.10 to $1.25 currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $7.50 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is $1.18 to $2 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—The supply of native produce having been less abundant, more attention has been directed to Rangoon; sales to a fair extent in lots for home consumption have been effected at $7 to 7.12 1/2 currency, and for export about 850 bags have found buyers at $3.12 1/2 to 3.31 1/2, gold in bond, showing a slight advance.

SUGAR.—A steady demand is shown for all descriptions, and the sales have included 1,406 baskets Java, at 19 1/2c.

SPICES.—The market for invoices is quiet, there being but few parcels in first hands, either on the spot or to arrive, and those are held at prices above buyers' views; 2,500 bags Pimento sold to arrive at 3 1/2c. gold, in bond, and 258 bags Singapore Pepper in Boston on private terms. The trade demand continues very active, and prices of most descriptions are firm, Cassia, perhaps, being the only exception, this having been reduced a little. The sales in lots are 250 cases Nutmegs at 75c. for English, up to 85c. for prime Penang, mostly at 82c.; 150 do. Mace, $1.15; 12,000 mats Cassia, 36c. to 37c.; 250 cases, 36 1/2c.; 100 bales prime wild Cinnamon, 35c.; 2,000 bags Pepper, 16c. for Sumatra and 16 1/2c. for Singapore; White Pepper, 22c.; 1,100 bales Cloves, 12 1/2c., and 7 1/2c. in bond—all gold.

TIN.—Continued favourable reports with regard to the London and Singapore markets have caused an increase in the activity recently noticed, and a further advance in prices; the sales comprise 2,700 slabs Straits on the spot, commencing at 33 1/2c. and rising to 34 1/2c.; 5,100 slabs to arrive at 33c. to 33 1/2c.; and 200 slabs Banca commencing at 38c. and rising to 40c., all gold. The higher prices given may be considered as the closing quotations, with a rising tendency.

FREIGHTS FROM CHINA TO CHICAGO, NEW YORK, AND ENGLAND. SAN FRANCISCO, JAN. 25.—The Thoroughfare (railroad ferry steamer), it is expected, will be able to commence her trips across the bay by the time the next steamer arrives from China. Cargo can then be re-shipped at the rate of from 1,000 to 1,500 tons a day, and the freight time from Japan to Chicago will be reduced to thirty-four or thirty-six days, to New York to thirty-seven or forty days, and to England to fifty days.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET REPORT.

COFFEE.—This staple is now entered for consumption at a duty of 3c. per lb., a reduction of 2c., but the market price of old Government Java is continued at 24 1/2c. The entire stock of all kinds on the market is concentrated in the hands of two importing houses. We, however, observe that supplies to a limited extent are en route for New York overland.

CORDAGE.—The San Francisco Cordage Company announce their wholesale invoice price of Manila Rope thus:—2-inch and upwards, 19c.; under 2-inch, 19c.; Manila Hay Rope, 3 and 4 strand, 19c. per lb., with discount to the trade of 1/2c. per lb., and for lots of 10,000 lbs. 1 1/2c. do. This is a decline of 1c. per lb. on former price. The stock of Manila-laid, as well as that of the New Bedford Company, is light.

RICE.—There is no change in the duties under the present revision of the tariff. The stock of all kinds is running very low, and is beginning to attract supplies from New York overland, but not in quantities to affect the value of China, which in reality is about the only kind that the Chinese—the chief consumers—will buy, and which is quoted at 10c. to 11c.

SPICES.—The market is supplied with Pepper and Pimento from the East by rail, and via Panama. Prices are unsettled, Nutmegs, 90c.; all others, say, Citron at 45c. to 50c. per lb.; Cassia, 40c.; Cloves, 22 1/2c.; Pepper, 23c.

TEA.—The duty is now 15c. per lb. on all descriptions, and this reduction of 10c. is now pretty generally deducted from the selling rate. Sales of Japans have been more free than for some time past, aggregating 2,000 packages, within the range of 60c. to 75c., including several invoices in bond, private.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

INDIGESTION AND LIVER COMPLAINTS.—Lovers of society and all addicted to the enjoyment of the table would do well to remember that the digestion cannot be long seriously disordered without the derangement being perceptible on the countenance. These Pills prevent all unpleasant consequences, they improve the appetite, and, with the increased desire for food, they augment the powers of digestion and assimilation in the stomach. Holloway's Pills deal most satisfactorily with deranged or diseased conditions of the many organs engaged in extracting nourishment for our bodies from our various diets. The liver, stomach, bowels, and kidneys, with many minor parts subserving the same end, readily bow to this treatment.

REPORT of the COMMITTEE to the FIFTH ORDINARY MEETING of SHAREHOLDERS, held at the Office of the GENERAL AGENTS, at HONG KONG, on December 21st, 1870.

The Committee have now the pleasure of waiting upon the Shareholders with a Report of the working of the Company during the past twelve months.

The amount of Premia collected in Hong Hong and China, between the 1st of November, 1869, and the 31st of October, 1870, and the amount collected at the Foreign Agencies within that period, of which the General Agents have received advice, after deducting all sums paid as bonus and commissions, and adding interest and gain in exchange, amounts to $312,761.84. The annexed accounts have been audited by Mr. M. P. Jukes and Mr. E. J. Sage. In accordance with the Articles of Association, the meeting will have to elect Auditors for the coming year; both of these gentlemen offer themselves for re-election.

It will be seen from these Accounts, that after carrying forward to the next year's accounts $30,620 for Premia received in respect of risks taken before October 31st, but not yet terminated, and after carrying forward $71,753.83 to Suspense Account to meet unsettled claims put forward, there remains a balance to the credit of Profit and Loss Account in respect of transactions already closed of $190,000, and the Committee recommend that this sum be declared available for distribution as profits of the Company for the year.

The apportionment of this sum, if so appropriated, will, under the 132nd clause of the Articles of Association, be as follows:—The sum of $47,500 to be carried to the Reserve Fund and invested by the Committee, the sum of $47,500 to be divided pro rata among contributing Shareholders, and the sum of $95,000, or $475 per share, be paid to Shareholders as general dividend.

In accordance with the 86th clause of the Articles of Association, two members of the present Committee (Mr. Hitchcock and Mr. Kaye) retire from office at this meeting, but being eligible, offer themselves for re-election.

Hong Kong, December 21st, 1870.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

Dates via San Francisco extend to the 24th Dec. The London mail of Oct. 28 arrived out on the 17th Dec.

The following items are from the Japan Mail:—

Orders have been given to prosecute the works for the railway between Kobe and Osaka with the greatest activity. It has been decided by Mr. Morel to pass under three of the rivers whose beds are raised considerably above the level of the plain. Three other large rivers in the neighbourhood of Osaka will be spanned with iron bridges of considerable length, the largest being close upon 300 yards; with these exceptions the works will be of a light character. A large reinforcement to the existing railway staff will be despatched hence in the course of a few days. It has been decided to erect the station on one of the large islands of the main river, and in the very centre of the city. The Government are awake to the immense importance of tapping the rich district lying to the northward and westward of the Biwa lake. To effect this it is proposed immediately to continue the railway from Osaka to a point near Kioto on the southern shore of the lake. Reference to any map will show the extent of country which would thus be thrown into communication with a shipping port. The lake is navigable by small steamers throughout its whole great length from north to south.

It is not easy to conceive anything worse than the aspect of commercial matters in Yokohama at this moment. Business is utterly at a standstill; nay more, it is paralysed, and in a very serious state of collapse. The sales and deliveries of imports are on the most limited possible scale, the purchases of exports have dwindled to nothing, there is no money to be had except at ruinous rates, and nothing is to be heard among merchants but lamentations at such an untoward condition of affairs.

It is reported that members of the different commercial companies or guilds in Yedo will proceed by the out-going American steamer via San Francisco to Europe, with the object of making themselves acquainted with our systems of manufactures, agriculture, &c.

The men-of-war in harbour at Yokohama at present are:—British: Rinaldo and Ringdove; French: Dupleix, Venus, Lincol and Alma; American: Benicia and Idaho; North German: Hertha and Medusa; Russian: Alma.

The railway bridge across the Tokaido at Kanagawa is now open to the public for traffic.

The Castle town of the Ti-ka-mon-no Kami family is Hikone, in the province of Omi. There has lately been another instance of the Ikki, or popular tumult, to one of which we called attention not long ago. The peasants of about 250 villages in the Hikone territory on the 20th day of the 9th month made a disturbance, advanced against the front gate of the Castle, and fired three shots against it. The cause of this was that the Finance official, Sawada Sohichi, originally a merchant named Komeya Sohichi (evidently a grain-dealer), was a great financier, and foreseeing the course of events, had on the previous month bought up nearly all the rice in the clan and at Osaka; that a great storm on the 18th had raised the price of rice enormously, and that he had made a profit of 70,000 rios by selling his stores. It is further stated that the populace had been excited by a story of his using supernatural means to bring about this storm, and that this, added to his bad reputation with the people, had caused the disturbance; that they had demolished his town residence, country house, and residence of his relations, and had destroyed all his furniture; that Sohichi fled to the Castle, and in pursuing him they had fired at the gate. A number of two-sworded retainers appear to have taken part in the tumult, which at one time threatened to be serious, but by the use of military force it was at length put down. The affair was over in forty-eight hours.

LETTER FROM MR. LAY.

London, October 20, 1870.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "JAPAN WEEKLY MAIL."

SIR,—I have to request the favour of your inserting this letter in a conspicuous part of your Journal, and, if possible, in well-leaded type. This I request in order that it may attract the attention of those interested in its contents.

My connection with the Japanese Government has, I find, given rise to considerable comment. It appears to have been the business of certain parties to impugn my conduct in relation to the Japanese Loan and Railway. It is matter of regret that scandal has met with a favourable reception in various quarters, inasmuch as it has complicated and rendered the discharge of my duty to the Japanese Government and the English shareholders more difficult. A negotiation is at the present moment in process which precludes my expressing myself as fully as I otherwise should upon the matter. I therefore beg to request all interested, either in the matters referred to or in my reputation, to suspend their judgment till the facts from the beginning to the end are laid before them, and in the meantime to accept my assurance that I have in my possession sufficient documentary evidence to justify every step I have taken. This documentary evidence has already been submitted to those competent to determine its value, and is held by them to be a complete refutation of the slanderous reports that have been circulated.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

H. N. LAY.

HIOGO.

VISIT OF SIR HARRY PARKES TO KISHIU.

The Hiogo News thus reports the visit of Sir Harry Parkes:—His Excellency Sir Harry Parkes, accompanied by Lady Parkes, Mr. Gower, H. M. M.'s Consul for Hiogo and Osaka, Capt. St. John, R.N., and Mr. Aston, arrived at Wakanura in H.B.M.'s Sylvia, at daylight on the morning of 22nd November, on a visit to the Prince of Kishiu. A large temple had been prepared for their reception, and furnished throughout in European style; the rooms and extensive corridors were lined with handsome screens, and the floors covered with blankets and rich carpets, while the verandahs were hung with heavy purple crape curtains, on which were the Prince's crest. The grounds, which are very extensive and hilly, are beautifully laid out, and the shrubs, even to the summit of the hill, exquisitely trained and trimmed. The party landed at nine A.M., and were received by some high officials and a guard of honour, and conducted to their residence. Soon after Sir Harry Parkes, Mr. Gower, and suite proceeded on horses to Wakayama (about two and a-half miles distant), escorted by a detachment of Lancers, and visited His Highness the Prince, who received his visitors in the State Reception Room of the Castle. Shortly after two o'clock the Prince returned the visit, and paid his respects to Lady Parkes. The slight nervousness which his Highness exhibited in the morning had now completely disappeared, and he was at once on the most friendly terms with all present. Having taken leave of Lady Parkes, he proceeded on board the Sylvia, accompanied by Sir Harry Parkes, Captain St. John, Mr. Gower, and officers, in the steam launch, and was shown over the vessel. At the request of his Highness, a shot was fired, the progress of which he watched with considerable interest. In the evening Sir Harry and Lady Parkes, accompanied by Mr. Gower, Captain St. John, Lieutenant Holland, and Messrs. Aston and Sanders, went to the Castle to dinner, escorted by the Lancers and a numerous crowd of coolies with lanterns. In the absence of her Highness (who was indisposed) a relative of the Princess received Lady Parkes, and bore herself throughout the evening with such ladylike ease and grace as to excite the admiration of all present. The dinner was a very sumptuous one; very long, very well served, and might have been very tedious, if not for the indefatigable exertions of Messrs. Gower and Aston, who contrived to keep up a most animated conversation. With coffee, some Japanese music was introduced, such as is seldom heard, and of so sweet and melodious a nature as at once to arrest the attention of all the guests, and to cause regret at its cessation. At eleven o'clock the company broke up, his Highness and his visitors equally delighted with the pleasant evening that had been passed.

The next day Sir Harry and Lady Parkes and party rode out to a temple called Nugero, about fifteen miles distant, and greatly admired the surrounding grounds and scenery. After having partaken of tiffin, which had been sent out, the party returned to Wakanura, and passed the evening quietly. It was noticeable that throughout the route taken by his Excellency and party—alike in streets, high roads and fields—the people were all on their knees while the somewhat lengthy cavalcade passed. The streets and roads were nicely swept and watered, and at the ferry a large and comfortably fitted-up boat was in waiting at a jetty made expressly for the occasion. Bettos and barges were in waiting for the horses, and carpets laid down for dismounting. On returning through Wakayama, the streets were illuminated, and coolies with lanterns stationed along the road. Mr. Gower and Captain St. John availed themselves of an invitation to shoot over the Prince's preserves, and brought back over forty head of game.

On Thursday morning the lady who represented the Princess paid a visit to Lady Parkes, who presented her with several elegant souvenirs. Sir Harry meanwhile went to take leave of the Prince. During the morning some very successful groups and views of the grounds were taken by Lieut. Holland. At two o'clock Sir Harry and Lady Parkes and Mr. Aston took their departure in the Sylvia, evidently highly gratified with their visit to Koshu.

It was intended that a review of the troops should have been held, but owing to so many being absent in different parts of the province it could not take place. Some of the companies were seen exercising, and the precision and steadiness with which they went through their drill were universally pronounced to compare most favourably with European troops, and reflect great credit on their instructor, a gentleman formerly holding a commission in the Prussian army.

Mr. Gower did not return with his Excellency, but remained for a few days, and enjoyed some shooting and excursions in the neighbourhood. He also paid a visit to H.E. Tzuda, Daisanji, and other officials, and on leaving was escorted to Osaka by an officer appointed by H.E. All the visitors took away with them a most favourable impression of the country and the people; of the good order and discipline that were everywhere observed; of the sincere desire of all classes to acquire a knowledge of European arts, and of the aptitude evinced by them in learning.

OPENING OF THE MINT.

We, Hiogo News, have great pleasure in being able to inform our readers that it is the intention of the Government to open the Imperial Mint, for the purpose of issuing the new currency, on the Japanese New-year's-day (February 19th, 1871). The copper coinage is now being struck off, and, in the course of about a week, it is hoped that the minting of the new dollar will be commenced. The time between this and the day of issue is but short, but with so energetic a man as Captain Kinder, the Master of the Imperial Mint, there is a good reason to hope that when the anxiously looked for day arrives, there will be a sufficient supply of each of the new coins to meet all demands.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

The following items are from the Siam Weekly Advertiser:—The son of H.E. the late Governor of Paknam, E. P. Nainatre, officially known as Luang Sri Siama Kich, and recently Vice-Consul for Siam at Singapore, has been honoured with the position and title of his father, and will hereafter be known as H.E. P'raya Samut'a Buranuraks, Governor of Paknam. It is hoped that the appointment of this promising scion of young Siam to that important post will be of material advantage to the mercantile interests of the nation. In communicating with foreigners who speak the English language the new Governor requires no interpreter, being a good English scholar.

General F. W. Partridge, United States Consul, has had a private audience with his Majesty the Second King of Siam. The General took with him on this occasion William L. Hutchinson, M.D., an American physician, who has recently established himself in this city.

The schooner Janet Maclean has been sold by the builders, Messrs. D. Maclean and Co., to Chesua Poh Hee for $13,500; and has been rechristened The Starlight.

The Italian Corvette Principessa Clotilda, C. A. Rauhai commander, arrived at the anchorage on the 21st Dec., on a diplomatic mission to the Siamese Government.

An examination of candidates for the Pilot Service has resulted in the appointment of Messrs. D. Wefer, W. G. Higgin, and J. Thompson.

The weather has been delightfully cool. The breezes have been moderate from the north and north-east. The dew deposit has been considerable. There has been a very perceptible diminution of the amount of water in the river. There has been an upward current in the main stream during the flood tide. The ships at anchor in mid-stream have regularly turned with the changing current in the channel of the river.

BORNEO.

SARAWAK.

The following items are from the Sarawak Gazette:—

The latest reports from the Batang Lupar and Rejang districts bring the news that the Dyaks are quiet, and that peace prevails throughout. The tribe on the Upper Katibas are moving down to the neighbourhood of Sibü, where it is the wish of the Government that they should settle permanently.

The small branch tribe in Bangkit are haggling about the payment of a fine imposed by Government. Unless pardoned, they will have to pay, as they are too weak to think seriously of resistance. The banks of the Rejang are planted with paddy between Kanowit and Katibas for a distance of thirty miles, and the young plants seem to promise well for the ensuing harvest. A large supply of rice from this fertile district will be acceptable here, as being likely to lower the prices we have to pay for all articles of food.

In the early part of the month the Resident, accompanied by Mr. J. A. St. John, proceeded to Sadong in the Heartsease, for the purpose of examining several seams of coal which have lately been reported to exist by the natives, and to make further enquiries relative to the head hunting raids of the Engkias Dyaks on the Milikin tribe living on the Sarawak Territory. One seam of coal was found cropping out of the Tingah hill, about half a mile from the Ensingei river, and others on the banks of the Sabangan, while up the Simunjan there appears to be a large quantity.

When the Simunjan Dyaks were asked why they did not report these seams in former days when the Borneo Company worked the mines at Ngili, they replied that in those days their superstitions led them to believe that some terrible calamity would happen to the tribe if the coal was disturbed in the jungle, but that now, having proof that nothing was likely to occur, they were only too glad to make the coal seams known, and were willing to work themselves. As these Dyaks (who number about 100 working men) live close by, they will all be available as labourers or coal cutters, except at farming time.

Mr. J. A. St. John was still at Sadong with a party of men turning out some coal for trial.

It is expected that the Government will shortly sell the steamer Royalist, in order to allow free competition between the merchants who are now in possession of steamers and are unable to run their vessels with any prospect of success so long as the Government keeps a vessel on the line. Until now the Government trading steamer has been of great service to the country by giving coolies free passages, carrying mails, &c., from Singapore, but the principle being wrong that any Government should be trammelled and mixed up with mercantile pursuits, and also against rules of free trade, perhaps the sooner such pursuits are allowed to pass into legitimate channels the better will it be for the future prosperity of the country. The question is, whether merchants will keep open the communication to Singapore regularly on liberal principles to the Chinese traders.

A class of Chinese adults attend every evening at the Mission School-house for instruction in English; Mr. Cooper, the master of the Mission School, superintends. The average number present is ten.

JAVA.

The Java Bode of December 17 publishes the following as the result of a Government coffee sale held at Batavia on that date:—

10,000 piculs Preanger averaged	...	f.33.46 4/5
10,000 " Samarang "	...	32.46
5,000 " Kadu "	...	32.86 3/5

25,009 piculs, average price "... f.32 94 11/25

According to an official announcement made by the chief of the Marine Department in Netherlands India, the commander of the Netherlands India bague Ellen Bangka has reported that his ship, on the 12th November last, twice struck in the Gulf of Siam on a hitherto unknown rock, on which there were only eleven feet of water. The ship was then due north of the Kusrovie rocks, which could be seen from the deck, and at a distance of from five to six English miles from the same. The danger is placed on the chart of the Gulf of Siam, by Richards, Inship and Reed, in 11° N. Lat. and 102 deg. 47' E. Lon. from Greenwich.

According to later news from Banjermassing, Wankang and his allies can muster 1,600 followers. On the 8th December the garrison of Banjermassing stood under arms during the whole night, in expectation of another attack from him; he did not, however, make his appearance, probably because he had become aware of the warm reception from the troops which was awaiting him. It is said that Marabahan, where part of the enemy is posted, will be summoned to give up its headman, a brother-in-law of Wankang, and be burnt to the ground in case of refusal.

From statements made by a correspondent writing to the Sumatra Courant of the 7th December, it would appear that the slave trade to Acheen, which had ceased for about two years, is now beginning anew. On the west coast of Nias children are kidnapped and exported to Acheen; the parents who make any opposition to the kidnappers are murdered. Along a large portion of the N.W. coast of Nias no one dares to come to the sea shores to fish, or go to the ladangs for the purpose of tilling them. The said correspondent naturally urges that energetic measures against the slave dealers be taken by the naval authorities at Padang.

The Padang correspondent of the New Batavia Handelsblad of the 14th December gives the following account of the effect produced on the Europeans and natives at that place by the news that the Government intended, from probably 1871, to sell Sumatra coffee at Batavia instead of there. The news spread like wildfire amongst the European community, the Chinese soon heard of it, till it at last came to the ears of the Malays. As the opinions of all were expressed freely and boldly, and no one defended the course taken by Government, the comments made on the latter were very bitter, especially by the Europeans. The Chinese have also their say, and unceasingly make comparisons with the state of things at Singapore and Penang; the Malays make use of terms handed down from father to son, which I confess with regret are anything but flattering to us Netherlanders.

If there were good reasons to believe that the coffee would fetch higher prices at Batavia, the transfer of the sales, though disagreeable to the Padangers, would be somewhat justifiable; this is, however, not the case; all orders are entrusted to a few persons here and competition has been so great of late years that prices were driven up to a height far above the real value of the coffee, so that the bids made always caused astonishment at Batavia. Moreover, buyers here can judge better of the quality of the coffee sold than can be done at Batavia; for in the last fortnight before a sale the quality of the coffee has often been altered by the arrival of better sorts.

No one can take it amiss of the people here, Europeans as well as Chinese and Malays, that they feel embittered at the news of the stopping of the sales; Padang, which is now in a declining condition, is threatened with utter ruin. Property will fall more in value, and the prosperity of the coast will suffer from it. We again hear, until we are quite sick of it, reasonings tending to show what the country would become under a better ruling system. It would excel even Java in productiveness in a few years. In less than three years the production of coffee would be twice what it is now (for the coffee trees are there; they are, however, not kept clean, and the coffee is not plucked) if the population could dispose freely of the produce and bring it to Padang, as had been promised to them by the Government years ago. That promise has not been kept; otherwise we would be better off now, and would not have to lament the transfer of the sale of a pitiful quantity of coffee, amounting to 150,000 piculs a-year; we would be prosperous, instead of being stared in the face by poverty and decline.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to January 11. The London mail of December 2 arrived January 6.

There is little news of interest. A meeting of the Church Council and of the St. Andrew's Mission had been held under the presidency of the Bishop of Labuan and Sarawak. At the latter meeting it was resolved to raise £200 per annum, £100 of which shall be devoted to the part payment of a missionary's stipend.

The criminal session was a heavy one, there being several cases of considerable length, though not of much public interest. We regret to see several Europeans committed for trial for serious offences.

There was a rumour that a German ship had been burnt in the neighbourhood of Rhio Straits, by a French war vessel, but it was generally discredited.

The New-year's-day sports took place with their usual success. The regatta consisted of sailing and pulling races for sampans, and was contested by a large number of boats. The close of the sailing-race presented a most exhilarating scene. The boats were caught in a squall, just strong enough to enable them to bear up under their canvas, and they came bowling in all in a cluster, at a spanking rate, plunging the water before them into a perfect sea of foam. The sports on shore afforded amusement to a crowd numbering at least 5,000 to 6,000, and throughout the afternoon the roadway around the Esplanade was so crowded with carriages that the police found their ingenuity and patience taxed to the utmost to keep them in order. The weather was, on the whole, very favourable.

Our contemporary the Singapore Daily Times appears to have had some misunderstanding with Mr. Reuter, by reason of which it has suspended, at least for a time, the publication of Reuter's Telegrams.

The new Government steamer Pluto has arrived from Swansea. She will, we hear, be commanded by Captain Bradbery, at present in command of the Government steamer Rainbow; and Captain Fox, of the Peiho, if not given another post, will probably retire on a gratuity of twelve months salary.

The following amusing skit on the new steamer Pluto appears in the Straits Times:—

The accommodation intended for his Excellency the Governor is distinguished by an air of severe simplicity, so much so that it might be said that there is a want of air of any sort, save and except the foul air from the engine-room and stoke-hole, slightly impregnated with bilge water. The exigencies of the climate have evidently formed the subject of deep consideration, as the smoke from the funnel is allowed to percolate and circulate through his Excellency's state room, thereby effectually clearing it of mosquitoes, cockroaches, and other tropical vermin.

The passage to this stateroom exhibits proofs of the master mind which presided over the draught of the accommodation. It leads directly through the galley. With a careful cook fire may, possibly, be avoided, but we are strongly of opinion that it is more than probable the pots and pans will leave unwelcome marks upon his Excellency's vest and pants. Behind the funnel there is a patent condenser, calculated to produce 200 gallons of warm water a day, but as his Excellency has generally on hand a sufficiency of hot water on his own account, this fitting may be considered as a superfluous commodity, and we recommend it to be sold.

The Ocean Company's steamer Achilles, Captain Russell, from Hong Kong, Jan. 2, arrived here en route to London via Suez Canal.

H.M.S. Algerine, Lieutenant Grey commanding, arrived here from Malacca. We understand the prisoners she captured, concerned in the piracy of the schooner Sree Singapura, will be tried at Malacca.

PENANG.

The following is from the Penang Gazette :—

The Municipal Commissioners met on December 14, when the accounts, amounting to $5,215.96 were passed, and a proposal to remove the reservoir in Pitt-street and apply the materials to raise and extend the jetty was unanimously carried.

The report of the Select Committee to inquire into the state of education in the colony has been published. The committee recommend a large extension of vernacular schools, by which are meant, not schools such as are now established, where Malay children are taught a few verses of the Koran, but schools where children will be educated in their mother tongue, and where they will learn the rudiments of sound knowledge, and to read and write in the native and Roman characters. The committee is of opinion that a boy, whether he be Chinese or Malay, can make no real progress in education until well grounded in his own language.

It was reported that a native schooner, trading in cattle between this port and Singapore, had been attacked when off Kalang by a boat with Malays in it. The Malays are said to have robbed the schooner of about $1,000 in silver and notes, which was being brought here for the purpose of purchasing cattle. The schooner hailed the Colonial steamer Rainbow, which passed shortly after the event, and reported the matter. It was believed that the schooner returned to Singapore, as she had not arrived at this port.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—There had been a fair demand for Grey Shirtings, which had resulted in considerable transactions; but prices had, notwithstanding, showed throughout a downward tendency. Cotton Yarn had been almost entirely neglected, and had declined in value. All other descriptions of Cotton Goods were extremely dull, with the exception of Black Velvets and Turkey Red Shirtings, for which some inquiry had been manifested. There had been no improvement in the market for Woollen and Worsted Goods, which continued in a most unsatisfactory condition. The following was the current range of quotations :—G. E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.25 to 2.27½ per piece; ditto 8½ to 8½ lbs., $2.75 to 2.80; ditto 9 to 9½ lbs., $3.30 to 3.35; G. E. HIOGO AND OSAKA.—There had been no improvement in the market for Piece Goods, and many descriptions showed a decline in prices. Grey Shirtings: Sales of about 15,000 pieces had been made at quotations, but the market closed without animation. Cotton Yarn: Nos. 28-23 alone enquired for, at about the equivalent of last quotations, while other counts were quite nominal. Turkey Reds and Velvets again lower. Taffachelass had attracted some attention, and desirable patterns had been sold at improved rates. Camlets, and Plain and Figured Orleans were taken only in small quantities. Plain Mousselines de Laine were saleable, and Figured, of good pattern, commanded an advance upon last quotations. Cloth of heavy description, and particularly in Grey, met with enquiry to a moderate extent. Blankets were less readily saleable at a decline in price. The current quotations (in dollars at 101 rios to $100) were as follows :—Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $110.89 per bale; 28 to 32, $124.73; 38 to 42, $128.71. GE Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., 38½ yds. 39 in., $2.32 per piece; 8½ to 8½ lbs., $2.78 to 2.84; 9 lbs., 44 in. $3.03. GE White Shirtings, 56 to 60 reed, 40 yds. 36 in., $2.72; 64 to 72 reed, $9.07. T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $1.60. Drills, Dutch, 40 yds., $3.46 to 3.58. Handkerchiefs, Assorted, $0.55 to 0.74 per doz. Brocades and Spots, White, $2.72 to 2.97 per piece; Dyed, $2.97 to 3.46. Taffachelass, Double Warp, 12 yds. 43 in., $2.72 to 3.07; Taffachelass, Single do., $2.12. Cloth, Black, 56 in., $1.11 to 1.60. Union, $0.49 to 0.86. Blankets, $0.32 to 0.36 per lb. Iron, Bars, $2.72 per picul; Nail Rod, $2.97; Hoop, $2.72. Lead, $6.18.

SAIGON.—The market showed great dullness, and very few transactions had been effected; the current quotations were—Grey Shirtings, 8½ lbs. $2.75; do., 7 lbs., $2.33 to $3.5; T-Cloth, 4 lbs., $1.22; do., 4½ lbs., $1.32; do., 5 lbs., $1.45; White Irishes, $1.93.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—The activity noticed in our last report had continued, resulting in further purchases to the extent of 7,000 piculs, making settlements since last American mail fully 12,000 piculs. These settlements comprised all grades from common to fine (but the larger proportion had been of good medium leaf), and had been made at irregular prices, but on the whole at easier rates. Supplies had about been on par with settlements stocks; were therefore still heavy. There had been no addition to the export since the last report, but the present American steamer took some quantity from this port. The G. T. Ray was announced to sail for New York; the Coulmakyle, 579 tons, and the Belted Will, 420 tons, were loading for the same port. Quotations: Common, $20 to 23 per picul; Good Common, $24 to 26; Medium, $28 to 30; Good Medium, $32 to 34; Fine, $35 to 38; Finest and Choice, nominal.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.—Since the departure of the last American mail considerable settlements had been effected. A few parcels of finest had found purchasers at extreme rates, while the commoner grades had ruled slightly easier. Settlements were returned at 3,600 piculs. Arrivals, 4,100 piculs; stock, 4,500 piculs. The Vigil was on the berth for New York, with a full cargo engaged, at $2 10s. per ton of 40 feet. Quotations:—Common, Rios 18 to 21 per picul; good common, Rios 22 to 26; medium, Rios 27 to 31; good medium, Rios 32 to 40; fine, Rios 41 to 48; finest, Rios 49 upwards; choice to choicest, nominal.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—There had been a moderate business in Silk, and settlements were estimated at 350 bales. A first class parcel of Etchesen had been purchased at $700, and a small run of best Oshu at $900, the latter for America. Towards the close there had been less desire to operate, caused by the unsatisfactory tenour of European telegrams. Settlements, Hank sorts, 250 bales. Other sorts, 100 bales. Total, 350 bales. Stocks, 2,800 bales. Quotations (including all charges in Yokohama and London and 3 per cent. less in weight, exchange 4s. 5d.) were as follow:—Hanks: Mybush and Sinchu, Best, $750.00 to 800.00 per picul; ditto, Medium, $670.00 to 720.00. Oshu, Extra, $900.00; ditto Best, $830.00 to 860.00; ditto Medium, $770.00 to 820.00; ditto Inferior, $680.00 to 730.00. Etchesen, Best, $700.00.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.—Settlements for the month had amounted to about 40 bales of 80 catties; these almost entirely consisted of small parcels, which the dealers had pressed on the market, whilst for other parcels of similar quality much higher rates were demanded. Under these circumstances, it was difficult to offer reliable quotations, as, according to advices from Yokohama, to establish a current business in silk high rates would have to be acceded to. Nagahama, Nos. 2½ to 3, had been sold at Rios 480, and good No. 3 hanks at Rios 625.

SAIGON PRODUCE.

RICE.—The last quoted prices were maintained for some time after the departure of the mail; later on arrivals of new grain nearly subsided, and the Chinese, afraid that growers, expecting as high rates as in February last, were not hurrying to bring their produce to market, refused to enter new engagements without being on the safe side, and closed sales of 35,000 piculs at $1.56 with 20 to 30 days' delivery. The year's exports up to 31st Dec. amounted to 3,720,888, against in 1869 2,560,500.

PADDY.—A few transactions had taken place at $1 per picul.

HIDES.—No fresh contracts had been passed; prices remained nominal at $3.25 Buffalo, and $11.50 Cow hides.

HORNS.—All brought to market found ready buyers at $8.25.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—A little higher prices, say $8.50, had been current.

LEGAL.

EXCHEQUER CHAMBER.

THE BANK OF HINDOSTAN, CHINA, AND JAPAN V. ALISON.

This was an action brought by the bank against the defendant to recover calls. There were two questions—first, whether the defendant was actually the holder of the shares and whether he was precluded from denying that he was a shareholder. The bank had power to issue shares representing two millions sterling, but they had amalgamated with the Imperial Bank, and then they had issued extra shares, doubling the capital of the Bank of Hindostan. In the Court of Common Pleas the judgment was given for the defendant. Then there was this appeal.

The Court affirmed the decision of the Court of Common Pleas.

BANKRUPTCY COURT.

IN RE JOHN GILLESPIE.

The bankrupt was a merchant, formerly of the firm of Rangel, Gillespie, and Co. The liabilities amount to £68,000, assets returned at £733. This was a sitting for public examination. Mr. Munns opposed for creditors, and wished for some explanation of the large deficiency. Mr. Sedgwick, on behalf of the bankrupt, stated that £55,000 of the liabilities were in respect of calls on shares.

An adjournment for six weeks was ordered.

THE AGRA AND MASTERMAN'S BANK.—On the 27th ult. the Lords Justices had before them an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Stuart, disallowing the claim of the Agra and Masterman's Bank in respect of certain bills of exchange which were accepted by one of the liquidators of the London and Mediterranean Bank after the commencement of the winding-up. The Court confirmed the decision of the Vice-Chancellor, and dismissed the appeal.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE North German Lloyd Company have announced that their line to the West Indies, Venezuela, and New Granada will be opened on March 10, on which day the new steamer King William I. will leave Southampton for Colon direct, connecting, via Panama, with all ports on the west coast of South America, China, and Japan. The King William I. will be followed by the Crown Prince Frederick William, leaving Southampton on April 10, and the Count Bismark on May 10.

THE BRINDISI ROUTE.—A correspondent writes to The Times to describe the anxiety which he suffered a few weeks ago in travelling from London to Brindisi to catch the out-going Peninsular and Oriental steamer. He was told that the mails and passengers leaving London on Friday were sure to catch the steamer on Tuesday; but he found that at Cologne and at Munich, and possibly also at Padua, there was the greatest risk of the mails being sent on and the passengers left behind. "There is no connection whatever," he says, "between the departure from Charing-cross and the arrival at Brindisi—a distance of 1,800 miles; and but for the most courteous help of the mail agent, I should in all probability have been left behind at Munich, and my luggage left behind at Cologne." All this danger of losing the steamship at Brindisi and failing to secure the intended passage might, he thinks, be easily avoided. With reference to this letter we may remark that we have before pointed out that in view of the present system of transit it is unsafe to leave London at the same time as the mail with the object of catching the steamer at Brindisi. A start of at least twelve hours is necessary to secure absolute certainty.

It is announced that the repairs to the Lisbon-Gibraltar section of the Falmouth Telegraph have been successfully completed, and that the telegraphic communication by the submarine lines has again been restored throughout to Egypt, India, &c., and is now in perfect working order.

WE have been favoured with a letter from a correspondent, giving us his experiences of the Suez Canal, which he recently passed through. He says its great want is increased width. There is not much fear of the depth of water decreasing if the channel is carefully attended to by dredging vessels. Twenty-three feet was the least depth of water found during our correspondent's passage, and in some places there was twenty-seven feet. It is doubtful if the Canal will be of advantage to steamers of small power, but vessels of larger power that can contend against the monsoon will be able to obtain remunerative freights. The item of coal is very serious.

Foreign Intelligence.

GERMANY.

HAMBURG, Feb. 7.

The news of the fall of Paris was far from creating that degree of enthusiasm and joy that might have been expected, and which thrilled through the country at the capitulation of Sedan, Strasburg, and Metz. At Berlin there were no public rejoicings, the show of flags on the houses was very meagre, and the illuminations by no means so brilliant or so general as on many similar occasions. Various reasons are assigned for what appears at first sight to be a want of patriotism—though that is far from being the case. In the first place, the event was seen coming nearer every day, so that when it happened no one was taken by surprise; secondly, it made a bad impression that the intelligence was not received direct from Versailles, but telegraphed from London from the statement in The Times; thirdly, the King sent a special telegram to say that the "Victoria," or the usual salute of 101 guns consequent on any victory or other joyful event, was not to be fired, and this gave rise to such an amount of grumbling and discontent at Berlin, that the Emperor has thought proper to reconsider the matter, and in announcing to the Empress-Queen that Bourbaki's army was pushed over the frontier into Switzerland, and had been obliged to take refuge on neutral territory, where they were disarmed and interned, he gave orders to have the Victoria salute fired; and lastly, it was a sad and bitter disappointment to learn at the same time that there was to be no triumphant entry of the German armies into Paris, as a reward for their admirable patience and courage during the whole of the siege. This feeling, though no doubt equally keenly experienced by the troops, was subdued and kept down by the spirit of discipline that animates all ranks of the army, and it prevented any murmuring on their part; but their relatives and families at home were not bound to show the same reticence, and, therefore, much grumbling was heard and complaints uttered at the hardship and injustice of depriving the soldiers of that crowning gratification of marching into the enemy's capital with colours flying and bands playing, to which, from the very commencement of the war, they had been looking forward with such supreme delight. The popular mind was not able to understand the feeling of moderation and delicacy that, no doubt, prevented such a useless display of power and animated the Emperor of Germany, that France was sufficiently humiliated and ruined, if not in their own eyes at least in the estimation of all Europe. I must, however, in fairness add that the other larger cities of Germany did not participate in the gloomy views of the inhabitants of the capital; for at Dresden, Munich, Cologne, Breslau, and Frankfort the enthusiasm and joy of the people were intense; the flagging general, and the illuminations brilliant in the extreme. Nor were they less so here at Hamburg.

When the official telegram arrived it was printed and circulated by the authorities, and read aloud amidst vociferous cheering in the Exchange Rooms, the clubs, and the coffee-houses, and other places of public resort, the only persons who were dispirited and looked glum being the French officers, prisoners of war in this city, who affected not to believe in the possibility of Paris capitulating, and that the great city lay at the mercy of its enemies. The display of hunting on the houses and the shipping was greater than I had ever before seen, and on many of the flag-staffs were three or more flags of different colours, which made the scene remarkably gay. At noon a salute of 101 guns was fired, and at four p.m. all the singing clubs, numbering more than a thousand young men, joined their voices, on the great square behind the Exchange, in singing first Luther's beautiful hymn of "Nun danket Alle Gott," and then a selection of patriotic compositions, among which was, of course, the popular "Wacht am Rhein." The illuminations were general, but in our quarter of the town not so effective as on the last occasion—the capture of Napoleon—as the lights could not be reflected in the basin of the Alster, which was frozen over and covered by snow; but, as a set off, many public-spirited citizens, defying the cold and piercing wind, discharged a good display of rockets, Bengal lights, and other fireworks from the centre of the basin. The next day the Senate convened the Burgerschaft to obtain their consent to granting Count Bismark and Count Moltke the highest distinction this Republic has to bestow—the Honorary Freedom of the City—which proposal, I need scarcely add, was passed unanimously and with loud cheering.

I believe there is not a word of foundation for the canard that has been going the round of the papers, stating that one of the German demands is the cession and transfer of Pondicherry, near Madras. If any colonial territory is to be ceded at all, it is much more probable that it would be Saigon and French Cochinchina, where the Germans could establish a naval station, it being on the high road to China and Japan. The idea has been ventilated more than once by the merchants, Chambers of Commerce, and the press in this country; but I need scarcely say that Count Bismark knows how to keep his secrets till the right time arrives for revealing them. If he lays any stress on deferring to public opinion, he will demand as one of the conditions of peace the transfer of some of the French ships of war. This is a subject on which public opinion has been very loudly and strongly expressed, partly to weaken the French navy and partly to prevent the recurrence of the humiliating blockade to which we were exposed in the autumn from two formidable fleets of ironclads in the North Sea and Baltic. It has been freely circulated that the delivering up of twenty first-class ironclad frigates is demanded as one of the conditions, but this is put forth more as a feeler for the public than as emanating from the Imperial Chancellor himself. It would no doubt be of infinite advantage to Germany, though it might create the jealousy of John Bull, and be considered as a standing menace to British supremacy on the seas.

A letter from Versailles mentions the arrival there of ten Japanese officers to study the art of European warfare. They are mostly young men. They are to have an audience of the Emperor in a day or two; in the meantime, though they came too late to witness the bombardment and the sorties from the garrison of Paris, an officer has been given to accompany them everywhere and give them all the information they require. The writer of the letter considers the arrival of this military embassy from the Far East as a subject of importance and self-congratulation, as it shows how the German victories have become known to the uttermost ends of the earth, and will command a commensurate increase of respect and political influence.

A committee has been formed in this city for collecting subscriptions for the purpose of presenting General von Werder with a silver gilt shield, decorated with military symbols and attributes, as a testimony of recognition of his brilliant services in his masterly retreat to Belfort, and then, by taking the offensive, forcing Bourbaki's army to save themselves from being cut off by escaping to Switzerland.

Herr W. von Pustau, of Altona, has just received a fresh proof of the confidence reposed in him by his fellow-citizens, who have elected him to be a Member of the Municipal Council. He was introduced last week, and immediately took the oaths and his seat.

COMMERCIAL.

Though still frozen up, there are symptoms of a revival of trade. A good demand has set in for Cassia Lignea, which is higher, 13½ sch. bco. having been paid for several parcels. Tea, firm, with a moderate consumptive business. Rice, looking up, but no sales of importance to record. Spelter, quite neglected; nominal price asked, 11 mks. 12 sch. bco.

HOLLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ROTTERDAM, Feb. 8.

■ The greatest dullness still prevails in politics, and the only subject of discussion is—when will the Parliament meet? Even the fact that Messrs. H. J. Smidt and J. P. Bredius (both Liberals) have been elected at Assen and Dordrecht has passed without comment. The Liberal papers did not beat the great drum before the election, as they used to do, and when the victory was won they only stated the fact—nothing more. This is really very much appreciated by the public, the general opinion being that nothing is more tedious than articles filled up with the bad or good qualities of the candidates. But nevertheless these things are so unusual, the dullness is so intense, that people are of opinion that a storm must follow. Those, however, who do not care about politics, provided that they are not obliged to pay more taxes than they used to do—and their number is enormous—look more after the daily statistics of those who are attacked by or who have died of small-pox, or after the rise of water in the rivers. For some days a thaw has prevailed, and from some quarters we hear that there is reason to fear inundation, which, of course, would be most disastrous. The Government has taken energetic measures to prevent the pushing up of the ice by the use of torpedoes. Time will show if this will prove effectual.

Some months ago I mentioned that a commission had been constituted to promote the welfare of "Multatuli," the author of Maz Havelaar, an able but strange man, with whom some are, however, so enthusiastic that Mr. Anton Boelen entitles him in the Java Bode "a modern Christ." "Multatuli" lives by his pen, but his earnings are comparatively small—not enough to maintain himself and his family. Without doubt this gentleman has done a good deal to enlighten the public with regard to our colonial policy; and remembering this, the public was inclined to contribute to a "Multatuli" fund. Some money was contributed, but Mr. Doves Dekker ("Multatuli" is, of course, only his nom de plume) became so arrogant that his friends were obliged to give up their task, and the "Multatuli" committee is dissolved.

The Almelo Chamber of Trade has addressed the Minister of the Colonial Department a memorial that he would maintain the protective system as much as possible when the East India tariff is revised. The Chamber is—contrary to the opinion of the Tweentsche Vereeniging—of opinion that our cotton industry cannot compete successfully with that of England unless the differential duties are maintained in our Colonies. What a chance for our impressionable Minister Van Bosen; of course he will seize upon this address "with both hands," in order to delay or to prevent a liberal revision of the Tariff, which, as you know, was promised by Mr. de Waal, the former Minister of the Colonial Department.

The greatest dullness prevailed in our stock markets. The general tone, however, is somewhat better under the influence of the last war reports. There has already been an upward tendency, and notwithstanding that the Bank rate remains unaltered, the quotation in the open market is somewhat higher.

It has made a somewhat painful impression that Mr. van Lansberg has been appointed our Ambassador ad interim at the Court of St. James. It seems as if we have no able diplomatist to fill this important post in these difficult times.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

The thaw has set in, but the waterways are still choked up, and it is difficult to forward goods by rail. The markets are in general animated, and almost all colonial articles have improved in price.

COFFEE looks very healthy, but the transactions are of no importance; they only include 2,064 bales Java, ex President Plate, at 35½c.; 1,000 b. Manila, ex Jubilee, at 34½c.; and 988 b. Java, ex County of Berwick. Total stock of Coffee in Holland, 680,300 b., against 552,900 b. in 1870.

RAW SUGAR.—The market is very firm. Important parcels have changed hands since my last at f.½ to f.¾ above November value. A lot of 1,051 kranjags floating per Nyassa, fine white quality, was sold at prices that did not transpire, but which are believed to be very high. Stock in bond, 21,225,503 ko. The unsold stock of the Trading Company was, on the 1st inst. f.55,244 mata, against 65,727 mata in 1870.

RICE.—Without transactions. The unsold stock in Holland was, on the 1st inst., 10,100 b. Java table, 5,700 b. Sourabaya Cargo, and 4,800 b. Ncransic.

SPICES.—There is a good demand for fine quality, and some transactions have taken place of Nutmegs No. 1. Pepper: The following parcels were sold: 1,100 b. per Albert Victor, 745 b. per Anna and Sophia, and 2,000 b. per Jason. Stock on warrants—Nutmegs, 3,313 casks; Mace, 208 casks; Cloves, 2,814 casks. Unsold stock—Nutmegs, 90 casks; Mace, 171 casks; Cloves, 180 casks; Pepper, 1,835 casks.

TEA.—There is a steady demand for consumption at unaltered prices. The unsold stock of Tea is 3,200/4 chests China, and 9,900/4 chests Java.

JAVA TOBACCO.—The market has been very animated. There is especially a good demand for fine quality for cigar purposes, but inferior quality has also been sold at higher prices. Some lots out of the new crop have arrived, but they are not yet stored. Manila Tobacco: The first parcels out of the crop of 1869 have arrived. The quality of secunda and tertia is satisfactory. The Cagayan is preferred above the Itebellu. The prices are nominally 160c. to 170c. for secunda, and 92c. for tertia. Holders, however, decline to operate at these rates. Stock of Java 3,965 bales Java and Sumatra.

INDIGO.—In steady demand.

BANCA TIN.—Several transactions have taken place at f.77½, f.77, and f.76½. Since there has been an upward tendency, and a few lots changed hands at f.77½. Holders, however, now decline to operate under f.77½ to f.78. Stock on warrants of Banca, 60,500 slabs; unsold, 90,436 slabs; of Billiton on warrants, 100 slabs; unsold, 1,323 slabs.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.—Feb. 1, at Texel, from Tjilatjap, Ferdinand and Louis; 5, at Brouwershaven, from Batavia, Anna and Johanna; from Rangoon, Emmanuel.

DEPARTURES.—None.

ROTTERDAM, Feb. 8.

The meeting of a committee of creditors of the Oost Indische Maatschappij van Lyfrenten with the managers of that company has not given any satisfactory result. The proposal of which I spoke in my last has not been approved of. The liabilities of the Hilversumsche Steam Spinning and Weaving Company are f.6113,433,38½ (inclusive of the capital, f.500,000), and the assets f.317,490.68.

BREAKFAST.—EPH'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Ephs has attained by his homoeopathic preparation of Cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Ephs has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in tin-lined packets labelled—JAMES EPH & CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, London.

JAMES WEST, PUBLISHER,

LONDON: MONDAY, FEB. 13, 1871.

THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

In vivid contrast to Mr. HANBURY's singular composition, appears the simple and affecting narrative of a visitor to the scene of the awful butchery at Tientsin, four months after its perpetration, which was published in The London and China Telegraph of the 6th. We need not pain our readers in the Far East by repeating in all their harrowing minuteness the details of an atrocity which we would not even remind them of but for the paramount necessity of preventing any repetition of similar crimes. We will content ourselves with giving a few quotations which may contain some new information, and which, we believe, even Mr. HANBURY will hardly be able to read without emotion. The correspondent of the Telegraph draws attention to certain "heaps of rubbish," which, "seeing that there are five Sisters yet unaccounted for, it may be well to have turned over"—to say nothing of "twenty or thirty girls and boys, who most probably sought refuge in the vaults, and there perished in the flames, clinging in death to their foster-sisters," the nuns. He tells how, while "vespers were being sung, youth being educated, and the sick cured, a hellish plot was being concocted under their very eaves for the extermination of foreigners—the lanes in the vicinity being barricaded the previous day to prevent their escape." The cause for which they suffered did not, however, expire with these victims of Chinese greed. The Catholic Cathedral, the French Consulate, and the London Mission-house, at Tientsin, we are told, are still in ruins; yet, already "several new priests are here for this and the neighbourhood, and, doubtless, also, Sisters will be at their post next Spring, when the buildings are restored." Mr. HANBURY will do well to take this last fact to heart. It is not in his power to check the progress of Christianity, or stamp out religious liberty, in China; all that he can expect as the result of his pleading, and the compliments with which he would have CHUNG HOW overwhelmed, will be to accelerate the repetition of a similar outrage at the earliest opportunity when the mandarins can find foreign victims to sacrifice, "common people" to turn into martyrs for the crime, and English apologists, like himself, to "write their sins in water." All these but the last, we believe CHUNG HOW may find without difficulty—but the last he must not expect to meet again. Mr. HANBURY may rest assured that in his view of the present question he will be as completely without a successor as he is now without a sympathiser among his countrymen.

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH ON CHINA.

The clause in the QUEEN'S Speech in which mention is made of China is the most unsatisfactory paragraph in that vague and wordy composition. We have heard so much of the "conciliatory and forbearing spirit" in which our Government are disposed to deal with the Chinese that we feel that it is now more than time that the policy indicated should be put into some definite shape, and that we should be told decidedly what it is, and what it is to accomplish. So far as it has been explained already, it is a mere political euphuism for allowing injuries and insults to pass without redress, and for leaving our countrymen and their trade in a position of growing insecurity. Our energetic and thoughtful merchants cannot surely sit down patiently under the insulting disregard of their just claims, while every interest dear to them as men and citizens is menaced with ruin, and while all perceive that the inevitable consequence of the present vacillating policy will be to drift into a war, which can only be averted by the timely exhibition of a resolute determination to hold the Chinese Government to the strict terms of their engagements with us. Our own commercial community is so thoroughly unanimous, and has so long been agreed upon the course that ought to be pursued, that it would be impertinent and idle for us now to repeat arguments of which we have so long been the sincere exponents. Our only object now is to press upon our readers, and especially upon those of them who possess Parliamentary influence, that a few plain and well-directed questions to the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs will have the effect of clearing up the doubts that exist concerning the real animus of the Government in reference to the Tientsin Massacre, the mission of CHUNG HOW, and other pressing facts; and we hope that an opportunity so valuable will not be neglected, or postponed till a later period in the session.

THE DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR SERVICE.

WE understand that Sir HARRY PARKES has obtained leave of absence, and will leave Japan for England in the coming spring. Mr. ADAMS, the Secretary of Legation assuming temporarily the duties of Envoy and Minister Plenipotentiary. Baron VON SIEBOLD, late Japanese Secretary to the Legation, has resigned and taken service from the Japanese Government as a Special Commissioner in Europe. Mr. MITFORD, Second Secretary to the Legation, is at present in England on leave, but will, we believe, shortly return to his post.

Sir EDMUND HORNBLY, Judge of the Supreme Court at Shanghai, is now in England, and, it is understood, will not return. Mr. GOODWIN, the Deputy-Judge, holds the appointment temporarily, but it is rumoured that Sir EDMUND's post will be conferred on a Barrister now in the home ranks. Mr. HANNEN, brother of Sir JAMES HANNEN, now in practice in Shanghai as a Barrister, is, according to rumour, to have the appointment of Law Consul at Yokohama, but this also may ultimately fall to a home Barrister.

There is no doubt now as to Mr. WADE remaining at Peking so long as the present Government hold office, but on the arrival of Sir HARRY PARKES it is believed that both the Diplomatic and Consular appointments in China and Japan will undergo a revision. At present there is scarcely a Consul or Vice-Consul holding the appointment for which he stands in the official list. The post of Consul at Shanghai, held by Mr. MEDHURST, has not been confirmed, although Mr. WINCHESTER resigned a year since. It is certainly a piece of injustice to the Consular staff to keep these appointments so long in an unsettled state.

THE screw steamer Lord of the Isles, Captain ROBINSON, has made a fine run home, and clearly proved that her power is sufficient for the accomplishment of a rapid passage. Leaving Shanghai on the 15th Dec., with about 1,400 tons tea, 165 bales silk, and 132 boxes of silver, valued at £425,900, she touched at Hong Kong, taking on board 230 tons sundries, and left on the 19th, arriving at Singapore on the 26th, taking on board about 1,210 tons general cargo, and leaving on the 29th for Penang, at which port she took in 250 tons cargo, leaving on the 1st January for Suez, at which port she arrived on 22nd January, then thirty-eight days from Shanghai. Passing the Canal, she left Port Said on 25th, coaling at Malta, and arriving in the Downs on the 10th inst., thus completing the passage in fifty-seven days, including all stoppages. She brings about ten passengers, and, we believe, is to leave again for Shanghai and Hankow on 1st March, calling at Singapore only.

A PARAGRAPH which was quoted in our issue of the 6th inst., as part of the usual mail summary, from the Daily Press, bearing upon our Hong Kong contemporary's view of trade in Hong Kong, was transferred to the columns of the Pall Mall on the 9th, with the following observations, evidently calculated to mislead its readers into the belief that the sentiments were our own:—"This entirely accords with the article in the Edinburgh, as to the progress of trade in China, which the London and China Express treated as a libel, devoid of foundation, and merely evidencing rancorous ill-will on the part of the writer against the merchants." We only draw attention to this matter in order to show the desperate expedients to which the Philo-Chinese party must be reduced when, instead of meeting our editorial arguments, it endeavours to throw discredit on them by foisting on us the responsibility of the authorship of a paragraph which we duly quoted.

It is a pitiable illustration of the utter want, either of information or candour, on the part of the Dutch Government, that the news of the plot to murder the Governor of Java, and take possession of the island, which we reported in the London and China Telegraph of January 9, should have been ignored by the Dutch Minister of the Colonies at the time when it was a fact patent to all the world besides. Now that the discovery of the plot has been verified beyond cavil, it will be instructive to observe how the Dutch authorities deal with an awkward fact which it is clear that they tried to suppress, and what reforms they propose for the prevention of similar revolutionary movements in the future. It seems to us a very distinct proof of the bad administration of affairs throughout Java.

We understand that, on the recommendation of Sir RANALD MARTIN, M.D., the Rev. Canon BEACH, Colonial Chaplain at Hong Kong, has obtained an extension of leave from Jan. 14 to April 14, without salary, for the purpose of deciding whether it will be advisable for him at the expiration of that period to return to his duties. In the meantime, he has accepted the post of Principal Chaplain to the Forces in Dublin; the appointment at Aldershot, which was offered him in June last, having been filled before the state of his health permitted him to resume active service.

THE steamer Belgian, with a portion of the cable to be laid from Singapore to Hong Kong, has sailed, via Suez Canal, and will be followed in a few days by the Kangaroo and Minia. It is expected that the cable will be completed and ready for use early in May, before which time the cable of the Great Northern Company will also be completed from Hong Kong to Shanghai, affording through communication from London to Shanghai. The question of landing a shore end for Saigon, en route to Hong Kong, is still undecided, owing to the unsettled condition of France.

THE Japanese Prince, HIGASHI FUSHIMI NO MIYA, who arrived by the P. and O. route from Yokohama, accompanied by Mr. W. G. ASTON, an interpreter of the British Legation, is, we believe, an uncle of the Mikado. His visit to England, with a numerous suite, is for the purpose of acquiring our language, arts, sciences, and mode of government. The Baron von SIEBOLD, now in this country on a mission from the Japanese Government, will assist the Prince in carrying out these intentions.

A CORRESPONDENT, whose letter appeared in our last, called attention to the omission of the Shanghai Consular Report. We understand that the cause of this was owing to its late arrival in London from Shanghai. This was possibly caused by the custom of forwarding these returns first to the Minister at Peking.

THE reply to the Memorial of the merchants, &c., interested in the China trade, to the Postmaster-General will be found below. Of course the reduction in postage has not been granted, and it will be necessary to bring the matter before Parliament.

REPLY OF THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL TO THE MEMORIAL.

General Post-office, London, Feb. 7, 1871.

SIR,—The Postmaster-General has had under consideration the Memorial from bankers, merchants, brokers, newspaper proprietors, and others engaged in the trade of India, China, and Australia, which you presented to the Marquis of Hartington on the 27th December last, asking for a reduction of the charge at present made on newspapers, prices current, or similar publications forwarded to the East Indies, China, or Australia, via Brindisi.

In reply, I am directed to inform you that it has been a source of much regret to the Post-office that, while reducing the postage on letters to and from the East sent by the route of Brindisi, it was not possible to lower the charge on newspapers, books, and patterns, owing to the combined transit rates which this office has to pay to Belgium, Germany, and Italy.

When the Indian mails were sent via Marseilles only a French transit rate of postage was payable on the correspondence contained in such mails; but, since the alteration of route, the mails have to be conveyed overland—a distance of 1,600 miles—passing through several foreign States, and the cost of transit has been more than doubled.

To defray the extra charge it has been found necessary to raise the postage on a newspaper of four ounces from threepence to fourpence; and, even at this rate the British Post-office receives, for its inland and sea service combined, an average of less than a penny for each newspaper; and, under these circumstances, the Postmaster-General regrets that he is unable to reduce the postage below its present amount.

Mr. Monsell desires me to state that if after this explanation you still wish for an interview, he will be happy to receive you.

With reference to the second paragraph of the Memorial which states that "By far the greatest part of the commercial correspondence of manufacturers and brokers is carried on by periodical publications or prices current, and that a charge of fourpence on such is a grievous tax upon their business," I am to point out that prices current, or other printed papers can be sent as book-packets, at a charge of twopence, if not exceeding one ounce in weight, and that many prices current do not exceed that weight.—I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

Charles Magniac, Esq., M.P.

Literature.

The History of England from the Earliest to the Present Time. By Sir Edward S. Creasy, M.A., Vols. I. and II. London: James Walton.

Further reference to this history, of which we gave a short preliminary notice on its publication a few weeks ago, convinces us that it is recommended by one original and distinguishing excellence—it bears on its face the proof that it is written by a man who, living in the nineteenth century, ventures to judge of past events in the spirit of an enlightened period. Most of the compendious histories of bygone times that we have seen are generally vapid, dry, and barren records—wanting the graphic and minute fidelity of contemporary literature, and equally deficient of the spirit of the age of the modern writer. With this peculiar merit, which is conspicuous in the present work, Sir Edward Creasy has combined great industry of research, and he has enriched his narrative with much valuable and apparently original observation. We have strong temptation to extract from the chapters, "John and the Great Charter," and "Edward the First and the Constitution," but our limits compel us to resist the attractions of one of the most spirit-stirring histories we have yet read; and we must content ourselves with recommending our readers to study it for themselves, convinced that the freshness of the style, and the evident candour of the writer, will more than compensate for occasional quaintness or rather crabbedness of diction. We are not sure, however, that this last-named peculiarity is not a recommendation to the book—it sometimes gives new zest to the reader when the subjects under narration might otherwise be uninteresting, or at least too familiar to be entered upon with much expectation of enjoyment. We shall look forward to the appearance of the next volumes, in which Sir Edward Creasy will have to treat of reigns nearer to our own time, with confidence that he will not only have something new to tell us about them, but that he will tell that something impartially and pithily.

Tales of old Japan. By A. B. Mitford. London: Macmillan and Co.—We must content ourselves with noticing the publication of this scholarly and valuable work on the present occasion, reserving criticism of its literary contents for a future opportunity. We may, however, say that the volumes before us, besides being well got up, are illustrated by engravings, which, besides being of native design, were cut on wood by a Japanese, and are therefore genuine and unique specimens of art, as well as conveying singularly suggestive impressions of the scenes they are supposed to depict.

The Colonial-office List and the Foreign-office List for 1871. London: Harrison, 59, Pall-mall.—These very valuable annuals fully maintain the reputation of their predecessors, and will be found full of valuable information to all who have friends in the services, or whose business brings them into contact with them. Both works are beautifully printed, and illustrated with new maps.

Art, Pictorial and Industrial. London: Sampson Low and Marsden.—The February number of this journal fully sustains the reputation which it has earned by the excellences displayed in former issues. The illustrations include reproductions of a sketch by W. Cave Thomas of the bust of Cromwell in the National Portrait Gallery; of Mr. J. Burgess's picture, "A Little bit of Scandal," which is being exhibited at the French Gallery for the benefit of the distressed French peasantry; and of an engraving from "Philosophy," one of Raffaele's frescoes at the Vatican. The literary contents are fully equal in merit to the artistic; among them we must notice in particular an article by W. W. E., containing some bold suggestions for "Hausmannising" London. We should be glad to see the ideas expressed practically carried out.

The War Correspondence of the Daily News. London: Macmillan and Co.—This volume is a reprint of the graphic sketches which obtained for the journal to which they were contributed a marked pre-eminence during the progress of the campaign now closed. The present work, which is well printed, and illustrated with some useful maps, gives the history of the war from the origin of hostilities to the retreat of the Army of the Loire.

Monetary and Commercial.

The telegrams from China report a deficit of ten million pounds in the export of Tea as compared with the corresponding period last year, but according to special messages, it seems that a large quantity of common Tea was being bought up for shipment, which would bring the export up to 135 millions, or only four short of last year. According to general opinion, the present consumption does not require such an export, but with the termination of the war, considerable orders may be expected. If the common shipments, however, include "Maloo Mixture," the result will be a heavy loss.

The export of shirtings to Shanghai is very large. The Sea Gull (str.) takes over eight million yards, and the Agamemnon (str.) nearly ten. This is the largest quantity on board of one vessel on record. The total export to Shanghai for January is about 42,000,000 yards. It is to be hoped that the trade at Tientsin will be in full play and the demand larger this season.

At the adjourned meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Lieber and Rogerson, India and China merchants, of Manchester and London, Mr. Halliday was appointed to investigate the accounts and report to a future meeting.

The liquidators of the China Steamship and Labuan Coal Company—Sir James Elphinstone and Mr. Gibbons (official)—propose a final dividend of 1s. 10d. on all claims bearing interest. The amount already paid, after collecting from each unfortunate shareholder the full liability of £20 per share, is only 19s. in the pound. The whole of the subscribed capital, amounting to about a quarter of a million, has therefore been lost.

At the meeting of the shareholders of the Universal Marine Insurance Company (Limited) the principal facts mentioned by the chairman were that the net premiums of the underwriting account amounted to £282,000, or within £1,000 of what they were for the same period last year; while the amount paid for loss was £22,000 less in the past twelve months than in the previous year, and showed a still more marked improvement on the year before. With respect to the position of the company in regard to past years, the underwriting account of 1867 showed a profit of £80,000; and the year 1868 would leave about £10,000 more. There was now more than £100,000 in hand on that account, and almost the whole of that would be profit to the company, and there was every probability that the year 1869 would leave as large a profit as 1867. The amount outstanding on the year 1870, when the books were made up at the end of the year, was £4,800,000. Since that time more than one million had run off, and the losses had been very moderate. The whole amount underwritten for the year 1870 was twenty-one millions, against twenty millions in 1869. The vacancy at the board was filled up by the election of Mr. W. J. Thompson, of the firm of Messrs. William James and Henry Thompson, well known in the China trade. We may mention that the shares of the company stand at over 100 per cent. premium.

Overtures have recently been made to Sir Daniel A. Lange, by persons of distinction in this country, with a view to induce him to form a Board of English Directors in London, in connection with the Suez Canal, in order to give them, in conjunction with himself, a voice in the management of the company's affairs, and at the same time an additional amount of capital. Reasons were urged to prove that such a combination would give greater security for the future efficient maintenance of the canal, in which the commerce of this country has by far the greatest stake. Although Sir D. Lange could not concur with all the reasons which were put forward, and maintained great reserve upon others, it is nevertheless with pleasure that we are enabled to state that he frankly expressed his readiness to assent to any legitimate arrangement as suggested, which would tend to benefit England and harmonise with the interests of the Suez Canal, adding that it would be premature to go further into the matter, in the absence of his friend M. de Lesseps (who is now shut up in Paris), and without whose full knowledge and consent he would not wish to take any steps or make any pledge. His views were received with general approbation, and seemed to give great satisfaction to all present.

Coffee (lbs.)	46,185,068	57,031,829	67,897,825
Sugar, refined (cwt.) ..	66,297	66,952	58,302
Ditto, unrefined (cwt.) ..	2,387,805	1,866,719	2,105,243
Molasses (cwt.)	57,263	206,306	252,626
Tea (lbs.)	104,960,979	99,594,936	98,674,742
Tobacco (lbs.)	64,994,063	60,832,295	56,279,038

The Board of Trade Returns, in a much improved form, have been issued for January, and they are henceforth to appear on the 7th of each month, or about three weeks earlier than hitherto. On the present occasion they afford striking evidence of the paralysis of trade consequent upon the Paris catastrophe, the total declared value of our exportations having been only £11,458,039, against £13,923,185 in the corresponding month of last year—a falling off of nearly 18 per cent. Compared with January, 1869, also, the reduction is 16 per cent. In nearly every department of business there seems to have been a suspension of operations. Among the articles of leading importance only two figure for an increase—haberdashery 1 per cent., and silk manufactures 55 per cent., owing in both cases chiefly to the American demand. The stoppage of foreign industry is shown by the diminution in the shipments of the various kinds of yarns. In linen yarn it has been 68 per cent., in woollen yarn 65 per cent., and in cotton yarn 40 per cent. As regards cotton manufactures, the result has been comparatively less unfavourable, owing to large consignments to China and Brazil, and in this case the falling off has been 9 per cent. in value, but only fractional in quantity. The other items of decrease are—coal, 24 per cent.; earthenware, 40 per cent.; hardware, 27 per cent.; iron manufactures, 30 per cent.; linen manufactures, 31 per cent.; machinery, 82 per cent.; woollen manufactures, 17 per cent.; and miscellaneous articles, 17 per cent. As regards the importations of the month, it appears that the receipts of cotton were 2,035,356 cwt., valued at £7,059,120, against only 794,102 cwt., valued at £4,411,463, in January, 1870. The usual summary of the figures referring to the trade with the Far East will appear in our next issue.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The market has been steady, but without much activity. There has been but little alteration in prices, common Teas remaining exceptionally dull, the demand chiefly running on fair to good medium kinds of Congou, of which there has been a fair quantity sold. The official returns for last year have been published, showing the total delivery for home consumption to have been 117,431,179 lbs., and for export and stores 80,838,768 lbs., making 148,269,947 lbs. in all.

The following is from Messrs. Shepard, Harrison, and Rehden's Circular:—A moderate business has been transacted the past fortnight—during the early part at easier prices—but the market closes about on a par with opening rates, except for red-leaf of the grades inferior flavour to Kaisow kinds, supplies the last few days being heavy, and some anxiety shown to be making sales. Common to fair black-leaf Congou has been in more request for shipping, and finest for home consumption, but business is curtailed by the strong views of holders. Latest telegrams from Hong Kong extend to 25th January, and give the export 119,000,000 lbs. Deliveries for the first month stand thus:—

Home consumption for London from 1st to 31st Jan. ...	8,352,000	6,523,000
Export do. do. ...	1,244,000	1,520,000
Sent coastwise do. ...	3,395,000	4,180,000

BLACK.—All grades of red leaf to Kaisow kinds have been in abundant supply at the following quotations: siftings and broken leaf kinds, 6d. to 8d., superior, 8½d. to 10½d., good common, 11d. to 11½d., flavour and Kaisow kinds, 1s. to 1s. 1d. per lb.; above this figure there is little held by importers. Paking kinds are scarce. Tayahan leaf has continued saleable, at full rates, especially fine and finest quality; strong and full malty Pekoe kinds, prices range from 1s. 8d. to 2s. per lb. Black-leaf: At public sale on 1st inst. good common touched 11d. per lb.; this attracted attention, and there has since been a general inquiry, leading to more competition, and a rally of ¼d. to ½d. per lb. has been established; preferable kinds remain as last quoted, say at 1s. to 1s. 1d. per lb., but fair to medium close a shade easier, good value being obtainable at 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 4½d. per lb. Fine and finest have commanded some attention, the latter selling at 1s. 11d. to 2s. 1d. per lb. Souchong: The bulk offered has been of the fair to medium grades at 1s. 1d. to 1s. 6d. per lb. Oolong: no change. Scented Tea: Canton Orange Pekoe, no alteration in good common to medium, supplies being small, but fine strong Scented has been sold at 1s. 5d. to 1s. 7d. per lb. Caper: there is little in first hands, and next arrivals will meet with ready sale. Foochow Orange Pekoe: The quality has been falling off, and sales are reported down to 1s. 4d. per lb.

GREEN.—There has not been the quantity offered as previously advised, but cheap parcels have been secured when importers have been desirous to close invoices. Small, but choice, lots of Moyune have come to hand, and the best grades of the various classes realise extreme and exceptionally high prices, as much as 4s. and 4s. 3d. for No. 1 Gunpowder, and 3s. and 3s. 3d. for No. 1 Young Hyson. Hysons all through the season have been selling very low, and during the fortnight parcels of growth 1869-70 were disposed of to close accounts at very cheap rates. Japan leaf, uncoloured, of good to medium quality, if imported in small quantities, would realise remunerative rates.

SILK.

Messrs. Kilburn, Kershaw, and Co. report as follows:—

Without at any moment displaying activity, the market has been steady and firm, with a very fair daily business. The demand has been chiefly for China and Canton Silk, and prices of both sorts have stiffened, and may be quoted, generally, 6d. higher. The capitulation of Paris, and the armistice which has succeeded that event, have had but little real effect upon the market, but there is little doubt that peace would greatly stimulate business; importers are very firm, and show every determination to secure the full quotations of the day. Japan Silk has, within the last few days, been more inquired for, but only at low rates. Deliveries continue good, and are far beyond what might have been expected under the disasters which have befallen France. They were in January, China, 2,288; Canton, 782; Bengal, 371; Japan, 301; Total, 3,742 bales. And from 1st to 8th inst. China, 655; Canton, 238; Bengal, 96; Japan, 132; Total, 1,121 bales.

COFFEE.

For Plantation Ceylon a steady demand has been experienced throughout the interval, and fully previous rates have been paid. Native Ceylon is again dearer, with however less enquiry latterly. The transactions comprise 3,700 casks, 950 tierces and barrels, 3,100 bags Plantation Ceylon, small, 57s. 6d. to 60s., low middling palish to good bold ditto, 61s. to 70s., low middling to good bright colour 63s. to 80s., fine, 82s. to 84s. 6d.; 2,500 bags Native Ceylon small, 52s., good ordinary, 56s., to 57s., good and fine bold, 58s. to 59s., chips, 40s. 6d.; and for arrival, 50 tons Native Ceylon at 58s. No other East India descriptions have been placed on offer.

The landings for the past week although relatively small are 300 tons in excess of last year's, and as deliveries are 200 tons less, the surplus in the stock is increased to 3,200 tons. Stock, Jan. 28, 25,005 tons, against 22,294; Feb. 4, 24,604 tons, against 21,416. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 183,735 cwt., against 150,570 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1870; Native, 18,739 cwt., against 13,699 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is nil. The quantity of Coffee landed in the five weeks ended Feb. 4, 1871, was, of Ceylon, 1,999 tons, against 2,713 tons during the corresponding period of 1870; of all descriptions, 4,190 tons, against 3,193 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 983 tons, against 974 tons; of all descriptions, 1,863 tons, against 1,751 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 816 tons, against 2,339 tons; of all descriptions, 2,271 tons, against 4,103 tons. The stock on Feb. 4 was, of Ceylon, 13,805 tons, against 13,199 tons; of all descriptions, 24,604 tons, against 21,316 tons.

SUGAR.

A flat tone still prevails in this market, and transactions have again been extremely small, prices being occasionally lower. The entire sales for the week comprise only 700 tons on the spot, and 930 tons afloat to the United Kingdom. The only parcel of East India disposed of was 6,000 bags clayed Manila, by private contract, at 26s. to 26s. 6d.

The imports for the week, including 870 tons Beetroot, are 1,000 tons less than last year, the deliveries show some increase, those of Manila being 765 tons and Beetroot 1,100 tons, and the total 400 tons larger than in 1870, so that the deficiency in the stock is further increased to 14,400 tons. Stock, Jan. 28, 60,856 tons, against 73,925 tons; Feb. 4, 58,705 tons, against 73,167 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the five weeks ended Feb. 4, 1871, was, of Penang, 11 tons, against 67 tons in the corresponding period of 1870; of Manila, Java, and China 1,267 tons, against 3,469 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 450 tons, against 407 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 2,524 tons, against 3,474 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 1 ton, against 19 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 254 tons, against 175 tons. The stock on Feb. 4 was, of Penang, 2,536 tons, against 1,917 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 26,283 tons, against 35,610 tons.

CORR GOODS.—At the last sales a moderate supply of Yarn went off steadily for medium to good qualities, while common sold slowly at previous rates; 8 bales Ceylon sold—medium at £28 to £29, good to fine at £34 to £40; of 96 tons offered about 75 tons sold—low at £20, very common to common at £22 10s. to £24 15s., middling at £29, fair to good at £31 to £35 10s., fine to superior at £42 to £51 5s.; of 1,221 coils (21 tons) Ceylon Rope offered 990 coils (11 tons) sold—low, 1 to 3½-inch, £20 10s. to £22; middling, £25 10s. to £27 per ton.

CUTCH.—Privately 220 boxes fine Pegue from Penang, ex recent auctions, have been sold at 22s. 6d., and 1,000 boxes fine Rangoon Fish mark at 22s.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The market continues steady, but is less buoyant. Of 231 casks Ceylon offered in public sale, 126 pipes sold at £40 to £40 5s., and 20 puncheons at £40 10s. to £40 15s., the remainder being bought in, pipes at £40 and hogheads at £41. A sale for arrival is reported at £41.

CANTHARIDES.—An offer of 2 cases China small and bold mixed was bought in at 2s. 6d.

CUBERS.—There is a good inquiry, and but small supply; private sales are being effected at 27s.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—Prices are firmly maintained in the face of a not over active demand; at public sale 6 cases were offered, of which 2 cases sold at £6 for medium lump.

GALLS.—Within the past few days prices have further advanced, 650 cases China having been sold, commencing at 45s., and closing at 47s.

HEMP.—The dull tone of the market for Manila continues, and no business is reported.

HIDES.—At the last sales the demand for East India was not quite so active as at the preceding two sales, but a considerable business was done without any quotable alteration in value, although in some instances the turn was slightly in favour of the buyer. Buffaloes were in limited demand. Singapore and Penang Cow Hides sold fairly. 11,454 Singapore and Penang Cow Hides offered, 10,100 sold—dry, light, and small, 8d. to 8½d.; heavy, 7d. to 7½d.; extra heavy, 7½d.; thirds, 5½d. to 6d.; fourths, 4d. to 4½d.; brined, light and small, 8½d. to 9½d.; heavy, 7½d.; extra heavy, 7½d. to 8d. per lb. 1,020 Ceylon Hides offered and sold—light and small, 5½d.; heavy, 5½d.; thirds, &c., 4½d.; Buffalo, 4d. per lb. 6,444 Cochinchina Hides offered and sold—second light, 7½d. to 8½d.; heavy, 6d. to 7½d.; small, 7½d. to 7¾d.; thirds, 6d. to 6½d.; fourths, 4½d.; Buffalo, 4½d. to 5d. per lb. 2,312 Singapore and Penang Buffalo Hides offered, 266 sold—best heavy, 5½d. per lb. 456 Siam Buffalo Hides offered, none sold.

INDIA-RUBBER.—There is a scarcity of East India kinds, especially of fine qualities, and these would meet with ready sale; at auction 17 baskets good Singapore have been sold at 10d. per lb., and 68 packages Borneo were withdrawn at 1s. 7d.

ISINGLASS.—At public sale on the 10th 16 cases Penang sold, fine pale leaf at 4s. 1d., ordinary to middling leaf at 2s. 9d. to 3s. 6d., good fair tongue at 3s. 8d., ordinary at 3s. 2d., Manila sort at 2s., low at 8d.

PLUMBAGO.—There is a firm market, and an advance of 1s. to 2s. per cwt. has been established. In auction the greater portion of 2,123 barrels offered found buyers at 20s. to 26s. per cwt. for fair to fine lump, with low at 12s.; chips, 12s. 3d. to 15s. 3d., good to superior bold; 6s. to 12s. 6d. low to very fine. There is a private trade to a fair extent doing at similar rates.

RICE.—The active demand continues; this week at public sale 1,500 bags damaged Rangoon from the Cape have been sold, first class at 9s. 9d., second class at 9s. 6d., damaged and repacked at 9s. to 9s. 3d.; privately on the spot 5,000 bags Bengal have been sold, ordinary white and Askoolie at 10s. 4½d. to 11s., 20,000 bags Rangoon (a landed cargo) at 10s. 9d., and a parcel of Bassein at 11s. 3d.; resales of 450 tons Aankoolie have been made afloat at 10s. 10d. ex quay, also 150 tons Casla at 8s. 6d. to 8s. 9d. ex quay. The cargo of 960 tons Rangoon, per Benares, arrived in dock, has been sold at 10s. 3d., ex ship, without guarantee of quality. The cargo of Rangoon, per Peveril of the Peak, 900 tons, just arrived, has been sold at 10s. 3d. ex quay.

ROORS.—China: Nearly all placed on offer has been sold for export at 19s. to 20s. Colombo: Firm at advanced rates; 13 bags medium, rather wormy quality, sold at 35s. per cwt.

SAPANWOOD.—Considerable private trade has been done in this wood at decidedly advanced prices, as high as £9 having been paid for fine Siam, upon which the demand is chiefly apparent.

SOY.—There is little doing in the market; prices are steady at the range last quoted.

SPICES.—Cassia: At the last sale 22 cases bold coarse broken quill and pieces, but of excellent Lignea flavour, ex Ellenborough, from Hong Kong, were retired at 110s.; 69 cases good curly Japan, of fair flavour, ex Danube, were also retired at 45s. Buds: The important quantity of 173 cases was offered, but the highest bid being £9, were all retired—fine bold genuine undrawn at £9 10s., ordinary and very stalky at £8. Since the sale a few cases ex Diomed have been placed at £9, CB in diamond mark, very good quality; also 25 cases of fresh import at £8 12s. 6d. to £8 15s. Nutmegs: Are 1d. to 2d. lower. Of 20 cases offered only 6 cases sold—70 to 71 to the lb. at 3s. to 3s. 1d. per lb.; 68 retired at 3s. 8d.; 81 to the lb. retired at 2s. 7d. Privately a string of 70 to the lb. are reported sold at 3s. per lb.

TAPIOCA.—At the last auctions large supplies offered went off flatly, and were chiefly bought in; of 2,323 bags Penang only about 500 bags sold, good sound at 2½d., chiefly damaged at 1½d. to 2d., the remainder being bought in at 2½d. to 2½d., also 515 bags Singapore at 2½d. to 2½d., except a few lots which sold at 2½d.

TIN.—The market continued dull for some days subsequent to our report of the 30th ult., and Straits receded to £131; during the past week the demand has improved, and prices have advanced, though they are still below our last quoted rates. The following is the current range:—Straits, on the spot, £133; afloat, £130; Banca, £164, Billiton, £134.

TURMERIC.—The market is without alteration.

VERMILION.—There is a fair private business doing in China at 3s. 6d. per lb.; no offers have been made at public sale.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS.

The freight market shows some signs of improvement, occasioned, doubtless, by the probability of an early peace, which, if concluded cannot but have a beneficial effect, for although a large amount of foreign tonnage will be brought into competition, we may look for a corresponding increase in shipments.

DISAPPEARANCE OF ISLANDS.—The Clyde-built China clipper ship Ariel, Courtenay, at New York from Yokohama with tea, reports that in lat. 7 N., while passing through the Tonamoton Archipelago of Imray's chart, date 1867, did not see either of the islands named Puka Raso, or Puka Runga, although they passed directly over the position assigned to the former. Probably these are the Egmont Islands on Noire's chart, date 1844, more to the eastward. The position of the islands named Fakama and Tereina, on Imray's chart, were correct by their chronometers, which subsequently proved to be right, both off Cape Horn.

She will be propelled by compound high and low pressure engines of 600-horse power, which will be supplied by Messrs. Caird and Co. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—It is undeniable that early or late the majority of mankind is affected with bad health. Few persons are so favoured by circumstances, or so fortified by nature, as to enable them to pass unscathed the sore trials of an inclement season. With catarrhs, coughs, and influenza everywhere abounding, it should universally be known that Holloway's Ointment, diligently rubbed upon the chest checks the worst assaults of these maladies, and securely wards off more dangerous and graver diseases of the throat and lungs.
The truth of this assertion must remain unquestioned in the face of thousands of living attestors! Diphtheria, croup, enlarged tonsils, and relaxed uvulas, yield with readiness to this treatment.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

Dates extend to the 1st Jan. The London mail of Nov. 4 arrived out on Dec. 25.

There is little news of importance. The small-pox, which has been raging more than a fortnight, was causing some anxiety, and the hospital was becoming overcrowded with patients. The Japan Mail, referring to this matter, says:—

We believe three men from the United States steamship Benicia were sent to the hospital; one of them has died, and, in order to prevent the disease spreading, the sailors of both the Benicia and Idaho are not allowed to go on shore, while the officers are under orders to return by ten P.M. It is said, on good authority, that a bungalow has been rented for a United States small-pox hospital; if so it will greatly relieve the hospital now in use, and will tend in no small measure to the ultimate recovery of the patients.

A correspondent confirms the statement in our last of the intended visit of Sir Harry Parkes to England. The Japanese Shipping Company will run their steamers to Shanghai, and eventually to San Francisco. "I have not heard that the Board of Works have commenced yet, but when they do we may look for great improvements. Dr. Newton has established a Lock Hospital at Nagasaki, and will visit Kobe in April to establish the same. Small-pox is raging here, and the Government intend to compel vaccination. Lieut. Hawes is now in the War Department, and commences his work on the 2nd proximo to instruct seamen and marines in gun and small-arm drill, shore drills, laboratory and other instructions; the very right man in the right place."

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Dates are down to the 4th Jan. The London mail of the 4th Nov., arrived out on the 23rd Dec.

We condense the following account of the burning of the British Consulate from the North China Daily News. The fire was discovered at midnight by the Consulate night watchman, who immediately gave the alarm to Mr. Medhurst and other residents in the neighbourhood. So cold was the night, however, and so ordinary the occurrence of Chinese fires, that in many cases it was not till the repeated and urgent ringing of the bell induced inquiries that a general knowledge of the catastrophe impending was arrived at. Many residents indeed remained in ignorance till next day that a fire had occurred—showing how inefficient, except for the immediate neighbourhood, the low position of the fire-bell at present renders it. The fire, it is conjectured, had been caused by cinders carelessly raked from the grate of the room dropping on the wood of the floor, which Chinese contractors generally place in dangerous proximity to fire places. When first discovered the fire only smouldered, and slight apprehension was entertained of its spreading beyond where it had originated. Water was to be had with difficulty, but a couple of buckets were procured and used as effectively as possible. The flames, however, soon burst out fiercely, and seizing on everything inflammable, spread with lightning rapidity throughout the room, out by the windows, along the balustrades of the verandah, and with a roar like thunder passed round the building, outside and inside, fanned by the keen frosty wind. The gentlemen in the various departments of the Consulate who were on the spot, with the assistance of others who had come up, hastened to secure such property and papers as were deemed most valuable; and though much was lost, numerous important documents and registers were saved. The duty was one, however, involving considerable danger to those engaged in it, the smoke having densely permeated the whole building, and the rapidity with which the flames were spreading threatening to cut off the retreat of those who had entered the upper rooms. The Consul, for instance, who was endeavouring to save some papers from his own office, and several others, found their way with great difficulty from the dark and smoke-filled rooms; and a couple of Mi-ho-loongs, who had to abandon all hope of getting down by the now burning staircase, escaped from the verandah, also burning, by a ladder. Between the time the fire was first noticed and its passing beyond the room in which it broke out, nearly an hour and a-half elapsed, while a couple of minutes after it had done so the fate of the Consulate was sealed.

The fire-engines of the S.F.D. were more tardy than usual in coming up. The companies from No. 3 district did not arrive till the whole building was in a blaze. Hongkew engine No. 2, though on the ground early, was not properly officered, and did but feeble service. Shanghai No. 1 and deluge steamer No. 4 were, with the Mi-ho-loong Hook and Ladder Company, quickly on the spot, but by a strange fatality neither No. 1 nor No. 4 could bring a stream to play on the fire until too late to save property, and it remained for No. 5 French and No. 3 Kin-lee-yuen, which came up as soon as the general alarm sounded, to be of real service and save the newly erected portion of the Consular buildings. No. 4 Deluge, which promised so much, and had even hose laid and a pipe ready to play upon the flames, failed to take water at the critical moment. By the exertions of some of the officers of the S.F.D., and the police under Inspector Strippling, No. 2 was brought into the Consular compound, and placed to take the water from No. 1, but when the stream was brought to bear on the fire the whole building was ablaze. Fortunately the lately built portion of the Consulate, with its court of justice, &c., was connected by the wings only with the old building, and here the firemen did good service and saved that portion from destruction by cutting off the fire as it approached from either end. The Mi-ho-loongs, Kin-lee-yuen No. 3, and French Company No. 5, after a gallant struggle with the flames, were finally masters of their ground, and kept the fire from spreading beyond the original building.

When the first alarm was given, as the office of the Judge's private secretary only was on fire, and the prospect of the rest of the building going seemed remote, the gentlemen on the spot confined their efforts for some time to this and the adjoining Supreme Court offices, confident that the Fire Brigade would be able to save the remainder of the building. Had it been otherwise, nearly everything might have been got out, so long was the fire confined to the south-east corner.

As it is—to begin with the worst losses—the records of Consular correspondence, from the foundation of the Consulate, have been lost, except a few stray volumes. The Chinese correspondence in the interpreter's office has been also lost. The title-deeds of foreign-owned property in the Vice-Consul's office have been saved. The deeds were enclosed in covers, which were in many cases charred; and the condition of the documents was not improved by a douche of water, to which they were subjected when the safe was opened, and they were seen to be smoking. Still, they are all legible. But the original Chinese title-deeds, which were locked in a safe not fire-proof, have been reduced to a heap of tinder. A word of explanation may be necessary to enable those unacquainted with the mysteries of land tenure in Shanghai to understand the distinction. The original Chinese title-deeds of land bought by foreigners are kept in the Consulate. The foreign purchaser merely gets and transfers a copy of the Consulate Register. It is these Registers which are safe—the Chinese deeds which are lost. Probably it will be no great disadvantage to get title-deeds made out afresh in the Taoutai's office, in the name of the real occupants, now so many changes have taken place.

Turning to the Shipping Office, we are glad to learn that all the ships' registers since 1864 have been saved, except one, which was overlooked, and which came to light among the rubbish, shrivelled into a remarkable likeness to a Japanese tobacco-pouch. Those before 1864, which were in another part of the building, have been lost. Ships' articles and papers, registries of entries and clearances, transfer books and bills of sale were also saved. In fact, we may safely say that nothing of serious importance from this office has been lost.

All the Consulate accounts of the current year were saved; but those of past years are burnt. It will be a lasting blot, too, on the intelligence of the Mi-ho-loongs and others concerned, that the registration lists of British subjects for the past two years have been saved. It behoved everyone entering this office, despite the excitement of the moment, to look carefully after these invidious documents and to pitch them into the hottest part of the flames. We believe one man did succeed in capturing a few stray ones, and dealt with them as they deserved. The registers of marriages and births were saved; that of deaths is burned. All the old accounts of deceased estates are burned; but those which are now current, in the hands of the Supreme Court, are saved. The property which was in hand is also believed to be all saved, except some minor items which could not be disposed of, and private papers which were waiting orders from relations as to their disposal. The current bankruptcy accounts have been also saved, though many of the old ones, which were comparatively valueless, are lost. The judges' note-books, judgments, originals of pleadings, &c., which were among the most important documents of the Court, were also saved, as was the greater part of the Law Library. The larger portion of the things in Mr. Goodwin's room, which was next that in which the fire broke out, was inevitably lost, amongst them Mr. Goodwin's despatch-box. We must also mention a loss sustained by the Volunteers. The new flag presented to them in October last was burned, and they will have now to fall back on the old record of 1854.

The British Consulate is now houseless, and will have, for some time to come, to be a tenant of some private hong. A telegram announcing the catastrophe was sent off by the steamer Danube, for transmission to England, and the words "purely accidental" were carefully added, to prevent Her Majesty's Government from sending off an army on the spot, under an impression that the fire was an incident in a Chinese rising.

A good deal has been said about the fire insurances on the building; and it is certainly remarkable that the policy expired on the 15th, only a week before the occurrence. No possible blame, however, can attach to the Government on this point, unless it be blamed for insuring at all. It is a recognised principle with large public companies that economy lies in taking their own risks; and certainly the British Government are sufficiently large owners of property in different parts of the world to make it worth their while to write insurance off in their own books. The fire broke out again on Sunday morning, at the northern junction of the new Supreme Court building with the Consulate, and was put out, under the direction, we believe, of Mr. Assiter, by destroying a portion of the connecting roof. It is a matter for sincere congratulation that this handsome wing, which has cost some £50,000, and is built with extravagant solidity, has been saved. Severely charred windows and doors on the side next the fire show how narrowly this portion escaped the fate of the main block. Subsequently coolies were still engaged extinguishing the last embers, which by their smoke betrayed the lingering presence of fire.

The following is from the North China Herald :—

In the absence of other local excitement, the late fire at H.M.'s Consulate has been much talked of, especially with reference to the delay in getting the fire engines to work; and the fact seems incontestable that, if a stream of water could have been brought to bear at any time within an hour or an hour and a quarter from the first discovery of the fire, the building might have been saved. But the cause of the delay is, we believe, much more attributable to the want of a proper fire-alarm than to inefficiency on the part of the Fire Brigade. As we have said before, not half the members of the Brigade heard the alarm, and engines are no use without men to work them. Two accidents, which materially delayed work on the present occasion, were caused by outsiders. One man who was asked to hold a connecting rod just as No. 1 was being got into working order, put it down against the Bund wall, where it was found next morning. Another man contrived to break the crank of No. 2 engine. These accidents were not caused by clumsiness of the Fire Brigade, but by the want of a proper alarm to call out the members of that Brigade who know their work. If the bell tower had been agreed to when it was first mooted, it might have been finished by this time. We hear that it has now been finally decided to give up the scheme, on account of the impracticable conditions which the church trustees wished to impose, and to order out a bell specially from England, which will be hung on a temporary wooden tower, to be erected for the purpose on the new municipal property in Honan road. The opposition which was raised to the original scheme has therefore consigned the church bells and clock to a new period of oblivion—in a godown. It is a pity that a project which would have been for the general public benefit could not be carried out on the broad principle of general public advantage.

Another fire occurred near the East Gate of the city, involving the destruction of a joss-house. The fire was to be seen from a considerable distance, but of course its position prevented foreign assistance being rendered. A fire broke out in a part of the Central Police Station, caused by an over-heated stove-flue communicating with the wooden supports of the eaves. Fire-buckets and water were both on the premises, however, and the officers and others about extinguished it with a promptitude which allowed no time for serious consequences.

Various extravagant reports were abroad, originating, we believe, in a rumour among the Chinese that 2,700 bales of cotton had been burned in the Pao-shun godown at Hankow. We cannot find, however, that there is any foundation for it. It was said to have come down by a Chinese steamer; but no such vessel has arrived, nor did the Customs know anything of the matter.

A meeting of subscribers to Trinity Church was held. The report and statement of accounts show that the final position is fairly satisfactory. Messrs. Keswick, J. Dent, and R. Ferguson were elected trustees for the ensuing year. We learn that the Hobson memorial windows for Trinity Church, subscribed for by old residents now at home, have been already despatched. They are to be placed in the south transept.

The long well known as Wha-shing, in the Peking Road, has been taken for the Supreme Court Offices. The Consulate is still located in Balfour-buildings.

At a meeting of members of Union Chapel it was unanimously resolved to ask the Rev. J. Thomas to resume the position as their pastor, which he resigned on the return of the Rev. W. Muirhead from England. Mr. Thomas has just left for England, so the invitation has reference, we presume, to his intended return.

One event of considerable interest to many was the drawing of new-year's gifts. This was virtually a lottery, though on a basis less formal and pretentious than such affairs are generally conducted. The total subscription was $15,000, highest prize $5,000, lowest $12.50. In order to secure the fullest publicity, it had been arranged that the drawing should take place at the Lyceum Theatre, and no sooner had the doors been opened at the appointed hour than a large number of expectants found their way in; and, though many went away during the course of the proceedings, still more came, and a full house of eager spectators watched the turning of fortune's wheel nearly the entire day. The mode of drawing was the ordinary one. In the front of the stage, at opposite sides, were placed two small barrels, each partly formed of wood and glass; and in these, respectively, the duplicate numbers to those sold and the sums apportioned as gifts. These vouchers were small squares of paper rolled up in cylindrical shape, so that with each twirl of the barrel they tumbled and rolled about inside, in the most impartial way. Careful arrangements had been made for drawing and checking the results, and it is needless to say that everything went off to the general satisfaction. The drawing during the early part of the day did not appease public expectation by settling the destination of the $5,000 prize, so that interest became rather heightened as it wore on. Between two and three o'clock, however, a thousand hopes, always rather shadowy, were ruthlessly dispelled by the calling out of No. 3,062 being followed by the declaration that to it appertained the big gift. Next in importance were prizes of $500, $250, and $125, which fell respectively to numbers 256, 2,950, and 38. About five o'clock the drawing ceased by the exhaustion of the gift barrel, from which 510 prizes had been taken; but, alas! 2,000 duplicate numbers still remained in the other, and their holders will have to be satisfied with the consideration that they have contributed to swell the New Year's happiness of 500 recipients, and most of all of the fortunate unknown, Mr. 3,062. For, strange as it may appear, the winner of the $5,000 gift has not yet come forward to claim his good fortune. Another prize-taker for a considerable sum is said to be a Chinese in foreign employ, who declines to draw his money till the excitement has passed away, lest he should become an object of too great solicitude to his friends and relatives.

The new Taoutai has arrived and taken up office at Ningpo. He is promoted, we believe, from Wenchow.

Two serious fires have occurred lately at the Imperial Palace at Peking. It is said that Mr. Hart intends to go home in the spring. The new Soochow Creek bridge has arrived by the Malacca, and is likely to be erected and open for traffic about March.

The Bobtail Nag has, we hear, been sold under the recent order in the Admiralty Court for $2,000. It may be assumed, therefore that this is something near her actual value. Yet she was chartered as a lightship for Newchwang, at Tls. 1,000 a month, for seven or eight months—say Tls. 7,500 for a ship which could have been bought out and out for less than a third of the money. Tls. 7,500 would have bought a really good vessel. Governments always seem to make a mess of the most ordinary business transactions.

HONG KONG.

Dates extend to Jan. 11. The London mail of Nov. 25 (French) arrived out on Jan. 7.

The Hon. W. H. Seward gave a public reception at the United States Consulate on January 2. A large number of Americans and many residents of other nationalities were present. The hon. gentleman was introduced to the meeting in an eulogistic speech by Mr. D. H. Bailey, United States Consul, who concluded by reminding the meeting that partly in consequence of injuries sustained from a carriage accident, and partly from a wound received on the sad, but memorable, occasion which resulted in the death of one of the Presidents of the United States. Mr. Seward was unable to address them standing.

In the course of his reply Mr. Seward said:—A glorious prospect appears before the survivors of the civil war which lately threatened to dismember the Republic. It is the spread of the civilisation of Western nations over the whole American continent, connecting with it by absolute necessity the regeneration of the Pacific Coast. This is the great work which is to be accomplished under the auspices of the United States of America, happily with the approbation of all the nations of Europe. In the conviction that this great problem directly concerns two of the great continents, and indirectly involves the interests of all mankind, I have attempted to study the probable working out of this problem of modern civilisation. I have heretofore travelled over the American Pacific Coast to mark its working, and with this simple object am now observing Asiatic countries. I will not fatigue you with political speaking, which would be out of place, but I may say two or three things without disloyalty to my own country, or to the Empire under which I stand, or unfriendly to any other nation. I would say briefly this, that I do not undervalue missionary labours in China, but I look for the practical advancement of civilisation in China chiefly to commerce—commerce across the Pacific Ocean; commerce by steam, across the American Continent and across the Atlantic Ocean. Notwithstanding all the doubts I see and hear expressed, I regard that commerce as now firmly established and secure. No foothold it has gained can ever be lost. It is continuous. It is guaranteed by the necessities of both continents, and by the enlightened policy of all Western nations. Say what they may, the whole world cannot prevent this commerce from regenerating China and Japan. There is no measure to its expansion and enlargement, because a trade that is firmly established must be destined to great increase. The free emigration of Chinese to the American and other foreign continents is the essential element of that trade and commerce. Chinese emigration to the American continent will tend to increase the strength and wealth of all Western nations, while at the same time the removal of the surplus population of China will tend much to take away the obstructions which now impede the introduction into China, of Art, Science, Morality, Religion. No one wants permission in China to make or sell any fabric that can be produced cheaper here, and the making of which is necessary for the support of the Chinese people. This seems to be laid down in the policy of the United States, which it has been attempted to maintain on this foundation. It has one thing of its own—the practice of equal and exact justice towards China and the Chinese. When that shall have been complete, and we are able to show ourselves willing to render justice, it will be in our right to make increased demands for an extension of commercial facilities, the railroad, the telegraph, a free press—all may be attained by foreign nations who are just to China, and who leave mankind to decide. It is said that progress here seems slow; but I always find that events progress faster than we can keep up with them. I have just come from Japan, and say with confidence that the state of affairs in China to-day is not one whit more discouraging than it seemed to be in Japan eight years ago, and nobody now distrusts Japan.

Mr. Seward concluded by expressing his heartfelt acknowledgments of the kindness which he had received in Hong Kong and Canton, and his hope that he might have a share in the regeneration of China.

The Daily Press has the following:—

Attention has been recently called by a case which has come before the notice of the Police Court in Hong Kong, to the old grievance of the irregularities of Compradores. The facts of the case in question were extremely simple. The Compradore was entrusted by his employers with the duty of effecting sales of goods, and was also allowed to deliver them to the purchasers and to receive the money. Availing himself of his position, he reported fictitious sales, and under pretence of delivering the goods to the purchasers he took them to a bank and obtained advances upon them, and afterwards lost the money so obtained—the sum total being something like $16,000. Upon the affair being discovered he coolly suggested to his employers that he would make the matter right by purchasing other goods on credit.

The last of the unfortunate loss of the ship Dunmail, in Hong Kong harbour, has to be noted in the offer by auction, on the 6th inst., of the wreck, which was bought in on account of the underwriters for $550.

The discovery of a taxing-office in Hong Kong, at which squeezes have for a long time been levied upon the salt junks in the colony, has suggested the question whether the same thing is not going on in other directions in the colony with respect to cargo of much more immediate importance to the foreign merchants than salt, which is an article only of native trade.

The following items are from the China Mail, which remarks that nothing of any interest has transpired.

An important announcement appears in the Government Gazette, to the effect that "the gaming-house licenses will be put up to auction, in lieu of the drawing of lots, at two p.m. on the 12th Jan., at the Government Offices." The conditions are also given. They include a deposit of $10,000 previous to bidding; none but Chinese, and no one in Government employ, can bid; upset price is fixed at $13,000 per month, or $159,600 per year; and the successful bidder is bound to carry on the business under the regulations of the Governor.

Mr. Moorsom, our energetic surveyor-general, has to be congratulated. He has inaugurated the new year with one or two substantial improvements on our highways, and the amelioration of our roadways seems still to progress at a satisfactory pace. In addition to this the weight of the repairs to the Court House and the attendant stone-cutting nuisance is also being removed from his mind, and generally things architectural look pleasant, if we except the Pokfolum Reservoir, which we have not visited for some time past. It is not unworthy of notice, besides the above features, that labourers are now engaged, under Mr. Moorsom's supervision, in digging for the bad smell at the Club corner. Possibly if the harbour mouth of that pestiferous drain (which has been choked for the last three years) were cleared, things would smell sweeter.

His Lordship the Chief Justice sat in Bankruptcy on the 4th, when Wm. Schmidt, bankrupt, was again brought up, on a motion for discharge. The discharge having been granted, and there being no other business, the Court rose.

A meeting of shareholders in the Union Insurance Society of Canton was held on Dec. 28, for the purpose of electing by ballot a Board of seven directors, in accordance with clause 98 of the Society's Articles of Association. Hon. H. B. Gibb occupied the chair; and there was an unusually large attendance. There were present—Messrs. Dhunjeebhoy, Arthur, H. C. Caldwell, E. R. Belilios, H. Hughes, R. Watmore, J. Whittall, J. Forbes, R. Cairns, Jukes, Kaye, Eimboke, Ryrie, Pettit, Melchers, Joost, Ruttunjee, Lemann, Helland, Crichton, Agabeg, Pyke, Sassoon, Buxey, Hitchcock, Ede, Berwick, Overbeck, Heard, Hart, Lapraik, Park, Ezekiel, Burrows, Condit, Behre, Pallunjee, Landstein, Walsh, Maclean, Gubbay, and Karberg. The chairman having read the notice calling the meeting, intimated that the election of officers would be immediately proceeded with, and those present having filled the ballot hat with fifty-seven votes, the contents were next analysed. This operation occupied nearly an hour, and when the secretary got to the bottom of the ballot-box, the return showed itself to be the following:—Messrs. H. B. Gibb, S. D. Sassoon, H. B. Lemann, T. Pyke, A. Joost, J. Whittall, and G. J. Helland. Messrs. Ryrie, Heard, and others were also well up in the list of votes, the former being out by only two or three. There being no other business before the meeting, the Chairman recommended those present to give as much business as possible to the society; and the meeting separated.

The wreck of the ship Guiling Star, disabled in an attempted voyage from this to San Francisco, was disposed of at auction, by Mr. J. M. Armstrong, for the sum of $6,000.

HONG KONG AND WHAMPOA DOCK MEETING.

An extraordinary general meeting of shareholders in this Company was held on the 5th inst., at the office of the Company, for the purpose of taking into consideration the advisability of closing one of the Company's establishments. Present:—Hon. J. Whittall, chairman; Messrs. Helland, Heaton, Sassoon, Pyke, Joost, Bell, Overbury, Landstein, W. M. Morgan, Lapraik, Hart, Burrows, Crichton, Foster, Spratt, Deacon, Nicaise, Buxey, Crawford, Pestonjee, Ryrie, Sherwood, Tata, Arthur, Mellish, Coxon, Hitchcock, Beyer, Middleton and Park.

The Chairman said that during the last six months, estimating the present month, the receipts had been $215,000, against $291,600 during the previous six months, while there had been a nett gain of only $25,000, against $59,000. For the twelve months the nett profits had been barely $85,000, against a capital of $1,000,000 and the loan amounting to $400,000. The question then arose, what should they do? They did not see their way to reducing the expenditure if all the establishments were kept open. The future looked so cheerless that the directors had thought it was their duty to come before the shareholders to decide what was to be done. In this difficulty they had determined to submit the question of closing one of the establishments, in hopes that all the business now done by three might be done by two, and the expenses of the other saved. But, even by doing this they could not effect a saving of more than $1,000 a month, and as each of the docks had given a small share of the profits, the step might involve a loss instead of a gain to the company. The Whampoa Dock showed the worst result as to gross receipts, namely $5,000, against $9,000 at Aberdeen, and $15,500 at Kowloon. But it showed, on the other hand, a larger gain than at Kowloon, and much larger than the Aberdeen one.

The motion that the Aberdeen Dock should be temporarily closed was carried by 19 against 3.

COCHIN CHINA.

SAIGON.

The seventh list of the subscription for the French wounded brings the total sum raised in Saigon to f.64,313.

Advices from the neighbouring districts describe them as being generally undisturbed; but on Christmas-eve a party of rebels, four hundred strong, took advantage of the absence of the militia to attack the station of Cay-lai, where they burned some houses and killed one man. On the return of the militia the rebels were driven off.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

We learn from the Siam Weekly Advertiser that his Excellency the Italian Ambassador has put himself in communication with his Excellency Chow Phya Bhanuwongse Maha Kosa Dhipati, the Minister for Foreign Affairs. He has had an audience with his Majesty the Supreme King of Siam, and one with his Majesty the Second King. The prospects are that the mission will be successful in negotiating an acceptable treaty of friendship and commerce with Siam. The Italian Ambasador and suite are now located in the brick building on the east side of the river, just below the Klong-padnng-krung-krasem canal, the usual residence of John Bush, Esq., Harbour-master and Master Attendant of the Port of Bangkok. The facilities that will be afforded for trade, through the Suez Canal, will doubtless bring to our port in future many vessels from the great commercial ports of Southern Europe, and hereafter, Austria, Greece and Italy will have not only their representatives in Siam but a brisk and flourishing commerce with the country.

The 62nd birthday of the P'usamret Rajakan P'endin, the most distinguished nobleman of Siam, occurred on the 24th Dec., and was celebrated with great display. Their Majesties the First and Second Kings, the ladies of both palaces, and some of the Foreign residents of Bangkok visited his Highness on the occasion. Most of the Siamese ships in port were gaily decorated with flags, and many places on both sides of the river were gaily illuminated for several successive evenings to honour him who is the head of the Senabawdi, and is popularly styled by the natives, the P'ra prasat, the P'usamret Rajakan P'endin, and by most of the foreigners, courteously, "his Grace the Regent."

The new mill at Lak'aunch Pisee was expected to commence manufacturing sugar in January.

On Christmas day an affray occurred on the British barque Lochnagar, when the chief mate was severely wounded by a stab in the abdomen.

The following is an account of the exports of Bangkok from Jan. 1 to Dec. 18, 1870; the figures, unless otherwise specified, indicate piculs:—Rice, 2,579,974; sapanwood, 80,147; sugar, 93,688; pepper, 24,238; hides, 18,169; horns, 3,183; cardamums, 2,213; teelseed, 56,240; tin, 7,315; sticklac, 3,029; silk, 635; paddy, 17,195; dried meats, 13,160; peas, 11,322; ivory, 37; nuxvomica, 39; lotus seed, 543; teak planks, 5,725 pieces and 259 tons; birds' nests, 13½; dried fish, 8,301; dried prawns, 30; coloured cotton, 6,748; tiger bones, 64; ebony, 250; tallow, 354; beancake, 4,600; uncleaned cotton, 2,115; hemp, 2,988; rosewood, 26,520; ray skins, 105; teak logs, 2,638; beeswax, 31; mangrove bark, 6,527; mussels, 5,896; turtle shells, 5; meats, 445; gamboge, 217; crook, 507; sandalwood, 10; salt fish, 160,401; raw silk, 548; iron pans, 850; green peas, 149; indigo, 292; salt, 24,650; tamarind, 51; gum benjamin, 162; onions, 568. These are the reported figures, the reality may possibly be much greater.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to the 18th January. On the 6th the P. and O. steamer Behar arrived with the London mail of Dec. 2.

We learn from the Straits Times that his Excellency the Governor still remained at Penang, but would leave there in a day or two for Malacca, making, we suppose, his farewell visits to the various settlements previous to his departure for home on leave of absence, which will be, we believe, in March next. The Criminal session continued until the 16th January. The session was one of the heaviest lately, though the cases were not of much general interest. The evidence in one of them, however, showed the inefficient working of our Post-office with regard to the delivery of Chinese letters.

The same paper says the telegraph cables between this and Madras, and also the Java cable, continue to work well. Reuter's messages, however, do not come to hand very quickly, the latest date received being the 13th inst., which occupied four days in transmission. This is owing, we believe, to the wires working badly between India and England.

Our contemporary appears to have arranged his differences with Mr. Reuter, and publishes his telegrams as usual.

The new steamer Pluto, having been docked and cleared, made a trip out to the Sultan shoal, round the Raffles light-house and back to Singapore, on which she attained fully ten knots per hour, so that there is no fault to find on the score of speed.

Among the passengers to this port by the French mail steamer from Hong Kong was the Hon. W. H. Seward, ex-United States Secretary of State, who has visited Japan and China by the Pacific mail route, and has spent a few days here. Mr. Seward is advanced in years, and is travelling principally for the benefit of his health. The press in China entertain hopes of good results from his visit, though he does not now hold office, owing to the weight that will be attached to his opinion on questions affecting the policy to be adopted towards China.

The British barque Clarendon, of Liverpool, 422 tons register, was wrecked on the 25th December by running on a rock near Soubié reef, in the China Sea. She was loaded with rice, and was on the voyage from Saigon to Hong Kong. The master and part of the crew reached Sarawak in the long-boat after fourteen days. The second officer and five men in the gig were lost sight of on the seventh day after the shipwreck, and, having no provisions, must have perished, unless picked up by some vessel. No court of inquiry into her loss has been held as yet.

The arrivals from England via the Suez Canal have been the Priam on the 14th and the Oberon on the 16th Jan. The departures for home by the same route have been the Achilles on the 10th and Great Northern on the 14th.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—The demand for Grey Shirtings reported in our last had continued, but owing to the arrival of considerable supplies, and the number of willing sellers, prices had slightly receded. Cotton Yarn remained neglected and consequently weak in value. Black Velvets and Turkey Reds were in some little request, but no other description of Cotton Goods call for remark; whilst Woollen and Worsteds of almost every kind were utterly unsaleable. Quotations: GE Grey Shirtings, 7lbs., $2.22 to 2.25 per piece; 8-4 to 8 lbs., $2.75 to 2.78; 9 lbs., $3.25; Turkey Red, $2.50 to 2.70; Velvets, Black, $6.50 to 8.25; Cotton Yarn, No. 16 to 24, $38.50 to 39.50 per picul; No. 28 to 32, $40.50 to 41.00 per picul, No. 38 to 42, $41.00 to 41.50 per picul.

HANKOW.—Transactions had been on a limited scale, owing to the anxiety of holders to clear off their stocks before the Chinese New Year, and to the dealers being unwilling to buy at gradually declining rates. Grey Shirtings: 7 lbs. pressed on the market, at a decline on last mail's closing rates of five candareens; quoted at Tls. 1.72 to 1.75 per piece. 8½ lbs. had been forced down as low as Tls. 2.15 for best chops, but owing to more favourable advices from Shanghai, an advance had been obtained up to Tls. 2.18; very little inquiry for heavy weights. White Shirtings in limited request. T-Cloths: Few small sales at a decline, but stocks not being excessive, holders were not pressing their goods on the market. Drills: Owing to large arrivals and the closing of the season, prices had been weak. English worth Tls. 2.85 to 3.02; Dutch, Tls. 2.82 to 2.97 per piece. Woollens and Worsteds quiet, at former quotations.

SHANGHAI.—Inactivity was still the prevailing characteristic of the market. The business in manufactured goods since the departure of last mail had not been large, still enough had been done in the chief staples to establish quotations which differed but little from those last given. Grey Shirtings: The firmness of holders had established a slight advance in the value of 7 lb. fabrics. That weight had commanded most attention; but 8½ lb. had also changed hands in small lots at last quotations, viz., Tls. 2.10 to 2.15 per piece for fair ordinary to best chops. Sales had transpired at lower rates, but under exceptional circumstances, and could hardly be taken as an index of the state of the trade. T-Cloths: The value had been fairly maintained. The transactions reported showed rather an irregular market; but, on the whole, holders were disposed to await the active resumption of business rather than give way further to buyers. In the market for other Cotton Goods there had been no change. Woollens: Considerable settlements of Crape Lastings at Tls. 5.25 per piece indicate a rather better feeling in the market for them. Long Ellis Scarlet C.P.H. were dearer; importers refused to sell at under Tls. 5.30 per piece, but speculators were still willing to accept Tls. 5.15. Camlets and Figured Orleans saleable at last mail's rates, sales of Crape Lustres effected at Tls. 2.70 to 2.90 per piece. The market for Spanish Stripes, medium and other Woollen Cloths were dull, with prices weak and drooping. Coals: Market quieter. Cardiff: Sales made from godown at Tls. 10.10 per ton. English and American: No arrivals or transactions. Metals.—Lead: No sales worthy of note. One small lot of L. B. changed hands at Tls. 4.48.

HONG KONG.—The tone of the market had been one of uniform depression, and prices, in many instances, showed a decline upon the low rates previously ruling. Cotton Yarn: Market very dull, stocks accumulating; demand almost nil, and confined only to very best spinnings. Grey Shirtings: A few sales made at quotations, but importers generally were not inclined to press business at current low values. White Shirtings: Low reeds in over supply and lower; some demand for 64 reed at quotations, and a few fine goods moved at previous rates. T-Cloths: A further decline in common flbs., stocks of which were very heavy. Ordinary 7lbs. quite neglected, and superior qualities only moved with difficulty; 36-inch very firm, with ready sale on the spot. Spotted Shirtings: Scarce and rather firmer. Brocades in moderate supply, and fairly saleable. Other Cotton Goods: No demand, and almost unsaleable. Woollens: Market much depressed, and scarcely any business doing. Metals.—Iron: No sales; quotations again lower. Lead in large stock, and rates lower. Coals: Prices for Cardiff and Australian as last quoted; English dull. Quotations:—Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $105 to 112 per bale; 28 to 32, $112.50 to 117.50; 38 to 42, $130 to 135; Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $3.10 to 2.12½ per piece; 8-4 lbs., $2.60 to 2.75; 9-12 to 10 lbs., $3.25 to 3.40; White Shirtings, $2 to 2.80; fine, $3.25 to 3.50; T-Cloths, 6 lbs., ordinary, $1.47½ to 1.52½; Mexicans, $1.70 to 1.75; 7 lbs., ordinary, $1.75 to 1.85; Mexicana, $2 to 2.25; 8 to 8-4 lbs., $2.45 to 2.55; Spotted Shirtings, $2.50 to 3.70; Turkey Red Shirtings, 3 lbs., $2.30 to 2.60; Brocades, Coloured, $3.60 to 3.80; Damasks, $5.75 to 6.10.

BATAVIA.—The following is from Messrs. Houghton and Co.'s Circular:—The demand has been very quiet, and considering the season of the year, we do not look for much doing till about March. As stocks, however, are light, and supplies as yet on but a moderate scale, we hope to see a fair amount of business done whenever our busy season sets in. Cambrics, 45-inch by 12 yards: 15/16's inquired for regularly, but no advance established; fine qualities, f.4.20 to f.4.30; medium, f.4.10 to f.4.15; and common, f.4 to f.4.05 per piece, short credit; 30's, f.3.25 to f.3.50; 36's, f.3.50 to f.3.75. SINGAPORE.—Messrs. Boustead and Co. report as follows:—Our market for Piece Goods has continued dull during the fortnight, and with the exception of 8½ lbs. Grey Shirtings, which are in small supply, and have been in fair inquiry at slightly improved rates, business has been extremely limited. Turkey Red Cambrics have met with attention, and large sales made, but at lower prices. 39-inch Grey Shirtings: 8½ lbs. stocks nearly cleared from first hands; sales reported at $2.57½ to 2.60, with a few of superior quality at $2.62½; 7 lbs. in no demand, and forced on the market at $2; 6 lbs. very dull, at $1.77½ to 1.82½. 45-inch: 9 lbs. in limited inquiry, at $2.85 to 2.87½; stocks moderate; other weights quite neglected. White Shirtings: Fine in less demand, and prices lower. In medium and low goods very little doing; 64 reed quoted $2.75 to 2.80; 45-inch worth $3.52½ to 3.55, but not in demand. White Spots very dull; quoted $2.52½ and 2.57½ for 14 by 14 and 15 by 14. 32-inch Grey T-Cloths: very limited transactions at rather lower rates. 4 lbs., $1.12½; 4½ lbs., $1.17½ to 1.20; 5 lbs., $1.30; 6 lbs., $1.50 to 1.52½; 7 lbs., $1.72½ to 1.80. Grey Maddapollams in no demand, stocks heavy. 32-inch Turkey Red Cambrics: Demand met at lower rates. Sales reported of 2 lbs. 1 oz. at $1.95; 2½ to 2½ lbs. at $1.95 to 2.05; 2½ lbs., $2.10 to 2.12½; 3 lbs. at $2.30, and 3½ lbs. $2.35. Yarn of all counts very dull. A small sale of 18/24s inferior quality at $80. 30's quoted nominally $106½; 40's, sold to a moderate extent at $118½ to 120. Coloured Yarns very quiet. Turkey Red, 12 lbs. Glasgow dye, $140 to 147½, according to quality; demand very limited. A small sale of 10 lbs. at $130. Orange, $71 to 73½. Imperial Red, $69 to 70. Woollen Goods show no change.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—A large business had been done in all grades from Common to Fine for the American market, resulting in the settlement of about 6,000 piculs. Native dealers having shown a little more willingness to meet buyers, purchases had been made at slightly easier rates in some instances, but on the whole quotations were unchanged. Supplies continued to come forward on a fair scale, and stocks remained with little change. The G. T. Ray, Coulakyle, Belted Will, Solent, 732 tons, and Royal Minstrel, 447 tons, were loading for New York. Quotations:—Common, $20 to 23 per picul; Good Common, $24 to 26; Medium, $28 to 30; Good Medium, $32 to 34; Fine, $35 to 38; Finest and Choice, nominal.

HANKOW.—Supplies had been moderate, and so long as Teamen could realise at about the equivalent of Shanghai rates they had preferred to sell upon this market. The quality had been very undesirable. The business for the four weeks had been 4,193 chests for London, or resale in Shanghai at Tls. 11½ to 14 per picul (10½d. to 12½d. per lb.), and shipments on native account about 2,127 chests.

SHANGHAI.—Black: Transactions had been of small extent, and showed little alteration in the market. Shuntaam Teas had been taken at previous prices. Low Teas, of the Hohow character, had been purchased at Tls. 14½ and upwards. Teas possessing a little flavour had been settled at Tls. 18 to 18½. Supplies had not been large, but native reports stated that several thousand chests of low Hohow had yet to come forward from Kiukiang and Hankow. Settlements for the fortnight, 7,000 chests; Re-shipments on owners' account, nil; Stock, 30 chops, or 10,800 packages, 7,000 chests. Quotations (Duty paid, exchange at 5s. 10½d., freight at £2):—Hohow, low to common, Tls. 14.8.0 to 18; Oonam, common, Tls. 15.2.5; Ningchow, common, Tls. 18 to 18½; Green: Settlements small, even for the time of year; purchases during the fortnight amounted to 19,560 half-chests. Prices had in some instances been lower, especially for the medium classes of Moyunes, which sold at a decline of from Tls. 1 to 2 from the prices previously demanded; Teamen were, however, firmer at the close, and purchases could not be made as cheaply as during the first part of the fortnight. Good medium to fine chops had continued firm, and all the best Teas on the market had been taken at very full rates. Settlements for the fortnight, 19,560 half-chests. Re-shipments on owners' account, 908 half-chests. Stock, 113 chops, or 40,000 packages of Teenkai, Fychow and Moyune Teas, 20,468 half-chests. 7 chops, or 3,700 packages of Shanghai-packed and Pinguey Teas.

FOOCHOW.—A fair business had been in progress throughout the fortnight, both for England and America. Settlements, 30,216 chests Congou and Souchong, and 27,621 half-chests Oolong; arrivals from the country, 7,355 chests Congou and Souchong, and 800 half-chests Oolong. Congou: Demand had been for fair common and superior, which fully maintained their value, and in some instances realised a slight advance. Common Congous, from Tls. 12 to 14½, had also been in demand. The bulk of the Teas on offer were broken leaf kinds, which showed no decline, although neglected. Stock of dust and siftings large, and few purchases made at a decline of a quarter of a Tael. Quotations:—Dust and siftings, Tls. 4½ to 7; broken leaf to ordinary, Tls. 7½ to 12; fair to good common, Tls. 12½ to 15; flavour to good flavour, Tls. 16 to 20. Souchong: A small business at former rates, viz.: common, Tls. 12 to 15; medium, Tls. 16 to 20. Oolong: A large quantity shipped to London in the steamer Achilles. Quotations: common cargo, Tls. 15 to 17; fair to good cargo, Tls. 18 to 21. Scented Teas: Settlements 2,441 boxes common, at Tls. 15½ to 18. Flowery Pekoe: 258 chests found buyers at Tls. 20½ to 23, and Tls. 23 to 29½.

AMOY.—Season at this port closed.

CANTON.—The season was drawing to a close. A few settlements at previous prices reported from day to day out of the small remaining undesirable stock. Two chops of Country Congou taken for shipment to England, and some small parcels withdrawn from the market for repacking and shipment to India.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—The market had been rather dull, settlements only amounting to about 100 bales; quotations however remained unchanged, dealers being very firm in their demands. Settlements, hank sorts, 60 bales; other sorts, 40 bales; total, 100 bales; stocks, 3,200 bales.

SHANGHAI.—The following is from Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular:—We have to report a very limited business for the fortnight; just as the last mail was closing, about 290 bales were bought. Since then dealers have been slightly easier, and many are showing signs of anxiety to quit their stocks before the China New Year. Some few buyers have taken advantage of this, and the result is about 300 bales having been settled at very irregular prices. The inferiority of the Silk now on the market is very marked, and in some instances well-known chops have been put into inferior qualities. The purchases consist of Blue Flag, chop 3, Tls. 530 to 535; Green Dragon chop, Tls. 500; Medium, No. 4 to 5 Tsatlee, Tls. 470 to 500; re-reeled Haineen, Tls. 580 to 585; re-reeled Tsatlee, Tls. 560 to 580.

CANTON.—The latest London advices, containing discouraging intelligence from Europe, had quite put a stop to business. Holders, nevertheless were firm, and quotations were nominally the same as those last given. For America there was a steady demand, and high prices continue to be paid for anything fine and clean.

COCHIN CHINA PRODUCE.

SAIGON.—Messrs. Hale and Co. report as follows:—During [the month under review an active demand for Rice has continued on the part of the Chinese for shipment to China, where prices have been ruling high. The new grain is now commencing to arrive at market freely. About 100,000 piculs were contracted for by Europeans for shipment to China and Japan, at $1.50 to 1.52½ per picul, and the last purchase (for Hong Kong) was at $1.56 per picul, f.o.b. The advices just to hand from China and Japan vary as regards the crops in those quarters, but prices there are sufficiently high to keep up the value here, and prevent shipments to Europe, the limits from whence are comparatively very low. The only exports to Europe during the month have been by three French vessels loaded home on owners' account, viz.:—December 13, Hippocampe, to Belle Isle, 8,567 piculs; 28, Admiral Gourbeyre, to Falmouth, 5,000 piculs; Pierre, to Belle Isle, 13,000 piculs. Inclusive of which, the total exports to Europe during last year is only 142,321 piculs; the close proximity of the China and Japan markets having kept prices here too high for European orders, and which we fear will again be the case this season.

SIAM PRODUCE.

BANGKOK.—Rice: Supplies of grain had been very moderate, whilst on the other hand an active demand had prevailed for shipment to China, in consequence of which prices had gradually advanced, and the market is now very firm. Stocks of old garden-paddy were almost entirely exhausted, and supplies of new grain were still small, the paddy having been cut later than is usual. Field rice of the new crop would probably not be on the market before the end of February. Quotations: Steam Mill Field Rice, $1.55 per picul f.o.b.; Steam Mill Garden Rice, $1.70 f.o.b.; Native Cleaned Garden Rice resifted, $1.70 f.o.b.; Native cleaned: White, No. 1, Tls. 70 per coyan f.o.b.; No. 2, Tls. 68 f.o.b. Black Pepper: None of the new crop expected before April. Cow Hides: Ticals 16 per picul f.o.b. Buffalo Hides: Ticals 10 per picul f.o.b. Buffalo Horns: Ticals 13½ per picul f.o.b. Deer Horns: Ticals 11½ per picul f.o.b. Gum Benjamin: No. 1, Tls. 110 per picul f.o.b.; inferior, Tls. 40 per picul f.o.b. Sapanwood: 3 to 5 pieces per picul, Ticals 3 per picul; 5 to 6 do., Ticals 2½; 6 to 7 do., Ticals 2. Teakwood, Ticals 10½ per yoke f.o.b.

JAVA, SIAM, AND STRAITS PRODUCE.

BATAVIA.—Arrack: Advanced sales at f.75 to f.80 per Leaguer of 133 imperial gallons. Gum Damar: Sales at f.27 to f.28 per picul. Indigo: First quality scarce and worth f.4.30 to f.4.50 per lb. India Rubber: Scarce at f.96 to f.110 per picul. Gutta Percha: In less request at f.100 to f.150 per picul. Nutmegs: In fair demand at f.90 to f.110 per picul. Mace: Advance being worth f.170 to f.205 per picul. Tin, Billiton: None in the market; an auction of 6,000 piculs is advertised for the beginning of February. Pepper, Black: Scarce and wanted, sales at f.25 to f.26 per picul. White: None procurable. Sugar: Improved accounts from Holland had further advanced prices, and for No. 14 and lower f.16 to f.16.50 per picul was paid.

SINGAPORE.—Tin had continued to advance, the closing quotation was $32½ to 32¾, very little in stock. Gambier had gradually declined, and was offered at $2.80. Black Pepper: Considerable contracts made at $9.50 to 9.65 and more offered, but dealers refused to sell. Sago Flour: Sales of Sarawak at $2.60 to 2.62½; Singapore $2.50. Pearl Sago: Large contracts at $3 to 3.05, and in demand. Coffee: Bontyne out of stock; last sale at $12½ to 12¾, since offered for a lot "to arrive." Tapioca: Obtainable at $3.30 to 3.35. Buffalo Hide: Good quality obtainable at $8.75 to 9 per picul, but for best $10½ paid. Cow Hide: Sales of picked Rangoon at $14½ per picul. Buffalo Horns are very dull at $8½ per picul. India Rubber: Scarce and worth $40 to 40½ per picul; Borneo, $32½, firm. Gutta Percha: Small sales of first quality at $65. Gum Damar in fair demand at $9½; stock small.

THE TOUR OF MR. TROUP IN JAPAN.

Mr. Troup's report of his tour through the eastern parts of Nee-e-gata, and parts of the neighbouring provinces of Iwashiro and Uzen, last summer, has just been published in the form of a Blue-book. Mr. Troup appears to have been very well received both by the local authorities and the people, and the information he has collected shows the scene of his investigations to be very rich in minerals, as well as in silk, and other agricultural productions.

The following are the most important facts ascertained in the course of the tour:—

The important copper mines of Kusagura, about seven miles from Tsugawa, have been brought into working order since the close of the civil war, but they are greatly hindered by the collection of water. At present none of the workings can be carried on at a level much lower than that of the lowest outer openings by reason of this difficulty. No pumps are employed, and the manager of the mines was ignorant of the principle of the syphon until informed of it by Mr. Troup. The ore obtained is of a very superior nature, what is termed by miners "solid ore." All the process of crushing, washing, &c., are carried on by manual labour without the assistance of any other power, although there is a stream of water which might easily be turned to advantage close by. The metal as finally prepared in slabs is so impure that it has been offered for sale at Nee-e-gata to foreigners without inducing them to purchase. There are at present 200 persons employed in the mines; but, notwithstanding the great richness of the ore and the productiveness of the mine, until improved means of working are introduced, not much profit is likely to attend the operations of this most important of the Aidzu copper mines.

On the side of the ridge, on the other side of the arm from the copper-mine, a seam of coal of good quality, but as yet unworked, crops out on the surface. Coal is also found in another locality, a little over a mile from Tsugawa, and there is a smaller copper-mine in the same neighbourhood.

The silver mine of Shimo-Nojiri, has not been worked since the civil war, but it is intended to resume working at an early date. Mr. Troup was shown a specimen of its silver ore.

Large numbers of emigrants were observed by Mr. Troup at this place. These people were the last of the Aidzu clan, who were leaving their country to be shipped to the territories granted them in the far north. All appeared to have been allowed to retain fire-arms, as well as swords.

There are some remains of a former gold working in the range of hills between the plain of Wakamatou and the lake of Mas-washiro, but not evidences of any great productiveness.

There are several sulphur springs issuing from different places on the sides of the mountain stream at Numajiri. One of these is a stream of hot sulphur water two or three yards wide. The herbage of the adjacent pastures is very rich.

At Oshiwo the manufacture of salt is carried on from two salt springs of tepid water. This salt is almost as white as English table salt. In all these valleys the silk culture is carried on. The manufacture of wooden utensils is also conducted near Oshiwo.

The town of Yonezawa is large, but not well built, and the inhabitants do not seem so well to do as those of the country villages, which, where the silk culture is the staple occupation of the people, appear very prosperous and comfortable. Yonezawa seed having obtained some reputation for superiority, cocoons already formed are brought from Soshu to Koide, to be hatched and lay their eggs there, and these eggs will thus come into the market as Yonezawa seed. Empty cards, prepared for this fraud by the impression of the Yonezawa stamp, were shown to Mr. Troup. The machine for reeling the cocoons is very rude.

Altogether Mr. Troup and his party were absent on this interesting journey sixteen days from Nee-e-gata, and travelled a distance of probably over 290 miles.

THE CEYLON RAILWAYS.

Our latest excitement has been the discussion of the proposed railway extension to Nawalapittya, the point of approach to the new planting districts of Dimboola and Dickoya, as well as to the older districts of Kotmalie, Ambefamma, Yacdesa, and Dourbagie. In opening the present session of the Legislative Council, the Governor expressed the hope that he would be able in this session to propose a vote for the extension of the present railway to Nawalapittya or its neighbourhood, and thought that future railways should be on the narrow gauge principle, which was better adapted to our mountain country than that on which the line from Colombo to Kandy was constructed, viz., 5 feet 6 inches, whereas a three-foot-six line would compass all the traffic that would be provided by the districts to be tapped by the proposed extension. Meantime he could say nothing definite till the line was surveyed, which would not be long, the distance being only seventeen miles. And the report of the engineer, Mr. Sharp, was in favour of the line being carried out on the present gauge to Nawalapittya. He considered that by adopting the narrow gauge there would only be a saving of £24,000, while there were carriages and rolling stock sufficient for double the traffic on the present line. There would, therefore, be the saving of an entire set of new rolling stock. The workshops at Colombo would accommodate the whole when requiring repairs. There would be a saving of about £1,400 a year in loading and unloading at the point where break of gauge occurred, while other advantages, which he pointed out in continuing the present gauge would be more than commensurate with the difference in cost of construction. The Governor also calculated the traffic that would be carried on the extended line at enough to pay 8½ per cent. interest on the whole outlay, estimated at £250,000, and showed that £100,000 of this amount was already in hand, and that £150,000 more could be borrowed in the colony. Thus advised, scientifically and financially, his Excellency laid his scheme of broad gauge continuation to Nawalapittya before the Legislative Council, telling them at the same time that if it met their approval the work could be immediately begun, while if opposed he would not take the responsibility of initiating any other line or gauge without a reference home. Mr. Harrison, M.L.C., the head of the firm of Keir, Dundas, and Co., who is also an engineer, opposed in his place in Council the Government plan of broad gauge, asserting that for double the money a line on the narrow gauge could be carried forty-four miles, and into the centre of the districts which the Nawalapittya line would only tap. He found only one supporter, however, and in the vote he was opposed by 13 to 2. Mr. Harrison still persisted in his opposition, and laid on the Council table a number of valuable statistics and calculations in support of his position. He was joined by Mr. Mercer, also an engineer, and manager of the Ceylon Company, in his narrow gauge project, and these gentlemen placed before the Chamber of Commerce a memorandum recommending that the line should not go beyond Gampola on the present gauge, nor be continued till surveys of other routes be made. This resolution was carried in a Chamber of eight; but a protest against this being considered the opinion of the Chamber was signed by ten members, who supported the Governor's scheme of broad gauge to Nawalapittya. Meantime the planters in Dimboola, Dickoya, and the other districts whose roads converge in Nawalapittya, memorialised the Governor to the effect that they did not want a line into the heart of their districts—that they doubted its being practicable, or that it would pay if practicable—and that their requirements would be sufficiently met by the Governor's proposed line to Nawalapittya. At this point of the discussion the ranks of the opposition were joined by Mr. George Wall, also an engineer and head of the firm of George Wall and Co., who represent a great number of coffee properties. This gentleman called a meeting, which was numerously attended, but, after an animated discussion, the resolution he proposed, which recommended an official inquiry into the question, was negatived by 182 votes against 36, and the following amendment, moved by Mr. A. Brown, was carried:—"That, in the opinion of this meeting, the railway should be continued to Nawalapittya without break of gauge." This was received with great applause, which was repeated several times during his speech. Mr. Brown described Mr. Wall's resolution as a plea for delay—a shelving of the question—and showed how, during the construction of our first railway, we had listened to timid counsels and stopped the work, which was not recommenced for five years. He showed that during that time a million sterling had been lost to the island, warned the meeting against a repetition of that barren waste of time, and showed that the people of the districts most interested would be satisfied with the railway to Nawalapittya at £250,000, while their friends would force upon them a doubtful possibility of a line at £500,000 to a point which he believed it could never reach.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Feb. 14.

The new Minister of the Colonial Department has given his first sign of political life in an address to the Chambers of Commerce upon the revision of the Java Customs tariff, which shows that he holds to Liberal principles. We know that Mr. van Bosse is a positive free-trader, and he says in this circular that his intention is to maintain the lowest import duties now levied, and to double the duty on spirits exported to Java, the duty now being £20 per hectolitre. That, further, the differential duties will be abolished, which is, according to his—certainly very correct—opinion, highly necessary; their maintenance to the prejudice of the natives cannot be defended, and it is more than time that they should be abolished, because no other State levies them in their colonies. The Minister has a project to establish an export duty of 3 per cent.—say 50c. on the picul of sugar, and f.1 on the picul of coffee. The export of rice will be free. He hopes to receive suggestions for any alterations and improvements in the new tariff which the Chambers might think desirable, but his leading principles he will maintain. He wishes to know whether it would not be desirable to levy the duties, not according to value, but according to weight or measure, and to be especially informed whether it would be objectionable if duties were levied upon cotton manufactures and yarns according to weight, he being of opinion that this would be the best course. The Chambers are asked for a prompt answer, because the new tariff, which will come into force on the 1st of January, 1872, must be voted this session. This circular was only published yesterday, so that the papers have not yet had time to give an opinion about it. Without doubt the Liberal papers will support it as loudly and as earnestly as the Conservative journals will condemn.

I hear with the greatest satisfaction that all the creditors of the important ironworks of Messrs. Paul van Vlissingen and Dudok van Heel, who stopped payment some months ago, have agreed to the proposal for a settlement. New managers will be appointed, and the business will go on. It is also rumoured that the demand for surséance made by the "Oost Indische Maatschappij van Lyfrenten" will be granted by the High Council. Of the thirty persons interested only two voted against the demand. One of the principal shareholders, Mr. Rueb, died some days ago.

The Minister of the Department of Justice has issued a circular instructing judicial corporations to make imprisonment before trial as short as possible. I hope that this will induce the Minister of the Colonial Department to follow the example in Java. The facts published by the Java Bode about Chinese who have remained upwards of a year in confinement without being tried are scandalous illustrations of our bad system.

The small-pox is committing fearful ravages throughout the whole country, and the general anxiety is augmented by the dangerous state of the dykes in some parts from the great accumulation of ice in the rivers. Attempts to destroy the ice-dams by means of torpedoes have only been partially successful; and if the water continues rising—a thaw having set in—a good many places along the river banks will be threatened by dangerous inundations. Active measures are being taken by the local and Government authorities for the preservation of life and property. Bois-le-Duc is partially, but not dangerously, flooded.

ROTTERDAM, Feb. 17.

The Chamber of Commerce of Twenthe has held a meeting to discuss the message of the Minister of the Colonial Department respecting the revision of the East India tariff. There was much controversy between the free-traders and the protectionists, but all agreed that the import duty of 10 per cent. on cotton goods, which the Minister wished to maintain, was too high, and that 5 per cent. should be regarded as a maximum, whether the differential duties on foreign manufactures be maintained or otherwise. They agreed, also, that the duties should continue to be levied according to the present system, i.e., upon the values.

The calls on the shares of the Oost Indische Maatschappij van Lyfrenten have been responded to very regularly. The managers are of opinion that the High Court will grant the demand for surséance. A second manager for Java, to assist Mr. de Vogel, will shortly be appointed.

A rumour is current that Mr. de Waal, the ex-Minister of the Colonial Department, has been severely wounded in the railway disaster which took place last week between Marseilles and Toulon. There are hopes that his life will be saved.

It is now reported that the Second Chamber will meet on the 1st of March.

TEA IN CALIFORNIA.—LOSS OF THE "ONEIDA."

With reference to tea culture in California, a Bill was brought into the House of Representatives on the 31st ult., to authorise Mr. J. H. Schnell, of California, to enter, at the proper United States Land Office, six hundred and forty acres of land, at the minimum price, according to the lines of his improvements, tea gardens and other culture, and to which there may not be any adverse claim except that of the United States. Mr. Sargent, who introduced the Bill, explained that Mr. Schnell was making a successful experiment in establishing a colony of Japanese and in cultivating tea, raising silkworms, &c., and wanted more land than he could enter under the pre-emption laws, one hundred and sixty acres. The Bill was passed. On the same day a Bill was reported from the Committee of Ways and Means, authorising the Secretary of the Navy, after consultation with the Attorney General, to institute proceedings at law or otherwise to obtain full damages and indemnification for the destruction and loss of the sloop-of-war Oneida in the Bay of Jeddo, Japan, in January, 1870, by collision with the steamship Bombay. This Bill was also passed.

THE TEA MARKET.—The arrival of the steamer Elgin, the White, the adder, and Guinevere, from Foochow, the Glenaron, from Shanghai, the Tamesa, from Canton, and the Star of China, from Shanghai, have placed a good assortment of teas on the market. Our advices from Washington state that it has been decided to proceed against the P. and O. Company, as owners of the Bombay, for the loss of the Oneida.

BREAKFAST.—EPH'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps has attained by his homoeopathic preparation of Cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." ROAD STEAMERS FOR CHINA.

As there seems little or no prospect of introducing railways into China for some time to come, the suggestion is gaining ground that THOMSON'S locomotives for traffic on ordinary roads would prove an efficient and profitable substitute. Our attention has been drawn to the subject by a paragraph in Mr. Consul MONGAN'S admirable trade report from Tientsin, wherein he alludes to it as follows:—"THOMSON'S road steamer, or traction engine, seems well adapted for the plains of North China; and if a foreign merchant at this port would import one of these engines. . . to run at first over the thirty odd miles between Taku and Tientsin, for the carriage of goods and passengers between these two places at moderate rates, the speculation would in all probability not only pay, but it might be productive of important ulterior results." In this opinion we cordially coincide. Not only would the road steamer be available on the level lands, but from what has been reported of its operations in Java and India, it is peculiarly adapted for steep ascents where railway traffic could only be established at heavy cost. Already the Indian Government have tested the advantages and economy of this new mode of traffic, and have ordered four large engines for a hilly district where it would not pay to lay down even tramways. Such a district is that between Tientsin and the Chaitang coal mines, which we infer Mr. Consul MONGAN had in view when he alluded to "important ulterior results," that might accrue from the introduction of a road engine on the plain of Taku. But what about the Feng shuey objections by the natives? Will this superstition apply to road steamers, as it is said by the authorities to do against the introduction of railways and telegraphs? On this head Mr. MONGAN makes no remark; from which we infer that he thinks no objection would be made to a land steamer, as none has been brought against steamers plying on China waters. The mysterious Feng-shuey superstition, it would appear, applies to innovations in fixed and not moving objects, and there is every reason to conclude that the first enterprising foreigner who introduces a road steamer, with a train of waggons and omnibuses for goods and passenger traffic along one of the leading thoroughfares in China, will in the end find it a remunerative speculation, and in all probability open up the way to the construction of railways in China.

AMERICAN VIEWS ON OUR CHINA POLICY.

To all the American writers whose works we ever read belongs the honourable distinction of being either enlightened and ardent philanthropists, or persons animated by warm and enthusiastic national feeling. Differ as they may in views and in talents, they are united in one common object, the honour and welfare of their country. This praise—and it is neither slight nor meant to be slight—we can fairly extend to Mr. ROSS BROWNE, the ex-Minister of the United States in Peking, whose recent literary productions (noticed in another column) are sufficiently copious to give him a title to be enrolled among American "authors," and, we might add, sufficiently effusive to gain him a high place among sensational writers of every nationality. As we have stated in our notice of the contributions with which Mr. BROWNE has just enriched the San Francisco press, we fully agree with the conclusions at which he arrives in regard to the vexed question of our attitude towards China. Our only regret is that a gentleman who has so clear a faculty of perception should have forgotten the importance and gravity of his subject so far as to press into the cause of right and justice what Lord BROUGHAM called "the degrading accomplishment of sarcasm." There is this essential difference between Mr. BROWNE and ourselves—and we may rank on our side the mercantile communities of China generally—that, while we have always endeavoured to skilfully apply those lenitives and balsams which may best promote the healing of an old sore, he, though from motives that are above suspicion, seems to have tried to employ all the alkalis and corrosives in his verbal dispensary, as if to exasperate the national raw. If the calm, thoughtful, and firm counsels of those most experienced in Chinese affairs—of which we have always endeavoured to be the exponents—had been acted upon by our Government, in how different a condition might British interests in China now have been found! It is not, however, from comments like Mr. BROWNE'S that the cause of progress in the Far East is likely to derive assistance. In fact, the very tone of his arguments is enough to create a prejudice against them; and the taste of his compositions is so questionable that we feel sure our friends in China will repudiate advocacy offered in such a spirit, and couched in such terms. But of this our readers have now the opportunity of judging for themselves from the extracts in the present number. Besides the production from which these quotations are made, Mr. BROWNE has contributed a paper on "The Chinese Embassy to the West" to the Overland Monthly, which our limits compel us to postpone noticing till next week.

We have received details of the destruction by fire of the British Consulate at Shanghai. This calamity is so serious in itself, involving as it does the destruction of the archives, and many other interesting documents, and occurring under such peculiar circumstances, that it excited great attention here. We much regret to find the reports in the local journals written in a style of levity quite out of keeping with the importance of the event. If residents in the Far East would have their interests regarded as matters of importance at home, they should at least appear to treat occurrences like the present as worthy of serious reflection.

OUR Dutch correspondent informs us that an important circular has been issued from the Colonial Department to the Chambers of Commerce in Holland, promising the abolition of differential duties as soon as the new East India tariff shall be voted by the Chambers, and requesting information concerning the best means of levying the new duties—by weight or measurement, or ad valorem. The new tariff will place our Manchester manufacturers on an equal footing with the Dutch as soon as it is carried, which, our correspondent says, there is no reason to doubt.

WE understand that Mr. ARTHUR BIRCH, of the Colonial office, will shortly proceed to Penang to relieve Colonel ANSON, who will act as Governor of the Straits Settlements in the absence of Sir HARRY ORD, expected home on leave.

ROSS BROWNE ON CHINA.

Under the general heading of "Incidents of a Diplomatic Career in China," Mr. J. Ross Browne, late United States Minister at Peking, has contributed a series of articles, of which the first half-dozen are before us, to a San Francisco paper. Making allowance for the sensational element apparently required of all transatlantic newspaper critics, exciting cross lines, and an undercurrent of egotism so strong that it seems never to have been in danger of being extinguished even under the greatest official discouragement, it cannot be denied that these papers exhibit a certain shrewdness, which might, we think, have been turned to much better and more practical purpose, than discussing so grave and important a question in so flippant a tone. Even where we most agree with Mr. Browne's inferences, we shrink from the style and manner of his argument, and cannot disguise the feeling that much of what he has said will go to strengthen the prejudices of the opponents of sober and steady-going progress. Indeed, Mr.

Browne's facts are so overlaid with suggestive imagery, ridicule, and other extraneous matter, that we are scarcely surprised to learn, from his own account, that his reports have been entirely ignored by his Government. "After having furnished them with all the essential facts which I deemed it necessary for them to know," Mr. Browne tells us: "I will do the President and the Secretary of State the justice to say that I have never to this day discovered the slightest evidence that either of them has ever read a single line of my correspondence or that of anybody else on the subject of China. I believe the President has a vague idea that there is an Empire somewhere called China, but I have grave doubts whether Mr. Fish has gone so deeply into the study of geography. Ignorance is the only plea that I think would justify their course on the Chinese question."

So far as our space will allow us, we will give Mr. Browne the opportunity of speaking for himself, selecting a few extracts from the most important parts of his work, and leaving our readers to form their own judgment of its bearing. We entirely agree with the following remarks on the effects of the so-called policy of conciliation:—

Not long since it was authoritatively announced that our Government was determined to give a fair trial to the policy of conciliation. The new Treaty was to be the basis. If the Government would give some attention to the subject so as to understand what it was doing, it would discover that the policy of conciliation, as applied to semi-barbarian races, is a war policy. It has been tried for nearly ten years in China, and has finally produced the following results—bitter hostility on the part of the official classes, practical nullification of every important treaty right that had been secured, and personal outrages and assaults on foreigners.

This is Mr. Browne's account of the causes of his mission coming to an end:—

WHY SUPERSEDED.

Because I scorned to sustain a policy so imbecile and so degrading; because I could not see progress in retrogression and barbarism; because foreign merchants and missionaries, without distinction of nationality, recognising the sincerity of my efforts to better their condition, rose up in generous enthusiasm and gave me their unanimous support; because self-respect forbid me to misrepresent the facts in order that I might make favour with the authorities in Washington, it became necessary to send a Minister to Peking who could see and believe in accordance with the dictates of the President and the Secretary of State, under the guidance of the Chinese Embassy.

I trust the legitimate fruits of the course pursued will be found satisfactory. The late massacre at Tientsin will undoubtedly be followed by others equally atrocious. Would it not be well to instruct our Minister not to join with the French or British representatives at Peking in asking for satisfaction or demanding guarantees for the future? What satisfaction do we want? None of our citizens were killed, and what guarantees do we need when we are guaranteed the friendship of the Chinese nation?

We have nothing to complain of in all this except the tone of levity and sarcasm which seems to us ill-suited to the subject. Again:—

A LITTLE COMMON SENSE WANTED.

Can we never have any intelligent discussion of this question? Is the press to be forever filled with puerile and senseless quibbles and silly personalities? Is the destiny of three hundred millions of human beings so small a matter that a reasonable share of thought and common sense cannot be devoted to the consideration of the subject?

Mr. Wade, the British Charge d'Affaires, who had been absent for three years in England, recently announced, on his return to China, that wonderful progress had been made by that Empire under the stimulus of the new policy: "She has already established Foreign Affairs." John Phoenix held down the fighting editor at San Diego by inserting his nose between the teeth of his furious antagonist. The Foreign Affairs of China are like the ornament which some of us occasionally establish on our houses—far better than the cupula built by the other boy's father—a beautiful and imposing mortgage.

ANOTHER INFLUENCE,

not less potential, was at work in Consular service. It was important that every officer of the Government in China should understand the peculiar sort of facts and exact complexion of the views required of him. Mr. George F. Seward, U. S. Consul General at Shanghai, a gentleman of ability and experience, devoted himself with great zeal to the elucidation of American policy in China. There were many reasons, in addition to a natural love of justice, why Mr. Seward should espouse the cause of the Chinese Embassy to the West. First, he was promised the influence of the Embassy to procure him the appointment of Minister to China. A similar promise had been made to Dr. Williams; so that each of these gentlemen had reason to entertain sanguine hopes of preformance in case his views on the China question should faithfully sustain the cause of civilisation, as represented by the agents of the Chinese Government. After the reception in Washington, it could not be doubted that this was the only safe course for an American representative in China.

Mr. President Johnson very naturally manifested his respect for the diplomatic sagacity of the Secretary of State (Mr. Seward) by adopting that gentleman's views on the Chinese question.

MR. PRESIDENT GRANT

determined, at all hazards, to make the new policy a success. He determined to do it in defiance of the protests of nearly every American citizen in China. It was represented that the merchants were prejudiced by self-interest; that they were seeking their own selfish ends, regardless of the rights of China; that they were advocates of the throat-policy; that they were unscrupulous and mercenary. It was urged that the missionaries were interested in making converts; that they were constantly creating trouble; that they were even more daring, and quite as unscrupulous, as the merchants. These things, I say, were represented publicly and privately by foreign employees of the Chinese Government, and reiterated by the press of the United States.

HOW IT OPERATED.

Undoubtedly the policy is a success. It has produced its legitimate results. It has done precisely what I notified the Department of State it was doing, soon after my arrival in Peking—it has nullified nearly every advantage gained by the Treaty of Tientsin in 1858; it has made the foreign Powers contemptible in the eyes of the Chinese; it has culminated in the recent massacre of Christians at Tientsin, and the gathering of the foreign squadrons in anticipation of war; this is precisely what has been done "through the agency of a more enlightened policy than has hitherto been pursued towards China." "The blazing day of international millennium" has nearly reached its meridian, and the emissaries of Christianity in Pagan nations have reason to be grateful to those ardent champions of international justice who have made the new policy a success.

But why, after such a flourish of the trumpets about the cheering effects of "a more enlightened policy," does the President perpetrate such as that contained in his last message? If the world is about to commence "largely increased relations with that populous and hitherto exclusive nation," how was it that a "massacre of French and Prussian residents at Tientsin" was "perpetrated under circumstances of great barbarity," and that the evidence "shows a complicity between the local authorities and the mob?" How was it that the news of the war in Europe had inspired the popular mind with the hope of being now enabled to "expel all foreigners and restore Mandarin influence?" Why should a friendly people, under the inspiration of an enlightened policy, "initiated by the United States," commence "largely increased relations" by committing horrible atrocities upon foreigners, killing French, Prussians, Russians, and English; cutting women and children to pieces, mutilating their bodies, and casting the unfortunate victims of their friendship into ditches and canals? What possible necessity can the President have, under the inspiration of the new policy of conciliation, for inviting "France and North Germany to make an authorised suspension of hostilities in the East," and to "act together for the future protection in China of the lives and property of Americans and Europeans?" What do Americans and Europeans want with protection in a country where, "through the agency of a more enlightened policy than has hitherto been pursued, the world is about to commence largely increased relations. Is this showing 'good faith on the part of the United States?'" Is this making the new policy of conciliation a success?

All this has been often said, and better said, before. Here is something more original:—

FOREIGN MERCHANTS IN CHINA.

Doubtless there is sufficient foundation for the charges made against foreign merchants in China—that they are devoted to their own interests and not over scrupulous about the consequences of their acts; doubtless the dissemination by Christian missionaries of doctrines antagonistic to Paganism has a tendency to overthrow the political institutions of the country.

But practically such charges as these amount to little more than a general assertion that there is vice in the world, that the best of us are not exempt from it, and that Christianity is not Paganism. Foreign merchants in China are no worse than merchants anywhere else, and quite as good as politicians, lawyers, doctors, or any other class, either in the United States or Europe. I am sure I would trust any one of them with my reputation or my fortune, small as either may be, as soon as I would a Cabinet Minister, a Senator, or member of Congress in Washington, or even a broker or a newspaper editor in New York or San Francisco. So far as my knowledge of them goes, they are an enterprising and intelligent class of men; fair and honourable in their dealings, and quite as sincere in their devotion to human progress and the elevation of the human race as the philosophers and humanitarians who are now making such a bother about human rights—as if every race upon earth had rights except the American people.

We do not know how our friends in the Far East will relish the singular encomium which Mr. Browne has thus passed upon them; but we think this last extract will give us a good excuse for dismissing, without further quotation, a hasty farrago, which, if any illdisposed person had produced it, might have fallen flat; but which, coming from a man who has filled the high position of Mr. Ross Browne, is certain to do as much injury to the cause of enlightenment and progress in China as it was possible for the most presuming and mistaken of its "friends" to inflict.

THE SHANGHAI CONSULATE.

(GLOBE.)

The destruction by fire of the British Consulate at Shanghai was the second great misfortune which has happened to the property of the Foreign-office within a few months, the other being the destruction of the Embassy at Pera last June. With respect to the more recent loss, the first thing that will strike every one who reads this narrative will be the absence from the scenes of both water and fire engines until the conflagration had gained such sway as to be inextinguishable; and doubtless wonder will be felt that there should be any difficulty in obtaining the first at a shipping port, and that a place of such commercial importance as we have lately been repeatedly told Shanghai has become should be without efficient fire-engines and a well-trained body of firemen. As regards the water, the delay in obtaining an abundant supply is quite unaccountable. The Consular buildings stand in an angle at the junction of two rivers, known as the Soohow Creek, and the Wongpoo River, neither of which is more than a few yards from the building which was destroyed. Water, therefore, in any quantity was ready to hand, and it can only have been through the most culpable negligence that the means of turning to account, when the emergency arose, such an exhaustless supply were wanting. Two buckets were, apparently, the only aids possessed by the Consul for the protection of a building which cost the nation many thousands of pounds, and which contained documentary property of the utmost value. Comment on such a state of things is needless. The delay in the arrival of the fire-engines is equally to be regretted. Although the foreign settlements are of limited extent, and the fire stations, therefore, within easy distance of the Consulate, the first engine did not arrive on the spot until an hour and a half had elapsed from the time that the alarm was first given, and out of the seven which eventually came two only were in a condition to render any assistance. This state of general inefficiency is the more astonishing since fires in the native houses, especially in the winter, when all wood-work has been rendered more than usually inflammable by the long continuance of dry weather which characterises the autumn in China, are of almost daily occurrence, and the great quantity of timber employed in the construction of foreign as well as native buildings in the East renders it doubly important that means should always be at hand to extinguish fire at the very first symptom of danger. The Consulate which has now been destroyed was built when Shanghai was first opened to foreign trade, and was an exceedingly handsome and spacious building. One curious incident is connected with the date of its destruction. Just one week before the occurrence of the fire, the insurance policy had been allowed to expire, and thus the entire loss incurred falls on the Foreign-office.

LEGAL.

JUDICIAL COMMITTEE OF THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

THE APPEAL CASE OF THE CHARTERED MERCANTILE BANK OF INDIA V. DICKSON AND TATHAM.

The following is an abstract of the judgment of the Lords of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council on the appeal of the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London, and China v. Dickson and Tatham, from the Supreme Court of the Island of Ceylon. Present:—Lord Cairns, Sir James W. Colville, the Judge of the Admiralty Court, and Sir Joseph Napier.

The action was based upon a claim by the appellants, the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, as holders of a promissory note for £5,000, against Dickson and Tatham as payees and endorsers of the note. Various defences were pleaded by the present respondent, Thomas Dickson; the result was that with regard to the inception of the note and its validity at the time of the making of it, all the defences which denied its validity or qualified its effect according to what the law would impute to it upon the face of it were found against the respondents, and it must now be taken that the note at its original making was a valid note.

One plea, which states "That there was undue delay in presenting the said note, and the defendant is thereby released from his obligation thereunder," raises a question which has been called a mixed question of law and fact, and this issue has been found in favour of the respondents by the Primary Court in Ceylon, and, upon appeal, by the Appellate Court.

Their Lordships consider that the result of the evidence both of Mr. Le Marchand, the manager of the bank, and of Mr. Tatham, the partner in Dickson, Tatham, and Company,—judging of that evidence by the findings of the Court, to which reference has already been made,—shows that the position of the parties, with regard to this note, was really that position which the law itself would imply from the appearance of the note itself; namely, that Sinne Lebbe Brothers were the principal debtors; that Dickson, Tatham, and Company were sureties; and they are of opinion that it is perfectly made out that the bank were aware of that fact. Their Lordships think it also clear that, although the note is payable on demand, no payment of the note by the makers at any immediate or specific date was contemplated, and therefore the note was meant to be, to a greater or less extent, a continuing security.

Their Lordships are of opinion that with the disputes between Mr. Tatham and his partner they have nothing to do.

Having returned to the Colony, Mr. Tatham, on the 22nd September, 1864, wrote a letter to the firm of Sinne Lebbe and Company, in the name of the firm of Dickson, Tatham, and Company. On the 22nd September, therefore, it must have been the opinion of Dickson, Tatham, and Company that there had been no delay in presenting this note for payment.

We find, next, two facts of importance in the evidence of the case. Mr. Tatham says, "He first told me—that is, Le Marchand first told me—that he intended to hold me liable for the note, in October or November, 1864." It is possible that may be so, but it is equally consistent with the case of the bank that no doubt was entertained on their part of the liability of Dickson, Tatham, and Company; and it is certainly consistent with the letter of Mr. Tatham, of the 22nd September, which assumes the liability.

If then, on the 22nd of September, it was the opinion of Dickson, Tatham, and Company, and if it was the fact that there had been no undue delay in presenting this note, certainly the lapse of time afterwards, under the circumstances to which I have referred, cannot, in their Lordships' opinion, constitute an unreasonable delay.

Their Lordships, therefore, if this matter were res integra before them, and if they were addressing themselves to the inquiry which I have assumed to be the proper one—whether the note was presented in reasonable time—would be prepared to hold that, having regard to all the circumstances of this case, there was no unreasonable delay in presenting the note. And they have now to consider the view that has been taken by the Court below: and the course taken by the Primary Court was this. The learned Judge (in Colombo), after disposing of all the other issues, says: "The partnership between the first and second defendants was dissolved on the 30th June, 1864, and the manager of the bank in London was aware of the dissolution. The manager of the Colombo branch must, therefore, have been aware of it early in August, probably about the 4th or 5th. The business of the firm, after the dissolution, continued to be carried on by the second defendant, and the plaintiffs were employed by first defendant to receive from the second the proceeds of his share in the partnership assets, as the same were, from time to time realised, and to remit them to him, and from August to December the bank was in constant correspondence with the first defendant as to these recoveries and remittances. During the whole of this period, the position of Sinne Lebbe Brothers, the makers of the note, was known to the managers of the bank, both in London and Colombo, to be most critical. The manager in Colombo was also aware that the negotiation between the defendants and Messrs. Sinne Lebbe Brothers respecting the advance by the former to the latter of a sum of £50,000, of which this £5,000, raised by means of the note, formed part, had been broken off. The dangerous position in which the maker of the note stood throughout the year 1864, the failure of the consideration which had induced second defendant to endorse the note, and the anxiety of the first defendant to close all his accounts with his late firm, were all reasons which should have induced the plaintiffs to lose no time in presenting the note." Now, if the learned Judge means to say that the knowledge that the contemplated loan of £50,000, out of which this £5,000 was to be repaid, had gone off, should have made the bank lose no time in presenting the note, his view must go to this, that it was the duty of the bank, immediately upon that loan going off, to have presented and insisted on payment of the note. It is sufficient to say that with any such idea the letter of the 22nd September is altogether irreconcilable, and it is unnecessary to observe further upon it. If the learned Judge means to say that the fact of the dissolution of the firm, the fact that Mr. Dickson was employing the bank to get in the proceeds of his share of the partnership assets and to remit them to him, ought at that time to have caused some greater celerity in presenting the note than otherwise would have been the duty of the holders of it—their Lordships consider that, although it may be proper to look at the dissolution as a fact in the history of the case, that must be taken in connection with the management of the liquidation of the affairs of the house of Dickson, Tatham, and Company, in the colony, by Mr. Tatham, and they have already adverted to that which the learned Judge here appears to have overlooked—the conduct of Mr. Tatham in the colony with reference to that liquidation.

Their Lordships, therefore, find with regard to the first Judge in this case that he appears to have attached weight to circumstances in the case which are not, as their Lordships conceive, the circumstances which really must govern the decision, and to have overlooked altogether those material considerations to which reference has already been made.

It may be very true that the affairs of Sinne Lebbe were going from bad to worse, but, on the other hand, it may have been the very worst possible thing for the endorser to have precipitated that downward course of the firm of Sinne Lebbe Brothers. And, when we look at the facts of the case, to which reference has already been made, their Lordships are of opinion that it was not merely for the interests, but that it was the wish of both parties, both the bank and the partner of Dickson, Tatham, and Company in the colony, that no undue pressure should take place against Sinne Lebbe Brothers.

Their Lordships, therefore, find that, not upon a dispute of facts, but upon the application of the law to the facts of the case, they are unable to concur in the reasoning of the first Court or of the Court of Appeal in the colony. They are of opinion that the decision in the colony cannot be supported. They will humbly advise Her Majesty that the appeal ought to be allowed, that judgment should be entered for the appellants for the amount of the note, with interest at the rate of the colony, 9 per cent., with costs in the Court below, and that the appellants should have the costs of this appeal.

COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH.

WILLIS V. MAUDSLEY, FIELD AND CO.

This was an action tried on the 15th inst. for breach of contract in building a ship, the Blackadder, according to the specifications and plans to the satisfaction of the owner's surveyors, and also for delay in completion. Sir J. Karslake and Mr. A. L. Smith were for the plaintiff; Mr. Milward for the defendants. The plaintiff's object was to get an extra fast clipper for the China trade, and the complaint was that the vessel was not so built, and that by delay a voyage was lost. The verdict went for the plaintiff for £760.

On the 17th a cross action was brought, the defendants in the previous case being the plaintiffs. They claimed a balance of £4,199 for building the vessel, in satisfaction of which the defendant paid £3,000 into Court. The question in dispute was the mode of reckoning the tonnage, and it was ultimately arranged that this should be referred to an arbitrator, who will state a case for the decision of the Court.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MR. SEWARD IN CHINA.

The Globe has the following upon Mr. Seward's visit to China:—Mr. Secretary Seward has been stoned by beggar boys at Hankow, has been received with great courtesy by the officials of the Peking Foreign-office, and has penetrated as far north as the Great Wall. With true American instincts, he chose this last-named historic position whereon to write a letter (which has since been published) to the American Admiral, thanking him for his civility in having "gallantly attended" him "over the stormy Yellow Sea, up the tortuous Peiho River, and over the plains, through the city of Peking, to the Great Wall, from which," he adds, "I have been able to look down southward upon the decaying power of China, and northward upon the aboriginal region of the North Pacific coast of the Asiatic continent." This would do honour to the pen of Mr. Jefferson Brick himself.

What is the meaning of an aboriginal region? Are not all regions aboriginal? And how in the name of all that is geographical could Mr. Seward, facing northward from the longitude of Peking, look upon the aboriginal or any other region of the North Pacific coast? We can forgive a man, and especially an American, for being stirred into grandiloquence by finding himself face to face with such a monument of antiquity as the Great Wall of China, and a Foreign Secretary for displaying ignorance of geography, but we cannot accept any position as an excuse for the production of such intricate English as the above. Mr. Seward concludes his letter by saying:—"I shall come short of my duty if I shall not be able to improve this great experience for the benefit of our country and mankind," from which we gather that he is going to write a book. We hope that before doing so he will have recovered his English, and will have enlarged his somewhat limited stock of geographical knowledge.

SUPPLEMENTARY to the Army Estimates a statement has been issued showing that the following amounts are included in the estimates for military purposes in the colonies, viz.:—Western Australian, £21,810; Canada, £13,302; Nova Scotia, £114,684; Bermuda, £196,630; Cape of Hope (including Natal), £135,601; St. Helena, 22,767; Mauritius, £59,105; China, £162,001; Ceylon, £152,428; Straits Settlements, £77,908; Gibraltar, £248,227; Malta, £382,076; Sierra Leone, £17,562; Gold Coast and Lagos, £16,513; Bahamas, £11,896; Honduras, £12,798; Jamaica, £70,908; Windward and Leeward Islands, £108,490; total, £1,855,706. This is £49,832 less than last year's estimates. The following amounts will be repaid, viz.:—The Cape of Good Hope, £10,000; Natal, £3,500; Ceylon, £160,000; Straits Settlements, £59,300; Hong Kong, £20,000; Malta, £6,200; Mauritius, £27,000; Windward and Leeward Islands, £4,000; total colonial contributions to be paid into the Exchequer, £290,000.

In consequence of Admiral Mends having reported that in his opinion Her Majesty's troopships will be able with safety to pass through the Suez Canal next year, it is the intention of the authorities to avail themselves of this direct route, which will prevent the necessity of keeping up a supply of transports on both sides of the Isthmus, and also afford an opportunity for reducing the staff officers at present employed on special duty in Egypt.

We understand that Vice-Admiral Kellett has applied to the Admiralty for his squadron to be augmented in China and Japan. With the view of complying with his request, we believe that it is the intention of the Admiralty to commission one, or may be two, vessels for service on that station.

CONSULAR APPOINTMENTS.—FOREIGN-OFFICE, FEB. 7.—The Queen has been pleased to approve of Mr. Hippolyte Nicaise as Vice-Consul at Hong Kong for his Majesty the King of the Belgians.

Monetary and Commercial.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta, £344,200; to Bombay, £50,000; and to Madras, £5,800. The minimum price was fixed as before at 1s. 10d. on all the Presidencies, and tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 10½d. will receive about 76 per cent., and on Bombay at that price in full. These results show a further increase in the demand for means of remittance to the East.

It is announced that arrangements have been made between the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Company, the Indian Government Telegraph Department, and the Indo-European Company, for the adoption of a remunerative tariff for messages to India. On and after Feb. 15 a telegram to Bombay, Calcutta, and stations west of Chittagong, containing twenty words, will cost £4 10s., and one of ten words, £3 10s. To Ceylon, Rangoon, and places in India east of Chittagong, the rates will be 4s. additional. This revision of tariff will cause a temporary increase of the rates to places beyond India, but negotiations are in progress for shortly effecting a considerable reduction of the charges to Penang, Singapore, and Java.

Messrs. Loveson, Lewis, and Co. have issued a table showing the quantities of produce exported from Penang and Singapore during the past ten years.

Messrs. Lebeau and Co., of Billiter-street, agents for the Italian Railways, have at last published a very useful Hand-book of Information for passenger and goods traffic by the Brindisi mail route. It is furnished with complete time-tables, and accompanied with a mass of valuable hints concerning hotels, omnibuses, Custom-house regulations, &c., at various points on the route. It is an excellent travelling companion and guide for all who pass over this new highway to the Far East.

The Eastern Steamship Company (Limited), recently registered, purpose establishing a line of screw steamers to trade between London and Calcutta, and have already contracted with the Barrow Shipbuilding Company for four steamers of 3,500 tons each.

The annual general meeting of shareholders of the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company (Limited) will be held on the 28th inst., at which the directors will propose a cash dividend of 24s. in addition to the ad interim dividend, and a bonus of £3 per share out of the Submarine Telegraph share property held by the company, to be realised under the supervision of trustees.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Pera, from Southampton, on the 18th inst., was, in gold, to Gibraltar, £50,000; to Alexandria, £5,000; to Madras, £228; in silver, to Singapore, £20,000; to Shanghai, £16,080; total in gold, £55,228; in silver, £36,080.

THE AMERICAN TEA TRADE.

(New York Shipping and Commercial List.)

The following statistics afford not only a tolerably accurate indication of the progress of trade in Tea during the past year, but also a guide to the future. The total imports at this port in 1870, compared with the previous years, may be thus summarised:—

Imports.	1868. lbs.	1869. lbs.	1870. lbs.
Green ...	16,389,732	20,609,168	22,382,333

Souchong ...	1,286,070	2,102,847	3,518,117
Oolong ...	11,860,360	10,461,739	9,973,601
Sorts (including Pow-chong) ...	259,083	419,333	232,930
Total ...	37,370,851	44,006,422	46,835,916

Deduct stock Dec. 31 .	9,577,014	9,866,167	16,748,661

Taken for consumption 34,305,898 ... 38,694,502 ... 33,964,096
The foregoing figures seem to indicate a decrease of nearly four and three quarter millions of pounds in the consumption last year, as compared with the preceding year. But this decrease is more apparent than real, and was occasioned, as we shall presently see, by the enactment of the new tariff last July, which became operative at the beginning of the present year. As a matter of interest, we now give the stocks in bond January 1st, of the leading descriptions:—

Imports.	1869. lbs.	1870. lbs.	1871. lbs.
Green ...	2,593,129	3,417,918	6,526,825
Japan ...	2,049,293	1,575,322	3,287,386
Souchong and Congou.	261,001	461,024	1,966,512
Oolong ...	4,463,018	3,963,975	4,406,342
Sorts (including Pow-chong) ...	210,573	447,928	561,596
Total ...	9,577,014	9,866,167	16,748,661

The comparatively large stock at the beginning of the present year is explained by the large quantities in bond, purchased by dealers and the trade during the latter part of 1870, in order to reap the advantage of the reduction of 10 cents per pound duty after the turn of the year. The comparatively small withdrawals from bond during the closing months of 1870, however, is now being compensated by a much more than usually active movement. It will be seen by the following figures that the withdrawals from the 1st to the 27th of January are more than 442 per cent. in excess of the corresponding period last year (lacking one day in 1870), the aggregate reaching nearly eight and a quarter millions of pounds, with the probability that by March 1st the quantity will closely approximate fourteen millions.

Japan ...	266,116	1,705,668
Souchong and Congou ...	93,891	670,321
Oolong ...	549,303	2,631,567
Sorts (including Powchong) ...	39,300	—

Total ... 1,518,013 ... 8,234,947
Boston is the only outpost which receives Tea direct (except San Francisco), and by adding the statistics of that port, we have a reliable index of the total supply for the Atlantic States and Territories:—

Imports.	1868. lbs.	1869. lbs.	1870. lbs.
Green ...	75,302	268,594	195,162
Japan ...	—	274,454	660,750
Souchong ...	399,774	705,130	961,913
Oolong ...	679,425	1,132,103	758,377
Total ...	1,154,591	2,380,281	2,576,202

The stock in bond at that port, Jan. 1, was as follows:—

Imports.	1869. lbs.	1870. lbs.	1871. lbs.
Green ...	—	124,860	150,799
Japan ...	—	—	198,908
Souchong ...	6,805	42,007	335,412
Total ...	145,045	452,191	730,764

These statistics are a sufficient indication of the progress of the trade in one of the most important staples of import, without calling for any extended remarks of an elucidatory character. We may remark, however, that despite the economical tendency of the times, the market is in a healthy condition, and trade since the commencement of the new year, for obvious reasons, has been remarkably active. Owing to scarcity, consequent upon the delay in receipts, bond prices of good new crop Oolong have been appreciated, while to consumers, the article has been afforded at a decline nearly or quite equal to the reduction of duty. And the same may be said of other kinds of Black Tea. In Greens and Japans there has been no appreciable change, the price of these, it is claimed, having been about down to the cost of importation before the duty was reduced.

Most of the finer grades of Oolong have hitherto come from Foo-chow, but this season's crop being comparatively poor, the tea from Amoy, which has usually been sold at relatively lower prices, is this year of better quality, and consequently meets with greater favour. We may mention, as a comparatively new feature, the receipt of black tea from the Island of Formosa, which being of full body, strong, of uniform colour, and moderate in price withal, meets with favour among consumers. Japan tea is steadily working its way into popular favour, its relative cheapness, and its constant appreciation in the estimation of the masses, leading to its substitution, to a considerable extent, for some other kinds, notably Oolong.

The experiment of bringing tea via the Suez Canal cannot be regarded as an unqualified success, though the experience had this season may lead to better results in future. The results by the overland route via California have been far more satisfactory, though the cost of transportation is too high to warrant the conclusion that any very extensive diversion from the water routes is to follow immediately. In periods of absolute scarcity, or when it shall seem desirable to introduce the new crop promptly, the overland route will of course be availed of.

RICE.—A good steady demand has prevailed throughout the week, but business has been checked by the extreme rates required by sellers; the public sales have consisted exclusively of Bengal; privately the cargo of Rangoon, per Peveril of the Peak, 900 tons, just arrived, has been sold at 10s. 3d. ex quay, the cargo 1,000 tons Rangoon, per Kenilworth, just arrived, at 10s. 9d. landed terms, and a cargo of 1,300 tons new Rangoon February shipment at 10s. 6d. open charter, and the cargo per Toni, 5,560 bags old Bassein, at 10s. 3d. ex ship.

SPICES.—Mace: Of 6 cases Penang offered at auction one-half sold at 3s. 4d. to 3s. 5d.; 8 cases red Singapore sold at 3s. to 3s. 2d., and 1 box ordinary at 2s. 9d.; 3 casks Java were bought in at 2s. 9d. to 2s. 10d., and 1 case indirect at 2s. 9d. per lb. Nutmegs: The demand is not active, and easier rates have been accepted; of 27 cases Penang offered at auction 17 cases sold, average 81 nuts to the lb., at 2s. 5d. to 2s. 6d., 100's at 2s. 3d., 104's at 2s. 2d.; 33 cases Singapore all sold—82's at 2s. 5d., 112's at 2s. 2d., wormy and defective, 8d. to 10d.; 6 cases wild withdrawn, also 267 bags Singapore wild at 4d.

SAGO.—At public sale 1,384 bags met little demand, and were nearly all bought in, 934 bags small pearl at 18s. to 18s. 6d., except 100 bags, which sold at 18s.; 450 bags large were bought in at 18s. 6d. to 20s. Flour: 700 bags landing have been sold at 15s. 3d.

TAPIOCA.—There is still only a limited demand; at public sale of 779 bags Penang offered the sound portion was bought in at 2½d. to 2½d., but 340 bags sea-damaged sold, first class at 1½d. to 2d., second at 1½d. to 1½d.; of 756 bags Singapore offered 360 bags sold, fine at 2½d., middling at 2d. Pearl Tapioca: 291 bags Singapore sold, small at 17s. 6d. to 18s., medium at 19s. 6d. to 20s.; 133 boxes extra large bought in at 18s.

TIN.—The market for Straits continues depressed; only about 25 tons have changed hands during the week, chiefly ex Lord of the Isles and Sea Queen, at £130 to £132 per ton; no business has been done for future delivery.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

The amount of business transacted in this market during the past week has been below the average. Although quotations are nominally unchanged, buyers are generally able to do a trifle better, and a much larger trade could be done if any sensible reduction upon current rates could be obtained.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

The indications of an improving demand noted in our last report have been fully realised, and the market has presented a very active appearance, the demand being chiefly for Oolong, in which a large business has been consummated. The sales comprise the bulk of the cargo of the barque M'Gilvery, to arrive, and several large parcels per Yanze Tze, Mindet, &c., on the spot, including one invoice per Mindet, for export to London. Oolong, at current prices, appears to be very popular with the distributing trade, as may be inferred from heavy withdrawals from bond, indicating a material increase in the consumption, owing to the reduction of duty. Other sales of Oolong have been made, but chiefly from second hands, among which we note 1,100 half-chests fine Formosa per Yanze Tze. The sales are estimated to be fully 100,000 half-chests. Green have also been in active request, and there has been considerable inquiry for Japan, but as there are very few desirable parcels offering, business is restricted, though prices are very firm. With regard to prices previous values have as a rule seemed acceptable to both buyers and sellers, and the range shows no important variation, though the tone is on the whole firm.

Imports have included 853,717 lbs. Japan, per Black Prince, from Yokokama; 21,110 lbs. Black, and 4,080 lbs. Green, per Game Cock, from Whampoa; 422,468 lbs. Black, per Excelsior, from Amoy; 667,543 lbs. Japan, per Laju, from Yokohama; 38,696 lbs. Black, and 601,882 lbs. Green, per Amie, from Shanghai; and 1,762 packages.

COFFEE.—The current quotations for East India kinds are, Java Government bags, 18c. to 26c.; Java mats, 18½c. to 22c.; Singapore, 17c. to 18c.; Manila, 14c. to 15c.; Native Ceylon, 15½c. to 17c. The market for Brazil has become dull, but prices show no material change, owing to firmness on the part of holders, supported by a small supply. A fairly active inquiry has been shown for East India kinds, and the following sales are reported:—5,048 bags Native Ceylon, ex Blencathra, and 4,780 Native Ceylon, ex Amos, on private terms; 37 barrels Plantation Ceylon also on private terms, 1,000 mats stained Java at 18c., 4,839 mats Java, and 500 bags Government Java at the above quoted rates; in addition to these transactions a considerable amount of business has been done in small lots of Java from second hands at 19c. to 22½c. gold.

CORDAGE.—The market has continued dull, at low prices.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 18c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.35; Cassia, $1.10 gold (in bond).

FIRE CRACKERS.—We notice the sale of 2,000 boxes, No. 1, for export, at a private price.

GAMBIE.—The current quotation is 3½c. to 4c. gold (duty paid).

HEMP.—The market for Manila continues quiet, and the only sales have been 2,430 bales superior quality, ex Golden State, at 10½c. gold, and 500 bales (in bond) on private terms.

INDIGO.—A somewhat improved demand has been manifested for Manila, resulting in the establishment of a slight advance; sales have been effected of about 40 cases at $1.10 to $1.28 currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $8 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is $1 to $1.25 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—Owing to Carolina Rice having ruled at somewhat high prices, the market for Rangoon has been fairly active, and a good amount of business has been done at about our last-quoted rates—viz., $7 to $7.12½ currency, duty paid, and $3.12½ to $3.30 gold, in bond.

SPICES.—There has been little doing in invoices; several parcels China Cassia, say 12,000 piculs, have arrived, but remain unsold, with the exception of 100 piculs taken previous to arrival. There continues a good trade demand; the market remains steady, and, for most descriptions, firm. Sales have been made in lots of Mace at $1.15; Nutmegs, 82½c. to 85c.; Cassia, 34c. to 35c.; Pepper, 16½c. to 16¾c.; small lots Singapore, 17c.; and Cloves, 12½c.

SUGAR.—The market has presented a very quiet appearance, and though as a rule holders are firm and only offer their goods at full prices, there is evidently a dull feeling, though previous quotations are supported. The demand is chiefly from refiners, who buy sparingly in view of the incoming new crop and a lower range for their product. No transactions have been effected in East India kinds since our last report.

TIN.—There has been less activity, owing to the receipts of London telegrams reporting Straits declined to £132, but holders are not disposed to any considerable concession, and at the close Straits on the spot is firm at $33½c. to 34c. gold; Banca is nominally quoted at 39c. gold.

THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

A BLUE-BOOK on the subject of the Tientsin Massacre was distributed this day. The correspondence it contains is very voluminous, and with much of it our readers have been made acquainted time to time by the statements issued from the Foreign-office. Some new light is, however, thrown upon the proceedings by the letters of Earl GRANVILLE, which we have now, for the first time, the opportunity of seeing. Lord GRANVILLE's first letter is addressed to M. DE LAVALETTE, the French Ambassador:—

Foreign-office, August 25, 1870.

M. L'AMBASSADEUR,—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Excellency's letter of the 18th instant, referring to the late unfortunate massacre of French subjects at Tientsin, and requesting that the support of Her Majesty's Representative may be afforded to M. Rochechouart in his demands for the punishment of the malefactors.

In reply, I have the honour to inform your Excellency that Her Majesty's Government have not as yet received any details of the events in China to which your Excellency refers; but that they cannot hesitate to instruct Her Majesty's Representative in China to co-operate with the Legation of the Emperor in order to obtain the punishment of the parties who were concerned in the outrages of which French subjects have been the victims.—I am, &c. (Signed) GRANVILLE.

The next letter is addressed to Mr. WADE:—

Foreign-office, Sept. 15, 1870.

SIR,—I have received your despatches from June 26 to July 3, giving details of the shocking massacre of Europeans at Tientsin on June 21.

The accounts of that transaction which had been previously received from the outposts, and which are now officially confirmed by your reports, have been received by Her Majesty's Government with the deepest concern; and though only one British subject connected with the French missionary establishments was a victim, their sorrow and their sympathy apply to all who suffered on the occasion, and who appear in many cases to have been put to death with the most revolting cruelty.

Still it has been a relief to Her Majesty's Government to find that, with the exception which I have alluded to, they have not to lament the loss of any British life or property; and they highly appreciate the judgment, firmness, and temper shown by Mr. Acting Consul Lay under circumstances of so trying a character, and to which they do not doubt the safety of the British community is, in a great degree, to be attributed.

Her Majesty's Government would fain hope, and they are encouraged to do so by your telegram of the 16th of August, that there has been no serious disturbance since the date of the original massacre. They can perfectly understand the alarm and anxiety which that calamity excited in the minds of all foreigners located in China, and the excitement which it must have caused amongst the Chinese authorities and people. The presence, however, of Her Majesty's ships of war on the coasts of China will, it is to be hoped, have reassured Her Majesty's subjects and those of foreign Powers, and have served to keep in check any disposition on the part of the Chinese to attempt similar outrages in other quarters.

The question of the responsibility of the Chinese Government and its provincial authorities for what has occurred, as well as that of preventing similar outrages hereafter, are, however, beset with peculiar difficulty at the present moment, in consequence of the present state of things in France, where the attention of the Government administering the country since the dethronement of the Emperor Napoleon is engrossed by the difficulties of a war which has no parallel in modern times, and which convulses the country from one end of it to the other.

True it is that British interests in China must be placed more or less in jeopardy by disturbances, from whatever cause arising; but in dealing with such a question as that now before Her Majesty's Government, it cannot be denied that the grievance to be redressed is not in its origin a British grievance, and that the demand for redress, however just it may be insisted on, should proceed in the first instance from the nation to whom the wrong has been done.

Her Majesty's Government would exert whatever moral influence it may possess to induce the Chinese Government to satisfy any reasonable demand which France may make; but they cannot conceal from themselves that the calamity has been the result of a system which they have always deprecated as dangerous and impolitic, and which they have long foreseen might lead to events such as they now deplore.

It is for the reasons such as these, it is from knowing that missionary zeal might lead to consequences not only fatal to those devoted persons who apply themselves to spread Christianity in China, but calculated to put in jeopardy the lives and interests of the whole foreign community, that Her Majesty's Government have felt it their duty to discountenance missionary operations which seemed likely to give rise to difficulties with the Chinese Government and people; and Her Majesty's Government trust most sincerely that British missionaries will take warning from what has befallen the Roman Catholic missionaries at Tientsin, and conduct their operations with the utmost prudence, and with a steady purpose to abstain from exciting suspicion or animosity among the Chinese, and to insist upon their proselytes not looking upon their conversion to Christianity as releasing them from their general duties as subjects of China.

I have not yet heard what impression has been made on the Government of the United States by these late events, or what course they propose to follow, both for the protection of their general interests and for that of their missionaries, who, I believe, are also engaged in proselytising in China.

But, as matters stand, it is quite clear that the only policy which can be pursued is one of an expectant character, though that should not preclude every attempt that can be made, without compromising future liberty of action, to impress upon the Chinese Government the necessity of anticipating demands that may possibly be made upon them for redress, and for security against the recurrence of outbreaks against the foreign community which may involve China most seriously with other Powers.

The Chinese Government, indeed, seem to be alive to the necessity of acting in this manner; and the despatch of a special envoy with a deprecatory mission to France may be taken as an indication of apprehension. It will be your duty to keep alive and take advantage of such apprehension, and not to allow them to suppose that the present embarrassments under which France labours hold out to China a prospect of impunity for what has passed, or of security against the consequences of any repetition of offence towards foreigners.

The Chinese Government has the power to restrain its provincial authorities, and to make them feel that they are responsible for the safety of all foreigners residing in the country and engaged in their lawful pursuits; and you will press this point on the Chinese Ministers, as necessary to be borne in mind if they desire to avoid embarrassing questions with foreign Powers.—I am, &c.,

(Signed) GRANVILLE.

The next letter to the same is dated October 6th:—

Foreign-office, October 6, 1870.

SIR,—Since the date of my despatch of the 15th of September I have received your despatches of the 16th of July to the 17th of July, reporting proceedings up to that date, with reference to the massacre at Tientsin; and I have also received your telegram despatched from Kiaochow on the 26th of September, stating that all was quiet at Peking and the ports, though a feeling of uneasiness still prevailed at Tientsin.

I stated to you by telegraph, on the 26th of September, three days after the receipt of your despatches, but before that of your telegram, that it was the desire of Her Majesty's Government that you should urge on the Chinese Government, if they wished to avoid serious difference with England, that it was absolutely necessary that they should provide for the protection, during the winter, of British subjects and their property at Tientsin and other places after the necessary withdrawal, in consequence of the season, of the British naval forces. I informed you that Her Majesty's Government relied upon you for insisting with firmness on this demand, while avoiding any language which might be unnecessarily irritating; and I desired you, if you should entertain a doubt as to the sufficiency of Chinese protection, to warn British subjects that it was not to be relied on, and to offer them, with the concurrence of the Admiral, means of withdrawing to some place of safety. But I told you at the same time that you should hold the Chinese Government responsible for any damage done to British property during the absence of its owners. In order, however, that you might feel no doubt as to the extent of discretion imputed to you, and that it did not imply authority to adopt measures of direct hostility against China, I enjoined you on no account to sanction a British occupation of the Taku forts without orders from home.

It was a great satisfaction to Her Majesty's Government to learn by your telegram just received, that in the three months that had elapsed between its date and the date of the massacre nothing had occurred calculated to show that that tragedy was likely to be repeated in other parts of China, or to warrant the opinion, perhaps not unnaturally entertained on the spot in the first moments of alarm, that it indicated a determination on the part of the Chinese authorities and people to exterminate foreigners in general.

Doubtless the news of what had occurred at Tientsin has been much canvassed throughout China, and in judging of the present demeanour of the Chinese, which appears to have caused much anxiety to foreigners, it may perhaps not be unreasonable to attribute it, in some degree at least, to apprehension on the part of the former as to the consequences which may ensue from the massacre.

Such an outrage, indeed, can admit of neither excuse nor palliation; but perhaps some explanation of it, viewed as an isolated measure, which it would appear to have been, may be found in the fact, sufficiently notorious to all persons connected with China, that both the authorities and the people have thought that they had reason to complain of foreign missionary establishments; and some catastrophe has long been anticipated as not unlikely to result from the interference of foreign missionaries in support of their converts, who have, it is alleged, been taught to look upon conversion to Christianity as releasing them from their obligations of submission to the local authorities.

The late attack appears to have been directed chiefly against Roman Catholic missionary establishments under French protection, and when the fury of the mob was expended on them, the Protestant missionary establishments, with few exceptions, and those being in the immediate vicinity of the French, appear to have been left unmolested, and to have continued so up to the present time.

As the case stands, Great Britain, then, is not the party principally concerned; she has no wrong to avenge as deliberately done to her own subjects, although it is much to be lamented that one of Her Majesty's subjects, associated with the French Sisterhood, in an institution under the protection of the French authorities, shared their fate. Whatever course, in the common and general interest, it might have been advisable to take in concert with France, if France had invited her co-operation, Great Britain is under no moral or international obligation to stand forth alone as the redresser of wrongs done to the subjects of a foreign Power, and for the purpose of defending and upholding missionary proceedings in a foreign country, carried on without the sanction of Parliament, and by which no general national interest can be subserved.

I have already instructed you to give your moral support to any reasonable application for redress which the French Government may make. If that redress is refused, it will be matter of further consideration for Her Majesty's Government, whether any, and if at all how far, material assistance may be given to the French Government to obtain it.

In any case Her Majesty's Government fully recognise the duty of affording efficient protection to British subjects in China; and, with this view, of providing in the ports of China an amount of naval force adequate for the protection of British interests, though not sufficient to warrant the assumption that an intention exists on the part of Her Majesty's Government that it should be employed in active hostility against the Chinese Empire. Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett appears to have already at his disposal a sufficient naval force to admit of his providing for the safety of British interests at the several Treaty ports, and when the approach of winter compels him to withdraw the ships from the Northern ports he will have still larger naval means available for the protection of the rest. Her Majesty's Government have, moreover, considered whether a detachment of marines could be stationed on shore at Tientsin and Taku during the winter, but it appears that such a measure would be attended with great difficulty, and would involve little short of military occupation with a considerable force of those places.

Such a measure is out of the question. We have no sure ground for anticipating, either on the part of the Government or people of China, measures of outrage against British subjects; and we have no complaint to urge against China which would justify an act of direct hostility against her. The only course therefore open to us is that which has already been prescribed to you by telegraph, and which I have recapitulated at the commencement of this despatch, namely, the withdrawal during the winter months from the frozen-up ports of British subjects who might be unwilling to remain there.

Her Majesty's Government have recourse to such a measure with much reluctance, and are not insensible that it is attended with a certain degree of risk, namely, that of leading the Chinese Government to draw conclusions from it, which, however unwarranted, might prove dangerous to the maintenance of amicable relations with China.

On the other hand, however, the measure may not be unattended with good results. There is no reason to suppose that the Chinese Government have any deliberate purpose to quarrel with this country, and, to judge from your report, they are looking forward with no small apprehension as to the course which the Western Powers may be induced by the massacre at Tientsin to take; and in this state of feelings on their part no better test can be applied to their ability to control the local authorities and populace throughout China than the course which they may pursue when it is distinctly brought before them that, if they do not control both, they will be held responsible when the return of spring reopens the Gulf of Pechili and the Peiho River to the British naval forces.

You will learn from the inclosed copies of letters to the Board of Admiralty that measures will at once be taken to place at Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett's disposal a body of marines intended eventually to replace the regiment of infantry now stationed in Japan, and also the cautionary instructions which will be given to the Admiral for his general guidance. These are in substance the same as those which were long since issued for the guidance of naval officers in the Chinese seas; and I have only to state to you, in conclusion, that Her Majesty's Government rely not only on your prudence and firmness when communicating with the Chinese authorities, but also on your earnest co-operation with the Admiral for the support of the great British interests which have grown up in China.—I am, &c., (Signed) GRANVILLE.

In his next letter Lord GRANVILLE mentions Miss O'SULLIVAN's name for the first time:—

Foreign-office, October 7, 1870.

SIR,—In your despatch of the 3rd July you mention that a British subject named Alice O'Sullivan, born at Clonmel on the 1st Dec., 1836, was among the Sisters of Mercy murdered at Tientsin on the 21st June, being designated among the Sisterhood, according to your despatch of the 16th July, as Sister Louise. You appear from your letter to Prince Kung of the 9th July, inclosed in that despatch, to have been acquainted with her, and to have seen her but a short time before her departure from Peking for Tientsin.

You did perfectly right in calling Prince Kung's attention specifically to the case of Alice O'Sullivan, and in taking advantage of the opportunity to impress upon the Prince in strong terms the gross injustice and absurdity of imputing to this Sisterhood, zealously engaged in works of charity, crimes of such an odious character as those which served as a rallying cry for their murderers.

Her Majesty's Government entirely approve of your having pointed out to him that not only would the Chinese Government be held bound to mete out a full measure of justice to the criminals, but that it would also, if it sincerely desired to maintain friendly relations with foreign nations, set itself in all earnestness about disabusing the popular mind of the false impressions which it had conceived, and take most decided measures for the personal security of all foreigners residing in China.

As regards Alice O'Sullivan herself, I should wish to be informed as soon as possible whether she was registered as a British subject, or whether she held herself to be exclusively under French protection while associated with the French Sisterhood.—I am, &c.,

(Signed) GRANVILLE.

On the 19th October Lord GRANVILLE wrote to Mr. WADE :—

I have to acquaint you that if, on communication with Vice-Admiral Kellett, you should be jointly of opinion that the naval force which he can station at Shanghai is not sufficient for the defence of British interests at that place, you are authorised to apply to the commanding officer of Her Majesty's military forces at Hong Kong, or in Japan, for a detachment of infantry, which, on its arrival at Shanghai might be held in readiness on board ship, to be landed in case of disturbances affecting British life or property.

Again on the 26th :—

Her Majesty's Government approve of your proceedings as therein reported, in urging on the Yamen the necessity of taking steps with a view to disabuse the public mind of the truth of the charges brought against Christians, whether native or foreign, in regard to the bewitchment of children, their abduction, or the mutilation of their corpses.

The outbreak of war between France and Prussia became known at Tientsin in the third week in July. On the 24th October Lord GRANVILLE wrote to Lord LYONS, Her Majesty's Ambassador at Tours :—

M. Tissot has been directed by the French Government to ask me what Her Majesty's Government thought of the present state of affairs in China, with reference to the refusal of the Chinese Government to comply with the demands of M. Rochechouart, the French Chargé d'Affaires.

I explained to him generally the nature of the instructions given to Mr. Wade, with which your Excellency is acquainted; that he was authorised to facilitate the withdrawal of any British subjects from Tientsin and other places which, during the winter, could not be approached by water, if they desired to depart; that we had, moreover, arranged for sending out as a reinforcement to the British squadron a body of 300 marines, and that Mr. Wade and the British admiral had been authorised to apply to the commanding officers in Japan and at Hong Kong for a detachment of infantry if they should jointly be of opinion that such a measure was required for the defence of Shanghai. These measures, I said, had been taken with a view to protection against any pressing and immediate danger, but we reserved any further instructions with reference to what had taken place at Tientsin until we learned the result of the diplomatic negotiations in progress.

I further said that during the three months that had elapsed since the massacre, merchants and missionaries had continually expressed great alarm for the safety of foreigners in China, but that Her Majesty's Representative and Admiral, although alive to the possibility of danger, were not equally alarmed; and that it would seem that the French Chargé d'Affaires, who at first acted with great calmness and judgment, had at a later period been somewhat precipitate in his demands.

A private telegram had, however, arrived, which seemed to show that reparation had been made by the Chinese Government.—I am, &c.,

(Signed) GRANVILLE.

On the 12th December Lord GRANVILLE wrote again to Mr. WADE :—

I have received from Mr. Consul Hughes a copy of his despatch to you respecting the imprisonment of unoffending native Christians at Wooching, and I have to instruct you to call the serious attention of the Chinese Government to the matter.

In reply to the communication from the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce, the following letter was addressed to the chairman :—

Foreign Office, December 28, 1870.

SIR,—In reply to your letter of the 30th of September, I am directed by Earl Granville to state to you that the instructions as to the course to be observed by British naval officers in China, for the protection of British interests, have been misapprehended.

The general purport of those instructions was that Her Majesty's naval forces are only actively to be employed in China for the protection of British life and property, when actually imperilled by acts directed against them by Chinese authorities, or by the violence of the Chinese populace, which those authorities might be unable or unwilling to control; and although it is not expressly stated, yet it is clearly to be inferred from the tenor of the instructions that it would be consistent with their spirit and with the policy of Her Majesty's Government, that the Senior Naval Officer on the spot, if satisfied that an attack on the British Settlement at any of the ports, and especially at Shanghai was imminent, should disembark and maintain on shore, till the danger was passed, a body of marines, which, however, it would be desirable, if possible, to relieve daily or frequently from the ships.

I am to add that it appears from despatches received from Mr. Wade that he had arranged with Vice-Admiral Sir H. Kellett, on the 25th of September last, for marines to be landed from Her Majesty's ships, should occasion require it, in accordance with these views of Her Majesty's Government. The Admiral will dispose the force under his orders in the manner best calculated, in his judgment, to afford adequate protection at the several ports; and if the reinforcement of marines which has been sent to him should not be considered by him sufficient, he is authorised, in concert with Mr. Wade, to apply to the commanding officers of Her Majesty's forces at Hong Kong and in Japan for a detachment of troops.

Her Majesty's Government, however, cannot too earnestly caution all Her Majesty's subjects in China, and more especially those connected with religious societies, scrupulously to abstain at this period of excitement from any proceedings which may be calculated to bring them into collision with the Chinese authorities or people, or to encourage them by the manifestation of suspicion or alarm, to overt acts of disorder and violence. Her Majesty's subjects may be assured of the interest taken by their Government in the security of their persons and their property; but, on the other hand, Her Majesty's Government feel that they may require of British subjects to refrain from any proceedings likely to be misunderstood by the Chinese, and so imperil both.—I am, &c., (Signed) E. HAMMOND.

On the following day Lord GRANVILLE wrote to Mr. WADE :—

Although the immediate danger by which the maintenance of friendly relations between foreign nations and China was threatened may, it is to be hoped, be considered to be removed by the satisfaction tendered to, and accepted by, the French Chargé d'Affaires in atonement of the massacre of French subjects at Tientsin in the month of June last, yet it is impossible for Her Majesty's Government to accept the tardy and reluctant consent of the Chinese Government to do justice in a case in which the feelings of all Christian nations were so enlisted, as sufficient to efface the displeasure which they have felt in regard to these matters.

You will state to Prince Kung that Her Majesty's Government are anxious to maintain friendly relations with China, but that it will be impossible for them to do so unless the same anxiety is shown on the part of the Chinese Government. For Her Majesty's Government cannot shut their eyes to the serious consequences which any interruption of friendship between the two countries would involve, and they would earnestly press the Chinese Government to co-operate with them in averting them.

They do so with the more confidence because they feel assured that if the Chinese Government will only exert the power and influence which it possesses, there will be no difficulty in preventing the recurrence of such disasters as those which have lately caused so much irritation in the minds of foreigners, and which have twice threatened to render the continuance of the foreign Legation at Peking incompatible with the honour and interests of their Governments. But you will explain to the Chinese Government the full importance of their withdrawal, and the consequences to which such a state of things would be too likely to lead; and you will deduce from such explanation the importance of watching over the safety of the foreign community, repressing the illegal conduct of local authorities, and punishing disorder committed by the lower classes; of strictly observing the provisions of Treaties and promptly redressing wrongs done in violation of them, as affording the surest and most effectual guarantee for peace between China and foreign nations, and the development, to their common advantage, of a healthy and lucrative commerce.—I am, &c.,

(Signed) GRANVILLE.

Prince KUNG's letter to M. de ROCHECHOUART, recapitulating the terms of indemnity, runs thus :—

October 18, 1870.

I have had the honour to receive from your Excellency, with reference to the events at Tientsin, a despatch expressing the indignation and pain which they had produced. To this document was appended a list of victims.

The news of misfortunes so unexpected was for us a cause of great affliction.

For many years China and France have been on friendly terms; no one expected such a catastrophe. Even now we are overwhelmed with confusion and sorrow.

It has been decided that a sum of Tls. 25,000 shall be paid as indemnity, which, in pursuance of the decisions of the Department of Finance, your Excellency will receive from the Administration of the Customs of Kiang-nan and Koang-Tong for subsequent division, in conformity with the appended account, among the families of the Consul Fontanier, of the other officials, and of the merchants. The Church will receive what is due to it.

On the 12th inst. your despatch reached me, informing me that the material losses sustained by the religious establishments and others amounted to the sum of Tls. 210,000. The Hou-pou has already decided that the payment of this reimbursement shall be made by the Maritime Customs of Tientsin.

Such is the object of the present communication.

The book concludes with a note, in which Lord GRANVILLE expresses his approbation of Mr. WADE's conduct throughout the circumstances consequent on the massacre in the following terms :—

The full accounts which have been received from you of the lamentable massacre at Tientsin and of the subsequent state of affairs in China, have enabled Her Majesty's Government thoroughly to appreciate the gravity of the situation, and the exceptional difficulties of your position as Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires during such a crisis in the relations between China and foreign Powers.

I have now, therefore, the greatest satisfaction in informing you of the entire approval by Her Majesty's Government of the tact and discretion which have marked your proceedings, and of your efforts to allay the apprehensions and secure the safety of the British community in China, as well as to impress upon the Chinese Government the necessity of such a strict observance of their Treaty engagements as may insure the future maintenance of the friendly intercourse with other countries in which the political and commercial interests of the Empire are so greatly concerned.

"UNDER THE DRAGON'S FOOTSTOOL."

Such is the title under which Mr. Ross Browne has contributed to the Overland Monthly Magazine the narrative of his diplomatic "experiences" at the Court of Peking, alluded to in our last issue, while noticing the same gentleman's "manifestations" in a San Francisco paper. How we have been disappointed with this effusion may be guessed from this extract from Mr. Browne's exordium in his new medium:—

Never was the public mind better prepared for a new sensation than during the winter of 1867-8. The foreign market had apparently been exhausted of its novelties. Mr. Phineas Barnum was resting upon his laurels. The Japanese jugglers had completed their performances. Mr. George Francis Train was in prison. Another visit from the Prince of Wales was not anticipated. No new Kossuth was advertised; and no popular vent seemed available for the pent-up hospitality of a generous nation.

In the midst of this depressing quietude, a thrilling rumour reached us; strange and doubtful at first, but soon swelling into a sublime diapason of exultant strains. The ancient Empire of China had risen from its dead sleep of ages, brushed away the cobwebs from its eyes, yawned in dreary wonder at the mushroom growth of nations around it, and now, under the inspiration of a generous policy, was tapping at the doors of Chistendom, and asking to be admitted into the cheerful family of adolescent Powers.

Having entered on his subject in this style (which wants nothing of Artemus Ward's except his peculiar humour and his odd spelling), Mr. Browne proceeds to describe his countrymen's idea of the duties to which he was appointed:—

An American Minister to China may write or speak what he pleases, when or where he pleases, provided it be what the popular voice at home pleases. It need not necessarily be true, but it must be acceptable. No Minister who desires to retain his position, or the approval of his Government, is permitted to see any facts not expressly prepared by Providence under the supervision of the Department of State, entertain any opinions not endorsed and warranted by the party in power, or arrive at any conclusions which do not pander to the self-conceit or subserve the pecuniary interest of a sensational press, or the blind assumptions of an unreasoning public.

The little bit about "a sensational press" and an "unreasoning public" comes with a strange grace from the author of the following rhapsody:—

Addressed to a people surcharged with humanity and overflowing with brotherly love, mercurial and sympathetic, yearning to fold all mankind in a fraternal embrace, the affectionate assurances of regard given by the Embassy at San Francisco were received with acclamations of approval.

The reception given to the Chinese Embassadors (as Mr. Browne calls them) in New York must certainly have somewhat startled the propriety of the Oriental mind, when, as Mr. Browne tells us—

Several hundred bewitching females, under the charge of General Spinner, rushed from their desks and surrounded the dazzled and bewildered mandarins, who had never seen such a display of gushing beauty, untrammelled by conventional prejudices, in all their experience at the city of Peking.

But the great event of the times was the introduction of the Embassy to the President of the United States. Mr. Secretary Seward, in virtue of his office, was supposed to have contrived all the diplomatic paraphernalia. It is even hinted that he had prepared the President's speech. Certainly that production bears the peculiar impress of his genius. The Embassy was fortunate in seeing the President at all.

The entree of the mission was a success. Forth flashed the inspiring intelligence over the electric wires. Streams of champagne and sentiment had scarcely ceased to flow on the Pacific Coast, when the Atlantic States caught up the glorious hosanna of fraternity, and reprogressing with railroad speed, and young America sat on top, waving the star-spangled banner, and shouting, in exultant tones, Hail Columbia.

But a treaty was necessary. The public clamoured for some tangible results. The fraternal relations so happily established between the Dragon and the Eagle must be cemented according to international usage. So a new treaty was made—or rather new articles containing old principles were added to the old treaty. What mattered it that nobody understood the object or the meaning? Commonplace diplomacy could make commonplace treaties intelligible to the ordinary understanding; but it required very uncommon diplomacy to make a treaty which might mean anything or nothing as occasion might require.

Diplomacy has been explained as the art of concealing the truth. If there was anything concealed in these articles of the least practical value either to China or the United States, it was done with marvellous skill, for the fact has not yet been discovered.

Almost simultaneously with the treaty came those sumptuous banquets at New York and Boston, in which the bewildered mandarins were submerged in rivers of wine, wit, and sentiment.

Ample justice was done to the memory of that unfortunate Boston lunatic, who, assuming that the earth revolved daily on its axis, proposed to go to China by going up in a balloon and waiting till China came round, then letting off the gas and dropping gently down; for had not this grand conception been realised? Had not China come round to us?

Even beauty and innocence paid homage to the native emissaries of the Imperial Dragon; they were ogled, and flattered, and flirted with, in a manner that must have gratified their vanity if it did not move their hearts; and the sentiments expressed on many a festive occasion were smelted through the glowing crucibles of fancy into treasures of amatory verse.

Here is Mr. Browne's account of the causes of his appointment to the Court at Peking, and what it led to:—

Peculiar qualifications were needed for the position of American Minister. It required profound statesmanship and skilful diplomacy. The representative of American interests at that brilliant Court should be a man of imposing personal appearance, enlarged and liberal views, of profound research in ethical philosophy; but, above all, he should be thoroughly permeated with the new policy of conciliation.

The President, incapable of appreciating the humanitarian aspect of the question, nominated for the vacant position a citizen of California, whose chief recommendation was that he was utterly unknown in the political world. So far as common repute went, he had never been convicted of any infamous crime. The only serious charge against him was, that he had contributed some sketchy articles to the periodicals of the day. Had he belonged to the honourable fraternity of hod-carriers, he might have escaped censure because of his calling, but it was urged with some show of reason that there were ex-Senators, Governors, and members of Congress enough to fill the vacancy without descending into the ranks of literature. Our national representatives, it must be confessed, were exempt from this species of degradation. Nobody could fairly suspect them of being addicted to literary pursuits.

Mr. Browne's account of his recall is equally graphic:—

Scarcely had a year elapsed when it was announced that our erratic Minister had once more landed on the shores of America. Like a bad penny, he was back again. A furious tempest was brewing; ominous clouds were gathering on the public brow; from every point reverberated deep mutterings of the coming storm. Willingly would the victim of popular dissatisfaction have sought refuge in the haven of private life, but an outraged and indignant press dragged him forth, and held him up to universal execration. "No sooner was he pitchforked by some strange chance into a diplomatic mission" (to use the language of a religious journal), than he reversed the enlightened policy of his predecessor; clapped a pistol to Prince Kung's head; called upon that functionary to hurry up with his improvements; put a torpedo under the projected telegraphs and railways, and blew them all sky-high; rebuilt the ponderous walls of China, which had been so adroitly levelled; sold himself to the British, bargained with the French, and then performed the one gratifying act of his official career—came home.

OUR NAVAL FORCES IN CHINA.

(ARMY AND NAVY GAZETTE.)

We last week alluded to the circumstance that our naval forces on the coast of China were deficient in gunboats. This is a fact which cannot be gainsaid, and which is sadly to be lamented when we take into consideration the great interests we have at stake, not only on the large seaboard which extends from Hong Kong to the mouth of the Peiho, but in Japan and among the cluster of islands which constitute the Eastern Archipelago. The matter is really worse than we were at first led to expect. The greater part of the small craft now under the orders of Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett consists of the Starling and Woodcock class, built in a hurry when we had the prospect of a lengthened war with Russia before us. They were despatched to China, not without some forebodings on the part of those who took upon themselves the responsibility of sending them upon so long and so perilous a voyage. They, however, by good luck, and, we must add, by good management, arrived out in safety, after touching at many intermediate ports on the way. They have, however, from that time to the present moment been a source of anxiety to commanding officers, and the relatives and friends of the Starling's crew were lately in a state of grievous anxiety, which was only relieved by intelligence received by the last overland mail. Then, as if to shame us into doing something more creditable to us as the first naval nation in the world, the Russians have on the station a powerful force to which we cannot hold a candle. Who is to blame for this state of matters? Naturally, if the attention of the Board of Admiralty be not directed to the subject by the senior officers who should carry out the behests of their lordships, the latter cannot well be blamed for not recklessly disbursing the public money in opposition to the views of those who should be better informed than themselves, or in the face of returns which appear to be satisfactory; but if, on the other hand, reasonable complaints have been made and passed over unheeded, fault must lie at the door of some one. We are not among those who think odium should be attached to the executive portion of the Admiralty for any shortcomings which may exist on this head. The sea lords, as a rule, are perhaps too much inclined to err on the other side. Their experience has taught them that if we wish our flag to be respected, and if we are ambitious to maintain our supremacy on the ocean, we must have both ships and men, and, as they have not passed an apprenticeship in a manufactory or in a workshop, they are not apt to place that value on money which the thrifty trader does. They are not likely, therefore, to have turned a deaf ear upon remonstrances emanating from a brother officer with whose troubles they can well sympathise. It cannot be denied that under the rule, and especially under the latter part of it, of the late Controller of the Navy there existed a tendency to be satisfied with makeshifts; in short, patch-work, from the moment that Mr.

Baxter took office, was in the ascendant, and is still in favour. The public have a right to fix upon the honourable member for Montrose for the beggary state to which, under his auspices, the naval service of England has been reduced, as he boldly announced the other night in his place in Parliament that he was no storekeeper; but we will allow him to speak for himself:—"Further, he would tell the hon. member for Portsmouth that he had mistaken his (Mr. Baxter's) position when he compared it to that of a storekeeper in the Navy. He was responsible for the buying and selling of all naval stores; but that was only a small portion of his duty. He deemed himself responsible to the First Lord for the naval administration of the country." These are big words; and while Mr. Baxter remains at Whitehall, we shall not be at a loss for a scapegoat. The absence of Mr. Childers from his office for a sufficient space of time to give him a fair chance of recovering his health cannot materially affect the well-being of the navy, and when he is enabled once more vigorously to discharge the duties of his office, we shall be much surprised if the state of our flotilla in the China seas be not immediately taken into consideration irrespectively of any opposition which may be raised by the Financial Secretary and his civilian assistants. In the meantime, we would beg leave again to impress upon the new Controller of the Navy that we have nothing in China wherewith to oppose the five heavily-armed and swift Russian gunboats, unless we except the flagship Ocean and the despatch vessel Salamis. We have performed our duty in opening up the question, and we feel persuaded that Captain Hall will not allow it to drop until he is satisfied in his own mind that we have an efficient force where to be without one would be both neglectful and criminal.

PARLIAMENT.

THE CHINA AND JAPAN CONSULAR REPORTS.

MR. WHITE asked the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs when the remaining portion of the China and Japan Consular Reports for the year 1869 would be issued, and if arrangements could be made for their earlier publication; and when the Consular Reports from Saigon, Batavia, Sarawak, Bangkok, and Manila would be issued.

LORD ENFIELD (Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs): The only China returns for 1869 which have not yet been published are those from Shanghai and Taiwan, which were received after the close of the Session, in September and December. They are now in the printer's hands. (See "China," No. 12, 1870.) All the Japan reports and returns have been published. (See "Japan," No. 4, 1870.) The returns and report from Bangkok (our only station in Siam) were also laid last Session. (See "China," No. 7, 1870.) The reason of the delay in publishing some reports is that it has been the custom to lay them before Parliament first, and to keep over those which arrive too late to be laid till the next Session. No Consular reports for the last two years have been received either from Saigon or Batavia; the former is an unpaid post, and at the latter there is a trading consul, and their communications with the Home Government are not quite so punctual as would be expected from salaried officers. The last commercial report from Sarawak was printed in September, 1869, and from Manila, in April, 1870. There has been hardly time to receive last year's report from the Manila Consulate.

POSTAGE VIA BRINDISI.

MR. MAQNAC asked the Postmaster-General whether he would endeavour to procure from the foreign Governments through whose territory the mails for the East via Brindisi have to pass a reduction in the present heavy postal charges.

MR. MONSELL (the Postmaster-General) said the transit rates referred to were payable to the Governments of Belgium, North Germany, and Italy. Those payable to the North German Post-office were fixed by a convention concluded as recently as last April, and those payable to the Italian Government were settled only the other day. None of the rates charged were considered excessive, and as they had been so recently fixed he feared nothing would be gained by asking for a reduction at present. (Hear, hear.)

THE GULF OF MANAAR.—ADAM'S BRIDGE.

(24th.) Sir J. ELPHINSTONE rose to call the attention of the House to the necessity of cutting through Adam's Bridge and thereby obviating the necessity of circumnavigating the Island of Ceylon. The subject was one of the greatest commercial importance, and it had been brought several times under the notice of the Indian Government. A committee, over which he had had the honour to preside, which sat in 1863, had recommended that the Indian Government should cut a navigable canal through Adam's Bridge, with a view of shortening the present route to the Bay of Bengal by 363 miles, but, from that time to the present, no steps had been taken in the matter. That the trade which would be benefited by the execution of the proposed works was not an unimportant one was shown from the fact that it had increased from 70,000 tons in 1829 to 200,000 in last year. Having twice visited the locality he was in a position to say that no difficulty whatever would have to be encountered in executing the proposed works. The opening of the Suez Canal had occasioned the Indian trade to be carried on almost entirely by steam vessels, and in the course of two or three years not a single sailing vessel would be engaged in the traffic. The Colonial Government at Ceylon had determined to make a large and deep-water harbour at Colombo, and if the proposed canal were cut there would be a saving of 250 miles between that port and Madras. The navigation of Gulf Manaar was the safest in the world, and it appeared from the annual reports of the India Presidencies, which, from the clear and ample manner in which they treated all Indian questions, he should be glad to see in the library of the House, that in the course of last year 2,222 vessels passed through the existing channel, through Adam's Bridge, of which, although they were navigated by natives, only two were lost. What he now proposed was that the Indian Government should cut a canal 500 yards in width through a promontory in the Madras Presidency, for a distance of two miles and a half, the height of the land being twelve feet, at an estimated expense of £91,000, whereby a magnificent harbour, containing sixteen miles of smooth and deep water, would be obtained. Last year 117,000 bales of cotton were shipped at very great risk and expense, whereas if the harbour to which he was referring were constructed the ships could load at jetties along the shore, to which the cotton could be conveyed by means of a short branch line of railway. The province of Madura, in the Madras Presidency, was extremely rich in cattle, sheep, and other produce, but the harbour at Point de Galle, by which it must at present be approached, was one of the most inconvenient that could be found on any coast. The Madras Presidency had already eighty-nine miles of canals, one, of nine miles in length, having been recently constructed for the purpose of connecting Madras with the great rice producing district of Pennair, but the Indian Government would not incur the expense of making the two and a half miles of which he was speaking, because the opening of such a canal would be an Imperial question, and ought, in their opinion, to be defrayed out of the Imperial funds. As the making of the canal would save vessels making the voyage to Calcutta 730 miles of sailing, shipowners would be willing to pay a very handsome toll for the privilege of passing through the canal, and so the work would be self-supporting. He desired further to say a few words in regard to another question connected with maritime matters on the coast of India. It had been stated that there were forty lighthouses on the coast of India, extending from the Persian boundary at Beloochistan to the limits of the kingdom of Siam at Tenasserim, a distance of 4,000 miles, but to his own knowledge there were thirty points between Bombay and Cape Comorin where lighthouses were so much wanted that ships had to make much longer passages and to run far greater risks than would be the case if the shore was properly lighted. Having sailed along 1,200 miles of the coast of India in the course of last year, he could say that there was no civilised country in the world worse off for necessary coast light and harbour accommodation. If the channel had been in the hands of M. de Lesseps, he would have done in nine months what the Government of India has taken as many years to accomplish. By means of the dredges used by M. de Lesseps on the Suez Canal, the great rivers of India might be rendered navigable and useful for the purposes of carrying the inland produce to the coast for shipment during the whole year, instead of during a part of it only, as was the case at present. The business of making harbours in India was in so backward a state that there were not to be found on the whole Continent harbour works of equal magnitude with those which had been constructed by private enterprise at Grimsby, on our own coast. (Hear, hear.) To sum up his object in bringing this question forward, it was to save the mercantile marine of Great Britain from the expense of 700 miles more of sailing than was necessary in making the voyage to Calcutta, and from the risk of sailing round one of the most stormy and disagreeable promontories in the world. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. J. B. SMITH supported the view taken by the hon. member, and said the question was one of so great importance that the Indian Government could not much longer avoid the necessity of looking into it.

Mr. EASTWICK was surprised that so little had been done by the Government to carry out the recommendations of the Committee of 1862 in reference to this among other Indian questions. One of the great advantages of carrying out the recommendations of the hon. baronet was that it would encourage the coasting trade, and a still greater advantage would be found in the fact that the scheme would involve and include the construction of a new harbour near the coast, which harbour would be found of almost incalculable advantage in case of war breaking out in that part of the Queen's dominions.

Colonel SYKES, in face of the very great advantage which would be secured at a comparatively small cost by carrying out the plan which had been laid before the House, hoped Her Majesty's Government would take the matter in hand.

Mr. GRANT DUFF (Under-Secretary for India) did not doubt the advantage which would be gained by having a deep water channel between Ceylon and the coast of India, but the first question was who was to construct it. (Hear.) The Government of Ceylon had not hitherto considered its subjects sufficiently interested in the matter to make it any part of its duty to expend the very considerable sum of money that would be necessary in order to carry out the work. If any channel were to be made for the purposes to which the hon. baronet alluded, was it to be made by the Imperial Government? The Imperial Government had refused to have anything to do with the matter. Its Admiralty said it was possible that some advantage would be derived to large ships by the making out of the route suggested by the hon. baronet, but with regard to ships of war, it was perfectly clear that route would have no value, because they had always been accustomed to touch at Trincomalee. The hon. baronet, perhaps, was aware that for the last forty-two years the Indian authorities had been paying considerable sums for deepening the channel through the Straits. The hon. gentleman was aware, he believed, that a very large amount of Indian shipping now went through that channel. He was further aware that if the Government were to alter their plans, and adopt the plan which he now proposed, the whole of the money that had been spent in deepening that channel would be completely thrown away. The Government, as at present advised, had no intention of throwing over the plans upon which they had hitherto been working. Passing from that subject to the much larger subject to which the hon. baronet referred—the question of lighthouses and other maritime improvements on the Indian coast—Mr. Grant Duff was very far from denying that there was an immense deal to do on the Indian coast with reference to that subject. But when the hon. baronet compared the harbour works in India with the harbour works in this country, he should remember the different amount of capital that was expendable for such purposes in India and in England. He could not give the hon. baronet much hope, but he could assure him that the Indian Government would devote their attention as much as possible to the improvement of the harbours and lighthouses around the shores of India.

DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR SERVICES.

On the motion of Mr. BOUVIER, a select committee was appointed to inquire into the Diplomatic and Consular services and their maintenance on the efficient policy required by the political and commercial interests of the country.

NAVAL AND MILITARY.

Commander T. M. Maquay (1867) has been appointed to the command of the Ringdove, vacant by the accidental drowning of Commander Brooks. Commander Maquay proceeded to China by the last mail. The Lords of the Admiralty have approved of the promotion (by Sir Henry Kellett) of Lieutenant R. L. Byng and Sub-Lieutenant E. Chichester, of Her Majesty's ship Ocean, to the rank of Commander and Lieutenant respectively.

We believe the first step towards increasing the China squadron will be the commissioning, in a few weeks, of the Endymion, screw frigate, 21 guns, 2,436 tons burthen, 500-horse power, for that station. The Endymion is now at Portsmouth.

A paragraph in the Army Estimates states that the Ceylon Rifle Corps will be reduced by two companies on the withdrawal of the troops from Labuan, which are to be replaced by a police force.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE REV. JOHN SOARTH, formerly of China, has been presented by the Crown to the vicarage of Holy Trinity, Milton next Gravesend, where for three years he was curate. Connected with the parish the St. Andrew's Waterside Mission has become well known as a great boon to many of the sailors and emigrants who leave the Thames, supplying them with books, &c., gratuitously. No doubt this work will be carried on with full force under the new vicar, and we wish him all success.

IN the American Senate on the 6th inst. a Bill was introduced by Mr. Corbett, of Michigan, the object of which is to obtain a charter for the incorporation of a steamship company to trade in Japan waters, and the name of which is to be the "Japan Steam Navigation Company." After some discussion, the Bill was referred to the Committee of Commerce.

THE Daily Telegraph says that great pressure has been put upon Count Bismark from Germany with respect to a demand for Cochin China, but it may be reasonably hoped that the Chancellor will not yield to popular feeling so as to materially alter any part of his programme.

MR. J. F. LOWDER, H.M.'s Consul at Ne-e-gala, was presented by the Secretary of State at the levee held on Saturday by the Prince of Wales on behalf of the Queen.

A VERY handsome testimonial has been presented to Mr. Paddle, the assistant manager of the Jerusalem, in the shape of a purse, valued at over £500.

THE DESPATCHES ON THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

THE extracts from the "Correspondence Relating to the Massacre of Europeans at Tientsin," just issued in the form of a Blue-book, which we publish in another column, will be read with painful interest, and, we think we may add, with general disappointment at the position which our Government assumed from the commencement of the proceedings which followed on that catastrophe. Up to the publication of the present volume it was the general impression that the indecisive and undemonstrative conduct of Her MAJESTY'S Minister at Peking after the commission of the outrage was entirely due to Mr. WADE's own ideas of "policy." We must own that we shared in that impression, and that we fully expected that the Government had acceded to the representations of the foreign merchants, who met in London, at least so far as to have instructed Mr. WADE to assume a position more consistent with the character of an English Minister, and better calculated to secure the safety of our countrymen in China. But so far from urging Mr. WADE to a more straightforward and dignified course, Lord GRANVILLE appears to have praised him the most when he was doing the least, while the feeble interest which the Foreign Secretary exhibited in the inquiries he instituted concerning Miss O'SULLIVAN, and the utter failure of anything like definite information—as if the subject were merely touched on as a matter of form—will excite a feeling of indignation among all who can sympathise with the survivors of the butchery at Tientsin.

THE SUBMARINE CABLES FOR CHINA.

THE Great Northern Extension Telegraph Company have chartered the steamer Africa, of about 2,500 tons, for the purpose of conveying the section of the submarine cable to be laid from Vladivostok (Possietto) to Nagasaki, while the Great Northern, expected from China in a fortnight, will take on board the section to connect Nagasaki and Shanghai, about 1,200 miles of cable in all. It is expected that these vessels will be despatched about the 15th April, via Suez Canal, calling at Singapore and Hong Kong en route. Under favourable circumstances, the cable will be laid down and communication established about the 15th July. As already announced, the land lines through Russia to Vladivostok are now in operation, thus affording a direct chain of communication from London to Shanghai. This Company are also laying a cable from Shanghai to Hong Kong, which will probably be completed on the turn of the monsoon in April.

The Telegraph Construction Company, under contract to the China Submarine Company, have despatched the vessels named in a late number with the cable to connect Singapore and Hong Kong, and this line will, barring accidents, be completed in April. The cable to connect Australia and Java will also be despatched in a few months.

The project started in Hong Kong for connecting Siam, Saigon, Manila, and Hong Kong, the land lines for which were last year despatched to Singapore, is, we believe, likely to be carried out, either on its original footing, or by an amalgamation with another company.

THE GULF OF MANAAR NAVIGATION.

CEYLON, whether we regard its extent, geographical position, or natural advantages, may be regarded as one of the finest islands in the world. If the truth must, however, be told—and it seems as if that time had arrived—the Government and the public of Ceylon seem to be the only people in existence who are insensible of the great natural advantages of their situation. They are so taken up with the cultivation of their fertile soil, and so much divided about the merits of various schemes of projected railways, which are to connect their estates and double the value of very many of them, that they have apparently no time for the development of those of their advantages in which all the rest of the world have an equal interest with themselves. Public works which prove their own necessity by the certainty that they would pay their cost in a few years, besides adding largely to the commercial activity of the island—works which would have been undertaken and carried through by almost every other community as soon as they were pointed out—have been neglected or put aside from considerations of the most timid economy, from time to time, until the demand for them has become imperative, and what the good people of Ceylon cannot be persuaded to perform for themselves, it seems pretty certain that the Imperial Government will feel called upon to do for them. Of course we refer to the long-talked-of navigable canal, which, by a cutting of two or three miles, will shorten the voyage to the Bay of Bengal by 730 miles, and the projected improvements of the harbour at Galle. Both these works, the former especially, can be carried out at a cost in itself trifling compared with the advantages they will confer; but there is no further connection between the two schemes than the illustration they both supply of the chronic apathy of the residents in Ceylon. The Canal claims precedence over the harbour, and we were therefore glad to find that Sir JAMES ELPHINSTONE brought this matter before the House of Commons in the emphatic manner reported in another column; and, from the feeling exhibited by the House on this occasion, we trust that our friends in Ceylon will at length rouse themselves to a sense of the responsibility they incur in shutting out, even for a time, their countrymen from the employment of a short cut which is imperatively demanded by the commerce of the East. It is not to be tolerated that Ceylon should "stop the way" in a matter of so much urgency; and the public of Ceylon will show as little regard for their dignity as for their interests if they allow such a petty amount as £90,000, which is all that is required to make the canal navigable for steamers, to be raised by direct taxation for the purpose, or relegated to the tender mercies of joint-stock enterprise at home, instead of carrying out the work themselves by means of a loan, which, it has been proved beyond doubt, must repay itself in the course of a few years by sheer toll, to say nothing of the collateral advantages the increased traffic would bring.

MAILS VIA BRINDISI.

WITH reference to complaints which have been made of correspondence from China by French mail steamers, marked and stamped via Brindisi, reaching this country via France, the following reply has been received to a remonstrance addressed to the Postmaster-General. This proves that the delay has been occasioned by the method in which the mails are made up in the Post-office at Hong Kong.

"In reply to your letter of the 15th instant, I have to acquaint you that the newspapers of which you enclosed the covers were received via France in a mail from China conveyed by French packet, which arrived on the morning of the 15th instant, and they have, therefore, so far as this office is concerned, sustained no delay.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
"F. HILL"

OUR readers will be glad to learn that the long-talked-of railway between the town of Singapore and new harbour is about to be accomplished. The scheme will shortly be brought forward as a company, under the auspices of the directors of the P. and O. Company and other influential parties connected with the different wharves and docks at Singapore. The necessity for this railway has become more manifest since the opening of the Suez Canal. It is intended that the railway, starting from the town, should have its first station at the Tanjong Pagar Dock; the second, at the Wharf of the Borneo Company; and thence be continued through the premises of the P. and O. Company to those of the Patent Slip and Dock Company. It is expected that the work will be completed in twelve months.

WE are happy to announce that the Prince HIGASHI FUSHIMI NO MIYA, uncle to the MIKADO, and at present the heir apparent to the Throne, has been courteously treated by our Foreign-office. Lord GRANVILLE called upon the PRINCE, and subsequently arranged for his presentation to Her MAJESTY on the 21st inst., together with the Baron von SIEBOLD, who has been engaged in the preliminary arrangements for the PRINCE's studies. The PRINCE and his attendants will shortly leave London for this purpose, and it is probable that his stay in Europe will extend to five years. The Japanese Minister of Finance, ITO, who is now in the United States, with the view of gathering information as to the mode of conducting financial matters in America, has been presented to the PRESIDENT. It is expected that he will visit Europe before returning to Japan.

It will be observed in our Parliamentary intelligence that Mr. WHITE has called the attention of the Foreign-office to the delay in the publication of the Consular Reports from China, &c. These reports are becoming more interesting every year. Our Consuls really seem to vie with each other in giving information which their position enables them to obtain, but which loses half its value by the present system of first forwarding them to Peking, and then being kept at the Foreign-office for months before publication. Mr. MAGNIAC has mooted the question of postage, and we trust the Chambers of Commerce have forwarded Memorials, as we suggested.

IN consequence of the favourable reports of the tranquil condition of the China ports received in the recent telegrams from Mr. WADE to the Foreign-office, we understand that orders have been forwarded from the Admiralty to the Naval Commander-in-Chief on the China station to despatch the detachment of Marines, which sailed on board the Juno some months since, direct to Yokohama, on the arrival of that vessel at Hong Kong.

THE members of the Delegate Government at Bordeaux have received CHUNG HOW in a favourable manner, and have ordered apartments for him and his suite. Mr. H. O. BROWN, M. NOYON, and M. IMBERT are still with the Mission. The Comte KLESKOWSKI—whom our readers will remember as Chargé d'Affaires at Macao—has also extended his good offices to the Mission.

WE understand that Mr. THOMAS DUNMAN, Commissioner of Police, Straits Settlements, and Mr. F. H. GOTTLIEB, Magistrate of Police at Singapore, have each had a further extension of leave granted, until September next, by the Right Hon. the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

THE Prince Alfred will sail from Liverpool for Yokohama to-morrow, and will convey thirty railway carriages in addition to the material we have detailed in previous numbers. Further shipments are now in progress, including locomotives and carriages.

WE understand that it is intended to make Shanghai a port of registry for British shipping. This will be of considerable service, and add much to the increase of our flag in the North of China, the Yangtze, and Japan.

ANOTHER very valuable report on silk, from the pen of Mr. ADAMS, the Secretary of Legation in Japan, has been issued by the Foreign-office, which we shall notice in our next.

SIR RICHARD GRAVES MACDONNELL, K.C.B., Governor of Hong Kong, at present in England on leave, has been appointed a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

Monetary and Commercial.

The report of the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company (Limited), to be submitted to-morrow, shows an available balance of £170,646, proposed to be divided as follows:—£44,820, being £1 4s. per share, in cash; and £112,050, being £3 per share, represented by fully paid-up shares in submarine telegraph companies at par, at which they have hitherto been credited to profit and loss account, leaving a balance of £13,776 to be carried forward, credited to profit and loss account. The contracts in hand for the year 1871 consist of the China Submarine Telegraph Company's cable, to be laid between Singapore and Hong Kong, and the British Australian Telegraph Company's cable, between Java and Port Darwin, Australia. The China cable is all embarked, and the ships are on their way out to submerge it during the month of May. The Australian cable will be duly despatched in time to complete the laying by Christmas next. The shares to be put into trust are understood to consist of French Atlantic, British Indian, Marseilles and Algiers, and British Indian Extension, and the following plan of arrangement is described, which seems well calculated to facilitate the realisation of them on the best terms:—

"With a view to enable a pro rata dividend to be made of the share property held by this company now available for distribution, and also to secure by gradual realisation the best price obtainable for the shares, the directors propose to constitute a trust for the benefit of the shareholders now entitled to dividend, and to transfer to trustees on their behalf the £112,050 in fully paid shares above mentioned, each shareholder receiving a certificate to the amount of £3 on each of his shares in this company, and which will entitle the holder of the certificate to a rateable proportion of the produce realised by sale and dividends of the trust shares until all those shares are disposed of. It is proposed that the trustees be restricted for three years from selling any shares under par; the other provisions of the trust deed will be fully stated at the meeting."

The directors of the Indo-European Telegraph Company (Limited) have issued their report preparatory to the meeting on the 28th inst. It states that the gross revenue of the company amounts to £25,268, and the expenses, including maintenance, to £25,268.

An adjourned meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Liebert and Rogerson, India and China merchants, London and Manchester has been held. Mr. Halliday made a full report of his inspection of the books, and liquidation of the estate was then resolved upon, Mr. Halliday being appointed trustee, with a committee of inspection. According to this decision the estate will be taken out of bankruptcy.

The 1st of March has been appointed by Lord Justice James for hearing the case of the Albert Life Office Reconstruction Plan, prepared by the committee, of which Mr. James Thompson is chairman.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

—O—

TEA.

Latterly the market has become very quiet, the trade having supplied their wants for the present. Common to good common black leaf kinds have arrived in large quantities, but they have met with little demand in the absence of export orders. Red-leaf Congou siftings have sold from 5d. to 6½d. per lb., being about former prices. Broken-leaf kinds from 8d. to 10d. per lb. show no change. Fair to good common have been rather more in request at previous prices. Common to fair Kaisows from 1s. to 1s. 2d. per lb. have met with a moderate demand. Good to fine and finest Kaisows, from their comparative scarcity, have been firmly maintained. Pak Lin kinds show no material alteration. Black-leaf kinds: Low to common qualities remain difficult of sale at a reduction in price. Fair to good common have been in over supply at the moment, the demand being limited; a few sales have been made at ½d. to ¾d. per lb. decline. Fair to good medium kinds from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 4d. have been sold ½d. per lb. lower, good to fine have been firm, as also finest, but transactions have been limited. In Amoy kinds some few sales have been made from 8d. to 10d. per lb. for common to fair quality, prices being a shade in favour of buyers. New-make Canton kinds have been sold freely from 1s. 2d. to 1s. 6d. per lb., being ½d. per lb. lower. Oolong have not been so readily taken, and prices must be quoted 1d. to 2d. per lb. lower; some parcels have arrived from America. Souchongs show but little change; sales have been to a fair extent at about previous rates. Flowery Pekoes remain as before. Scented Teas: Canton Capers, common to fair kinds, have been sold at full prices; the good to fine kinds have been less in request, and prices are rather lower. Foochow Capers show no material alteration. Canton Orange Pekoes have been rather more saleable at previous prices. Foochow kinds show no changeable quotation. In Uncoloured Japans there is nothing new to report. Green: The market continues much depressed. Invoices continue to be offered at public auction without reserve, the result in nearly all cases being lower prices. Privately sales have been difficult to make at a decline of 1d. to 2d. per lb. The common to fair kinds have been sold from 7d. to 10d. per lb., showing heavy losses to importers. At public sale, on the 20th inst., 1,409 packages were offered, and all sold without reserve; on the 21st inst. 9,617 packages were brought forward, of which 7,602 packages were sold, all being without reserve.

The following is from Messrs. Shepard, Harrison, and Rehden's Circular:—Since our report of 8th inst. there has been an improved inquiry, leading to considerable transactions, but at prices favouring the buyer, except for finest Teas, for which extreme value is demanded. The bulk of the late heavy imports have consisted of ordinary to good common Congou, and a portion have been withdrawn from the market, pending the usual Continental demand. Last advices from China relative to the total export point to a deficiency of about 10,000,000 lbs., which, we trust, will prove correct, as it will enable the weight of common teas arriving to be worked off at saving prices to importers. The export trade to all quarters continues quiet; a few orders at low rates for green teas occasionally come in from Canada.

SILK.

There is no alteration to notice in the market; the public sales, which were held on the 22nd and 23rd, passed off with even less business than usual from the hammer, while transactions both before and after the sales have been limited. Prices remain firm but unchanged; the present uncertainty overhanging politics seems to be the only drawback to business.

Messrs. Durant and Co.'s Circular says:—The market is quiet, but rather the quiet of suspense as to politics than any diminished inclination on the part of manufacturers and throwsters to continue the full employment of mills and looms. On the other hand, importers have been more or less sanguine as to the immediate future, hence prices are fully supported. The deliveries are good. Canton Silk continues at the improved rate of last month, and even Japan Silk shows considerably increased figures.

COFFEE.

There has been little change in the market for Ceylon since our last report; any slight alteration observable has been for the better. Only moderate quantities have been brought forward during the week, and these have been taken off at about the rates previously current. The result of the Dutch sale does not appear to have exercised any effect upon the market here. The ruling rates are:—Plantation Ceylon, triage, 52s. to 57s.; small, 60s. to 61s. 6d.; low middling, 64s. to 65s. 6d.; middling, 67s. to 70s.; good middling, 78s. to 77s. 6d.; peaberry, 79s. 6d. to 82s. 6d.; Native casks, fine ordinary, 57s. to 57s. 6d.; good bold, 60s.; bags, small, 47s.; real good ordinary, 57s. For arrival about 400 tons and 1,000 bags Native have been sold, commencing at 57s. and advancing to 59s., with guarantee of quality. In other East India sales are reported of 317 bags Singapore at 55s. 6d. to 58s. 6d., and 521 bags pale Manila sort from Singapore at 60s. The Dutch Trading Company's February public sale of 124,000 bags Java, &c., held on the 22nd, went off favourably, the bulk sell-at ½c. to 1c. above the valuations, good ordinary, 36½c. to 37c., and better qualities rather more.

As against the extremely small landings of 1870, those in the present year show an increase of 500 tons, but as the deliveries are 560 tons in excess, the surplus in the stock is not materially altered. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 183,735 cwt., against 150,570 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1870; Native, 18,739 cwt., against 13,699 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is nil. The quantity of Coffee landed in the seven weeks ended Feb. 18, 1871, was, of Ceylon, 2,370 tons, against 2,730 tons during the corresponding period of 1870; of all descriptions, 4,982 tons, against 3,884 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 1,405 tons, against 1,286 tons; of all descriptions, 2,667 tons, against 2,271 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 1,404 tons, against 2,768 tons; of all descriptions, 3,649 tons, against 4,973 tons. The stock on Feb. 18, was, of Ceylon, 13,166 tons, against 12,875 tons; of all descriptions, 23,214 tons, against 20,365 tons.

SUGAR.

Extraordinary dullness has prevailed during the week, and there is not a single transaction to report either in public sale or by private contract.

As the landings for the week, which include 1,300 tons of British West India, are 1,800 tons in excess of last year, and the deliveries are only 800 tons more, the surplus in the stock is greatly reduced. Stock, Feb. 11, 56,478 tons, against 71,552 tons; Feb. 18, 55,418 tons, against 69,955 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the six weeks ended Feb. 18, 1871, was, of Penang, 11 tons, against 269 tons in the corresponding period of 1870; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,567 tons, against 3,469 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 595 tons, against 582 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 3,744 tons, against 4,694 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 28 tons, against 24 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 490 tons, against 175 tons. The stock on Feb. 18 was, of Penang, 2,364 tons, against 1,993 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 25,127 tons, against 34,390 tons.

CAMPHOR.—The market is dull, and there have been no transactions worth recording; a parcel of 721 tubs Japan, of fresh import, was bought in at 75s. per cwt.

CANES.—The offers of the past week have been quitted as follows:—Of 148,450 Tonkin about one-half sold at ½d. to ¾d., chiefly the latter price; of 60,500 Partridge 40,000 sold at 2½d., first lot 2½d.; 10,000 Whangsee bought in at 2½d.; of 94,638 Borneo 18,000 sold at 1d. to 1½d.; 26,839 Malacca bought in at 1½d. to 4½d. per cane.

CINNAMON.—Pending the quarterly sales, which take place to-day, there is but little inquiry. The quantity advertised is 2,500 bales, part of which is of a low rough description.

COCOA NUT OIL.—The market for Ceylon is steady at previous rates; any great activity has been checked by the closing of the Continental ports, but the ice having now for the most part disappeared, an improvement may safely be anticipated. The current rates on the spot are £40 to £40 10s.; afloat about 300 tons distant shipment have been sold at £41.

CUTCH.—The large business done last week has been followed by an interval of quietude, but prices are firm; in public sale 2,370 boxes good Pegu, fish mark, were offered and bought in at 22s. 6d.; privately there have been no transactions.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—The market is firm; of 13 cases lump in public sale, half sold at £5 17s. 6d. to £7 2s. 6d. per cwt. for middling to very fine lump, and 31 cases good Red also offered, and sold at and after the sale at £9 per cwt., being lower.

GALLS.—The late advance has been maintained; of China 174 cases offered at auction were sold at 47s. to 47s. 6d., privately about 500 cases have found buyers at 47s. per cwt.; there is a good inquiry for Japan also, but none have been placed on offer.

GAMBER.—The dull tone of the market continues, and prices have exhibited a declining tendency; at auction 925 bales were offered and bought in at 15s. 9d. to 16s.; half-bales and broken, 15s. 3d.; and 4 tons loose at 14s. 6d.; 44 baskets Rhio strips were sold at 19s. 6d. to 19s. 9d.; and 420 bags good Cubes at 20s. 3d.; privately 150 bales fine block have been sold at 15s. 7½d.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Sumatra, steady: good and fine seconds scarce, and wanted, thirds dull; in auction 38 cases retired; Siam is neglected, stocks large. Copal: some parcels of Singapore have been pressed for sale, and prices show a decline of 2s. to 4s. per cwt., 691 cases at auction mostly sold at 30s. to 38s. 6d. per cwt. for middling to good, part rather drossy and coated, 26s. to 28s. rougher and more drossy hard, and 15s. 6d. to 17s. inferior drossy and dark block soft. Damar, higher, and fair private trade done at better prices, with stock of fine reduced, 54s. to 56s. paid for fine Batavia; no auctions. Gamboge, firm; of 26 cases in auction, 17 sold at £14 10s. per cwt. for very good pipe, and £11 7s. 6d. to £12 10s. fair, part run, and a little dark.

HEMP.—The market for Manila continues dull, with a supply considerably in excess of the demand; there have been no transactions during the past week.

HIDES.—At the periodical sales held on the 23rd there was a good demand, and the best descriptions of East India Kips brought full prices, whilst middling and ordinary sold at ½d. decline. Buffalo met a better demand, and sold at rather higher prices. Of 9,246 Singapore and Penang Kips offered 9,160 sold, light 6 to 6½ lbs. at 7½d. to 8½d., heavy 8½ to 9½ lbs. at 6½d. to 7½d., extra 12½ to 23 lbs. at 6d. to 7½d., small 6d. to 8d., thirds and fourths 4½d. to 5½d., one lot extra heavy brined 8½d.; 2,490 Singapore and Penang Buffalo Hides sold, light 11½ to 14½ lbs. at 6½d. to 6½d., first heavy 31 to 38½ lbs. at 5½d. to 5½d., second heavy 35 lbs. at 4½d.

INDIA RUBBER.—Fine East India is scarce, and would sell readily; privately fair ball Singapore has been sold at 1s. 9d. per lb.; Borneo is dull at 1s. 6½d.

JAPAN WAX.—There has been more inquiry, and as some old lots are cleared off, a slight improvement is manifest; private sales of fine at 7½s. to 7½s., and of middling and fair at 6½s. to 7½s. 6d. are reported; at auction 162 boxes saucer sold, middling rather soft at 6½s., one lot 6½s. 6d.

MUSK.—The market is firm, and fine brings very high figures; the greater portion of 38 caddies at auction sold at 13s. 6d. to 21s. 6d. per oz. very inferior to fair bally and rough, 1 caddy of middling quality grain brought 44s.; 12 caddies fair Cabardine also offered and partly sold at 17s.; grain is much wanted.

OILS.—Aniseed, with new arrivals is lower; privately 15 cases were sold at 9s., and subsequently, 10 cases landing, 8s. 9d., at which there are further sellers. Cassia, firm, and moderate trade at 4s. 6d. Nutmeg, steady, but stock rather large; none of either kind at auction. Cinnamon; very scarce, and wanted; 2 cases leaf at auction retired. Citronelle; quiet; 121 cases at auction mostly sold at 2d. to 2½d. per oz. Lemon Grass: steady; 25 cases at auction sold at 2½d. to 3d. per oz. for good.

PEPPER.—Black: The inquiry has continued on a limited scale, and the tendency of prices has been in favour of buyers; the sales have been small, comprising at public sale 250 bags Penang at 5½d. cash, and short prompt about 600 bags Singapore low at 5½d. to 5½d., fair 6d., and afloat 500 bags Singapore new crop at 5½d.; privately 100 bags Singapore have been sold at 6d., and 400 bags Penang at 5½s. 18d. White: Only small quantities have been placed on offer, and these have sold readily at previous rates; 500 bags Singapore sold at 7½d. to 7½d., and 60 bags Penang at 7½d. to 7½d.

PLUMBAGO.—Market for Ceylon steady, but rather less doing. Public sales confined to 488 barrels, three-fourths being placed at 22s. 6d. to 26s. per cwt. for fair to fine small medium lump, 15s. 3d. to 15s. 6d. fine chips, 9s. 9d. to 12s. 3d. middling to superior dust, and 2s. to 4s. inferior very low dust.

RATTANS.—Unchanged in value; 8,000 bundles sea-damaged Singapore at auction sold, the first class at 2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per 100 canes for middling to good; other classes in proportion.

RHUBARB.—Large supplies of China have been offered at auction, and have sold rather lower; of 146 cases offered barely one-third sold—fairly trimmed root, a little dark pale and fair pinky fracture, at 2s. 3d. to 2s. 4d.; more rough and paler, 2s. 1d. to 2s. 2d.; inferior rough dark root, 5d. to 10d.

RICE.—Although holders have ceased to demand the extreme rates which were lately current, not much business has been done, the demand having become much less active. The sales have been 2,000 bags Rangoon at 11s., and 550 bags damaged Rangoon (from the Cape) at 8s. 6d. to 9s. 3d., also the following floating cargoes:—A cargo of 500 tons new Rangoon, February shipment, at 10s. 10½d. Continental terms; a cargo of 600 tons new Rangoon, February shipment, at 10s. 9d. open charter; and a large cargo of Rangoon, consisting of about 1,700 tons, per Corra Linn, to be shipped in March, at 10s. 6d., Continental terms.

ROOTS, CHINA.—At public sale 80 bags ordinary quality sold at 17s. to 18s. per cwt., and private business has been done in good quality at 19s. Colombo: Lower; 139 bags mostly sold at auction at 25s. 6d. to 39s. per cwt. for fair, partly dark and wormy to superior clean.

SAGO.—Prices are fairly maintained, but the demand is dull, and parcels offer afloat. Of 1,879 boxes and bags at auction, a few sold at 19s. 6d. per cwt. for good, and 18s. middling yellow. Flour quiet; only small business in Singapore to arrive at 15s. 3d.; 953 bags at auction retired.

SAPANWOOD.—With present scarcity of Siam wood, extreme prices are paid, and in action, 9½ tons sold at £8 to £9. Manila is still too plentiful, and only sells at low prices; 18 tons at auction retired, 11 tons of Ceylon have been sold at £8 15s. to £9.

SHELLS.—The public sales are fixed to take place this week.

SPICES.—Nutmegs: medium sizes are rather lower; 80 cases partly sold—112 to 104 to the lb., 2s. 2d., 100, 2s. 3d., 82, 2s. 6d., and 81, 2s. 5d. to 2s. 6d.; 267 bags wild, in shell, bought in at 4d. per lb. Mace is steady; 14 cases Penang and Singapore mostly found buyers, middling red to fair palish, 3s. to 3s. 4d. per lb. Cloves bring previous rates; 5,293 bags partly selling at 2½d. to 3½d. for middling to good fair, and 3½d. for good bright; 750 bales mother cloves partly sold at 2d. per lb. Of stems, 813 packages sold at 1½d. to 1½d. per lb. Cassia: 250 bales wild Bombay sold at 17s. to 17s. 6d. per cwt. Cassia buds: 65 cases good partly sold at £8 7s. 6d. to £8 12s. 6d. per cwt.

SOY.—Scarcely any business doing.

STAR ANISEEDS.—The market is dull; of 80 cases offered in public sale only one lot was taken at £5 12s. 6d.; small private sales are reported at £5 10s. to £5 15s. for fair quality.

STICKLAC.—Holders are very firm; there have been small sales of good Siam at £3 10s. per cwt.

TAPIOCA.—The market continues quiet, and lower prices are accepted, but little business has been done privately. Public sales embraced 1,106 bags Singapore, of which half sold at 2d. to 2½d. for good to fine; 585 bags Pearl sold at 17d. to 19s. 6d. for fair very small to fine bright small; and 110 bags Flour also sold at 2½d. to 2½d. for good.

TIN.—There is still a dull market, and Straits is again lower, the current quotations being £131 on the spot, and £128 to £130 afloat.

TOBACCO.—Java: This Tobacco continues to lead the way wherever activity is noticeable, and buyers evince increasing desire to operate in this favourite growth. Stocks are nearly exhausted, and for what remains holders are rather stiff in their notions of value. This view has been favoured by the exceedingly severe winter, for the principal shipping ports have been fast bound by ice, and imports have, therefore, been rendered impossible. Japan: There is no change in this growth beyond the arrival of a small lot by the Eldon. Prices remain firm in proportion to the scarcity of the article. Manila: Attention has been directed chiefly to the character of the crop of 1869, of which the cargo received per the Estrella afforded cigar manufacturers an opportunity of judging. Other cargoes are on the way, which may modify the opinions already formed, but so far the crop of 1869 is pronounced to be deficient in most of those qualities which render this Tobacco desirable to the manufacturer. Manila Cigars and Cheroots have been dull, though less from the indisposition of buyers to purchase than from the difficulty of finding lots worthy of attention; at public sale on the 23rd 35 bales Japan leaf sold at 10d., 67 do. damaged at 9½d., one lot at 4d.; 2 bales Manila leaf Cagayan 2s at 7½d. to 8d.; 11 bales Manila leaf repacked, 8d. to 1s. 7d.; 1 bale cuttings, 8d.

TURMERIC.—Market without change since our report of the 13th inst.

VERMILION.—China is held firmly for advanced rates, and scarcely any business has been done.

TEA.

The feature of the week has been the occurrence of two auction sales, Green and Japan. At the first the offering was disposed of, but at the second a small portion only was sold, prices being unsatisfactory to the owners, and at both there was a softer market, prices showing some decline. The attention of the trade and dealers has also been occupied by the receipt of parcels sold some time since, which has to some extent interfered with present demand; yet a fair business has been done, part of which is not yet made public, and negotiations are still going forward for considerable parcels Black, &c. Oolongs have moved freely, and Blacks as a rule are quite firm, with more general inquiry. Japan are quiet, and have a softening tendency. Desirable invoices Green are wanted, but other grades are less inquired for, and a little irregular in price.

The following is the current range of prices:—Hyson, common to fair, 45c. to 55c.; superior to fine, 61c. to 75c.; extra fine to finest, 85c. to 115c.; Young Hyson, Canton-made, nominal; common to fair, 50c. to 55c.; superior to fine, 60c. to 90c.; extra fine to finest, 105c. to 130c.; Gunpowder and Imperial, Canton-made, nominal; common to fair, 65c. to 75c.; superior to fine, 85c. to 100c.; extra fine to finest, 115c. to 150c.; Hyson Skin and Twankay, Canton-made, nominal; common to fair, 40c. to 45c.; superior to fine, 48c. to 52c.; extra fine to finest, 55c. to 60c.; Uncoloured Japan, common to fair, 60c. to 65c.; superior to fine, 70c. to 75c.; extra fine to finest, 80c. to 105c.; Oolong, common to fair, 52c. to 60c.; superior to fine, 65c. to 85c.; extra fine to finest, 95c. to 130c.; Souehong and Congou, common to fair, 50c. to 60c.; superior to fine, 65c. to 80c.; extra fine to finest, 90c. to 120c.; Orange Pekoe, common to fine, 70c. to 100c.

COFFEE.—The current quotations for East India kinds are, Java Government bags, 18c. to 20c.; Java mats, 18½c. to 22c.; Singapore, 17c. to 18c.; Manila, 14c. to 15c.; Native Ceylon, 15½c. to 17c. There is a very fair and steady inquiry for Brazil from the Trade, but the stock is so reduced that no important transactions can be made. The prospective arrivals are also moderate, and the market closes firmly, holders offering sparingly, and only at full previous rates. The market for other kinds has shown no great activity, but there is a fair demand at firm prices; in addition to jobbing sales of Java from second hands we note the disposal of 15,125 mats, ex Cymbeline, on private terms.

CAMPOR.—China is quoted 18c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.35; Cassia, $1.10 gold (in bond).

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 3½c. to 4c. gold (duty paid).

HEMP.—There have been no transactions in Manila; the nominal quotations are 10½c. to 10½c. gold.

INDIGO.—The market for Manila has assumed a quieter tone, but prices are well maintained; the transactions comprise about 33 cases at $1.20 to 1.25 currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $8 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is $1 to $1.25 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—Carolina has been in improved demand at an advance. Rangoon continues in fair request at steady rates; the sales have been about 1,200 bags at $7 to $7.12½ currency (duty paid), and 2,470 bags in bond at $3.25 gold.

SUGAR.—The market presents no new features. The demand continues quite light, and the business is small, refiners buying only as their necessities require from day to day, in view of the new crop now steadily coming forward and the declining tendency of the refined article. Holders, as a rule, are firm, but some are occasionally found disposed to meet the views of buyers, and the consequence is, a slow, dull market. There has been no business in East India.

SPICES.—With the exception of Cassia there are but few spices in first hands, and the market is necessarily quiet. There continues a steady fair demand for lots from store, and last quotations are firmly sustained.

TIN.—Holders being still indisposed to a concession in prices, while buyers decline operating at the ruling rates, there has consequently been but little business doing; the nominal quotations are Straits, 33½c. to 33½c., Banca, 39c. gold.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—GRATIFYING RESULTS.—No phase of external ailments can present itself which is irremediable by the early and diligent use of the above-named remedies. The merest blotch upon the skin, and the deepest ulcerations of the flesh, yield with the same certainty to the detergent and healing properties of this celebrated Ointment. Bad legs, burns, eruptions of the skin, and scrofulous sores can be cured with facility by the use of this Ointment, aided by Holloway's purifying Pills. Under this treatment the foulest ulcers become clean, and in a few days florid granulations appear, which gradually grow and fill up the cavity with firm and healthy flesh. No drawback nor relapse need be feared.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

The mail this morning brings dates to the 15th Jan., and we regret that another assassination case is reported, but the energetic steps taken by the Government contrast favourably with former cases. The victims were employed by the Mikado's Government:—

It appears that on the 13th Jan., at about half-past eight, Mr. C. H. Dallas and Capt. Ring were returning to their quarters at the Kaiseijo from a stroll, and when near the Niponbashi (the bridge whence all distances in Japan are measured) were attacked by one or two Japanese two-sworded assassins—as usual, from behind. Mr. Ring received a wound on the back of the head, and another cut from the shoulder to the hip, eighteen inches in length, and in some places three inches deep.

Word was sent to the Kaiseijo of what had happened, and very many of the students came down to the hut where they lay, bringing with them native physicians, who, after examination of their wounds, pronounced them to be mortal. Dr. Wheeler, of the English Legation, however, on his arrival, pronounced them not to be necessarily so, though of a dangerous nature. The wounds have been sewed up.

On the news of the attack the Government officials here immediately issued the following notification:—

NOTIFICATION.

"To the Editor of the Daily Japan Herald."

"KANAGAWA, KENCHO, Jan. 14, 1871.

"SIR,—We regret to have to inform you that a telegram has been received by this department from Tokio (Yedo) this morning, communicating intelligence of an attack made at about 8.30 p.m. yesterday by Japanese upon two foreigners, supposed to be British subjects, while passing through Nebacho. The foreigners, whose names are announced as Messrs. C. H. Dallas and Ring, and who are in the employ of the Japanese Government as teachers at the Nanko, are both severely, though not dangerously wounded.

"The Japanese who made the attack escaped, and vigorous measures have been taken to secure their capture. For this purpose all gateways and roads in and about Tokyo are closed and under the control of the military; detectives are busily engaged in searching for the criminals, who will undoubtedly be caught and promptly brought to justice.

"KANAWAWA KENCHO, Government Officer."

Just before going to press we have received a telegram from the English Legation at Yedo, stating that the wounded men are progressing favourably, and are anxious that no exaggerated accounts of their condition should be sent home by telegraph.

Pigs are still in the ascendant, and the other day two thousand dollars were paid for a boar and a sow with a litter. Every steamer from China is full of them, and it is rumoured that several men, who have more "time" on their hands than anything else, have gone to San Francisco and Hong Kong to collect good animals. The Japanese, too, have ordered pigs from England to be sent out, through the Suez Canal. The reason given for all this is, that the native Government have issued an edict to the effect that all farmers must keep and breed pigs. As the native troops are being fed on beef now, possibly pork may be in the mind's eye of the purveyors.

Sir Harry and Lady Parkes, with Mr. Consul Robertson and a Japanese officer of high rank, have gone in the lighthouse steamer Thabor to Rock Island, to inaugurate the opening of the new lighthouse there.

TEN DAYS LATER VIA SAN FRANCISCO.

The steamship Great Republic arrived at San Francisco Feb. 16, from China and Japan. She brings nine Japanese students for

San Francisco, seven for New York, and thirteen for Europe. Lord Howard de Walden, Mr. N. P. Kingdon, and Mr. Schoyer were among the European bound passengers; for New York, P. Bailee, W. H. Lefferts, John Middleton, W. C. Low, J. Podorias, R. B. Smith, Colgate Baker, and C. Deinhard. She also brings 164 Chinese, and has 5,700 packages of tea to be shipped overland to Chicago, 1,140 packages for Boston, 1,000 packages of tea and a quantity of silk for New York, also a list of freight via Panama.

Small-pox was very prevalent at Yokohama. A number of the crew of the United States steamer Benicia had been attacked, and several had died. No officers had been attacked. The crews of several German ships in harbour had also suffered. The disease had assumed the form of an epidemic.

NAGASAKI.

From Nagasaki we hear that Lieutenant Byng, of H.M.S. Ocean, has been nominated to fill the vacancy which occurred through the death of Commander Brooks, and has been appointed to the Ringdove, which vessel will probably shortly arrive there to relieve the Elk; whilst the latter, we learn, will proceed to Yokohama, to be senior officer's ship at that port, Captain Wootton now being Senior Commander on the station. Commander Maguay has been appointed from home, and will leave by next mail. The North German barques Aldebaran and Condor had left for Hong Kong, having, it is said, received orders from home rather to risk capture than remain so long idle.

H.B.M. CONSULAR COURT, NAGASAKI.

Before A. A. Annesley, Esq., H.B.M.'s Acting Consul. Messrs. Maltby and Ryley, Assessors.
J. French v. Alt and Co.

Claim $5,335.26.

The plaintiff, it appears, is a special agent in these parts for a Montreal house, and has been engaged purchasing tea for them. The defendants, who were recommended to plaintiff, undertook to execute his orders at this port, part of which appears to have given plaintiff satisfaction. From the unconfirmed evidence of the plaintiff the lot of tea which forms the subject of dispute was not equal to muster, but was accepted by the defendants at a corresponding reduction in price during the absence of the plaintiff at Shanghai; but the reduced price the plaintiff contended was far above the value of the tea, and the claim now made is to recover back the amount of the purchase money. The questions raised by both sides being uncorroborated by evidence.

The Court, after considering all the facts, finally gave a verdict on the 16th instant in favour of the defendants, with costs.

CHINA.

—o— SHANGHAI.

Dates are to the 18th Jan. The London mail (French) of the 25th Nov. arrived out on the 13th Jan., with telegrams to the 17th Dec.

The following summary is from the North China Herald:—The new iron bridge ordered by the Council for the Hongkew Creek has arrived by the Albuera; so that it will be a race which of the two structures—this, or the bridge over Soochow Creek—will be first completed. We hear the Council have gained a considerable pull in one respect. They only paid £1 10s. freight, whereas the Bridge Company paid £2 5s. Is anything being done towards buying out, or in any way getting rid of the monopoly?

The Cycle says the new acting Taoutai of Ningpo is named Fang-Ting-Jui. He arrived on Dec. 22 from Wenchow in the Chinese gunboat Mei-yun, and took over the seals of office the same day. He was received by the Prefect at Chinhai, where he was instructed to inspect the sea wall, and at the village of Meihau, half way between Chinhai and Ningpo, by the magistrate. A gentleman had courteously placed two rooms at the new comer's service, and here he was received by the various Chinese officials under salutes from the steamer and the Taoutai's fleet of war junks. He behaved, it is said, with great hauteur, and let drop a few significant hints which have caused the employes of the native Customs to tremble in their shoes. He is a good-looking man, of some forty years old—a native of Icheng-hsien on the Yangtzu, and has taken the degree of Chujen. It is not considered likely that he will remain in charge any length of time, but that the vacancy will be filled by some one from Peking.

A rumour was started here lately that a great fire had occurred in Hankow, by which the S.S.N. Godowns and 2,700 bales of cotton had been burned. Subsequent steamers, however, bring no confirmation of the rumour, which may therefore be put down as a bunder—possibly as a ruse to help the cotton market. There has been little business done in Hankow during the last fortnight. Holders of imports are anxious to clear off their stocks before the new year; but dealers are unwilling to buy at declining rates. Three chops of tea have been settled during the fortnight, at prices slightly over previous quotations. The total shipments have now reached 495,549 chests, against 497,583 chests last year. The river is getting very shallow, and it seems likely that two sets of steamers will soon have to run again, as they did last year. The Kiangloong reports only eight feet at Olyphant's island.

The Shanghai Courier says:—In these days of smart steamer, and fast-sailing clippers, a vessel that makes a twelve months passage is quite a curiosity, which Shanghai now possesses in the ship Andromeda, which arrived on Jan. 5, having left Liverpool on the 9th December, 1869.

We mentioned a few weeks ago that the S. S. N. Company had presented to Capt. Steele, of the Manchu, a handsome service of plate, in recognition of the promptitude and energy he displayed in taking measures to aid in defending the foreign settlement after the massacre of Tientsin. We are glad now to learn that the thanks of the British Government have been formally communicated to him, at the instance of Admiral Kellett, through the Foreign-office at Washington. It fell to Captain Steele's lot to take an active part in defensive measures not only at Tientsin but at Chefoo, where he also stayed twenty-four hours during a period of excitement; and the foreign communities of both ports will be glad to learn that his services have been fitly recognised.

An official enquiry was held at the British Consulate, before H. M. Acting Chief Judge, H. B. M.'s Consul, and Mr. Boyce, into the circumstances attending the late disastrous fire, by which the Government offices were destroyed. Nothing transpired as to the origin of the catastrophe; on the contrary the evidence went to show that the compradore had not omitted his everyday practice of visiting the rooms after office hours, that the office coolie had carefully raked out all traces of fire from the grates before retiring for the night, and that the watchman had twice gone the rounds. The verdict of the Court has not been made public.

A meeting of the U. S. N. Company was held on the 16th Jan. The accounts for the half-year show a net profit of Tls. 14,000; but this had been more than swallowed up in a loss of Tls. 18,000 sustained by the bankruptcy of the late agents. The results of the half year's working do not compare favourably with 1869; but it is satisfactory to learn that the three months elapsed since the 30th Sept. show a great improvement. The question of raising money by debentures, to pay off the purchase money upon the Glengyle, was mooted, but consideration was adjourned. Messrs. Francis, Ashton, Probst, Ringer, S. Brown, Hip mow-kong and Amook are directors for the current year.

The great social event of the week has been a Ball given by the Mih-ho-loong Company of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, and which proved one of the most successful ever given in Shanghai.

The Supreme Court has been removed from the offices occupied in the first emergency to the more commodious premises in the Peking-road, known as "Whashing."

Mr. J. B. Hentig, whose arrest in Hong Kong on a charge of obtaining a sum of money under false pretences was reported last week, has been brought up in the Nestor, to have the charge against him investigated.

The body of the late Taoutai of Ningpo has been brought up to Shanghai for transmission to his native place in Tartary. It is now lying in the city, where it will remain until after the Chinese New Year.

A Peking correspondent of the News-Letter writes:—All questions of a foreign political nature appear held in abeyance until spring. The opinion is general that, had Count Rochechouart adopted a more even policy with his colleagues the past summer, a settlement would have been made with advantage to all foreign interests in China. Nowhere more than here is the action of the French Minister, in accepting the Tls. 460,000 as indemnity for the losses at Tientsin, so deplored. It is true Count Rochechouart says the business is by no means settled, but the Tsung-li-yamen fully consider it so. War is no uncommon topic here, but all depends on the course pursued by the French Government during the revision of their treaty. It is said the "audience question" will be demanded as a sine qua non, and three other points are spoken of, as follows:—The navigation of all the watercourses of China up to a maximum of ten feet draught, the appointment of inland Consuls, and the adoption of a code of laws for Mixed Court trials. Rumour has it that Western enterprise will soon find the ways and means of providing steam land carriage in the north, without the use of rails, or appliances so prejudicial to the feelings of the peasantry.

The enormous export of cotton from Shanghai to Hankow during the last three months shows us, at the same time, the almost marvellous productiveness of the lower plains of China, and the equally wonderful capacity of consumption in the interior. Every available steamer has been placed on the line, every hour in port was begrudged; so that, almost on an average, daily, steamboats, carrying from five hundred to over two thousand tons of cotton, have left the premises of the S. S. N. or the Union Companies. What fifteen steamers have accomplished in three months would have probably occupied from eight hundred to a thousand junks of the largest size some six months. Here, at least, we have a question which can be urged and answered satisfactorily, from a completely Chinese point of view. Of all this enormous cotton traffic which has suddenly sprung up under our eyes the Chinese enjoy every advantage, except the profit on freight—a very in considerable item when compared with the value of the trade.

Seeing, then, the extraordinary increase in the prosperity of the port by the newly-developed trade, with what face can the Chinese longer resist the formation of railroads?

The following is from the Shanghai Courier:—

A crafty ruse has been used by Chinese dealers in cotton to stiffen the price of that staple in the Shanghai market. The plan was to raise a report that 2,700 bales of cotton had been burnt in the Paoushan godowns, Hankow, that port being the great outlet for Shanghai cotton. The dodge was, however, seen through and defeated.

The fortunate winner of the $5,000 prize at the "New Year's Gifts" Lottery turns out to be a resident in Hiogo, who, as soon as the result of the drawing became known, sent over over his ticket, No. 3,062, to a correspondent here to get cashed.

Captain C. S. Forbes, R.N., well known to foreign residents along the coast of China as Commissioner of the somewhat celebrated Marine Department of the Imperial Maritime Customs, left for England by the American mail, which sailed on the morning of the 14th Jan.

FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

Jan. 23.

The excitement caused by the Tientsin affair has altogether subsided in this neighbourhood, that is as far as the Chinese are concerned. The foreigners universally believe that the question has been settled in anything but a satisfactory manner. The real culprits have been left untouched, and one can hardly doubt, who knows anything of Chinese character, but that the impunity with which they have got out of this difficulty will embolden them in any future emergency. The public at home will no doubt be imposed upon by the fact that so many have been executed, and so much money paid by the Chinese Government as indemnity. Such a proceeding in any civilised country would show that the Government wished to free itself from complicity in such a horrible transaction; not so in China, however. Life is cheap in this land, and any number of individuals may be procured, who, for a proper equivalent, are prepared to relieve the country of the difficulty into which this massacre has brought certain persons in authority. There can be no doubt that should the present policy of Western nations be continued, the Tientsin tragedy will not be long before it is re-enacted—perhaps on a wider and more horrible scale—in other places in this Empire.

A week or two ago the town of Amoy was thrown into the greatest excitement, in consequence of the determination to levy a new salt tax. The manner in which the tax would be levied was most iniquitous. The people as one man determined to resist. Consequently every shop in the town was shut. All public business was at a standstill, and the people just waited till the mandarins gave in. The four highest mandarins paraded the streets with their runners and ordered the people to open their shops; of course for the moment the shutters were taken down, but no sooner had they gone a few yards ahead than every place was again closed. This continued for three days, the people all the time getting more excited; on the third day they proceeded to the salt department, and tore down the building and plundered everything within; even the mandarin's red umbrella was carried off by some audacious fellow and sold. The mandarins, seeing how serious matters were becoming, immediately issued a proclamation that the tax would not be insisted upon. This was carried by the runners into every part of the city signed by the four chief magistrates. Like magic every shop was opened and every shutter flew down as the runners proclaimed the victory of the people. Would that some other of the taxes that are grinding the people down to the very dust could be got rid of in the same way.

HONG KONG.

Dates are down to Jan. 25. The London mail of Dec. 3 arrived out on Jan. 14 with telegrams to Jan. 6.

The following is from the China Mail of Jan. 25:—

The gaming house licenses of this Colony were put up to public auction at the Government Offices on the 12th and sold to the highest bidder. The bidding was pretty brisk, and the privilege was purchased by Ho Ah Sik, of the Hinam Hong, for the sum of $15,800 per month. This rate is $2,500 per month above that of last year, or $30,000 of a yearly increase, so that the revenue now accruing from gambling in the Colony of Hong Kong amounts to no less than $189,600 a-year. At this rate, the Special Fund will soon become an eligible little "pile."

A petition for presentation to the Home Government has been got up by the Chinese community, and is now in circulation amongst them for signature, praying that licensed gambling may be abolished from the colony.

It is satisfactory to note that the Chinese have at last become sensible of the baneful effects of the licensed system. No less a sum than $332,080, is, or rather has been, annually drawn from their pockets; and in order to make up that amount let the matter be specified thus:—

Licence fee paid to Government last year at $13,340 a month	$160,080
The last farmer is said to have cleared from this nefarious trade during the past twelve months a profit of	50,000
The running expenses necessary for the working of the twelve "play houses," viz., wages for the employees, the cost of their living, house rent, &c., &c., say at the lowest $40 per diem each establishment, or $500 a month...	72,000
	$282,080

Then if the farmer, who only sublet the licence to others, could have made $50,000, it must be supposed that the sub-licences would also come in for their share of the good things in the shape of another 50,000

Total $332,080

These deductions are taken from last year's accounts; of course with the increased license fee offered by the new monopoly, the sum total will be advanced in proportion. As these enormous sums of money, while gains to some, represent a terrible aggregate of ruin to others, we wish that success may crown the efforts of the petitioners.

The half-yearly meeting of the Hong Kong, Canton, and Macao Steamboat Company was held on Jan. 16, Viscount Do Cercal in the chair. The accounts show the working of the steamers for the last six months of 1870. After paying all commissions, running expenses, salaries, premia of insurance, and outgoings of every description to Dec. 31, adding interest on current account and deposit notes, and including $2,704.21 brought forward from last statement, the accounts show a profit of $112,712.98. The directors recommended the following distribution of this amount:—to place $63,000 to the credit of depreciation and reserve fund; to declare a dividend on the paid up capital at the rate of 16 per cent. per annum, viz $45,000; to devote $2,500 to their own remuneration, and carry forward $2,212.98 to new account.

The report also stated that the directors had for a long time desired to dispose of one of the company's spare boats, as it appeared evident that the traffic on the river did not warrant the use of more than three steamers, and it was advisable to avoid the expense of keeping a vessel laid up that was not likely to be used. They availed, therefore, of an opportunity to sell the Fire Dart to a purchaser in Manila for the sum of $60,000 less expenses. One of the conditions of the sale was that the vessel should be precluded from ever running on the Canton waters, in opposition to the company's steamers. The net sum of $57,000 has been placed on special deposit, and the Board recommended that the difference between the Fire Dart's value in the books and the actual sale, say $18,000, be written off the reserve fund, making the actual amount on deposit in the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation $175,000, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum. The three running steamers are covered against all risks for $140,000, and the value insured against fire alone has been reduced by the sale of the Fire Dart to $180,000.

The report was adopted, and Mr. Sage was elected to the seat in the direction vacated by the decease of Mr. Endicott.

The thirty-second annual meeting of the Medical Missionary Society in China was held in Canton on the 12th Jan., D. B. Robertson, Esq., in the chair. Messrs. Buckley, Nye, and Simpson were elected as a committee to examine the treasurer's report, which had not been audited. The report of the hospital and dispensaries was adopted, and Dr. College was elected President, and Dr. Kerr Secretary, for the ensuing year.

There is a probability of Stone Cutter's Island being selected for the reception and treatment of small-pox patients. Orders, we are informed, have been given for the accommodation of at least fifty patients, and as the arrangements necessary may easily be effected, the inhabitants of the western parts of the city, and indeed the Colony generally, may expect to be soon relieved of their cause of complaint in this respect. We believe that it is to his Excellency the Lieut.-Governor the Colony will owe the removal of a dangerous nuisance, which could have sprung up only through insolent official disregard of ordinary sanitary precaution through indifference to what is due for the proper preservation of the public health, and from a selfish motive of personal convenience.

While upon this subject—which has reference to the Medical Department of the Government of this colony—we may mention, and we do so with much satisfaction, that Dr. Dods is to be the Acting Colonial Surgeon during the absence on leave of Dr. Murray who leaves by the Thales.

We learn with regret the death of Mr. F. I. Hazeland, Crown Solicitor for this colony. He had been ailing for some months past, and had been advised to relinquish business cares and to seek rest and invigoration in a change of climate.

The new Supreme Court-house—or, rather, the old house enlarged and repaired—was reoccupied on the 18th. A very great improvement has been effected. A roof has replaced the old ceiling, and open windows in the walls will ensure the ventilation next summer, that has been so ardently desired in summers that are past.

In the Government Gazette is published a return of intestate estates, and also a calendar of grants of probate for the past half-year. The bank returns for December are given as follows:—

	Average amount.	Specie Reserve.
Oriental Corporation...	$257,300	$85,767
Chartered Mercantile of India, London, and China ...	587,070	200,000
Chartered of India, Australia, and China, ...	183,610	100,000
Hong Kong and Shanghai ...	1,453,064	600,000
Total ...	$2,481,044	$955,767

The wreck of the Dunmail, with the lead, &c., remaining in her, was resold by Mr. C. H. Morgan, on account of the underwriters, for the sum of $435. The underwriters, it may be remembered, had bought it in at the previous auction.

The suggestion made in Blackwood's Magazine, that some of the difficulties connected with foreign relations with China would be removed by a transfer of the seat of Government from Peking to Nanking, has called forth the following remarks in the Daily Press:—"Were the capital removed to Nanking, its ancient seat, it would be in the centre of the district where the most important portion of the trade with foreigners is conducted, and there is little doubt that the effect would be that every accession to the strength of the foreign element in China would be a direct addition to the powers of the Government. The jealousy existing between the capital and the provinces has a great deal to do with the reluctance of the Central Government to grant facilities for foreign trade. It is a traditional policy among the Chinese not to allow their own trading classes at any given city to become too powerful and wealthy, and it will be readily conceived that foreigners and foreign trade are looked upon with even greater jealousy; and this fear of the uprising of an influence in the country, which it might be difficult to control, is one of the chief reasons of their obstinate refusal to carry out the existing stipulations of the treaty and to grant the facilities necessary for the development of foreign trade."

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

The Siam Advertiser publishes a rumour, which, however, it does not credit, that a Kling man, purporting to come direct from the Praya Rat Raung Muang's, stated, that at the Deputy Mayor's, word was brought that the steamer Chow Phya blew up at the Ko Sien'ang islands, and that about twenty-five people perished in consequence.

A partial eclipse of the moon was visible in Bangkok, Jan. 7, at 2.28 A.M.

His Majesty the Supreme King of Siam on Jan. 9 visited the steam yacht Regent, and the gun-boat Siam Supporter. The yards were manned, and the sound of the bugles and drums of the steamers announced the ascent and descent of his Majesty.

Bangkok is to have a town clock. His Excellency the present Minister of War ordered many years ago a large clock and its accompanying fixtures. It is now proposed to erect a tower, which is to have a winding-stair, and at its summit the clock. A large bell will toll the hours of the day and night, and will give an alarm and indicate the time and the direction of fires. From the top of the tower will be a magnificent view of the city.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to the 1st Feb. On the 20th Jan. the Ellora arrived with the London mail of the 16th Dec., and on the 24th the Hooghly came in with the French mail and London letters to the 23rd Dec.

His Excellency the Governor, who has been spending some six weeks in Penang and Malacca, returned here on the 24th in the Pribo. We believe he made one or two visits to native chiefs during that time, but nothing worthy recording occurred. His Excellency is to go home on leave of absence in March next, and considerable speculation has been indulged in as to who will fill his place, and the probable official changes that will result.

The Straits Times was informed that all this has been settled by the appointment of Mr. Arthur N. Birch, of the Colonial-office, to the office of Lieutenant-Governor of Penang, and that Colonel Anson will come to Singapore as Acting Governor, and adds:—As might be expected, the system adopted by the Colonial-office of sending out men from home to fill all the positions worth having, ignoring the claims of local office-holders to promotion, does not give entire satisfaction either to those in the service or one of it; for it cannot be expected that men unacquainted with the language or customs of the place will be able to deal as effectively in governing the natives as those possessing the requisite local experience.

During the fortnight the reports of the Colonial Engineer on the roads in Province Wellesley and the Singapore Waterworks have been published. These papers were laid before the Legislative Council in November last, but have only recently been printed. That on the Waterworks has evoked some discussion from the Penang press, who demur very strongly against the expenditure necessary to carry out the work, $149,000, on the somewhat novel ground that Penang will have to pay for it if undertaken. Our readers at home will probably be nearly as much surprised as ourselves at this assertion, but from the pertinacity with which it has been repeated there is reason to fear the people of Penang really believe that they are affording Singapore all it gets in the way of public works, while in point of fact Singapore is charged with the whole of the military contribution, the salaries and establishments of the Governor, Colonial Secretary, Auditor-General, and all the Heads of Departments, and the entire maintenance of the colonial steamers, in all amounting to some $400,000 or more; and were these items to be apportioned to the other settlements, Singapore alone would have a surplus, and a very handsome one, to show.

His Majesty the King of Italy has conferred the decoration of Commander of the Crown of Italy on his Highness the Maharajah of Johore; the diploma and insignia arrived here by the last mail from Europe, and the Italian frigate Principessa Clotilde, Commandante Racchia, proceeded to Johore, where the Commandante performed the ceremony of investiture. The Italian and several other foreign Consuls and a number of residents of Singapore were present. At the conclusion of the ceremony the company sat down to a generous repast provided by his Highness, after which they returned to Singapore. Whether the honour that has been conferred upon the Maharajah has any political significance or not we are not aware; but from the tone of the speeches made on the occasion by Commandante Racchia and his Highness, we surmise that it is the prelude to the opening up of commercial intercourse with Johore, and that his Majesty has for his object the establishment of an Eastern trade.

His Majesty the First King of Siam intends paying a visit to Singapore, previous to the departure for home of his Excellency the Governor, and will go hence to Batavia on a visit to the Governor-General of Netherlands India. He will come in one of his own war steamers, attended by a numerous fleet, and will leave Bangkok about the 19th prox., calling at several tributary States on his way, and intends arriving here on the 15th idem. The visit, we presume, is partly in return for that paid by his Excellency the Governor to Siam on the occasion of the total eclipse of the sun, and shows the friendship entertained by the King towards Her Majesty's Government.

The arrivals from home via the Suez Canal have been the Sharpshooter, from Liverpool on the 20th, H.M.S. Juno, from Plymouth on the 22nd, the Ajax on the 23rd, and the Don on the 28th, both from Liverpool.

A somewhat novel point, as to whether Fort Canning is or is not a public thoroughfare, had been discussed before Mr. C. Owen, Senior Magistrate. An action for making use of abusive language by one artilleryman's wife towards another was called on for hearing, but before going into the merits of the case, his worship consulted with his brother magistrate, and informed the prosecutrix and accused that he was of opinion (as well as his brother magistrate) that he had no jurisdiction to try the case, as Fort Canning was not a public, but a private thoroughfare, and that the public were only admitted there on sufferance; and if the commanding officer pleased, he could at any time shut the gates of the fort and pull up the drawbridges, and thereby prevent the public from entering. Therefore this case ought to be tried before the commanding officer and not before a civil tribunal. However, his worship told the prosecutrix that he would adjourn the case for a week, to give the question due consideration, but he believed that at the end of that time his opinion would not be changed.

We learn from the Straits Times that the vessel Sophia Rickmers, which sailed from this port last month, has been seized by a French cruiser in Banks Straits. The Sophia Rickmers was a German vessel until very lately, but before leaving this she was transferred to the British flag. We learn that the sale and transfer were bona fide—at all events, there is no doubt the vessel is now registered as a British ship, and we shall watch with some interest the decision of the Prize Court at Saigon, to which she was sent. The master and chief officer were kept on board the vessel, and twelve of the crew were taken on board the Volta. These men being shipped under British articles, the German Consul declined to interfere, and they were still detained on board the Volta as prisoners of war.

In his recent report on the roads in Province Wellesley the Colonial Engineer estimates that the population must now number some 90,000 to 100,000, and villages have grown up necessitating the making of new roads to facilitate the traffic between them and Penang, for upon the fruit and vegetable gardens in the interior of the province the people of Penang are dependent for their daily supply; and, further, the opening up of new roads would materially enhance the value of the land.

We learn with regret that Herr Drescher, the conductor of the volunteer band, has been compelled to leave for Calcutta, ill health obliging him to sojourn for a time in a dryer climate. The improvement made by the band during the short time that it has been under professional instruction has been generally remarked.

With regard to the question of coolie immigration into Penang from Madras, the Gazette has the following:—

"A deputation of employers of coolie labour waited on his Excellency the Governor on the 29th Jan., to ascertain what had been done with regard to the immigration question. Sir Harry Ord received the deputation very courteously, and said the Madras Government had expressed itself willing to accede to the emigration of coolies hither either from the port of Negapatnam or Madras if required, but the provisions of the Indian Emigration Act must be strictly adhered to. His Excellency suggested that an officer should be appointed at the Indian port fixed on as an emigration port to visit all ships leaving for here with coolies, and see that everything was right, and that a similar officer should be appointed in the Straits to act as a protector of immigrants, and see that the coolies fully understood their agreements as to the work they had to do, wages to receive, &c., &c. His Excellency thought the Deputy Commissioner of Police would be a fitting person for the office.

We do not think the planters have cause for grumbling at this; indeed, we think they may be well satisfied. The extra expense would be but small when compared with the benefit to be derived from a continuous and regular supply of labour.

By the Royalist we have received the Sarawak Gazette of the 24th January, from which we take the following items:—

During his late trip to the Rejang H. H. the Rajah met Lintong at Sibn. Lintong came into the fort for the interview, the first time he has been near it since his attempt to get in last June. He had commenced building his house across the river opposite the fort, and wanted permission to finish it and to bring his people down. Apai Laja and other Dyaks seemed strongly persuaded that he means peace, so he was allowed to go on with his building.

His house is to contain thirty doors, and when it is completed, his people who are now farming will come down to Sibn, having first gathered in their harvest.

The Hon. W. H. Seward will return from Java by the steamer from Batavia, and will become the guest of his Excellency the Governor during his stay here. Mr. Seward goes on by the P. and O. mail steamer to Madras.

H. H. the Rajah has been pleased to appoint Noel Denisson, Esq., to be assistant resident of Upper Sarawak, to date from Jan 1, 1871.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

HANKOW.—Gray Shirtings:—7 lbs. improved about 5 candareens per piece, and closed steady at Tls. 1.78 to 1.80. Dewhurst's Eagles advanced one candareen; a few sales made at Tls. 2.19; common makes not changed. White Shirtings: Limited business at former rates. T-Cloths: An improved demand, quotations unaltered. Drills: Slightly better, though only saleable to a small extent. Woollens and Worsteds:—Camlets; SS Assorted, values declined about 3 mace, only small sales effected; Favourite chops and colours showed less reduction. Lastings:—Declined, and difficult of sale. Long Ells: Prices low, with little prospect of improvement; Spanish Stripes;—No sales. Cloths. No change.

SHANGHAI.—Extensive speculative purchases of some plain cotton staples had been made. The operators were principally foreigners, and the terms of the contracts were mostly for "arrival" or for distant clearance—say in March. The goods must thus all come on the market again; and some of them, by the force of monetary pressure, may have to be quit at prices which will seriously affect the general tone of the market. Grey Shirtings: Speculative settlements of 8½ lbs. reported. The terms of the contracts as above noted, and the prices paid ranged between Tls. 2.10 to 2.15 per piece for fair to best ordinary chops, and Tls. 2.13 to 2.15 per piece for Dewhurst's Eagle. For immediate clearance, the quotations were still Tls. 2.08 to 2.13 per piece. A healthier business done in 7 lbs., which had advanced to Tls. 1.78 to 1.82. For heavy Shirtings some inquiry had sprung up, but holders generally considered offers too low, and hence few had changed hands. White Shirtings had been in good demand, and had improved in value. 64 R., true count, saleable at Tls. 2.20 per piece. Holders were asking Tls. 2.25 per piece. Lower counts also better, but higher qualities not in such request as to materially alter quotations. T-Cloths had been largely dealt in for long clearance, but owing to the position of stocks being considered more favourable, and the supplies afloat supposed to be on a moderate scale, sellers had been enabled to establish a considerable advance in the value of all weights. Quotations:—6 lbs., ordinary, per piece, Tls. 1.17 to 1.25; 7 lbs., do., Tls. 1.38 to 1.45; 8 lbs., Mexican, Tls. 1.35 to 1.45; 7 lbs., Tls. 1.52 to 1.63; 8 to 8½ lbs., Tls. 1.82 to 1.95; XX, Tls. 2.35. Drills: Sales of English and Dutch said to exceed 50,000 pieces, at Tls. 2.80 to 2.95 per piece. Buyers chiefly Chinese, and destination supposed to be Hankow and the Yangtze. Tls. 3 offered and refused for best 15 to 16 lbs. English. Business in American small; quotations unchanged. Demand for Jeans revived, but holders declined offers. Enquiry evidently speculative, in anticipation of a better market after the reopening of the Northern trade. Woollens: Figured Orleans and Camlets only found ready sale. Quotations showed little change, but best Camlets in better request and market hardening. In other descriptions of Woollens prices irregular and market weak. Lead: Quiet, small sales of L. B. at Tls. 4.48. Iron: Market very quiet, only one small settlement, 2,400 bbls., Nail Rods being reported at Tls. 2.20 per picul for small sizes of the best assortment. Coals: Mary Blundell and Maria Rickmers arrived from Cardiff. This coal and anthracite held for better rates. Sales confined to Japan.

HONG KONG.—The following is from Messrs. Olyphant and Co.'s Circular:—Cotton Yarns: Values again steadily fallen, and market closed in a most unsatisfactory state. Fair settlements of Nos. 16 to 24, but reports of heavy supplies on the way have made holders anxious to realize, and best chops freely offered at $2.50 below former rates. Nos. 28 to 32 and 38 to 42 have fallen $5 per bale, at which reduction the latter counts have been wholly neglected, and the former have been only slightly dealt in. Piece Goods: Inquiry for the staple manufactures slightly improved, and dealers have operated rather more freely. 7 lbs. Grey Shirtings, which were sold at $2.05 to 2.08 per piece are now firm at $2.10 to 2.13 and a small sale has been reported at $2.14, but no advance can as yet be quoted upon last mail's figures: 8.4 lbs. goods of common quality are weaker, but good chops are steady and in demand at $2.65 per piece; 8.8 to 10 lbs. weights have not been operated in, previous prices nominally repeated. Inferior makes of White Shirtings parted with at a decline of 5 cents; best chops unchanged. Moderate parcels of English and Dutch Drills. 14 lbs. moved off at an advance of 5 to 10 cents, and at this increase inquiry is maintained. American Drills command no attention; last quotations repeated; a trifling sale of 150 picul the only transaction. Stocks of 6 lbs. Common T-Cloths being large, sellers have made a further concession of 2½ cents per piece; while supplies of Mexican being limited, prices are supported without any demand being apparent; 7 lbs., both Common and Mexican, slow of sale at a drop of 5 cents; 8 lbs. scarce and higher. In Fancy Cottons Chintzes have given way 5 cents per piece. Woollens continue to attract but little notice, and prices are low and unchanged; Long Ells show a drop of 10 cents, and Scarlet are only wanted. Coals: Sales, 600 tons English, ex Godown, at $10. Metals: Sales of Nail Rod Iron large; stocks reduced; market closes firm at an advance of 5 cents. Soft Bar and Hoop Iron without change, Hard slow of sale. Wire saleable at last prices. Steel unchanged. Foreign speculators operating in Lead, and a large business has been done; at the close the market is quiet.

BATAVIA.—Maddapollams—Dutch White and Grey: Little doing, owing to season; English White, 31-inch. 48 reed, overstocked; Grey, 32-inch, no request. Shirtings: Dutch White, 6/4, in some demand; English White, 45-inch, heavy stocks; 36-inch fine, sales at very low rates; Grey, large stock and unsaleable. Cambrics: No demand; all qualities offered at low rates. Drills: Both Dutch and English dull; prices declining. Jaconets: In little demand. T. R. Cloth: Without inquiry. Dyed Cloth: Without demand. Prints: No inquiry. Mule Twist: Small sales. T. R. Twist: Moderate sales. Blankets: Woollen saleable; Molton neglected. Iron: Swedish in good demand; English overstocked and unsaleable. Lead: Little inquiry. Coals: English and Australian, little inquiry.

SINGAPORE.—The arrivals with general cargoes during the fortnight had been the steamers Sharpshooter, Ajax, and Don from Liverpool. Grey Shirtings: 39 in. 8½ lb. still in demand; sales at $2.57½ up to $2.65. Stocks moderate; 7 lb. dull at $2.02½ to 2.05; 6 lb. quoted nominally $1.77½ to 1.82½. 45 inch in less inquiry for 9 and 10 lbs., small sales at $2.85 and 3.20 respectively; others weights out of demand. T-Cloths: Only moderate transactions at about last quotations; 4½ lb. $1.20; 5 lb. $1.27½ to 1.30; 6 lb. $1.47½ to 1.50; and 7 lb. $1.72½ to 1.80. Grey Yarns: 40s in limited inquiry, sales at $117 to 119. No demands for 18/24s and 30s; quotations nominal. Coloured Yarns very quiet. Woollens of all descriptions very dull, and business extremely limited. Scarlet Long Ells offered at $7 without finding buyers. No inquiry for Camlets, Spanish Stripes, Lustro, or Lasting

EXPORTS.

TEA.

HANKOW.—Since last mail two small parcels of Seangtam Tea had been settled, and about 400 chests shipped to Shanghai on native account. Settlements:—715 chests at Tls. 11.00 to 11.25 per picul. We have received Messrs. Edward Townend and Co.'s annual report upon the trade of this port. It comprises a full record of the business both in exports and imports, and must prove of great value to all interested in the trade of Hankow.

SHANGHAI.—Black: Business since last mail of a limited nature, and little worthy of remark; a few common Shuntams sold at prices showing a rather easier market; a few parcels of Hohow taken at former rates, but the small quantity of better Tea, or what is looked upon as such, did not show value equal to that obtainable a few weeks before; supplies small, and stock further reduced. Settlements for the fortnight, 5,179 chests; Re-shipments on owners' account, 3,600; Stock, 29 chops, or 8,742 packages. Quotations (Duty paid, exchange at 5s. 10½d. per tael, freight at £2):—Hohow, common, Tls. 16.75 to 18; Oonam, common, Tls. 14.75 to 15½; Ningelow, common, Tls. 17½ to 20; Green: The market has been active during the fortnight, and a fair business done; settlements amounting to 21,400 half-chests. Prices exceedingly irregular, but on the whole an advance of about one Tael on common and fair chops, and Tls. 2 to 3 on good medium and fine quoted. It was not expected that future receipts on this market would exceed 20,000 half-chests, and if this proves the case the total supply for the season would be considerably short of the previous years. Settlements for the fortnight, 21,400 half-chests. Stock, nil.

FOOCHOW.—No advices from this port, the mail steamer having failed to reach Hong Kong.

CANTON.—Fair business during the fortnight at about last quotations. Market almost cleared of Country Congous, which had been settled at prices about equal to the sales reported in our last. Only two chops in stock comprising 617 chests and 420 half-chests, both of low quality. About 5,000 half-chests Pouchong taken for America during the fortnight at Tls. 18 to 19 per picul. Settlements:—Scented Orange Pokoe, 1,800 boxes at Tls. 18.00 to 24.00; Scented Caper, 3,500 boxes at Tls. 11.00 to 23.00; Gunpowder, 2,000 boxes at Tls. 12.50 to 18.00; Country Congou, 1,800 chests and 700 half-chests at Tls. 12.50 to 20.50.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co. report upon the business of the fortnight as follows:—London telegrams to December 17 report: "Silk quiet, but prices maintained. No. 3 Tsaltee, 29s.; Red Peacocks, 25s. 6d." Considering the large stock of nearly 32,000 bales of Silk in the London warehouses at the time the last mail left, which is being daily augmented by arrivals from the Continent, of both Asiatic and European descriptions, with little or no prospect of the War being at an end, we are rather surprised to find ourselves obliged to report a settlement of 1,500 bales for the fortnight, more especially as the prices paid are anything but reasonable, and the quality of the Silk very inferior. The anxiety on the part of the Chinamen to sell became daily more and more apparent, and had buyers been a little more patient we must certainly have seen lower prices; as it is, most of the needy men have sold, and prices remain the same as last quoted, except for the best No. 4 Tsaltee, varying in price from Tls. 530 to 545, which may be quoted Tls. 10 to 15 lower. For America about 200 bales have been bought, mostly re-reeled Hainin and Tsatlee, at Tls. 560 to 600, and a small parcel of No. 1 Kahing Taysam, at Tls. 530 to 535. About 300 bales, included in the settlements, were bought for last mail, but after our statistics were made up. The following are a few of the purchases: —Dragon chop, No. 3, Tls. 590 to 595; Cock and Worm chop, No. 3, Tls. 580; Sun-E-Tah, No. 3, Tls. 575 to 580; San Meh Pow Ling, Tls. 570; Ku Kee Chin Jan, Tls. 520 to 525; Eoke Fong Elephant chop, Tls. 510 to 515; Red Peacock, Tls. 515; Chu Son May's Ting Fong, Tls. 510; Chin Yuen Sing Ting How Kahing, Tls. 530 to 535; re-reeled Hainin and Tsatlee, Tls. 530 to 600; medium and common Tsatlee, Tls. 460 to 500.

CANTON.—Holders having shown more disposition to meet the views of buyers, a moderate amount of business had been done for Europe in fair to medium Tsatlee Reels. Finest descriptions of Loong Kongs firmly held. For America settlements had been on a small scale, buyers being inclined to wait for a reduction in prices. Quotations: Tsatlee reel, $490 per picul; Loong Kong, $540 per picul; Re-reeled Cumchook, $545 per picul; Re-reeled Lacklow, $550 per picul. Settlements:—For Europe, 180 bales; for America, 50 boxes.

We are glad to perceive that the answer given by Lord ENFIELD to Colonel SYKES's question regarding the destruction of the Consulate at Shanghai, reported in our Parliamentary intelligence, was so full and explicit. In our Shanghai news it will be seen that an official inquiry into the cause of the fire had been commenced; and it will be still more satisfactory if Lord ENFIELD will publish the report of this inquiry, and add to it the loss sustained by Government, and the reasons why the property was not insured.

The new royal naval dock at Malta, the widest and deepest in the world, was opened with a grand ceremony on the 16th ult. by Vice Admiral Sir Hastings R. Yelverton, the Commander in Chief, in presence of the Governor, Sir Patrick Grant, Rear Admiral A. Cooper Key, Major General Sir A. Horsford, all the civil, naval, and military authorities, and the principal residents of the island. The Bishop of Gibraltar pronounced a benediction, and the last stone was laid in its place under the finishing touch of the Hon. Miss Barbara Yelverton. The dock is named the "Somerset Dock," and was no sooner declared open by the Commander in chief than Her Majesty's ship Caledonia entered it, and thus closed the ceremony.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

THE DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR SERVICES.

(Feb. 27th.) On the motion of Mr. BOUVIERIE, the following gentlemen were appointed members of the Select Committee on this subject:—Mr. Bouvierie, Mr. Rylands, Viscount Enfield, Mr. W. H. Gladstone, Mr. Otway, Sir H. L. Bulwer, Sir C. Dilke, Mr. Kinnaird, Mr. Holmes, Mr. W. Cartwright, Mr. A. Russell, Mr. Whitwell, Mr. Selater-Booth, Mr. S. Sackville, Mr. Eastwick, Mr. Baring, Mr. W. Lowther, Mr. Cameron, Mr. F. Stanley, Mr. B. Cochrane, Viscount Barrington, and Mr. F. Walpole.

DESTRUCTION OF CONSULAR BUILDINGS AT SHANGHAI
(March 2nd.) Colonel SYKES asked the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs whether accounts had been received of the destruction of the Consular Buildings and part of the Records at Shanghai; whether the fire insurance policy had been allowed to run out; and, what would be the pecuniary loss to the British territory in consequence.

Lord ENFIELD (Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs): Reports have been received both from Her Majesty's Consul at Shanghai and from the Acting Judge of the Supreme Court, announcing the total destruction, on the 24th December, by fire, of the Consulate, a part of which was also used for the purposes of the Supreme Court. The fire is believed to have been purely accidental, and to have resulted from too close proximity of the beams of the flooring to a fireplace. The building was one of the earliest in the settlement. Owing to the rapidity with which the fire spread, only a few of the more important Consular records, such as registers of births, marriages, and deaths, Board of Trade accounts, ships' registers, and other records connected with shipping could be saved. The title-deeds and registers connected with the tenure of property in the settlement were also saved. A large portion of the records of the Court, a considerable part of the library, and all the records of causes heard since 1865 were saved. The iron safe belonging to the Court, and containing wills and other valuable documents, was extracted from the ruins, and its contents, though damaged, are legible. Most of the furniture of the Consulate and Court and the rest of the books and archives were destroyed. The latter were not of any real importance. Little damage was done to any of the new buildings in course of construction. Arrangements have been made for carrying on the work of the Consulate and the Supreme Court. The policy of insurance on the buildings expired on the 15th of December, in consequence of instructions issued at the request of the Treasury, who decided in the beginning of last year to discontinue the insurance of Government property in China and Japan. No estimate of the pecuniary loss incurred has been received at the Foreign-office.

SILK REPORT BY MR. ADAMS.

Another valuable contribution to our information on silk culture in Japan has appeared in the report of Mr. Adams's visit to various silk districts in June and July last, just issued in the form of a Blue book. As a natural result of the interest which the Japanese Government had evinced in silk cultivation, it was considered desirable that a Japanese gentleman should be associated with Mr. Adams in his present tour, and Matumé Gouruku, son-in-law of the Minister Daté, was invited to join him, and formed one of his party. The travellers left Yedo on the 6th of June, their first point being Shimonita, a village well known in the Yokohama silk market, at least by name, though it does not seem to have been ever visited by foreigners before Mr. Adams. Here, along the banks of the river, on the sides of the hills, and, indeed, in every available spot, Mr. Adams found mulberry plantations, and visited the house of one Johigami San'yemon, in whose family silk culture had been practised for a hundred years. There was every appearance of health about the people, and of cleanliness about the rooms appropriated to the silkworms, and it was evident that silk culture was the one important business of the whole locality. Mr. Adams pushed forward to Matsumoto with the view of gaining information concerning the "bombyx yamamai," or oak silkworm, which is reared in the open air there. Matsumoto is a castle town of over 3,000 houses. In this neighbourhood are sixteen villages, the inhabitants of which form an association called the "Matsukawa Gumi" and are entirely engaged in the culture of the "yamamai," which, since its introduction, forty years ago, has increased so considerably that the number of cocoons now sold by the association alone is not less than twenty millions. The price is estimated at about 4 riyos (nearly 4 dollars) per 1,000. The best sort of silk is sold at about 840 riyos a picul; the inferior sorts at about 530 riyos a picul. Mr. Adams's tour included Nee-e-gata and Echigo. Up to the present time the Echigo silk has not been quoted separately on the Yokohama market; it has been mostly bought by natives and used for home consumption. There is, however, an evident desire on the part of the principal merchants of Tochiwo to make a name for Echigo silk, and thirteen of them have formed themselves into a company for this purpose.

It is gratifying to observe that Mr. Adams's suggestions with regard to the introduction of European machinery to improve the reeling of Japanese silk have begun to bear fruit. The first filature that has been ordered is intended to be set up at Mayebashi; and a company, patronised by the Government, is about to introduce the new system of reeling at Tomioka, under the superintendence of a skilled European. The result of his recent trip seems to confirm Mr. Adams's impression that, in a few years, by the gradual introduction of European machinery and improved measures to check the ravages of the uji the trade both in silk and eggs will show a marked increase. The present narrative teems with information of the most interesting and practical kind, and is greatly assisted by maps and coloured illustrations.

THE JAPANESE MISSION.

(NEW YORK HERALD.)

The arrival of a full fledged Japanese Minister at San Francisco, accredited to Washington, accompanied by his suite and secretaries, and holding in his own person the rank of a prince of the Imperial Family of Japan, being indeed uncle to the Mikado himself, is an event of great importance. It is the first mission of the kind that Japan has sent forth since days now far back in ancient history. She has not had a Minister, Minister Resident, Consul or commercial agent anywhere among the nations of the world for many long years, and we have not yet heard of any similar embassies being forwarded at this time to any other nation than ours. In view of our increasing commerce with Japan and her great twin nation of the Far East, China, this unusual expression of regard for our institutions must be considered in a very complimentary light indeed; and in view of our rivalry with England for the commerce of these two bound giants of the Orient, we have a right to credit ourselves with having the inside track. Indeed, this mission may be considered more complimentary to us than the appointment of Mr. Burlingame as head of the Chinese Embassy which was so recently roaming about Europe making treaties; for while that was rather a personal compliment to one of our citizens, this is a general compliment to the whole nation as the first and youngest Power of the globe from one of the oldest.

We think we can trace the graceful trail of our own Seward in the establishment of a Japanese Embassy in this country just as we traced it in the Burlingame Chinese Embassy. That able statesman has been cultivating the Orient very industriously for many years, and we are beginning to reap his harvest. He was very recently admitted to the sacred presence of the veiled Mikado himself, and it would not greatly surprise us if he were offered some immense dignity in the service of that wise young man.

NAVAL AND MILITARY.

Her Majesty's ship Megara has just been commissioned at Sheerness to take out crews for the Blanche and Rosario at Sydney. The transport, we are assured, is equal to carrying only 220 men and 14 officers for a short passage, but 33 officers and 350 men have embarked in her, and several hundred tons of stores have been shipped for Ascension, Cape of Good Hope, and Sydney, the vessel being so overloaded that the officers' mess gear is half on the deck through want of space to stow it away. But the most startling feature remains to be revealed. An officer on board the Megara communicates from Queenstown the astonishing fact that the vessel is absolutely unseaworthy; that she "leaks from the bow to the stern;" that upwards of fifty tons of water were found in the bilges on the first watch after leaving Plymouth, the men's mess deck being from fifteen to eighteen inches deep in water, with their bags floating about; and that the men on board the Megara had been up twice on the quarter-deck about the ship leaking, and were about to enter a third protest, this time against the vessel rounding the Cape in the middle of winter. Under these alarming conditions it is hardly surprising to hear that all on board the Megara "shudder at the prospect of sharing the fate of the Captain." But the Megara must not sail; her living freight can be turned over to a seaworthy vessel; and the public must know whether the protests made on behalf of these 400 British sailors are groundless, or whether, as our informant assures us, the ship owes its reported condition to that economy which has reduced many of Her Majesty's ships to a state of inefficiency, if not uselessness.

We have received a copy of British Policy in China, by a Shanghai Merchant; a pamphlet which we shall notice in our next.

LITERATURE.

Tales of Old Japan. By A. B. Mitford, Second Secretary to the British Legation in Japan. London: Macmillan and Co.—We can scarcely imagine any contribution to literature more beneficial or more interesting than these delightful volumes. Mr. Mitford has no doubt enjoyed the advantage of breaking untrodden ground, and his task has evidently been a labour of love; but we must not value the less on that account the taste and judgment with which Mr. Mitford has chosen the examples of Japanese composition—we might almost term them classics—to which he has introduced us by means of his graphic and admirable rendering of them into English. It does not need any acquaintance with the vernacular to perceive that Mr. Mitford possesses the greatest merit of a translator, a thorough knowledge of the colloquial signification of the words of his originals, and a perfect command of his own language so as to enable him to render their meaning with accuracy and freedom. By these means the vraisemblance of the original productions is preserved, notwithstanding the variety of their styles; and it would be difficult to tell which is the most interesting among them, or which gives us the greatest amount of information of the inner life and modes of thought of this extraordinary people. The first volume consists of legendary and romantic tales; the second of an account of certain Japanese superstitions and customs, together with specimens of Japanese sermons, and rules of life, law and etiquette. As examples of close reasoning and clear expression, we have not for a long time read anything so enthralling as the discourses of Kiu-ō, and the account of the ceremonies of the institution of the Hara-Kira, or compulsory death of those noble criminals who are permitted to be considered their own executioners. We have already mentioned that the present volumes, which are very tastefully got up, are illustrated with some graphic engravings from Japanese originals, cut on wood by a Japanese engraver—a circumstance which not only adds to their value, but has brought to light the interesting fact that the lines are cut with the grain of the wood, after the manner of Albert Durer and some of the old German masters—a process which has been long abandoned by modern European wood engravers. We have no doubt that Mr. Mitford's book will be one of the most popular of the season, and we congratulate him on the rare good fortune which makes its contents as interesting as matter of fiction as they are full of information on matters of fact.

The Phoenix for January commences the new year with every promise of maintaining the specialities which it initiated last summer. Dr. A. Campbell, superintendent of Darjeeling, contributes some interesting "Notes on Eastern Tibet." Mr. R. Swinhoe discourses as learnedly as usual on "The Chinese Dialect Spoken in Hainan," and Mr. Hodgson adds to our information on "Buddhist Literature and Religion." Mr. Carroll's "Cure for Jealousy" is pleasantly continued, and Mr. Parker's "Month in Mongolia" is well written and interesting, though somewhat too independent of the graces of style. Thus the author says that "the weather got suddenly cold," and that little native boys wear their hair in a "cue." But this may be the system of the printer, who, in the Phoenix, has always been a rather arbitrary personage, and who, in the present number, calls the author of the first paper Dr. A. Campbell, Esq.—a somewhat redundant accumulation of titles. With all due deference to the editor, we think that a revision of such matters as we have noticed would add to the readability, if not to the value, of this really interesting miscellany. The "Reviews" include a notice of Captain Loch's "Narrative of Lord Elgin's Second Embassy to China," which, we think, requires to be received with several grains of salt. Having a distinct recollection of the sacking of the Summer Palace of the Emperor, and its attendant loot, we cannot but regret to find that exploit described as a "righteous retribution."

Nature calls attention to one of the most interesting and important trees of Sumatra, the Camphor-tree, Dryobalanops camphora. This camphor attracted the attention of the earliest voyagers, and was then, as it is now, an important article of commerce with China and Japan, the people of those countries attributing to it extraordinary virtues and paying a high price for it. The tree grows to a height of 100 or 130 feet, and forms a trunk seven to ten feet in diameter. The quantity of camphor contained in the trunks is very unequal, the young trees appear to contain little or none. It is said that, on an average, about nine trees are required to produce 100 lbs. weight of crystallised camphor. It is obtained by cutting down the tree and dividing the wood into small pieces, in the divisions of which the camphor is found. It differs in the form of its crystals from the camphor of commerce, is harder, more brittle, and does not so readily condense. Great quantities are used by the Bataks for the preservation of the corpses of their chiefs. The trees are spread over a portion only of Sumatra and Borneo, and generally occur in localities into which commerce and civilisation have as yet but little penetrated. Notwithstanding the continued destruction of the trees for the sake of procuring the camphor, no means are taken for the future preservation of the species. This camphor is seldom seen in this country, except in museums. The Chinese eagerly buy it in preference to the ordinary camphor—their own produce—which they send in such large quantities into the European markets.

Intelligence has been received of the death of Dr. F. A. G. Miquel, Professor of Botany at the University of Utrecht and director of the Botanic Gardens at Leyden, one of the few remaining distinguished systematic botanists on the Continent, and greatly esteemed by all scientific visitors to Holland for his generous hospitality and kindly nature. He was the author of several monographs, and had written largely on the botany of the Netherlands Indies, especially Java and Sarinam; and also on that of Japan, which has been much worked out by Dutch naturalists; but will be best known by his magnificent Annales Musei Botanici Lugduno-batavi, in four folio volumes, with splendid illustrations. He was one of the foreign members of the Linnean Society of London.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ASSOCIATED CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE.

On the 1st inst. the representatives of the forty-three Chambers of Commerce—English, Scotch, and Irish—which form the Association, founded twelve years ago, and who are holding their annual three days' conference in London, to determine what measures shall be pressed upon the attention of the Government and of Parliament this session, dined together at the Westminster Palace Hotel. The chair was occupied by Mr. S. S. Lloyd, President of the Association; the Government was represented by Mr. Chichester Fortescue, President of the Board of Trade; the House of Commons by Messrs. Norwood (founder of the Association), Birley, Henry, Eastwick, Whitwell, Baines, Chadwick, Mundella, and Carter, and Colonel Crichton-Stuart; Sir Louis Mallet, of the Board of Trade; Mr. Scudamore, of the General Post-office, and Mr. Harris Gastrell, Austrian Chargé d'Affaires; and foreign countries by Chevalier de Schaeffer, director of the Austrian Consulate, and Mr. J. R. McCulloch, the American banker and ex-Finance Minister. Among others, the Earl of Derby wrote, expressing regret that he could not accept an invitation, and adding a hope that he would be able to do so another year; and Mr. Monsell wrote that illness alone kept him away. In responding to the toast of "Her Majesty's Ministers," Mr. Chichester Fortescue compared his position, as President of the Board of Trade, with that of a civilian First Lord of the Admiralty, and a civilian War Minister; but he hoped that, with the assistance of the Chambers, a non-professional, and non-commercial President of the Board of Trade might be of some service to his country. He did not think the position of the Board of Trade and the organisation of the Government Departments were satisfactory, and he looked forward to a redistribution of duties, a matter upon which he should be happy to receive communications from those best able to give sound opinions. The magnitude of the Merchant Shipping Bill had produced some alarm in the country; but if the giant were looked in the face it would be found to be harmless. He wished gentlemen would look into it, and let the Government know whether it was worth while to pass it or not, for, unless some steam were got up by those who cared about the Bill, he could not be responsible for the failure to pass it. The Government, and the Board of Trade in particular, would not be wanting in efforts to promote commercial reforms, for, whatever else the Government might be, it was at least a laborious one. Speeches were made by Mr. Baines, who trusted that France would not be tempted by her financial difficulties to abrogate the Treaty of Commerce with this country; by Mr. Henry, who believed his own election one of many evidences of the aptitude of the Irish people for commercial enterprise; by Mr. Scudamore, who was delighted to be so well received by those who had criticised him so severely; by Mr. McCulloch, who trusted that free trade and other agencies would strengthen the bonds of amity between us and the United States (sentiments which Mr. Fortescue cordially reciprocated); and, in conclusion, by the chairman, who pointed to the commercial legislation of the past twelve years, and to the testimony of the speakers, as proofs of the good work done by the Association in maturing public opinion upon mercantile matters.

THE COST OF THE COLONIES.

A Parliamentary paper has been issued, showing the cost of the several Colonies of the British Empire at the expense of the British Exchequer for 1868-9:—(1.) The following were the objects and amount of expenditure:—Governors, £22,807; justices, £6,394; other salaries of clerks, &c., £1,725; pensions, £14,605; galleys, £133,591; fortifications and other military defences, £215,584; barracks, £161,563; lighthouses, £25,957; survey department, £2,060; Indian department, £16; ecclesiastical, £22,424; miscellaneous charges and aids, £36,625; cost of regular troops, £2,994,745; naval charges, £324,079; steamers, &c., £604.

A CORRESPONDENT writes to a contemporary as follows:—"It was the fate of a portion of the expeditionary force sent to China in 1860 to be shut up in Canton during the period of the campaign, and although we received the field-pay and allowances, we have not yet got the medal. The few of us now serving and entitled to this honourable distinction think it a very hard matter to be denied it, when the whole of the troops that served in the Indian Mutiny, New Zealand, and other places, have received medals for their services. Pray, Sir, give this a corner in the soldiers' friend, in the hope that some one will forward this our just claim for a medal fairly earned in the service of our country."

WE understand that the Foreign-office agency business, heretofore carried on by Messrs. Alston and Bidwell, has been transferred to Mr. O'Brien, their late clerk, who now acts as agent for the members of the Diplomatic and Consular Service, under the firm of F. O'Brien and Co.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Each packet or tin is labelled—JAMES EPPS & CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, London. Epps's Cocoa is also prepared with condensed milk, and sold in tins, labelled Epps's Milky Cocoa.

THE OFFICIAL DESPATCHES ON THE TIENSIN MASSACRE.

THE "Papers Relating to the Massacre of Europeans at Tientsin" were issued on Monday in the form of a Blue-book, of which we give a resumé in another part of our paper. We are deeply concerned to find that the correspondence now published entirely fails to redeem the Foreign-office from the obloquy which has been cast upon it in China in consequence of the murder of our countrywoman, Miss O'SULLIVAN, having been passed over without our Government having insisted on any special atonement for that outrage, or even taking any practical steps to bring the criminals to justice. The volume opens with the brief but pregnant sentence telegraphed by Mr. WADE to the Foreign Secretary on the 6th of July:—"At Tientsin, ALICE O'SULLIVAN, one of the Sisters of Mercy, was massacred in the hospital on the 21st of June;" and it closes with a letter (which the Pall Mall Gazette reprinted the next day, to the exclusion of all the rest of the correspondence) in which Earl GRANVILLE expresses "the entire approval of Her MAJESTY's Government of the 'tact and discretion which marked Mr. WADE's proceedings' subsequent to that event. What was the nature of those proceedings,—if Mr. WADE's conduct can be dignified by that name, seeing that it involved no specific demand and led to no definite result,—the present Correspondence is apparently published to explain. The only fact, however, that it really establishes is that the failure of justice, the disgrace of which has hitherto attached exclusively to Mr. WADE, was practically caused by the tone of the nobleman who was so unexpectedly called to the Foreign-office on the death of Lord CLARENDON. The instructions which Lord GRANVILLE sent to Mr. WADE certainly did not warrant, even if they did not absolutely prohibit, more decided and dignified action than that which has been so justly condemned by the foreign community in China and their friends at home. At the same time, even Mr. WADE's apologists must confess that he exhibited a too great readiness to adapt himself to the views of an inexperienced Minister, wedded to a "policy of conciliation," and totally without knowledge in the East. Indeed, so zealous was Mr. WADE to profit by the teachings of the Foreign-office that he appears to have anticipated his instructors in the promptitude with which he abnegated anything like nationality or independence of action concerning Miss O'SULLIVAN. When the proposed "indemnity" for the death of the victims was offered by the Chinese Government, Mr. WADE wrote sympathetically to Lord GRANVILLE that "Miss O'SULLIVAN was 'a British subject, but he did not suppose that Her MAJESTY's Government would raise any separate issue on that account, if the Government of France accepted the arrangement proposed on behalf of the other Sisters—two 'of them Belgian, and one an Italian.'" To this communication Earl GRANVILLE's only reply was the letter of general encomium on Mr. WADE's "tact and discretion," to which we have already referred. It is evident from this that the present Foreign Secretary countenances the representations of the British Minister at Peking, that England is content to be regarded in the East as on a level with such States as Belgium and Italy. Need we say more? The article we lately wrote on the loss of our prestige in China is, we think, most emphatically confirmed by this official correspondence.

THE PALL MALL GAZETTE AND OURSELVES.

THE Pall Mall Gazette has again taken the pains to garble an extract from the London and China Telegraph so as to make it convey a totally different meaning from that of the original. The Pall Mall says the Telegraph now seeks shelter under the erroneous assumption that it only "shared" a general impression that the indecisive and undemonstrative conduct of Her MAJESTY's Minister (Chargé d'Affaires) "at Peking after the commission of the outrage was entirely 'due to Mr. WADE's own ideas of 'policy.'" What we really wrote was as follows, and our readers will see how the Pall Mall, by omitting the words in italics, entirely perverted our meaning:—"We must own that we shared in that impression, and that we fully expected that the Government 'had acceded to the representation of the foreign merchants 'who met in London, at least, so far as to have instructed Mr. 'Wade to assume a position more consistent with the character 'of an English Minister, and better calculated to secure the 'safety of our countrymen in China.'" Such a deliberate suppression of the most essential part of a quotation clearly shows the contemptible expedients our opponents have been driven to.

CANTON AND THE BURNING OF THE FATSHAN CHAPEL.

THE Blue-book on the Tientsin massacres contains the letter addressed to Consul ROBERTSON by some of the residents of Canton and his reply thereto, which have already been published by us. Mr. WADE, in a short despatch, approves of Mr. ROBERTSON's action on this and the Fatshan Chapel affair, which, in a despatch of a few lines, Earl GRANVILLE endorses. We regret to hear that the Chinese authorities at Canton are not carrying out their promise to rebuild the chapel, burned down by a fanatical mob, and that Mr. ROBERTSON is not urging it. We regret this the more, as at the time of the outrage the Consul's conduct was considered highly satisfactory. The following is the despatch of Mr. WADE to Earl GRANVILLE, and the comments of the Globe:—

Peking, November 11, 1870.

MY LORD,—I have the honour to forward copy of a despatch from Mr. Robertson, inclosing copy of correspondence between himself and certain members of the Canton community, regarding their security at that port, and a letter he has consequently addressed to the Hong Kong Government.

The demolition of a chapel at Fatshan I have already reported to your Lordship. It must be remembered that the chapel was a Chinese chapel, at the opening of which some Protestant missionaries, with more zeal than prudence, assisted. The attack on it undoubtedly discovered an anti-propagandist feeling, but it was followed by no demonstration against the foreign community, and, by order of the Governor-General, the reconstruction of the building was immediately commenced.

Mr. Robertson in his reply has shown the discretion and firmness which on all such occasions distinguish him, and I cannot doubt that his conduct will be approved by your Lordship.

Lord Granville's reign at the Foreign-office is a happy one for diplomatists abroad. There is an episode in the China despatches which significantly demonstrates the level of diplomacy which now finds approval and favour. Last October the British community in Canton communicated by memorial to Consul Robertson their fears at the "growing animosity towards foreigners" which, since the atrocious outrage at Tientsin, was daily manifesting itself. Their detail of the insults they received, and of the danger in which their lives and property were placed, had been echoed from all parts of China where British residents remained. But Consul Robertson, with a revolver ever ready to present at any Celestial visage, was not alarmed, and therefore uncommiserative. He gave the unarmed and unprotected Britishers a lesson in pluck and a warning against "getting nervous" with nothing more than constant insult, an occasional threat of massacre, and now and then such a divertissement as the destruction of the Protestant chapel at Fatshan. Mr. Wade agreed that Mr. Robertson was perfectly right, and Earl Granville of course approved the conduct of both, because it completely harmonised with the principle of self-defence which is now triumphant at the Foreign as well as the Colonial-office. But is this the sort of protection which Englishmen would extend to their countrymen in China? With treaties prescribing their safety, and with gunboats within shot-range, are they to endure a life of terror, and be left with pistols and daggers for their defence? Englishmen who venture on personal intercourse with the Celestials are improbably cowards; but when, in the face of their disregarded appeal for protection, we find Lord Granville "despatching" Mr. Wade for his "efforts to allay the apprehensions and secure the safety of the British community in China," we cannot refrain from joining in the poem of congratulation on this unique assertion of British courage.

GALLE HARBOUR.

By the mail received to-day we learn that no decision has yet been come to between the rival plans of forming the new harbour at Galle or Colombo. It is said that Mr ROBERTSON, the engineer employed in the examination of harbours, &c., in the Presidencies, has obtained the permission of the Indian Government to visit Colombo, for the purpose of reporting on the site for the proposed docks. Meanwhile, nothing definite can be learned at the Colonial-office. The P. and O. Company have again brought the dangerous state of the anchorage at Galle before the COLONIAL SECRETARY, but with no other result than the old stereotyped inquiry, "Whether they had not better adopt Trincomalee as a harbour instead of Galle?" The claims of Trincomalee to such a position have been so effectually disproved that we are surprised to hear the port mentioned at this time of day in connection with the mail service.

Lord HOUGHTON has informed the House of Lords that Ceylon was the only one of our dependencies where marriage with a deceased wife's sister had become legal, all the rest of our numerous colonies being governed by the law of this country. We would not willingly suspect Lord HOUGHTON of trifling with a serious subject; but still less can we imagine him to be unacquainted with the peculiarly comprehensive matrimonial system of Ceylon, so well known to all the residents in India who care to inquire into such matters.

THE Foreign-office has issued a very complete and useful Index to the "Report of the Select Committee on Diplomatic and Consular Services," which we noticed last year. A vast amount of information concerning facts and opinions is condensed in a very small space in this little volume, of which China, Japan, and the other parts of the Far East, in which our readers are most interested, occupy their fair share.

A PETITION has been presented to the House of Commons by Mr. KINNAIRD, from the directors of the London Missionary Society, in favour of a re-adjustment of the relations of the Indian Government to the opium traffic, in order to put a stop to the cultivation and sale of opium by the Government, within the English provinces of India, for the purposes of revenue.

THE Japanese Prince HIGASHI, whose presentation to the QUEEN we have already noticed, has, we understand, been placed under the tutorship of the Rev. J. J. DANIELL. When noticing the presentation we should have mentioned that the Prince entertained the Duke of EDINBURGH at Yedo and Yokohama, at the request of the MIKADO.

By telegrams from Singapore we hear of the arrival of Sir HARRY PARKES, from Yokohama, en route to England, and may be expected here this month. We presume he will have full particulars of the attack on Mr. DALLAS and another foreigner, which we notice in our mail news from Japan.

THE BLUE-BOOK ON THE TIENSIN MASSACRE.

The first intelligence of the massacre was received by telegram, dated Peking, July 6th. On the 18th August the French Minister in London addressed the following appeal for the support of the English Government to Lord GRANVILLE:—

London, August 18, 1870.

MY LORD,—The first telegraphic despatches which the Government of the Emperor received from their Chargé d'Affaires at Peking, after the massacre of our countrymen, had allowed it to be hoped that the Chinese Government understood the necessity of executing summary and severe justice on acts so odious. The despatch of a Chinese Ambassador, charged with a special mission in relation to these events which was announced to us, was an indication of intentions practically satisfactory; and the French Government was pleased to think that the reparation which would be offered would correspond with that which they had grounds for exacting. The result of a fresh telegram from M. le Comte de Rochechouart is that a change would appear to have taken place in the intentions of the Chinese Government, and that our Chargé d'Affaires has, until now, demanded in vain the prosecution of the wretches who took part in the crimes committed at Tientsin. Although the victims of these attempts are almost exclusively French, it cannot be denied that such deeds reveal the existence of dangers which menace without distinction all foreigners residing in China. It is by considering their interests as common in these countries of the extreme East that the European Powers can arrive at securing to their countrymen the guarantees and the security stipulated for in the Treaties.

The Government of the Emperor do not doubt that such is the feeling of the Cabinet of London. The Minister of Foreign Affairs instructs me, consequently, to inform your Excellency that we should attach great interest to seeing the representative of the Queen at Peking joining his efforts to those of our Chargé d'Affaires to obtain the punishment of the guilty persons.

I should be especially grateful to your Excellency for enabling me, as soon as possible, to reply to the request which M. le Prince de la Tour d'Auvergne has expressed to me, and I seize, &c.

(Signed) LAVALETTE.

In reply to the inquiry concerning Miss O'SULLIVAN, Mr. WADE wrote to Lord GRANVILLE on the 27th October:—

The Sister Louise was a British subject, but if the Government of France accepts the arrangement proposed on behalf of the other Sisters—two of them Belgians and one an Italian—I do not suppose that Her Majesty's Government will raise any separate issue upon this account.

However, I have left the decision open, as my reply will show to Her Majesty's Government, and as the despatch of the Prince said nothing of the real object of my interview—the protection of British subjects at the northern ports—I took the opportunity of pressing this upon his Highness's attention.

Having followed Lord GRANVILLE to the latest part of his published correspondence, we turn to China in search of the information and advice on which he acted.

The first brief report of the fact of the Massacre was communicated to Lord GRANVILLE by Mr. WADE on the 26th June, with the following remarks:—

Such a disturbance was not, of course, the affair of a morning, and although many particulars that have reached me will need to be carefully weighed before I can pronounce for or against their credibility, I believe that the impression I have formed regarding the origin of this calamity will be found in the end correct.

I admit, in limine, that the educated class from which all Chinese officials are taken is anti-foreign. It is impossible that it should not be. I admit consequently that its influence with the masses will always be excited against us rather than otherwise. But, in the present case, whether, as many foreigners are prepared to believe, the people were egged on by the mandarin class or not, it is unhappily certain that, independently of any such stimulus, there was ground for the suspicion and hostility of an ignorant multitude. The reception and purchase of infants, as often as not in a dying state, by the Sisters of Charity, had been exciting for some time past no little dissatisfaction, and the old story that the eyes of the infants were needed for unholy purposes had been revived. On the other hand, there is reason to fear that the unfortunate Consul, although as I have been given to understand, he had more than once remonstrated with the Sisters, yet, in fighting their battle with the authorities, had borne himself intemperately, and that the collision in which he lost his life was provoked by some act or menace of his which was immediately visited upon him.

Mr. WADE's next despatch to the Foreign Secretary contained more information:—

Peking, July 3, 1870.

MY LORD,—By the Russian mail of the 26th June I had the honour to forward your Lordship a report of the attack upon the French settlement at Tientsin, and the fearful massacre of the Consul and other French subjects.

I have delayed writing up to the last moment in hopes that I might be enabled to supply something like a connected history of this terrible outbreak; but this is not yet in my power. I have arranged the despatches and memoranda enclosed in something like chronological order, and I have added an analytical table of their contents, which may be of some assistance in the study of this mass of documents.

The most important of these, in my opinion, is the letter of the French Consul, the unfortunate M. Fontanier, despatched from Tientsin at ten o'clock on the morning of the 21st June, little more than an hour before his death. It shows that for some days previously there had been mobs surrounding the hospital of the Sisters of Mercy, and clamouring against them, the cry being that they were receivers of stolen children, of whose hearts and eyes they made unholy use.

On the 20th Mr. Lay expresses his surprise at M. Fontanier's inaction, and it is not astonishing that he had heard nothing of the steps taken by M. Fontanier, for the latter had not even mentioned what was doing to his Minister. M. de Rochechouart first heard of the misunderstanding this question of the children had occasioned by the letter dated and despatched on the day his Consul was killed; yet the public had certainly been murmuring for upwards of a month. So far back as the 5th June a missionary absent in Peking was written to return to Tientsin, because there was apparently trouble brewing.

I feel bound to combat the impression, which is that of many foreigners, that this discontent was sheerly the work of the authorities or of the influential classes. The Chinese, as their law-books show, do believe that by spells and drugs kidnappers can bewitch whom they will (vide Inclosure 33). In their Materia Medica various parts of the human frame are employed for purposes unknown to Western science (vide Inclosure 34). The educated classes are, in all that belongs to physiological knowledge, as ignorant and superstitious as the common people. I think it as likely as not that the Tientsin authorities did believe, as the people believed, that children were being kidnapped, and that for the purposes alleged; nor would this conclusion be shaken if it were shown that, as some declare, they took pains to extort a confession from those who have been brought before them as guilty of kidnapping. It is the habit of their Courts, in half the serious cases they try, to strain the evidence to secure a conviction.

I am not going to contend that they were not anti-foreign,—it would be difficult to understand how any mandarin can be anything else; and I shall not deny that had they chosen to soothe the people, the people might have been soothed, though this is by no means absolutely certain. But it does appear that the only means to this end was neglected, and that the one chance of averting the storm was thrown away in the interview in which M. Fontanier reports the authorities who were demanding an inspection of the hospital to have forgotten themselves so far as to menace him with the wrath of the people.

Chung How is a Manchu, high in office, but without magisterial functions. During the ten years that he has filled the post of Minister Superintendent (we might call him Consul-General) of the Northern ports, he has gained the good opinion of every foreign official with whom he has had to deal. But the good understanding he has contrived to maintain with them would but add to his powerlessness in a crisis like that just passed. He must have known what was ahead of him at least some days before the storm broke, and he is certainly chargeable with having done nothing to put foreigners on their guard. He seems to have regarded the affair as exclusively French, or more properly Romish, and he may have hoped that the arrangement agreed to by M. Fontanier on the 20th would have enabled him to calm the public mind. Had he thought otherwise, however, I doubt that he would have ventured to give the alarm. The blow struck, he tells a story which must be received with very great caution, to wit, that M. Fontanier came armed to his yamen, abused him, fired a pistol, if not at him, in his presence, similarly assaulted the magistrate, and was consequently killed by the people.

Mr. Lay proves that in one important particular he has contradicted himself. On the 22nd he affirmed that M. Fontanier had been killed close to him, and that he had his remains in his yamen. On the 23rd M. Fontanier's body was recovered by Mr. Lay from the river.

On the other part there is almost complete unanimity in the reports that M. Fontanier was seen rushing armed towards Chung How's yamen, and that either he or his companion did fire at, or threaten, the magistrate with some weapon. And if this took place in Chung How's yamen, his followers, to say nothing of the mob, would infallibly have cut down the unhappy Consul. The riot once begun, no official would for the time have been able to stay it. The most active of the rioters would of course be those who had something to gain by it, and I think with Mr. Lay that the attitude of the community and the badness of the weather had much to say in the immunity of the British settlement from molestation.

On receipt of the news of this tragedy at Peking it was agreed that the Representative of the Treaty Powers in residence should sign a collective note to the Prince of Kung. I enclose a copy of this with the reply to it. His Highness is still confined to his room, but the conferences between the Ministers of the yamen and the Diplomatic Corps have been frequent. These have led to one or two results worth notice.

Upon the 28th a decree was published, apparently to meet the wishes expressed in the collective note. It is but a lukewarm production. It condemns, indeed, the lawless proceedings of the Tientsinese, but it scarcely insists with the peremptoriness the occasion demands upon the duty of the Government under Treaty, both towards foreigners and towards Christians. Upon the 29th a second decree, not published in the Gazette, but communicated to foreign Ministers, announced the appointment of Chung How as High Commissioner to France; an arrangement understood to be specially acceptable to the French Legation. It is believed that he will have a colleague, but the Minister is not yet named. He will be most likely a Chinese.

The Tientsin outrage has, of course, been well ventilated amongst the Pekinese, but no foreigner has been in any way molested, nor have I heard any one remark upon the slightest change up here in the demeanour of the population.

This is M. FONTANIER's letter to COUNT DE ROCHE-CHOUART :—

Tientsin, June 21, 1870.

M. LE COMTE.—Our little town of Tientsin, generally so quiet, has been troubled for several days by shouting and mobs in the neighbourhood of the establishment of the Sisters of Mercy and the Consulate. The Sisters were accused of tearing out children's eyes, those who were more bold exhumed the dead that came from their hospital. Finally, the Taoutai came and presented to me the deposition of several witnesses, declaring that they had been victims of the kidnappers employed by our Missionaries. I had no trouble in proving to him that all these reports were the work of ill-will; but the Taoutai having come officially, I promised him, at his reiterated demand, that I would watch that our Sisters of Mercy should not for the future employ any but persons of proved good character.

Some hours afterwards (the 19th) the Tche-hsien came to the Consulate, accompanied by a delegate from Tchong Heou (Chung How), with the intention of bringing about, on the spot, an official search at the domicile of the Sisters and of the Lazarist Missionaries. But as he was ill-advised enough to become angry, and even to threaten me with the anger of the populace, wishing apparently to exact from me that which his superiors had a few hours before left entirely to my judgment, I profited by it to terminate the interview, reminding the Tche-hsien that it was only with the Intendant of the three northern ports that I meant to continue this matter, but that I made him none the less responsible for the consequences of the troubles with which he seemed to threaten me, for I was confident that he alone was the instigator of them.

I requested the delegate of Tchong Heou to inform his Excellency of the result of my interview with the Tche-hsien, until I should myself go and complain to him of the improper conduct of this magistrate. I had the satisfaction of receiving the next morning a visit from Tchong Heou. He spoke very ill to me of the Tche-hsien, trying all the time to exculpate him. He complained of the little consideration given to his observations by the local authorities when he had attempted to deny the false reports spread against our missionaries, having at last been obliged to let them take a step in which he refused to join, which again gained for him the epithet of "the right arm of the Europeans."

This little incident, which might have taken a bad turn but for the intervention of Tchong Heou, appears to-day to be almost at an end; Tchong Heou having besides promised me to publish in the course of a few days a small proclamation to allay the excitement.

The day after the Massacre Mr. LAY wrote to Mr. WADE from Tientsin :—

We are in a fearful state here; all the community are on guard, but we can do nothing. We were up all last night, and I have been hard at it all day. The Chinese now determine to pull down and burn the present Russell's Hong, known as Mr. Sandri's French-and-to-night (sic is orig.). I shall certainly stay by the Consulate until forced to leave it.

On the same day Mr. LAY had an interview with CHUNG HOW, in company with all the other Foreign Consuls. Mr. LAY writes :—

The Consuls present and myself then asked his Excellency in reference to the people murdered. He at first stated that the bodies were taken care of. Upon my questioning him, and taking down on paper the names of those who were killed, he put on the usual official reticence, and knew nothing except that the French Consul was killed. I am quite certain he knows every detail of the whole unfortunate occurrence, and could give every particular if he wished.

To these communications Mr. WADE replied, approving of Mr. LAY's resolution not to abandon the Consulate until forced to leave it, but adding that it would be in vain to promise any direct aid from Peking, as any troops that could be sent would be as unwelcome protection as those offered by CHUNG TAJIN, which Mr. LAY had declined to receive into the Settlement.

On the 1st July Mr. WADE wrote to Mr. LAY :—

You cannot do wrong in at once accepting Chung Tajin's offer to pay whatever money may suffice to rebuild the British missionary chapels destroyed in the city. The representatives of the missions interested must supply you with estimates, which you will, of course, consider carefully before you make any demand. As to the immediate reconstruction of the chapels, you must be careful to inform yourself that opposition is not to be looked for at the hands of the Chinese public, or of that section of it to which the late exhibition of hostility is more particularly to be ascribed. In a word, be sure, before building operations are commenced, that they will not be interrupted.

On the following day Mr. WADE wrote again :—

In the conclusion at which you arrive, viz., that the cause of the outbreak was hatred of the foreigner in general, rather than the belief that children were being stolen for unholy purposes, and that the cry was raised against the Sisters of Mercy for want of some other or better cry, I do not concur. I feel it my duty, on the contrary, to express my conviction that, had there been nothing to suggest a suspicion that children were being kidnapped, there would have been no popular excitement, and that the excitement roused by such a suspicion would not have taken the direction it did had not the practice of receiving large numbers of children into the Sisters' Hospital supplied the Chinese, in their ignorance, with a prima facie case against those unfortunate women. The anger of the people once kindled against them, their countrymen and co-religionists would naturally be included in their sentence. Even native Romanists, I understand, were arrested and maltreated, while Protestant Chinese were set at liberty.

I deem it right to combat your opinion, because I cannot suppose misapprehension of the real cause of such a movement as that of the 21st of June will be unproductive of mischief. I will add that, supposing your view correct, viz., that the rising was against all foreigners, and suggested by the anti-foreign feeling of the influential classes, who have no reason to love us, such an inference but enforces the lesson which, without it, I should have been disposed to read in the action taken by the Chinese at Tientsin, namely, that we cannot be too careful, however admirable from our own point of view the object we would advance, not to press it without a watchful regard for the prejudices or received opinions of this people, the educated class of which, in regard to all that we now laugh at as witchcraft or like puerility, are as ignorant and bigoted as we were ourselves little more than a century ago.

At this point we come to the deputation of China merchants. The correspondence with LORD GRANVILLE must be too fresh in our readers' recollection to need recapitulation. It is, however, given in full in the Blue-book before us, and will doubtless some day carry the weight which it deserves. Meanwhile, this is the way in which Mr. WADE disposed of Mr. MEDHURST's request for "well-timed precautionary movements, such as the detachment of a few men to a weak or menaced point, which would certainly save both property and lives from destruction." Mr. WADE wrote from Peking on the 5th July :—

It may be re-assuring to your community to learn that there has not been here the smallest occasion for alarm. The terrible news from Tientsin continues naturally to be talked over, but the outbreak is universally connected with the popular belief that children were received into the Orphanage of the Sisters of Mercy for unholy purposes. There has not been in or about this city the slightest display of hostile feeling towards either persons belonging to the religious establishments or any other foreigners.

The following letter from Mr. LAY to Mr. WADE carries its own comment :—

Tientsin, July 8, 1870.

SIR,—Now that the great pressure of work is taken off for a time, I think it my duty to bring before your notice the services of those gentlemen who so nobly helped us during our late dangers.

Captain Steele, of the Manchu, armed his vessel, received the ladies (with those exceptions already mentioned) on board, and was most kind to them. He set a most splendid example by his firmness and courage, and he did much to allay the almost natural fright of many here. He deserves deep gratitude from us British, and I feel you, Sir, would like me to report to you his most heroic conduct.

We are also deeply indebted to Mr. Beebe, the agent of the Shanghai Steam Navigation Company, who gave every assistance, so far as he could. He proved himself a man, and a kind friend in danger.

What I have said of Captain Steele is equally applicable to Captain Russell, of the Appin. He armed his ship, made every arrangement for comfort as well as defence, received a large number of females and others on board, and cared for them.

Such conduct, under very trying circumstances, demands thanks; and to you, Sir, I report it. At the same time I shall address each of these gentlemen a letter, acknowledging their kindness, and informing them that it is a pleasing duty to me to bring their heroic conduct under the notice of Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires.

While writing this, I would not forget the services of my constable, Mr. Featherston, who has been most useful during these trials. He has been up day and night, watching and on duty. With his own hands, as I could get no Chinese to work, he brought the poor bodies to shore, and with his own hands he put the French Consul in his coffin, doing a similar office for other bodies. When, after examination, and when I felt sick and faint at the sights and the dreadful stench, and when no one could stay longer by, this man remained, and, one by one, he, with some coolies hired at fabulous prices, went with them to the cemetery and placed them underground, marking each one as it went, a most painful job. He did a most unpleasant duty well, and I should not like his services forgotten, although he be but a Consular constable.

Mr. WADE's next letter, dated Peking, July 5, contains the following:—

Danger to residents is now possible, in my belief, but from one of two causes. If any one is so ill-advised as to make a show of the indignation which in view of late events he cannot fail to feel, he may produce a disturbance. If the community in general continue to show that it is alarmed, it may tempt the ill-disposed to presume upon its fears. Some four or five foreigners have been through the city of Tientsin unmolested, and there can be, in my judgment, no better guarantee of security than the resumption as soon as possible of business relations between native and foreigner.

On the 16th July Mr. WADE wrote to the Foreign Secretary:—

MY LORD,—There was for a moment reason to fear that some attempt was about to be made upon the foreign settlement at Chefoo.

There are, of course, in every port open to foreign trade, a certain number of bad characters ready to avail themselves of any disturbance of the public peace, and the dangerous class at Chefoo has been very likely recruited by Chinese concerned in the late outrage at Tientsin.

Late at night on the 3rd instant Mr. Mayers received information that danger was possible.

Our gunboats, as already reported, had all gone over to Tientsin. No other vessel of war had as yet arrived. Mr. Mayers had therefore no force to depend on.

He at once sent for the Taoutai, assembled the residents, and took such other steps as were best calculated to avert danger, if danger existed. I do not for an instant affirm that there was not ground, good ground, for alarm, but it is due to fact to observe that one cause assigned for the suspicion that something was wrong was the report that ammunition had been served out to the foreign drilled troops. Now this body Mr. Mayers, on receiving a few days earlier the news of what had passed at Tientsin, had requested the Taoutai to have in readiness for the protection of the foreign settlement of Chefoo.

I repeat that this is stated for truth's sake only. Mr. Mayers, ably seconded by his assistant, Mr. Solbé, and the residents in general, appears to have acted with perfect coolness. It would have been, indeed, culpable in him to disregard the intelligence brought to him, the more so that he had reason to be satisfied of the Taoutai's indifference to foreign interests, if not of his hostility.

I shall submit to your Lordship elsewhere the data on which I base this inference. It will here suffice to remark that when the news of the Tientsin massacre had been the talk of the town for upwards of two days, the Taoutai professed complete ignorance of what had occurred. So, in the later instance, when he reached the Consulate on the night of the 3rd, he was, by his own statement, utterly uninformed of a rumour which was already in everybody's mouth. Such ignorance is, in China, impossible; or, if possible, by law unpardonable; and I have accordingly complained of it to the Prince of Kung as a neglect of duty by which the security of the foreign community may be compromised.

I enclose a copy of my despatch to his Imperial Highness; copy of Mr. Mayers' despatch reporting the alert of the 3rd; of my reply to that despatch; and of a second despatch from Mr. Mayers, enclosing one addressed by him to the Taoutai Liu on the precautions it is desirable the authorities should observe, which I have approved.

There is now one Italian man-of-war at Chefoo, and there will shortly arrive a Prussian squadron.

Mr. WADE had become better acquainted with the circumstances when he wrote on the 16th:—

The three Russians murdered did not, as I supposed, reside on or near the French position, but that they were killed because their murderers took them to be French will appear from the inclosed extract of a note from M. de Butzow. Three others discovered to be Russians were allowed to go free. Lastly, as regards the unfortunate Consul, M. de Fontanier himself, if a very credible witness who has lately reached Peking speak truth, the collision in which he lost his life was not exactly provoked, as I at first surmised, by act or menace of his.

On the same day Mr. WADE wrote to the Foreign Secretary:—

I approach the subject with very great embarrassment. A fearful outrage has been perpetrated, with the unhappy victims of which I am not a man less likely to sympathise than my neighbours. For the sake of others, I would gladly avoid anything that might seem to indicate a want of sympathy on my part. I will admit, besides, that I would not, if I could help it, even expose myself to the imputation that, in the case of a calamity so terrible, I was wanting in sympathy. The charge is all but certain, at the same time, to be brought against any one who, at this moment, shall contend that there are two sides to this question. I feel it my duty to maintain that there are two sides to it. I do not exonerate the Chinese Government from blame, but I am bound to oppose the conclusion which the foreign public appears to me over-ready to adopt, viz., that, to use the stock phrase, "the mandarins were at the bottom of it all," and that the well-intentioned proceedings of the Sisters of Mercy at Tientsin were in no way responsible for the fearful catastrophe in which, with their co-nationals, they were involved. If my view is the wrong one—if the popular foreign view is correct—then not France alone, but other Powers, must make them ready for battle.

Commenting on a despatch from Mr. MAYERS, in which that gentleman remarked on "the matter-of-fact way in which the letters he sent refer to the virtual encouragement given by the local authorities to the delusion and fury of the people," Mr. WADE wrote:—

I deprecate this language. The magistrates could scarcely have done less than they are here represented to have done, if they believed what the people believed, and their education considered, I know no reason why they should not believe it. In his conversation with the Taoutai, Lin, a man apparently of more than ordinary information about foreign countries, Mr. Mayers was astonished to find that he, too, professed his belief in the malpractices imputed to Romanists. It does not astonish me. The story is of old date, and not told only of the Roman Catholics. They, the Roman Catholics, are no doubt eminently unpopular with the educated class; and their unpopularity, according to the commonest of laws, will doubtless dispose those who hate them to believe the more readily any evil that may be told of them. But I am satisfied of this, that most, if not all of the high officials with whom I am in constant intercourse, do believe, as firmly as two centuries since it was believed by Sir Matthew Hale, that by the use of drugs and spells children can be bewitched; and if at all, why not by Roman Catholic agents? and if by them, why not for purposes which all China believes the human body can be made to serve?

There was but one means of averting mischief—an inquiry that would have satisfied the Chinese; and such an inquiry, it is shown by the letters of both, M. Fontanier and Chung How had it in contemplation very presently to institute. That, had it taken place, the storm would have been turned aside is established, I think, by the letter of Ma Sin-i, Governor-General of the Two-kiang, informing the Yamen of the steps taken by him in the face of a similar difficulty at Nanking.

Mr. WADE wrote to Mr. MAYERS:—

I see that you stoutly challenged the Taoutai's belief in the practices imputed by the people of Tientsin to the Sisters of Mercy. You must remember that the Chinese do believe these things of their fellow-countrymen, and that after we ourselves had had the Bible for above a century and a-half, we still continued to condemn witches to death on charges at once as horrible and ridiculous.

MR. WADE TO THE PRINCE OF KUNG.

Peking, July 9, 1870.

SIR,—I have learnt that among the unfortunate Sisters of Mercy who were massacred at Tientsin on the 21st ultimo there was one British subject, the Sister Louise, a native of Ireland. I knew her and had seen her but a short time before her departure from this to Tientsin, when I was visiting the orphanage at the Pei T'ang. There can be no doubt, therefore, I regret to say, as to her personality. I have reported her murder to Her Majesty's Government, and I now write to communicate it to your Imperial Highness.

The secret of averting a crisis so perilous to the Empire lies not in the adoption of this expedient or that, but in an entire change in the attitude assumed towards foreigners by the Government, Central and Provincial. The terrible news of the 21st of June will shock the civilised world. It is impossible as yet to predict the consequences of its effect, not upon France alone, but upon all the nations of the West. A full measure of justice will be looked for, but the mere bringing to justice of the instigators of the riot of the 21st of June, and of the chief actors therein, though it may stay any further demand so far as the case in question is concerned, will not suffice, in my belief, to restore to foreign States their confidence in the friendly professions of the Chinese Government. The Government will not fail to be told that, if it sincerely desire peace, it must prove its desire by addressing itself in earnest to the removal of those false impressions that everywhere possess the native mind, not only as regards these particular proceedings of the missionaries, which have been so grossly misrepresented, but in respect of the actual status and lawful rights of foreigners residing in this country. The literati and the people must be made by their rulers to understand that the old assumption of universal supremacy on the part of China is a thing of the past; that the foreigner is not a devil or a savage, but the subject of a Government the equal of his own; that his officials are not consequently to be driven or rebuked as though they were the inferiors of the native authority; that the dignity of the Sovereign is not compromised by the admission of foreign Ministers into his capital, or by his representation abroad; nay! that without intercourse under such conditions, there is no safeguard against the rupture at any moment of friendly relations; that trade with foreign nations is not to the disadvantage of China, but that, on the contrary, it will supply her with those means of strength that will enable her to take her place among nations.

Until the importance of these considerations is duly appreciated both in the capital and in the provinces, I hold it vain to look for long continuance of peace, and as I have more than once ventured to remark in the present condition of foreign relations, peace broken with one Power is broken with all; for all have wrongs, greater or less, to complain of. I need not dwell upon the consequences to China of a misunderstanding with all the world, but it is my duty to repeat that there is but one means of averting it. The hostility to the foreigner of the class whose lead the people follow, is due to its ignorance of the foreigner's real condition. To discomfort this ignorance, therefore, not by words only, but by its acts, if it would avert misunderstandings, must be the care of the Central Government, and I cannot refrain from adding that there is now no time to be lost.

The Prince of KUNG wrote to Count DE ROCHECHOUART, announcing the mission of CHUNG HOW, in these terms:—

The Chinese Government has felt much apprehension lest its friendly relations with France should be disturbed. It is for this reason that his Majesty has issued the decree specially appointing the Minister-Superintendent of the Three Ports, Chung, a senior guardian of the heir apparent, wearing the insignia of the first grade, and a two-eyed peacock's feather, a lieutenant-general of the Hanchun division of the Bordered Red Banner, and one of the vice-presidents of the Board of War, to proceed with instructions to France, that evidence may thereby be given of the sincere desire felt by both Governments for a good understanding. The Tientsin affair was but a movement of the people excited for one day. It will not take long to dispose of it, and relations will be more friendly than ever.

With reference to the letter of the Protestant Missionaries to Mr. LAY (with which our readers are already acquainted), Mr. WADE wrote to the Foreign Secretary:—

A few days after the massacre of the 21st of June, Chung How proposed to Mr. Lay that the Protestant chapels in Tientsin, which were destroyed on that day, should be rebuilt. Mr. Lay applied to me for instructions; and, having some experience of the delays attending payment of indemnity in this country, I told him to accept the money as soon as he could obtain estimates from the missionaries interested, but to go no farther. The missionaries applied to by Mr. Lay were pleased to put a remarkable interpretation upon my instructions as communicated by him, and addressed him a sort of protest against the application. They then forwarded their letter to him to the North China Herald for publication. I am not used to busy myself in answering the criticisms of the local press, but I deem it my duty, in this instance, to request attention to the charge implied against me, as it may not be brought before your Lordship by the missionary body to which the gentleman whose sympathies I unwittingly outraged, belongs, if, indeed, it be not taken up elsewhere.

The following is the North China Herald's comment on the action of Mr. WADE, against which Messrs. LEES and HALL (on the part of the missionaries) protested:—

In the midst of all this evidence of official complicity and widespread machination, we find the British Chargé d'Affaires calmly treating the matter as finished, and calling on the English missionaries to send in their bill for houses and property destroyed, as though the payment of a few dollars would set all straight, and the erection of new buildings would efface even the memory of a mob's unfortunate effervescence. The reply of Messrs. Lees and Hall shows a more worthy appreciation of the crisis. Taking a broader view of its political importance, they urge that punishment of the guilty and guarantees for the future should precede the payment of monetary compensation, while their remark that it is yet dangerous to go near their property to assess the damage, and that new injuries are daily inflicted on their converts, pitifully condemns the British Minister's assumption that the whole affair was finished with the extinction of the flames.

Immediately following on these incidents, the assassination of MA, the Viceroy, while engaged in superintending the examination of military students at Nanking, called forth the following remarks from Mr. MEDHURST to Mr. WADE:—

Assassination of prominent members of the Supreme or Provincial Governments are, as you are aware, so foreign to the temper and spirit of the Chinese people, and so entirely unprecedented in the modern history of China, that it is difficult to believe that the attack upon MA must have been the work of a madman or a fanatic. At the same time it is quite within the compass of possibility that the act has been committed in revenge for the active and determined measures which MA adopted last year against the military students of Gankung-fu with a view to compelling them to produce the two ringleaders in the attack upon the missionary establishments of that city.

If this hypothesis be correct, the incident must have a deep significance in the eyes of the Chinese at the present conjuncture of affairs. The mere fact that so high and influential an officer as the Viceroy of the Two Kiang Provinces can be thus sacrificed on account of his leaning towards foreigners will certainly create an agitation in the minds of all classes. It will have the effect of causing the well disposed towards us to lose heart, while it will embolden those amongst the officials and literati who do not favour foreign relations to persist in their efforts to incense the mass of the population against us. In any event the consequences as regards any missionaries, French or British, who may at present be residing at Nanking and in the neighbouring districts are likely to be anything but agreeable.

The Consul-General for France considers the case one of such gravity that he has decided upon despatching his Imperial Majesty's gunvessel Coëtlogon to Nanking forthwith. The only vessel that we have in the immediate neighbourhood—that is, at Chinkiang—is the Dore, but she will quite suffice to furnish a refuge for any British missionaries or subjects who may find themselves in danger in that part of the river.

The manufacture and distribution of the fans, on which the massacre was depicted in a revolting manner, requires notice here merely as an exhibition of the popular feeling.

Meanwhile no proceedings were taken to bring the guilty parties to justice; and, in consequence of the excitement and alarm among the foreign community. Mr. WADE wrote to the Foreign Secretary on the 10th Sept.:

The Tientsin massacre still continues, at Peking, but another term for the whole China question; and I regret that I can make no very favourable report of the proceedings of the Chinese Government with reference to it. On August 17 I saw the Prince of the Kung at yamen, and his Highness made many apologies for this occurrence. The Prince, when we came to the Tientsin affair, said that I knew their difficulties, and must play the part of a friendly mediator. I could only reply that all mediation must be useless until we could see something like a commencement of the end. Two Chinese moons had passed without the condemnation of a single criminal, and the magistrates committed to the Board of Punishments, and subsequently remanded to Tientsin, were playing hide-and-seek with Justice. As for the departure of the Minister Chung How for Paris (the Prince had asked me when I thought he should start), I confessed that, until not only a beginning had been made, but the case was closed, I could not understand the object of his mission. Lastly, that, anxiously as I had exerted myself to avert a rupture between France and China, if M. de Rochechouart were now to ask my opinion as to the course it behoved him to take, I should be obliged to say that I conceived he was justified in withdrawing his Legation.

On the following day Mr. WADE wrote again to Lord GRANVILLE in these more impressive terms:—

The question has come upon us: ought the foreign Legations to be withdrawn or not before the winter? And it may save your lordship an examination of the arguments for and against withdrawal if I state at once that I am entirely opposed to it: firstly, because I do not believe the Legations are in real danger; secondly, because, admitting that there may have been more or less that is threatening in appearance, the damage to foreign interests, were all to withdraw, would be incalculable; thirdly, because I am persuaded that although all beside were to withdraw, some would remain; and in this case the loss of British prestige would be such as in years we should not retrieve.

Your Lordship may wonder at my raising such an issue, and I am happy to say that, so far, none of my colleagues appear to contemplate the move as probable, unless it be M. de Rochechouart, whom, it is true, an unsatisfactory line of conduct pursued by the Chinese might drive to a rupture of diplomatic relations. But the foreign community in China profess, and the press loudly preaches, an opposite opinion.

I will mention but one incident as a ground of confidence. A few days since the Senior Romish Missionary moved M. de Rochechouart to allow the Sisters of Charity here resident to leave Peking. M. de Rochechouart forwarded a translation of his application to the yamen, and the Ministers replied protesting against the suggestion. The Government, they said, would be without an answer to France if any harm befell the Sisters.

So, in the last week, when the American missionaries fled from Tengchow, the Taoutai at Chefoo begged them at once to return to Tengchow.

I will not say that our whole danger is imaginary; but I am convinced that we are threatened with none that we shall not most surely avert by bearing ourselves as if none were to be apprehended. If, as it is asserted, a general movement is being organised against us, we have no evidence of it. Except in this province, the Romish "Chrétientés" have been undisturbed, and at none of the open ports, save at those where the foreign community has excited itself, has there been as yet any excitement.

I might add that some Protestant Chinese in a district about fifty miles from this were alarmed about the end of July, and that at the instance of the missionary to whom they complained I spoke to the yamen. The yamen had instructions sent twice to the district, and I learn that the result has been satisfactory.

In the capital we have to ask ourselves but one question—Is the Government able and willing to protect us? All sinister rumours notwithstanding, I sincerely believe that it is.

On the 20th Sept. Mr. WADE addressed a circular to Her MAJESTY'S Consuls in China, enclosing a copy of a letter addressed under instructions from the Foreign Secretary to the Hon. Mr. KINNAIRD, M.P.:—

The letter is a reply to a memorial presented by Mr. Kinnaird on behalf of the National Bible Society of Scotland. It decides two questions of interest to the British community, but more especially to the missionary body:—

- 1st. That, under the Treaty, the British missionary has no right of residence in China distinct from the right of any other British subject.
- 2nd. That the right of British subjects to residence can be exercised only at the Treaty Ports, or in their immediate vicinity.

On the 24th September the following collective note was addressed to Prince KUNG by the Representatives of England, Prussia, Russia, and the United States:—

The Undersigned, Representatives of the United States of America, of Great Britain, of Prussia, and of Russia, have the honour to inform his Imperial Highness the Prince of Kung, that the Charge d'Affaires of France, as he gave notice yesterday to the members of the yamen, has brought about a meeting of the Undersigned, to inform them of the resolutions of the Chinese Government with respect to the Mandarins and other accused persons compromised in the massacres of Tientsin.

The Undersigned think it their duty to inform his Imperial Highness, without delay, that this decision, taken after a delay of three months, is in no way satisfactory, as much with a special view to the atrocities committed on the 21st of June as to that of the general safety, in which all the foreigners established in China are equally interested.

The Undersigned, &c. (Signed)

REHPUES.

THOMAS FRANCIS WADE.

Meanwhile, Mr. LAY, who had written to Mr. WADE on the 9th September, representing the critical condition of Tientsin, and requesting a small force for the protection of foreigners, received the following reply:—

Peking, September 14, 1870.

SIR,—I have to acknowledge the receipt of your despatches of the 9th instant. It must content you for the moment to know that the subject to which they relate has been very constantly before my mind, and is not considered with less carefulness by the representatives of other Powers. You will hear further in due time.—I am, &c.

(Signed) THOMAS FRANCIS WADE.

Mr. WADE had now become anxious for the protection of British subjects at Tientsin, and had addressed a letter to the senior officer at Chefoo, which led to the following communication from the Secretary to the Admiralty to Mr. HAMMOND:—

Admiralty, Dec. 7, 1870.

SIR,—With reference to your letter of yesterday's date, inclosing a copy of a despatch from Mr. Wade to Her Majesty's senior naval officer at Chefoo, in regard to the necessity of stationing a gunboat at Newchwang during the winter, I am commanded by my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to request you will call the attention of the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs to the enclosed copies of letters from Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett, dated 14th of October, with reference to the state of affairs in China, and inform his Lordship that my Lords regret that Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires in China should have made such requisitions to the Vice-Admiral as have induced him, contrary to his own judgment, not only to detach two gunboats to Tientsin, and a gunboat and marines to Newchwang for the winter, but to give orders (before the arrival of Her Majesty's ship Juno with a force of marines) for men to be landed from Her Majesty's ships at the other Treaty Ports to protect British subjects in the event of any threatened attack.

2. My Lords desire me to enclose a memorandum of the disposition of the Chinese squadron.

3. Earl Granville will observe from Sir Henry Kellett's letter that the force at his disposal will not enable him to comply with the requests made for the presence of Her Majesty's ships at all the various Treaty Ports, whilst four vessels are at the northern ports, viz., two at Tientsin, one at Newchwang, and one at Chefoo.

4. My Lords are aware that the proceedings of Mr. Wade are at variance with the instructions given him by Earl Granville on the 6th of October last; they have only therefore to state, in addition to the observations contained in my letter of the 3rd inst., that they consider the efficiency of Her Majesty's ships may be seriously impaired by the landing of their crews, and that, as in the case of the twelve marines sent to Newchwang, the force would appear to be much too small to offer a successful resistance to any pressure of a large number of drilled Chinese, whilst the adoption of such a course in a certain degree relieves the Chinese authorities from the responsibility of protecting British life and property.—I am, &c.

(Signed) VERNON LUSHINGTON.

On the 6th October Mr. WADE wrote to Earl GRANVILLE communicating certain information received from Mr. SANDRI, a French merchant at Tientsin:—

He has been told that the movement which proved so serious on the 21st of June was projected as early as the 4th; that it was to have been against all foreigners, the attack on the Russian establishments and French Consulate to come off, as it did, upon the 21st; a second to be made upon the foreign Settlement (the British concession) a day or two later. All this, he understands, was formally arranged by the notables at a public meeting of the proceedings, at which a minute is stated to exist. M. Sandri, however, has not seen this minute. He thinks that the Tientsinese were deterred from the second attack partly because that on the French had gone so far beyond the length originally proposed; for no blood was to have been shed; partly because the residents showed themselves on the alert; partly because there was on the day selected a heavy fall of rain.

He apprehends no danger to the foreign settlement during the winter if the gunboats remain; but he expects that the new Governor-General's levies, some 5,000 odd troops of the tendencies common to all Chinese armies, will prove a sore trouble to the well-to-do inhabitants of Tientsin.

On the 5th October an Imperial decree was published, condemning Chang Kuang-Tsao, prefect of the department of Tientsin, and Lin-Chieh, magistrate of the district of Tientsin to "exile to Hei Lung Chiang, and that they be sent there to work in expiation of their offence, that their punishment may serve as a warning to others," and sentencing Fong Ch'ue h-zu and others, fifteen in all, to death, and Wang Wu, nicknamed Hsiao-chui, to transportation in the greater and lesser degrees for being more or less guilty in the outbreak at Tientsin.

On the 12th Mr. Wade had received some new information concerning the Massacre from a Chinese, who told him the rising was purely a question of brigandage. The Hung-sing-tzu, an Alsatian fraternity of Tientsin, had not for a long time had an opportunity of filling their pockets, and had been meditating the possibility of an attack on the foreign settlements. The Prefect just condemned to exile arrived in spring. He was anti-foreign, and, without speaking, let these bullies see that he would not stand in their way. Their plans were laid by about the 13th of June, all the authorities being aware of what was coming. Chung How was as well informed as the rest, and opposed to the rising; but he dared not speak or move, lest, if no worse, his own yamen should be destroyed.

On the following day it devolved on Mr. WADE to transmit to Lord GRANVILLE the letter from Mr. MICHIE on behalf of the English community of Shanghai. On this occasion Mr. WADE wrote to the Foreign Secretary:—

I think that they have exaggerated to themselves the chances of danger, and that they have misconceived the direction of the hostility of which they enumerate a number of instances. It is true that "within the last two years many outrages have been committed on Europeans;" but of all the attacks they quote there is not one that has not been aimed at a missionary establishment, nor, except at Tientsin, has violence been attempted at any point where there is a foreign community residing.

I shall not be suspected of yielding to fears of my own, any more than to a love of the popular force-policy, against which I am in the habit of protesting, if I add that I agree with the Chamber as to the necessity of keeping it continually before the Chinese that we are both able and determined to resist aggression. Had there been a gun-boat, English or French, at Tientsin on the 21st of June, I doubt greatly that the atrocity of that day, be its motive what it may, would have been perpetrated. I think it useful to the cause of peace that the men-of-war's crews should be occasionally paraded and exercised in the foreign settlements. Their action can still be carefully limited to the resistance of aggression. No one can be more opposed than myself to consular wars, but I am satisfied that in a country like this the display of our force, which need not be made with any appearance of menace, is our best safeguard against such incidents as produce international misunderstandings.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, March 1.

The Second Chamber of the States General was opened yesterday. In a very short speech it was stated by Mr. Thorbecke that the several budgets will be the principal item with which the members will deal, and that if after they are voted any time remains for discussions, neither the Reform question nor the University Bill will be brought forward, but only the measures to strengthen our military position, the revival of our army organisation and conscription. Of course no new Bills were announced. It is said that the East India budget will be laid at once before the members. As I stated recently, the Minister of the Colonies wishes to maintain the re-organisation of the Government in the Preanger regencies, but he will propose that the wages for planting coffee should be fixed at f.10 and not at f.13. Besides this proposal, the principal item for discussion will be the appointment of a commission for reporting upon the construction of railways in Java. The following gentlemen are appointed members of this commission:—J. A. Kool, N. A. Henket, J. P. de Bordes, A. J. van Kappen, J. Mullemeister, F. J. H. L. Baron d'Aulnis de Bourouil, and G. H. J. Elliot Boswel.

The opinions of the several Chambers of trade upon the question of a revival of the East India tariff show great want of unanimity. The suggestions given by the Groningen Chamber are most liberal, while those of the Dordrecht Chamber are wholly in favour of Protection and differential duties. The last-named corporation protest against any sudden abolition of Protection, and are of opinion that this ought to be done gradually. They also object that the minimum of the actual tariff (10 per cent.) is much too high to be maintained. This last objection is, as I have before stated, also made by the Chamber in Twente, where the diversity on this capital question increases. There, however, seems to be no doubt that the free-trade principles of the Ministry will gain the victory, that the differential duties will be abolished, and foreign industry thus be placed in our colonies on the same footing as that of this country.

There is a curious article in the Java Bode of Jan. 4 with reference to the last Ministerial crisis. I call it curious—others say it is scandalous—because some really undeniable facts are brought forward in support of impossible arguments. The crisis—so I find it asserted—must be looked upon as the defeat of all political parties in Holland—the defeat of Conservatives as well as of Liberals. Then follows a darkly-coloured picture of the decay into which the whole machinery of our political and national existence has fallen—in consequence of what? Holland having tried to become a constitutional country. Holland, Mr. Busken Huet says, may be compared to a poor young man at the university, who wishes to get along among wealthy comrades, and, wanting manners and means, is soon left behind, a wreck and beggar. Holland has attempted to jump further than its legs could carry it; and has succumbed in the attempt—or, to speak more plainly, its frame has been so shaken by the ineffectual effort that the slightest shock from the outside will cause the whole edifice to crumble to pieces. Now, so far as facts go, I cannot quite disagree with the writer. There is, I confess, a good deal to be reformed in almost every branch of our political life; that life is far from vigorous. But, are we to attribute all this to the very remedy which has saved us from still greater decay—to our Constitution? Granted even, that we are a poor student; where are the wealthy comrades? Granted that we jumped short of the mark; who among our neighbours jumped better? What, then, has our Constitution to do with the unsatisfactory state of our affairs? Nothing—but it kept us from retrograding, and has been the foundation upon which we trust to build a better future. Should we be happier and stronger, would our colonies be better—or rather not worse—governed, if we were a Republic, or if we had our liberties crushed under the heel of an absolute monarchy? As to dangers from abroad—our strength must lay in the principle to give both our country and our colonies free harbours, and to maintain in the broadest sense of the term liberal principles.

There is a warm discussion in the papers about the project of the Government to sell our settlements on the west coast of Africa to England. This course is generally condemned, but nevertheless I am of opinion that the negotiations with England have gone too far to be stopped now.

From France we have very bad news of the ex-Minister of the Colonies, Mr. de Waal, who was severely injured in the railway accident near Toulon. There seems to be but little chance that his life will be saved.

Small-pox spreads more and more over the country, notwithstanding that measures have been introduced with great promptness to check the disease.

Some days ago a "White Cross" Society was instituted. The aim of its members is to provide the poor peasants in France with sowing-seed. Many thousands of guilders have already been contributed.

Mr. J. A. Gleichman has been appointed secretary to the Netherlands Bank.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

Our navigation was completely relieved of ice in the course of last week, and the intercourse by water with the interior, as well as with the Rhine and Belgium, has been restored for some days. Considerable activity consequently prevails in the shipping department, and our trade has in all its branches resumed its wonted course. The main event in our Produce market has been the result of the Trading Company's Coffee sale, held last Wednesday, which went off generally at some advance over the brokers' valuations; the article, consequently, is very firm; but Sugar has relapsed into a quieter position. Not much alteration is perceptible in the feature of other leading articles, but a material decline has resulted in those which have become superfluous from the reopening of navigation.

COFFEE.—In accordance with the general anticipations, the Trading Company's sale for this month, which took place at Amsterdam on the 22nd ult., met with a large attendance of buyers, and the whole quantity put up was disposed of at advanced rates. Good ordinary pale Java realised 37c. to 37½c., and good ordinary greenish ditto 36c. to 36½c., being a half cent above the brokers' valuations, whilst an advance was paid for the better sorts of 1c. to 2c. The market remains firm; 300 bags Java of private importation, per County of Berwick, changed hands at Amsterdam at a secret price.

SUGAR (RAW).—The market is unaltered, but the demand for forward delivery is limited.

TEA remains quiet, but prices are very firm.

TOBACCO.—No sales are to be reported from first hands in our market. The following are the particulars of the result of the public sales of Java held at Amsterdam on the 24th inst., viz.: 950 bags Java, mark M D, sold in average at 67c.; 518 bags Java, Madjenang, Djenkeloong at 44c. and 37½c.

TIN.—The firmer tone which prevailed for this article in the beginning of last week has gradually vanished, and the market closes dull. Banca sells for short prompt at f.77½ to f.77¼, and for delivery ex the coming spring sale at f.75½. The Trading Company's Spring sale of Tin will take place at Amsterdam on the 30th inst., and will comprise 80,800 slabs Banca, stored in our different ports. The directors give notice that no further quantities of Tin will be offered by the Company until their public sale next autumn, and that no Government public sales of this article will be held in the interim in the Netherlands East Indies, which intimation, however, does not apply to Tin belonging to other parties. Stock on warrants on the 28th Feb., 49,100 slabs. Unsold stock with the Trading Company: Banca, 97,849; Billiton, 2,051 slabs. Floating to Holland, 16,400 piculs. Stock of Billiton, 3,100 slabs.

SHIPPING.

DEPARTURES.—Feb. 22, from Texel for Batavia, H.M.'s steamer Admiral van Wassenaar.

PASSENGERS INWARD.—From Java, per Magdalena, Mr. J. W. Kershir.

Monetary and Commercial.

The steamer Don, reported lost off Amoy, left London for Shanghai on the 6th Dec., touching at Singapore and Hong Kong. She had on board a general cargo, reported in our issue of the 2nd Jan. She was owned by Donald Macgregor, of Leith. The Belted Will, which is reported as having put into Batavia, leaky, left London on the 7th Dec. for Hong Kong, and her cargo was given in our issue of the 2nd Jan.

Telegrams from Hong Kong report the meeting of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank on Feb. 15. A dividend of 4 per cent. was declared for the half year, making 10 per cent. for the year. A balance of $280,000 was carried forward to new account. This is very satisfactory considering the unprofitable nature of exchange operations in the past year, and must be attributed to local operations.

We understand that Mr. Frederick Potter, Mining Engineer, who left by the last mail for Japan, has been engaged by the Netherlands India Trading Company, on behalf of their Agent in Nagasaki, to examine and report on the Takasima coal mine, which belongs to the estate of Messrs. Glover and Co., Japan, who failed last year. As these mines form the chief asset of the firm the creditors will be glad to know the result of Mr. Potter's investigation.

The Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company (Limited) held its seventh ordinary meeting on the 28th ult., when the report was adopted. The profit and loss account commences with a balance brought forward from last year of £8,523 4s. 6d., and exhibits a net profit of £192,003 11s. 9d., and leaves, after deducting the interim dividend of 16s. per share, amounting to £29,880, an available balance of £170,646 17s. 3d., which was agreed to be divided as follows:—£44,820, being £1 4s. per share in cash, and £112,050, being £3 per share represented by fully paid-up shares in submarine telegraph companies at par, making a total distribution of £186,750 in cash and securities for the year, in addition to the £4 per share capital of above referred to, and leaving a balance of £13,776 17s. 3d. to be carried forward to the next account.

The gross traffic over the British Indian Extension Company's cable for the four weeks ending Feb. 25 amounted to £3,739.

The Comptoir d'Escompte are now paying f.10 per share, being interest at 4 per cent. for the first half of the year 1870-71.

The Albert Reconstruction Scheme came before Lord Justice James, and in the result the Lord Justice expressed his regret that, owing to legal difficulties, he was unable to give effect to it. At the same time he stated it to be pre-eminently a case for special legislation, in order to stop the frightful costs of the pending liquidation of the Albert and its associated companies in the Court of Chancery; and it was mentioned by Sir Roundell Palmer that of fifty-seven insurance companies in liquidation in Chancery, some of which had been undergoing that process for fifteen years, not one has yet been completely wound up.

The biddings for £400,000 in bills on India were received at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta, £300,000, and to Bombay, £100,000. The minimum price was fixed at 1s. 10½d. on all the Presidencies, being an advance of 1 per cent. on the previous terms, and tenders on Calcutta at 1s. 10½d. will receive about 80 per cent., and above in full, while on Bombay all at 1s. 10½d. will receive in full. These results show a further increase in the demand for means of remittance to the East.

The sales of Bar Silver and Mexican Dollars during the week have been made at a decline. Quotations are 60½ to 58½, with no demand for export to China.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Candia, from Southampton on the 4th inst., was in gold to Alexandria, £8,500; to Madras, £175; in silver to Aden, £9,400; to Singapore, £25,000; to Shanghai, £21,400; total in gold, £8,675; in silver, £55,800.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

There is but little change to report in the market; at a public sale, on the 27th ult., 2,303 packages Moyune Green, per Elgin, from Shanghai, comprising 517 packages Gunpowder, 224 packages Imperial, 1,183 packages Young Hyson, and 379 packages Hyson, were offered without reserve, and all disposed of. The sale went off with more steadiness than last week, although medium kinds sold at easy rates, whilst low and fine qualities brought full prices. The prices realised were as follows:—Gunpowder Moyune, superior, 3s. 2d. to 3s. 2½d.; No. 1 at 2s. 7½d. to 3s.; medium to good medium 2s. 0½d. to 2s. 5½d.; low medium, 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 6½d.; Imperial, No. 1, at 1s. 7½d. to 2s. 0½d.; medium, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 3d.; common, 11½d.; Hyson, No. 1, at 1s. 8½d. to 2s. 0½d.; medium, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d.; low and common, 8½d. to 10½d.; Young Hyson, No. 1, at 1s. 10d. to 2s. 4½d.; medium to good medium, 1s. 3d. to 1s. 8½d.; very low to common, 7½d. to 11d.

SILK.

The market is still without alteration; transactions have been limited, but prices are firmly maintained at the last quoted range.

Messrs. Durant and Co.'s Circular says:—The deliveries are satisfactory, but only just sufficient to keep pace with the arrivals; still, at this season of the year we can only look for diminishing supplies, and so may expect monthly decrease in stock. Japan Silk is still neglected, and may prove an exception, a very small portion only of the crop having come forward; but even in this class it may be that anything that may arrive will be of more acceptable quality than the bulk of the present stock, and so command more attention and force its way into consumption.

COFFEE

There is a less active demand for Ceylon, and the supplies brought forward at auction have been for the most part taken off at easier prices, the last paid rates being—Plantation, triage, 46s. to 57s. 6d.; small, 58s. 6d. to 61s.; fine ordinary to low middling, 60s. to 64s. 6d.; middling, 65s. to 70s.; good middling, 71s. to 73s.; peaberry, 74s. to 81s. 6d. Native, good ordinary, 57s.; bold, 61s., only 300 bags finding buyers; good small, 53s., chiefly damaged; first class bold, 57s. 6d.; medium, 56s. An offer of 740 bags pale Bonthyne Singapore was bought in at 59s., except 210 bags sea-damaged, which were sold at 54s. 6d.

SUGAR.

No sign of an improvement in the market; the depressed tone prevailing last week still continues, and the total of the transactions is again extremely small. No East India descriptions have been placed on offer at the public sales, nor has there been any business done in these by private contract.

COIR GOODS.—At the last auctions a large supply of Yarn, amounting to 2,644 bales and 130 tons, was offered, and the bulk, consisting of medium to good qualities, met a good demand, and found buyers at fully previous rates to a slight advance; 1,235 bales 20 tons fibre partly sold at firm rates, the greater part, consisting of second-hand parcels, was withdrawn; rope was all taken off at steady rates; of Ceylon Yarn, 60 tons in dholls chiefly sold—very common at £22 10s. to £22 15s.; common at £24 5s. to £24 10s.; good medium to good at £33 10s. to £35 5s.; fine at £40. 20 tons Ceylon Fibre were sold at £24 to £26.

COCOA NUT OIL.—At the public sales of 253 casks Ceylon offered 234 casks sold, viz., 148 pipes middling to very fine at £40 to £40 10s., 10 puncheons at £40 10s., and 76 hogsheds at £40 10s. to £41 10s.

HEMP.—At auction of 749 bales Manila offered 320 bales sold at a further decline, viz., common brown £40, good brown £42 to £42 10s., common roping £45 5s., fair to good ditto £48 to £49.

PEPPER.—Black: A large supply at auction, amounting to 5,162 bags, offered, met only reduced offers, and 1,200 bags sold at a decline of quite ½d. per lb.; of 3,268 bags Penang about 1,000 bags sold—West Coast 5½d., mostly damaged 5½d. to 5½d.; of 1,894 bags Singapore 200 bags Siam kind sold at 5½d., the remainder ordinary to good being bought in at 5½d. to 6d.; for arrival 1,000 bags Penang have been sold at 5½d. White: In auction 292 bags Singapore were bought in at 8d.; of 267 bags Penang 54 bags sold at 7½d. Privately 1,000 bags have been sold for delivery in July at 7½d.

RICE.—There is a quiet tone in the market, but prices are well sustained; at public sale 3,200 bags Rangoon transhipped from the Cape were sold at 10s. to 10s. 3d.; first class sea-damaged, 9s. 9d.; and 5,404 bags middling Rangoon, per Chalmers, were bought in at 10s. 6d., but since sold at some decline at 9s. 9d. to 10s.; privately 500 bags good Ballam have been sold at 10s. 9d.; for arrival 100 tons Casla Bengal have been sold at 8s. 9d. ex quay; and a floating cargo of new Rangoon, consisting of 800 tons, per Gazelle, to be shipped in March, has been sold at 10s. 9d., Continental terms.

SHELLS.—The following is the result of the public sales held on the 27th ult.:—Tortoise: A large supply, amounting to 8,692 lbs., met a steady demand, and the larger portion sold at firmer prices, while hoof brought some advance; of Manila, 1 case (173 lbs.) sold at 18s. 6d.; 3 cases (415 lbs.) China sold at 11s. to 13s.; of 11 cases (1,166 lb.) Singapore offered, 800 lbs. sold at 12s. 6d. to 14s. 6d.; good, 16s. Mother-o'-pearl: The offers consisted almost wholly of Freemantle, the only parcel of Manila, 17 cases, being bought in at £9. Green Snail Shells: 277 baskets and 4,200 loose sold at 8½d.; small, 2½d. to 2½d.; broken, 1½d. each.

TAPIOCA.—At public sales 1,801 bags East India kinds were nearly all sold at lower rates; 434 bags good Singapore sold at 2½d.; of 1,367 bags Penang offered 1,200 bags sold—good 2d. to 2½d., middling 1½d. Pearl: 434 boxes Singapore sold at previous rates—large, 18s. to 18s. 6d.; small, 18s. 6d. to 19s.; 325 bags bought in at 19s. to 20s. Flour: 663 bags Singapore were offered and bought in at 2½d. to 2½d.

TIN.—The market for Straits has been dull throughout the week, and prices have ruled irregularly; small sales on the spot have been effected at £128 10s. to £130, and 10 tons to arrive (by steamer) have been sold at £128.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

There has not been much demand in this market during the week for either yarns or goods. Spinners and manufacturers, however, with few exceptions, adhere firmly to their quotations, but buyers are still disinclined to enter into fresh engagements of any magnitude unless at some concession. The news of the conclusion of peace on the Continent seems to have been anticipated, as it has in no way influenced the condition of the market, which remains heavy with a slow demand.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

BILIOUS AFFECTIONS, induced by atmospheric changes, or too liberal diet, should be checked at once, or serious consequences may ensue. When any one finds his ideas less clear than usual, his eyesight dimmed, and his head dizzy, with indisposition for all exertion, physical or mental, he may be quite sure that he is in need of some cooling and purifying medicine. Let him send at once for a box of Holloway's Pills, which will free him from his sufferings, and speedily renew his usual healthful feelings. If the bowels be irritable, Holloway's Ointment should be rubbed over the stomach and liver every night and morning. It will wonderfully augment the corrective powers of the Pills.

THE MAILS, &c.

We have received a portion of our French mail despatches via Brindisi, those posted via Marseilles not having yet reached us. Correspondence from Yokohama to the 23rd Jan., via San Francisco, was delivered on the 8th inst. The next inward mail (P. and O.) is due on the 20th inst., with dates Shanghai Feb. 2, Hong Kong Feb. 8.

Telegrams via Singapore, with dates Shanghai Feb. 22, Hong Kong March. 1, were received on the 8th inst.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

Dates are down to the 23rd Jan.

The following is from the Japan Herald:—

It is reported that at Hita, in Chosiu, a number of ronins have assembled for a revolt, and have been joined by numbers of the peasantry. Troops have been despatched to the spot by the Government. Many native merchants fear a general disturbance will occur before long, arising from mutual jealousies amongst the higher princes.

Small-pox is making great ravages both amongst natives and Europeans in Yokohama. The disease has assumed a malignancy seldom or never witnessed in Europe, and the contagion spreads with a virulence and rapidity only equalled in the cholera epidemic of 1848. The three existing European hospitals were soon full, and two others have been improvised by the American and Prussian authorities. Under the direction of Dr. Newton (who has already effected much good by the establishment of Lock Hospitals at Treaty ports, and the introduction of compulsory vaccination at Nagasaki) the Japanese Government have initiated a general system of vaccination at stations in Yedo and Yokohama, which will be gradually extended throughout the country, and made compulsory when the prejudices of the people in favour of inoculation are overcome.

A case of considerable importance, and one which may lead to a serious misunderstanding if persisted in, has occurred through the course of the Japanese Government in continuing to forbid the Japanese merchants from trading at Van Reed's Kaisho, or Rice Stock Exchange, in direct and open violation of the stipulations of the American Treaty and of the Convention of Yedo, June, 1866, wherein "the Japanese Government do not hesitate to declare that Japanese merchants and traders of all classes are at liberty to trade directly and without the interference of Government officials with foreign merchants, not only at the open ports of Japan, but also in all foreign countries." The Exchange was at Tokai composed of 105 members, in opposition to a licensed concern carried on by the Government banker, Mitsee, and it is through his influence with the under officials that the foreign establishment has been closed and Japanese debarred from trading there.

Messrs. Schultze, Reis, and Co. have issued the prospectus of a German company, with a capital of $100,000, for supplying the settlement with gas.

Colonel Shepard, U.S. Consul at Yedo, has issued a notification warning his countrymen of the insecurity of the streets, advising them not to go unarmed, and on any indication of intended violence to use their pistol promptly.

We hear that the Hertha has thirty-six cases of small-pox on board; that there are no new cases in the Benicia and Idaho. There have been eighteen deaths from small-pox in the French barracks and ships, and we have heard with astonishment that the French authorities have placed several of the worst cases in the Bund Hospital. This is paying an utter disregard to spreading contagion amongst the inhabitants of Yokohama.

A correspondent who has just returned to Yokohama from Kanga's territory informs us that the state of the native Christians there is most disgraceful. He says that he personally saw a number of them huddled together, men, women, and children, in a cage; that small-pox was raging among them; and that as they die off the dead bodies are dragged out of the cage with a long pole. There are other details too shocking to mention. It really seems time that this question should be taken up in earnest. Our informant says that the official designation of the Christian religion in Japan is "the false and corrupt." This is the language employed in several edicts, and it is felt to be insulting to foreigners generally as well as derogatory to Christian ministers.

In the Consular Court several days have been occupied with a libel case, in which Mr. Marks, an attorney, was the plaintiff, and Mr. Howell, editor of the Japan Mail, the defendant, the libel complained of having been inserted in that journal. In the course of the case Mr. Marks was mulcted in the sum of five dollars for using profane language in the Court. The Court decided for the plaintiff, with $250 damages, but it is understood that a new trial will be applied for on the grounds that this sum is excessive.

The Chamber of Commerce held its annual meeting on the 18th January. The report was presented and passed; a vote of thanks to Mr. Marshall, the retiring chairman, was unanimously carried, and Mr. Van der Tak was elected as his successor; and Mr. Hooper was elected vice-chairman, Mr. Walsh having first received the majority of votes, but declining to serve. The meeting was brought to a conclusion with the election of a committee and auditors for the ensuing year.

Judgment has been delivered in the Provincial Court by Mr. Russell Robertson in the case of Walsh, Hall, and Co. versus Hoffmann, the captain of the Bellef Will. The plaintiff's case was that Capt. Hoffmann had placed the vessel referred to unconditionally at their service in November last, that in December, while the plaintiffs were engaged in procuring a cargo of tea for shipment to New York, the defendant informed them of his intention to withdraw the ship from their hands, which he accordingly carried out, although the agreement specially indicated the 15th January as the date upon which the plaintiffs were to complete the loading of the vessel. The defendant's case was an entire repudiation of the agreement for the exclusive agency of Messrs. Walsh, Hall, and Co. The judgment was based upon the question whether a captain of a ship, having placed the same in the hands of an agent,—as in the present case—is at liberty to withdraw from the arrangement upon an opportunity offering for engaging freight more readily or upon better terms at the same port, but from another source. Upon this view of the case—it being considered that the defendant had failed in disproving the assertion of exclusive agency—judgment was given for the plaintiff, with costs.

HIOGO.

The following is from the Hiogo News :—

To the great delight of those who have nothing to do but visit and be visited during these dull times the French men-of-war Venus and Linois and the U.S. frigate Colorado have visited us in quick succession. Admiral Drury has been here before, but it is the first time our harbour has been graced with the flag of Admiral Rogers, whom we are glad to welcome to the station. The Colorado and H.B.M.S. Sylvia and Leven, and the French gunboat Aspic, remain here.

The American barque Charley, with a full inventory, was sold at public auction for $8,250 (Mexican), Messrs. Smith, Baker, and Co. being the purchasers.

A subscription has been opened for the erection of a Protestant Church. A sum of $2,500 has been subscribed, and it is found that a small but suitable building can be erected for Rios 1,600.

The inauguration of the Kobe Regatta and Athletic Club proved a complete success, and the events of the day gave us some idea of what may be expected from the club in future. Although everything had been rather hurriedly arranged, and the sport was modestly called a "Scratch Regatta," yet so complete was the order in which the events came off, and so successful were all the arrangements, that the day's sport deserved anything but the name it received. The boat-house is 52 feet by 50 feet, giving sufficient room for eight four-oared boats, and a number of small craft. On the right is a dressing room, 18 feet by 14 feet, with bath room and other conveniences. On the left are the keeper's room and bar. Immediately behind the boat-house stands the gymnasium, 80 feet by 35 feet, which can be converted into a theatre. A stage is made 30 feet by 35 feet, suitable for boxing, fencing and for theatrical representations. There are also bath-rooms, dressing-rooms and ticket office. The usual gymnastic apparatus is being provided, and the place is well lighted both by night and by day. It is the intention of the committee to build a bathing-house on the beach, about 100 yards from the boat-house, for the use of members. Taking it altogether, we can look upon the Kobe Regatta and Athletic Club as being one of the most useful and successful institutions in the East.

NAGASAKI.

NAGASAKI, Jan. 16.

On the 2nd instant we received the English mail of the 4th November, and to-day that of 18th idem came to hand. In addition to the above, several old newspapers which were addressed very distinctly via San Francisco, and ought to have arrived here on the 2nd instant at the latest, came to hand this day by the English mail—a fact which would almost lead residents in these parts to suppose that the postal authorities at home were quite unaware of the existence of mail communication between England and Japan via America.

The only arrival here from the home side is the British barque Rookwood, from London, via Yokohama, 223 days.

The movements of the vessels of war are as follows:—U. S. flagship Colorado arrived 25th Dec. from Shanghai, and sailed for Hiogo and Yokohama the 4th inst. The French flagship Venus and despatch boat Linois both arrived on the 11th instant from Hiogo, sailed 14th and 15th instant for Shanghai, after coaling. Men-of-war remaining in port: Elk, British, and Sibol, Russian.

The British barque Rolyo sailed on the 4th inst. for London, with tobacco, &c. The North German barque Alida is ready to start when the present war is over; this affords very little consolation to shippers of tobacco, whose cargo is not likely to improve by its long detention on board ship. Two North German barques, Condor and Aldebaran, left this on the 3rd inst., and intend making their way south. We have still fifteen vessels under this flag in our harbour.

Several public auctions of house property, &c., have recently taken place here, which, in consequence of the heavy annual ground rent payable to the Japanese Government, have sold for absurdly low prices:—Lot 30, Owra; with dwelling house, one stone godown and one plaster godown, $405; lot 25, Owra with all the buildings thereon, but somewhat out of repair, sold for account of the estate of the late Mrs. C. Weeks, for $46; lot 8 (front) Desima, $230; lot 15, Desima with plaster godown, $200, sold for account of the estate of the late J. van Tameren. You will see the depressed state of house property at this port when I tell you that lot 30 cost the late owners about two and a half years ago between $2,500 to $3,000.

The Nagasaki Express has drawn public attention to the unreasonable rates charged for fire insurance in Japan. These rates as at present constituted are simply prohibitory; the premium being from ten to twenty times greater than the rate for "doubly hazardous" risks in England. The rate for insuring godowns and their contents is 2 per cent. if built of stone, and 3 per cent. if the materials used be plaster and wood. Dwelling houses have to pay 4 per cent., and tea manufactories, unless built of stone, have to pay 4 per cent. Yet we are informed that there is no cause for such excessive terms being demanded, not more than five fires having occurred in the last seven years.

Exchange on London is nominal. Native coin, 398 per $100 Freight to London nominal at £3, in the absence of any vessel on the berth; but one is expected to be laid on shortly.

CHINA.

—o—
Our Shanghai and Hong Kong files have not come to hand, owing, we suppose, to the Post-office in Hong Kong not making up the mail, to be transferred at Suez for the Brindisi route, as in the case of Singapore.

COCHIN CHINA.

SAIGON.

Dates by the present opportunity extend to the 5th February; the London mail of the 16th December had arrived out. A correspondent sends us the following items of news:—

I have but little news to send you by this mail. The French have captured two vessels under British register and flag, the Sophia Rickmers and the Robert Rickmers, and the last-named has arrived here as a prize. It appears that the ships were transferred to the English flag in Singapore during the war, and are now registered in the name of one of the Rickmers family, who are stated to be natives of Heligoland; but the French see through the sham, and refuse to give up the ships.

By the present mail steamer a deputation from the Government of this colony proceeds to Singapore, to try and arrange with the Telegraph Company to carry the section of the line between that settlement and Hong Kong via this port. It is proposed to terminate the arrangements at once by communicating with the directors in London through the telegraph line from Singapore.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

The Bangkok Summary learns from good authority that the time has been definitely fixed for the departure of his Majesty the Supreme King of Siam for Singapore. On the 9th of March his Majesty was to leave this on board the steam sloop Regent, S. H. Poole, commander. Luang Wesuth Sakaratith Chawtah, Capt. John Bush, harbour-master and master attendant, and King's pilot, is to have charge of the navigation of the steamer. The Siam Supporter, H. Tucker, commander, and the Enemy Chaser, E. C. Walrond, commander, are to be in attendance on his Majesty. Amongst the Government officials who are to accompany his Majesty are the following, viz.:—H. E. Chow Phya Panoowongse Maha Kosoa-bawdee t'66 Prak'lang, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Nai Rach'anat'aya-noo-han, private secretary to his Majesty; Praya Samood Booranoracks, Governor of Paknom, and a number of others whose names are to us unknown, in all about forty.

Captain E. C. Walrond, having rejoined the Siamese navy, has been appointed to the command of H.S.M.'s brig-of-war Enemy Chaser.

We learn that the American steamer Cotey was sold to A. Nelson, Esq., on Saturday, Jan. 14, for the sum of five thousand ($5,000) dollars.

The cremation of the remains of the mother of Phya Kasaab, the Master of the Mint, was consummated in Wat Kanlaya on Jan. 9. On Jan. 7 the remains were conveyed to the Wat and placed on the mane, and after being there for a part of three days they were reduced by fire with all the usual ceremonies customary on such occasions.

We learn that on January 12 W. H. H. Reynolds, a citizen of the United States, and captain of the Siamese barque Contest, for a long time a well-known resident of this port, married a native woman, the mother of his children. He and Ki, a Siamese, were duly united in wedlock at the United States Consulate, according to the Acts of Congress in such cases made and provided. His children were formally acknowledged and registered, and his wife was acknowledged as under the protection of the United States.

BORNEO.

SARAWAK.

Dates extend to the 25th Jan.

At a meeting of the Supreme Council, on the 21st Jan., the Land Regulations were amended as follows:—All unoccupied and waste lands, the property of Government, required for agricultural purposes, beyond the township, and with the exception of such tracts as may be reserved or disposed of by public sale, will be granted to applicants at the pleasure of the Government in fee simple for $1 per acre, or on lease of 900 years on payment of 50c. per acre, with an annual quit rent of 10c. per acre, exclusive of a survey fee of 15c. per acre. Persons taking land on lease of 900 years to have the option after the expiration of three years of purchasing the land in fee simple on payment of the additional sum of $1 per acre, and with the understanding that all lands granted, whether upon lease or in fee simple, are liable to revert to the State, in the event of one-fourth not being cleared and brought under cultivation, or otherwise made use of for pasturage or building purposes, within ten years of the period of possession; the State will return survey fees on its reclaiming such lands.

The State reserves the property in all minerals underlying the lands granted upon lease or in fee simple, together with the right of way.

H. H. the Rajah has been pleased to appoint Noel Dennison, Esq., to be Assistant Resident of Upper Sarawak, to date from Jan. 1st, 1871. The Rajah has also been pleased to appoint Inchi Mohamad Ersat to be Malayan Writer to the Supreme Council, to date from Jan. 21st, 1871.

The Royalist returned from the Rejang on the 8th Jan. Near Tanjong Po she fell in with the long boat of the English barque Clarendon, which was lost on Christmas Eve near the Natunas. The Captain of the Clarendon had previously picked up at sea the crew of a Spanish barque, bound like the Clarendon from Saigon to Hong Kong with rice. One boat with seven hands was lost sight of during a squall, and all are supposed to have perished. The survivors, sixteen in number, who were picked up by the Royalist, had been fourteen days in their boat. On their arrival at Sarawak, quarters were given them in the fort, until they were sent to Singapore.

During his late trip to the Rejang, H. H. the Rajah met Lintong at Sibiu. Lintong came into the fort for the interview, the first time he has been near it since his attempt to get in last June. He had commenced building his house across the river opposite the fort, and wanted permission to finish it and to bring his people down. Apai Laja and other Dyaks seemed strongly persuaded that he means peace, so he was allowed to go on with his building. His house is to contain thirty doors, and when it is completed his people, who are now farming, will come down to Sibiu, having first gathered in their harvest.

The following items are from the Sarawak Gazette. On Jan. 19, the Rajah and the Ranees gave prizes to the head boys of the three first classes at the Mission-school, and three additional prizes for good conduct and application. There are now thirty-two boys in the school, with four exceptions, entirely Chinese. Many of those formerly taught here are now working as Catechists in the various missions, or are employed by the Government and the Borneo Company at their stations.

The Rev. W. Crossland's school at Undup is becoming widely known among the Dyaks, and justly appreciated. Mr. Crossland writes:—

"I have got a new pupil, a Dyak from the Sawit tribe on Kapuas. He knew his letters when he came, and in a fortnight he could read the two first chapters of St. Mark's Gospel in Dyak. He says he heard a rumour of my school over there, so he came on to Kantu, and finding the report true, he came here, and I received him, in hopes of his turning out a good fellow. He has lived a good deal among the Dutch. He declares he saw some tailed men, and that the Dutch saw them too, and that their country is up the Malawi river.

"My Church is all but finished, and I shall put the final stroke to it myself. I am now doing up the under part of my house, and making it into a comfortable schoolroom and eating room for the boys.

"I do not hear so much of the pig disease as I did. Everything seems very quiet, and everyone is busy weeding."

THE REJANG RIVER.

Some particulars concerning the Rejang river and its banks may possibly be interesting to our readers. The Rejang is the largest river in the Sarawak territory, and offers facilities for trade which no other can equal. It has no bore like the Batang Lupar; eighteen feet are found on the bar at low tide, and within the entrance the lead gives eight and nine fathoms; a steamer drawing seven or eight feet can go for some 150 miles up the stream with ease, finding a wide channel without dangers all the way, and the two broad branches which open in the direction of Oya afford easy communication with places lying off the main streams, and additional outlets to the sea. These, however, have shoal water at their mouths, and a dangerous bar, making them of little use to vessels of any size; but by means of them small native craft could bring cargo to a steamer loading in the main river. Sibiu is the principal place on the banks. It is built on an island, where the Igan leaves the Rejang to carry its waters to the neighbourhood of Oya, about sixty miles from the entrance, and consists of a strong wooden fort, a Chinese bazaar, and a considerable Malay kampong.

Its trade is already of some importance, the chief articles of export being gutta-percha, india-rubber, bees'-wax, &c. The value of what is sent away monthly is about $19,257. The bazaar is well built at a short distance from the fort; the houses have bilian posts and ataps, and present a regular appearance. There are some sixty shops here, and a Chinese merchant is about to set up ten new ones, intending to establish a branch of his business in this place. The Malay kampong extends along the whole of one side of the island, and for an equal distance on the opposite shore. One or two of the houses are above the average for neatness and solidity. A mosque has been built for some time, and the Chinese have lately opened a joss house near their bazaar. The jungle between Sibiu and the mouth of the river abounds in bilian wood; nothing is wanted except labour to make this a lucrative article of commerce.

Last year an English barque of 700 tons shipped a cargo of bilian from here for Hong Kong; and forty Chinamen are now employed in preparing another; there is material enough to keep 500 at work, were any one to import them for the purpose. Above Sibiu the banks of the river are under cultivation for some thirty miles. Paddy is, of course, the crop, with here and there a patch of Indian-corn. The Dyaks who planted early have fine well-grown paddy at their farms; but the younger plants do not give equal promise for the next harvest. In some places the Dyaks failing—want of weeding is visible; but, on the whole, the present crop looks well. At Kanowit, about forty miles higher than Sibul, is another small fort and a few houses. The country near this place begins to change its character. Instead of the interminable flats, covered with jungle growth, hills are seen on both banks, sometimes rising in gentle knolls, sometimes with abrupt sides with deep ravines between them, and more sparsely clothed with vegetation. On several the Dyaks have planted paddy, which looks as well as what is growing on the low ground. It is more than probable that pepper and coffee would do well on the ridges. There would not be the same difficulty to encounter in the poorness of soil which has prevented any great success in other places; and the climate on the banks at a slight elevation seems cool enough for the purpose.

The population of Dyaks, Tanjongs, and Malanoes living on the Rejang and its tributaries amounts to 50,000 or thereabouts. The perpetual disturbances among them have till very lately been an obstacle to all trade or knowledge of the country's wealth. As these grow less frequent, its resources are certain to be developed. Already the active Chinamen are penetrating into the interior in search of gutta, and it only requires more assurance that life and property will be safe to induce numbers of them to settle at Sibul, and perhaps at Kanowit also, as regular trading centres. The peace which prevails at present on the river gives good hope that this may soon be brought about.

JAVA.

The New Batavia Handelsblad of Jan. 26 gives the following particulars of the death of Mr. J. van Voorthuysen, formerly agent of the Netherlands Trading Company at Singapore:—"Mr. Van Voorthuysen left Batavia for Sourabaya on the 21st inst. in the steamer Koninkgender Nederlanden, Capt. Kayser. On the following afternoon, at half-past five o'clock, in spite, it is said, of the positively disapproving advice of the captain, he put off in the harbour master's boat for the shore at Samarang, although he had no special business to transact there. The boat capsized in passing through the new channel, and the body of Mr. Van Voorthuysen was found on the following morning at the mouth of the Kali Wungu. Another passenger, a Mr. Kocker, and three natives, also perished. Mr. Van Voorthuysen was a very estimable man, and had many friends." According to the same paper, the harbour of Samarang is notoriously very unsafe, and yet but little has been done to improve and make it less dangerous to life and property. It seems that there is not even a lifeboat there, though numbers of lives have been lost yearly.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to the 8th Feb. On the 3rd Feb. the P. and O. steamer arrived with the London mail of 30th Dec.

A fire broke out among the attap houses in Bukit Timah road, in the neighbourhood of the hospital, and the flames spread with great rapidity. The alarm was quickly given, and a posse of police from the C station, under Deputy Inspector Morrison, hastened to the spot, and the alarm having been communicated to the other stations, the police and the steam fire engines were despatched at once to the fire. C. B. Waller, Esq., Commissioner of Police, who is also a member of the Fire Commission, hastened at once to the scene of conflagration, and having formed a line, had buckets of water passed on and thrown on the fire, which had the effect of keeping it in check until the arrival of the engines. Deputy Commissioner Evans was also early on the spot, and got the crowd at work demolishing two of the adjacent buildings. The fire lasted about an hour, by which time it was well got under, but fearing at one time that it would extend to the row of buildings above mentioned, a messenger was despatched by the Commissioner of Police to Fort Canning, and at about seven o'clock two signal guns (the fire alarm) were fired. A detachment of the Royal Artillery were sent down, but, there being no need of their services, were immediately marched back again. The guns had the effect of bringing a number of the country residents to town, who had the satisfaction of learning that their aid was not required. Four buildings were destroyed, but the loss is, we believe, trifling. They were occupied mostly by owners of bullock carts, who saved their carts, and allowed their cattle to run loose. One of the huts was occupied by a Chinese cloth-dyer, who was able to save everything of value.

We hope the meeting of the subscribers to the Raffles Institution, at the Town Hall, may not serve as an index to the amount of interest felt in the cause of education by the community. But we fear such is the case. The number present last year was sixteen; this year there were fifteen, including H. E. the Governor, who presided. The paucity of numbers did not encourage speech-making, and very little was said. His Excellency the Governor, who was present by request, took the chair.

We regret to hear that Mr. W. H. Read has resigned his seat in the Legislative Council.

The steamer William Cory returned to harbour, after successfully picking up and relaying a portion of the cable between Singapore and Java. The work was accomplished with an interruption of communication for only a few hours. The cable had not failed, but not being up to the tests it was determined to shift the defective portion to more suitable ground, which has now been done.

The amateurs of the 75th Regiment gave a theatrical performance at the Town-hall, which was very well attended and went off creditably. They will perform again, which will, we hear, be their last appearance here, this wing of the regiment being under orders for Hong Kong.

Monday, the 6th February, being an official holiday as anniversary of the foundation of the Settlement, the banks and mercantile community decided to close their establishments on that day.

We learn that the North German ship Adelina had a very narrow escape at Tanjong Pagar wharf. The vessel had only some fifty tons of ballast in, having discharged all her coals, and was believed to be perfectly safe, when she suddenly heeled over, fortunately falling inboard over the wharf. The dock coolies were at once brought to her assistance, and after some hours of hard labour the vessel was righted and made secure by putting in more ballast. Neither the vessel nor the wharf were materially injured.

The following notice has been published by Mr. Read, Dutch Consul:—

"The commander of the Netherlands India barque Ellen Bangka reports that his vessel, while under sail in the Gulf of Siam, on the 12th November last, struck twice on an unknown shoal, on which there was only eleven feet water. The vessel was then due north, and five or six English miles from the Kusrovie Rocks, which were visible from the deck. The danger is placed on the chart of the Gulf of Siam by Richard Inskip and Reed in 11°11 min. N. lat. and 102°47 min. E. lon. from Greenwich."

We observe among the notifications of land sales the grant on Prinsep's estate, called Mount Emily. This property embraces one of the finest sites for building purposes in the island, being within five minutes' drive of the town of Singapore. Also a grant of land part of lease No. 404 (formerly belonging to the estate of the late John Gemmell, Esq.), for a term of 999 years, quit: rent $6 per annum. The property has a frontage of 127 feet on South Bridge-road, and contains an area of 53,192 square feet.

A preliminary application has been made by Messrs Thomas Scott, Jasper Young, and William Adamson for the construction of a railway between the city of Singapore and the Tanjong Pagar Dock Company's Wharf. The object of the promoters is to make a railway from some point near the end of Market-street, Singapore, along the sea beach of Teluk Ayer to the wharf of the Tanjong Pagar Dock Company, following nearly the line laid down in the plan submitted by the promoters of a railway from Singapore to New Harbour in the year 1865-6.

PENANG.

We are much afraid that the hopes of those who looked for only a passable crop of paddy this year will be disappointed. There is not the slightest chance of the kind. The season has been such that the crop must be pronounced a miserable failure. Burmah is exulting in a splendid crop and for a similar cause is Siam rejoicing. But Province Wellesley has cause to mourn. The prospect of a bad harvest in the Province, and the already heavy prices ruling for grain, has had the effect of increasing the criminal list in the Province, in the shape of petty offences, such as fowl-stealing, &c. Paddy, also, is appropriated, and cocoa-nut plantations are swept nightly of their products.

There appears to have been some mistake about the erection of the new spire to St. George's Church and the contract for the work. It is said the Colonial Engineer managed the whole affair and contrived to make a mull of it. When the spire came, the engineers here knew nothing about it, and it was found that extra beams and other things were required, of course necessitating delay and additional expense. Then the contractor was told that the large bell to be swung at the base of the spire was only three hundred weight, and when it came to be put up it was discovered to be about four or five times that weight, and now it is swung it cannot be heard any distance from the Church, the plan of the spire making it a perfect dumb bell.

The Right Reverend Dr. Chambers, Lord Bishop of the Straits Settlements and Labuan, arrived in the Japan, and held a confirmation in St. George's Church, at the afternoon service, on January 29th.

We regret to record the death of the Rev. James Ogilvie, D.D., Superintendent of the General Assembly Institution, Calcutta. The reverend gentleman had arrived at Penang about five weeks ago, from Calcutta, where he had resided for twenty years, seeking in a change of air a renovation of health, which had been impaired by a severe attack of fever. The change, however, was of no avail, and at the age of fifty-six his career of usefulness was cut short. The deceased was buried in the Protestant cemetery, the right Reverend the Bishop of the Straits and Labuan reading the service over his remains.

Captain Hatchell, police magistrate of Province Wellesley, has obtained twelve months' leave of absence on medical certificate, and goes home by the first of the Ocean line of steamers. Captain Hatchell was appointed magistrate and Commissioner of the Court of Requests in the Province Wellesley in April 1866, by Colonel Cavenagh.

The failure of Cheah Oon Hoat, a Chinese merchant, trading for the last twenty years in Beach-street, under the Chop "Wan Hong" is reported, the liabilities being estimated at about $30,000, with assets covering about half that amount. The Chinese of Singapore and Penang are the principal sufferers, their claims amounting to $22,000, the remaining liabilities being divided among the European merchants of Penang. The failure is ascribed to the loss of the insolvent's schooner named the Kim Soon What, of fifty-six tons, registered at this port, which left Penang December 30 last, and was wrecked off Pulo Way, near Aoheen Head, on the 8th inst. The schooner was insured by Chitties for $4,000, but she is said to have had a cargo of piece goods and other merchandise, besides specie, the whole valued at $10,000. Her crew, consisting of eighteen men, were saved.

On the 30th January a meeting was held to discuss the advantage of erecting a wharf at Penang, at which vessels may load and discharge cargo. The question assumed a practical form. A certain fund has accrued in the hands of the Government, arising from the sale of the Beach street reclaimed lands, amounting to some $31,000, which the Government is pledged to expend in improving the town. It was at first thought this money had better be devoted to extending the jetty, to a tower and clock, and raising the Esplanade; but on reconsideration it is believed it would be expended to better advantage in building a wharf. But here another difficulty arises. The fund is only about $30,000, and a wharf, at the lowest estimate, will cost $100,000 more. A committee was appointed to inquire into the probable revenue of the wharf, with a view to ask the Government to construct it. It is urged in support of this view that the wharf is likely to prove a remunerative investment, and that it differs in this respect from the Singapore water works, upon which it is contemplated expending a larger sum.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA, JAN. 23.—A very large business had been done in Grey Shirtings and Yarn, but without any material advance in prices being established, except in the case of 7 lbs. Shirtings, for which a totally unexpected demand had sprung up. At the close Yarns were weak, and a tendency to lower rates was apparent. HIOGO AND OSAKA, JAN. 18.—The business in Piece Goods had been upon a very moderate scale, and even at the low rates current the demand was confined to a few articles only. Grey Shirtings: A small business had been done, and prices closed rather lower. Cotton Yarn: 28-32 in rather improved demand, but without sensibly affecting quotations; other counts quite neglected. Turkey Reds slightly lower. Black Velvets of good quality showed a slight advance, but inferior sorts were lower. Taffachellus: Best patterns only in fair demand. Camlets and Figured Orleans declined in value. Plain Black Lustres inquired for, and prices of good quality maintained. Mousselines de Laine: Good patterns becoming scarce, old stocks more inquired for at better rates. Black Cloth of fine quality, and good Pilots, in fair demand, deliveries for the month showing more favourably. Blankets had attracted a little more attention, at former rates. Nail Rod Iron, of small sizes, readily saleable. Quotations (in dollars):—Cotton Yarn: Nos. 16 to 24, $110.89 per bale; 28 to 32, $123.76 to 116.83; 38 to 42, $128.71. * Via San Francisco.

NAGASAKI.—The following is from the Circular of Messrs. Henry Gribble and Co., which we trust will continue to be regularly issued:—A fair amount of business has been transacted both in imports and exports; the principal feature in the former being an improvement in the value of Cotton and Rice, and in the latter a reduction in the prices asked for Tea and Wax. The Coal trade has continued brisk throughout the month, and has now become one of considerable importance to this port. The Rookwood has arrived with general cargo from London, via Yokohama. Grey Shirtings 8½ lbs. have been sold in fair quantities at $3 to 3.04 per piece; but the demand is now somewhat less, at $2.85 to 2.90 per piece. Dyed Shirtings are quoted—Indigo, $3.37; Gentian, $3.32 per piece. Camlets SS, 56-58 yards, 31 inch, brown, scarlet, purple, white, orange, gentian, dark and light green are in some demand at $14 to 14½, according to colour. Plain Orleans or Lustres, 30 yards by 32 inches, best quality saleable at $5 per piece. Metals: Lead, no demand, $6½ nominal. Nail Rod Iron, ½ to 5-16, $3.25 per picul, saleable, medium sizes, $3 per picul. Steel, in kegs, ¼-inch to 1 inch, $5 per picul.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA, JAN. 23.*—The demand had been very brisk, and an unusually large business had been done, about 14,000 piculs having been settled; making settlements since the previous American mail about 20,000 piculs, principally of common to good medium Teas, fine leaf being scarce. Arrivals had been fair, but the stock now on offer was much reduced, and for the most part was of an inferior quality. There was no change in quotations to be noted, but the demand continuing, prices closed firm. The Belted Will with 355,972 lbs.; the G. T. Ray with 330,027 lbs., and the Coulmakyle had sailed; the Royal Minstrel was about to sail in a day or two with about 1,000,000 lbs., and the Solent and Asphodel were loading; all for New York. Quotations:—Common, $20 to 23 per picul; good common, $24 to 26; medium, $28 to 30 per picul; good medium, $32 to 34 per picul; fine, $35 to 38 per picul; finest and choice, nominal.

HIOGO AND OSAKA, JAN. 18.*—During the month a large business had been done, principally consisting in the grades of Good Common to Medium, at rather irregular rates. The settlements of the finer descriptions had been limited, and at full prices. Arrivals had been restricted, owing to stormy weather. Settlements, 4,100 piculs; arrivals, 2,600 piculs; stock, 3,000 piculs. Quotations: Common, Rios 16 to 20 per picul; Good Common, Rios 21 to 25; Medium, Rios 26 to 31; Good Medium, Rios 32 to 38; Fine, Rios 39 to 48.

NAGASAKI.—The business had been extremely limited, chiefly arising from the firmness of holders. Stocks were estimated at 13,000 bales, comprising 6,000 bales Hiogo, 5,000 bales Yanagawa and Chikugo and 2,000 bales Orechino and Omura leaf. Quotations: Common to good $14 to 17; medium to fine $18 to 22; fine to finest $23 to 26 per picul.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA, JAN. 23.*—The settlements amounted to about 750 bales, consisting chiefly of Medium to Best Hanks, at prices ranging from $700 to 800 per picul; $920 had been paid for a small parcel of Extra No. 1 Oshu, and a few bales of very superior Ida (Bricks) had been purchased at $860 per picul. Prices in some classes showed a slight advance. The unsold stock was reduced to 3,000 bales.

HIOGO AND OSAKA, JAN. 18.*—The business done during the month had been altogether of too insignificant a character to report upon, and no reliable quotations can be given. Silkmen evinced no inclination to meet buyers and induce business. A few musters had been shown, but the prices asked were in most cases far beyond the ideas of purchasers.

SAIGON PRODUCE.

The following is from Messrs. Hale and Co.'s Circular:—In our last report we stated that we expected that the demand for Rice for China and Japan would keep prices here too high to admit of business with Europe. Our expectations have been realised, and the many orders received are all quite impracticable. Several vessels have been chartered to load for Hong Kong and Yokohama, and prices here have advanced to $1.60 per picul. A few vessels, principally French, have orders to load home on owners' account, but we do not expect that any shipments of consequence will take place. The only clearance during the month (for Europe) has been the French barque Ida, to Falmouth for orders, with 8,600 piculs. Tonnage has gradually become very scarce, and notwithstanding the high price of Rice, rates of freight have advanced considerably for coast charters. To Hong Kong 45 cents per picul, and to Yokohama 60 cents per picul are the rates. We anticipate a continued scarcity of tonnage and high freights until the war ceases, and the German vessels are again thrown into the market.

Bonds of that railway, of £100 each, at a price of £90 10s.; interest and repayment of capital at par guaranteed by the Dutch Home Government. This loan is required for the completion of the line of railway, Samarang Vorstenlanden, in the island of Java.

Mr. F. M. Page has issued a statement of the total shipments of bullion and specie to the East during last year as compared with 1869, also a comparative statement extending over the past ten years, viz., from 1861 to 1870. We find that the total export to the East last year was £4,507,388, and in 1869, £9,053,186, showing a decrease for 1870 of £4,545,798; the export to China and Japan was in 1870 £14,966,312, in 1869, £1,391,054; to the Straits Settlements, £548,728, against £849,826; to Ceylon, £30,029, against £135,474.

THE HONG KONG CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

We have received the Report of the Hong Kong Chamber of Commerce for the half-year ending November 15, of which we gave an account when the meeting was held. The Report is illustrated with a good map of the West River. We have also received Mr. MICHAEL MOSS'S narrative of his exploration of the West River. The value of Mr. Moss's discoveries on this tour was generally acknowledged by the Chamber, and the present Report conveys the results in a portable and convenient form. In the present condition of the Yun-nan province, and the disturbed state of Western Kwang-si, it appears questionable whether any immediate profit will be derived by opening the West River beyond the Wuchang-fu to foreign trade. But steamboats drawing less than two feet of water are now constructed in America to overcome difficulties of precisely the same character as those presented along the upper section of this river, and they could no doubt be employed here, though it cannot be kept too clearly in view that the opening of additional stations as ports or points of trade are concessions of minor importance whilst the system of inland taxation on foreign goods remains as at present.

THE TIENTSIN BLUE-BOOK.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—The Blue-book on the Tientsin Massacre discloses some extraordinary facts, though none so great as those relating to the shortening of life in the orphanages established in China by the Roman Catholic Sisters of Charity. According to Mr. Consul Lay, there had been from thirty to forty burials from the Tientsin institution during the few days preceding the massacre; while Mr. Wade states that at Canton, within one year, 700 of the admitted infants died—they were all dead!

Permit me, Sir, to relate what occurred at another Consular port some half-dozen years ago. Walking near the Butts at Shanghai I happened on a child, of about eleven months old, crying for food. It was near sundown, and the night promised to be cold, so I asked some of the villagers near by why they did not take the child and feed it. To this there was a shrug and a reply that the little thing had been there all day and was deserted. As to their assumption of the charge of it such an idea was preposterous, and there it would have remained, and perished, perhaps, but for my paying an old woman to take it to my house, where it remained a short time, and was then taken by me to Ningpo, and placed in the Romanist Asylum then located near the south gate. A few months afterwards I visited the place, and was permitted to see the child, then introduced to me under her Christian name of Marie. When I again tried to see her, I found that she had died within a short period of my previous visit. The Sisters at this time had shifted their quarters to the city, and, that I might satisfy myself as to the identity of the defunct, I was shown a book, with entries of names, when baptised, &c. There were at least thirty names on this page, and—will it be credited?—only three or four of the whole remained unregistered as dead! I was so struck with the circumstance that in the evening I mentioned it to some friends with whom I was dining, and the answer was something like this:—"Oh, it's very well-known that so soon as a child is admitted (like Gin's baby) into the bosom of the Church, the sooner it can make its way to heaven the better the Sisters are pleased;" and a jocular remark followed, that the Sisters (in China) had a way of their own of expediting the progress!

Sir, is this not horrible; and can we any longer wonder at the awful course adopted by the Tientsin "unwashed," in exhibition of their holy abhorrence of what bore to them the appearance of wholesale murder?

Two questions: Is this kind of thing to go on? Will those who support Roman Catholic missionary work in China permit these dreadful charges to pass unheeded? Sisterhood, and yet institute no inquiry?—Yours truly, Bath, March 13, 1871.

(PRODUCE MARKETS REVIEW).

The market has been quiet this week, although the amount of business transacted has probably not been less than is usual at this season. The export inquiry has been smaller than it was last week, although the aggregate purchases on Continental account have been considerable. The close of the war is too recent to have exercised any visible effect on the shipments, but it is believed that large quantities of tea will be exported to Germany during the next few weeks, and should this be the case it is not improbable that some improvement in the position of common Congou will take place, as it is this class of tea which is chiefly in demand for export. This view is the more reasonable from the fact that the present price of common Congou is lower than the yearly average quotation has been since 1856. It is at the present time rather more than 1d. lower than it was the average price of last year, 2½d. less than in 1869, and 3½d. less than in 1868, and it is worthy of note that the total deliveries of all teas have very largely increased during the last two years.

Although the deliveries of Tea for home consumption during 1870 were larger than in any previous year, there is every prospect that those of 1871 will be still heavier. The Board of Trade Returns for the two months ended 23rd February give the quantity retained for home consumption as 21,186,678 lbs., or an increase of nearly 6,000,000 lbs., and of 3,500,000 lbs. respectively over the same period of the two previous years. The exports for the two months only amount to 1,775,127 lbs., showing a decrease of 2 millions and 4 millions, as compared with the two months of 1870 and 1869, but this will probably be made up before long. The imports have, at the same time, been very heavy, amounting to no less than 46½ million lbs., or an increase of 14 millions and 12½ millions over the same period of the two previous years; and the stock on 28th ultimo had in consequence risen to 103½ millions, or an increase of 1½ millions over the same period of the previous year, and a decrease of three millions as compared with 1869. Previous to the appearance of the official returns early this week, the total stock was commonly stated by the brokers to amount to only ninety-six millions, a mistake that may possibly have arisen from taking the Tea in bond at London and Liverpool as representing the entire stocks of the country, and from ignoring the contents of the warehouses at all the other bonded ports of the United Kingdom. Had the old system (under which the official returns for any particular month did not reach the public until at least six weeks after its close) been still in force, this error might have seriously misled the trade, but as the returns for each month are now issued with commendable regularity within a week of its termination, mistakes of this kind will in future be speedily rectified, and it is gratifying to find that the official figures of the Board of Trade are at last likely to be of some real service to the public.

THE INCORPORATION OF LLOYDS BY ACT OF PARLIAMENT.

(SHIPPING AND MERCANTILE GAZETTE.)

There is at present before Parliament a Bill "for Incorporating the Members of the Establishment or Society formerly held at Lloyd's Coffee-house, in the Royal Exchange, in the City of London, for the effecting of Marine Insurance, and generally known as Lloyd's, and for other purposes." The Bill consists of some thirty-three clauses, and the objects of the promoters are very fully set forth in its provisions. It is somewhat strange that a measure of this nature, aiming at effecting organic changes in the institution of Lloyd's, and, therefore, of special interest to Shipowners as well as to Underwriters, should have been prepared and submitted to Parliament by its promoters, without any consultation with the subscribers to Lloyd's Rooms, or without (as we are credibly informed) the knowledge of the majority of that body. The Bill proposes, in the first place, to annul the Deed of Association of 1811, under which the Establishment of Lloyd's Underwriters exists as a Society, and, having done so to incorporate the members by Act of Parliament, with perpetual succession and a common seal, and with power to purchase, take, hold, and dispose of lands and other property, such property to vest in the new Corporation; all existing contracts to remain in force; actions instituted by or against the present Committee not to abate, all debts due to be paid and received, and the existing officers of the institution to be retained in their present employment. Next comes in the 10th clause a statement of the objects of the new Society, and these are threefold—the carrying on of the business of Marine Insurance by members of the Society; the protection of the interests of members of the Society in respect of Shipping and cargoes and freight; the collection, publication, and diffusion of information with respect to Shipping.

Clause 11 proposes that the Committee of Lloyd's shall consist of twelve members, with power for the Society, from time to time, to increase the number to any number not exceeding twenty, and subsequently to reduce that number to not less than twelve, five to be a quorum. The clauses immediately following provide for the appointment of the first committee, for the rotation and election of committees, &c.; and then comes Clause 19, under which the Society take powers, by resolution of a general meeting, confirmed at a subsequent general meeting, to make bye-laws for various purposes, and amongst others for "regulating as among the members of the Society, and as between the members and persons transacting with members the business of Marine Insurance and persons interested in such insurance, the terms and conditions, and the mode on and in which settlements in respect of insurances so effected shall be made; and generally such bye-laws as from time to time seem requisite for the better execution of this Act and the furtherance of the objects of the Society." Perhaps, however, the most remarkable of the proposals in this private Bill, so far as the Shipowners and the Assured generally are concerned, is to be found in the 24th clause:—"In order (says that clause) to the attainment of the object of the Society, which consists in the protection of the interests of the members of the Society in respect of shipping and cargoes and freight, the Society may from time to time use all lawful means for the following purposes or any of them—namely, the investigation of frauds practised or attempted, or intended to be practised, with respect to vessels or their cargoes or freight, or with respect to insurances effected or purporting to be effected thereon, or otherwise with respect to the business of Marine Insurance; the taking or facilitating of proceedings for the punishment of persons guilty or concerned in such frauds; the obtaining of information with respect to the state of vessels at and before the time of and during loading, and with respect to the quantity and condition of cargo taken on board, and the mode of storing cargo, and the state in which cargo is discharged; the investigation of the causes of loss or damage or injury to vessels and cargoes; the obtaining other information with respect to vessels and cargoes and freight; the affording to members of the Society of information acquired by the Society touching the interests of members in relation to vessels and cargoes and freight; the taking charge of the interests of members of the Society, and others, in vessels and cargoes and freight; the doing of all things incidental or conducive to the attainment of the object of the Society in this section mentioned.

The provisions for the incorporation of other Insurance bodies with Lloyd's, contained in the 31st clause, are also framed for the manifest purpose, not of increasing the facilities for Marine Insurance, but for the aggrandisement of Lloyd's Society. These provisions are perfectly consistent with the entire purpose of the Bill. That they and the other proposals will be opposed by Shipowners as a body, and by many of Lloyd's Underwriters, we have no doubt whatever, and, if that opposition is pressed in Parliament, it cannot fail to be successful.

In the Parliamentary Papers lately published relating to the massacre of Europeans at Tientsin we have laid before us all the evidence it is possible to acquire concerning that unhappy event; and although there are some points on which we should have liked to be more fully enlightened, yet we have the satisfaction of knowing that, as far as they go, they give us an exact narrative of the outbreak, and contain the matured opinions on this subject of men who of all others are best qualified to form a judgment, viz., the officials on the spot. Undoubtedly the two most important things in a political point of view to be considered are the causes and the results of the massacre. With regard to the first of these it is clearly established that, as Mr. Wade asserts, the movement was organised by certain leading men in opposition to the Government, "whose dream is the expulsion of the barbarian," and who made use of the old cry against the Roman Catholic missionaries for the double purpose of more easily exciting the passions of the people against foreigners generally, and also of giving the riot the appearance of a purely popular émeute. This opinion is borne out by much of the evidence adduced. The dislike with which the Roman Catholic missionaries and the members of the French Consulate were viewed by the Tientsinese rendered the first object easy of attainment. Mr. Lay, Her Majesty's Consul at Tientsin, speaking of the hostile spirit springing up against foreigners at that place, says—"The Sisters of Charity have been very stupid in buying children, and so on." For some weeks before the outbreak the Sisters' Orphanage had been jealously watched, and the burial of thirty or forty bodies from it, within the course of a few days, added fuel to the growing fire of popular resentment against them. The system of securing children for the Sisters' Orphanage has often been the subject of unfavourable comment, and Mr. Wade tells us that "some time ago a French Roman Catholic gentleman, certainly to be regarded as a high authority, had spontaneously expressed an opinion that the Orphanage of the Sisters might too probably prove a source of danger to the whole missionary body." This, regard being had to the popular superstitions prevailing, can be well understood, when, as Mr. Wade further informs us, the orphanage at Canton received in one year 700 infants, every one of whom died. Unfortunately, the French consul, M. Fontanier, under the influence of strong religious zeal, instead of using his authority to put a stop to practices which he was well aware were rousing dissatisfaction among the townspeople, lent his countenance to them, and claimed the support of Chung How, the Superintendent of Trade, in whose friendship he trusted, but whose power he much overrated, to suppress any rising on the part of the mob. He did not even report the hostile rumours which had been the talk of Tientsin for weeks beforehand to his chief at Peking until the very morning of the outbreak, and then spoke of the affair as having been peaceably arranged by Chung How. The prominent part taken in all missionary questions by him and his chancellor, M. Simon, an ex-sabreur, who had lately been engaged in organising an armed force of native converts at Chang-chia-chwang, in the interior of the province, had caused the mob to regard them with the same feeling of suspicion as that with which they looked upon the missionaries, and, when the fatal day arrived, to make the Consulate one of the first points of attack.

Here, then, was the making of a very pretty quarrel, and if there had been no further complication it would have been easy to put down the massacre as being the result of the ignorant superstition of a semi-barbarous mob. But the evidence proves that the rising, although primarily directed against the Roman Catholics, was intended as a demonstration against all foreigners. No distinction was made in the creeds or nationalities of the intended victims in the rumours which were floating about in Tientsin of the contemplated outbreak, and when the mob rose their cries were "Kill the foreigners!" "Kill the French first and then the other foreigners!" Further, all the Protestant mission establishments in the native city were destroyed, and Mr. Lay attributes the immunity from attack enjoyed by the foreign settlement to the state of preparation of the residents and to a very heavy down-pour of rain which most opportunely fell immediately after the work of destruction had been completed in the city. In addition to this, the well-known aims of the promoters of the outbreak leave no doubt as to the real nature of their intentions. Among these, three men—General Chen, and the prefect and magistrate of the city—are pointed out in the despatches of Mr. Wade and by general report as having been ringleaders. General Chen, an ex-rebel, and "at once the shame and terror of the Government," has fomented a great deal of ill-feeling towards foreigners. He is, Mr. Wade informs us, "well-known in the capital as a leader of bullies and ruffians, 10,000 of whom, it is said, would turn out at his command." He is believed to have instigated the attack on Mr. Burlingame and his party in 1867, when on their way from Peking to Tientsin, and M. Rochechouart states that in his recent journey from the Central Provinces to Tientsin his route may be traced by the succession of outrages on foreigners which followed in his wake. With these facts acknowledged, the part admission made by a member of the Government to Mr. Wade, that this man was present at Tientsin on the 21st of June and the preceding days, and that he headed the rioters, would be scarcely needed to establish his guilt. The action of the prefect and the magistrate, both of whom were notoriously anti-foreign in their views, was in the highest degree culpable, and the latter even went so far as to threaten M. Fontanier on the 19th with the anger of the populace if he refused to authorise an immediate search of the missionary establishments, thus indicating a thorough understanding with the mob, which it was shown was equally possessed by the prefect, who, when presented with a congratulatory address by the townspeople on his having issued a most inflammatory proclamation, to which in a great measure the outbreak is attributed, refused it with the significant words, "Wait until it is all over."

Without going further into the details of the evidence adduced against the three officials of whom we have spoken and the mob, the share of guilt attaching to each and all will be sufficiently plain. And now we come to the most discouraging part of the affair. The massacre was committed on the 21st of June, and the above and much fuller evidence was in the hands of the Government a few days later, and yet on the 10th of August we find Mr. Wade complaining to Prince Kung that fifty days had elapsed without the punishment of a single criminal, high or low. So gross did he conceive his neglect to be that he "warned the Ministers that if by the end of this month (August) nothing had been done to prove the Central Government in earnest, it must not be astonished to see the legations, one and all, withdrawn, and the French left free to wreak their vengeance on Tientsin." The wisdom of employing such a threat was certainly doubtful, and the Chinese do not seem to have attached much importance to it; for it was not until the 19th of October that sixteen of the rioters were executed, and then under circumstances which made them appear rather as self-sacrificing patriots than bloodstained criminals. The prefect and magistrate, who were on all sides found guilty—by their own Government, who accused them of crimes of "great gravity;" by Mr. Wade, who regarded them as "responsible for the blood that was shed on the 21st of June;" by M. Rochechouart, who officially demanded their execution on the ground of "their complicity with and encouragement of the murderers"—were left for twenty days after the massacre at their posts, and then after a long delay, having been sentenced to banishment, were eventually allowed to escape. Further, General Chen, whose punishment was repeatedly insisted on by the Foreign Ministers individually and collectively, was not even mentioned in the decree announcing the trial and sentences of the criminals, although, contrary to Mr. Wade's belief, founded on a knowledge of his power, he was sent to Tientsin for trial, or, in plain words, arrived at that place "in the suite of the Governor-General," and, if tried at all, was only subjected to a mere form of inquiry.

This trifling with justice renders the condition of affairs in China obviously precarious, for it cannot be denied that the guilt of the rioters has now become by adoption the guilt of the Government. No doubt the anti-foreign party is a very powerful one, but no pretence is made that the Government is not all-powerful to deal with its members, and we are not surprised to find Mr. Wade impressing on Prince Kung the truth that it needed but a display of the energy and patriotic spirit which effected the coup d'état at the commencement of the present reign—whereby was averted the civil war in which the designs of traitors would have involved the Empire, and the exalted position which Prince Kung at present holds was conferred on him—to punish the guilty and to satisfy the just demands of the foreign Governments. But no such effort has been attempted by the Emperor's Ministers, and in the public documents in which mention has been made of the affair the expressions employed have shown a contemptuous disregard of the gravity of the crisis. It is not difficult to discover the secret of this conduct. In spite of our long intercourse with China, in spite of our treaties of friendship, and of our proved superiority in the arts of war and of peace, the Government, and following their example the people also, persist in regarding us as a nation in every way inferior to themselves. Mr. Wade was able to quote to Prince Kung expressions employed in documents that had fallen into his hands, "in which foreign Ministers and their Governments are spoken of as if they were not only the subjects of the Emperor of China, but the subordinates of the Chinese Minister addressing his Majesty." On this point Mr. Wade speaks out with great truth and distinctness when he says in a despatch to Prince Kung (at page 83 of the Blue-book) that it is vain to look for long continuance of peace until "the literati and the people be made by their rulers to understand that the old assumption of universal supremacy on the part of China is a thing of the past; that a foreigner is not a devil or a savage, but the subject of a Government the equal of his own; that his officials are not consequently to be driven or rebuked as though they were the inferiors of the native authority; that the dignity of the Sovereign is not compromised by the admission of foreign Ministers into his capital, or by his representation abroad; nay, that without intercourse under such conditions there is no safeguard against the rupture at any moment of friendly relations; that trade with foreign nations is not to the disadvantage of China; but that, on the contrary, it will supply her with those means of strength that will enable her to take her place among nations." Mr. Wade might have added that the first step towards effecting this most desirable change must be the practical acknowledgment of the right of foreign Ministers to admission to the Imperial presence.

LITERATURE.

Fraser this month contains two papers more or less concerning China, but neither of them possessing the interest which gained "Regina" her reputation. In the former of these—"Chinese Statesmen and State Papers"—the writer truly says that "very few foreigners besides Mr. Hanbury have a word to say in favour of Chung How. The utmost that can be alleged in his behalf we believe is, that his active complicity in the plotting which preceded the murder is 'not proven,' and that there may have been reasons unknown to the outer world why he could not effectively interfere to prevent the massacre." But there is nothing novel or even striking in his view of the subject, or in the other parts of the number devoted to China. The editor has been more successful in the contributions he has selected on "The Last Instalment of Irish Policy," "Mr. Elwin's Edition of Pope," and the "Life of the Author of the 'Ingoldsby Legends.'" There is also a good biographical sketch of Isambard Kingdom Brunel.

We have received from Mr. George Street the first annual publication of the new series of The China Directory, published by Mr. Saint, of Hong Kong, which will be found to be a most useful reference for all parts of the Far East. The printing and binding show a marked improvement. Several new features have been added, such as a list of European residents at Sarawak, &c., and we hope that the support extended to his present enterprise will induce the publisher to carry out the further improvements which he proposes for the next issue of his work.

Lao-tzu; a Study in Chinese Philosophy. By T. Watters, M.A. Hong Kong: China Mail; and London: Williams and Norgate.—This pamphlet will interest those who take an interest in Chinese metaphysics, but it has no political or practical importance. The production is highly creditable to the author, who, if we mistake not, is in the China Consular Service.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE RUSSIANS AND THE MONGOLS.

The Pall Mall Correspondent at St. Petersburg writes:—

"A letter from the Chinese frontier, describing an outrage on the Russian consul of Ouliasoutai by Chinese insurgents, is much talked of here, and it is thought that the incident may lead to awkward complications between the Russian and the Chinese Governments. The insurgents in question, who are called by the Chinese, Kouichea, after plundering Kashgar, Kouldeha, and Tchougoutchak, marched towards Ouliasoutai, but the governor of the latter town, though he was informed of their approach, took no steps whatever to oppose them. The Mongols who were encamped in the outskirts of the town immediately fled, and the Chinese inhabitants attempted to follow their example. They were prevented, however, by the governor, who issued an order strictly forbidding anyone to leave the town, and a Chinese who endeavoured to escape was marched through the streets as a coward with a piece of wire passed through his ears. The Russian traders, seeing that the place was defenceless, insisted upon being allowed to leave it; but the consul remained at his post with his wife and sister-in-law. Meanwhile the insurgents, knowing the habit of the Chinese to intoxicate themselves with opium in the evening, attacked the town 7,000 strong, the same night. On hearing of their arrival the governor poisoned himself, the women rushed shrieking out of the town, and the Consul had his baggage placed on camels, and every preparation made for his departure. But it was too late: the insurgents first set the town on fire in several places, and then, attracted by the sight of the baggage, surrounded the Consul's house, and summoned its inmates to surrender. The Consul and a Cossack of his suite for some time bravely defended themselves with revolvers and rifles, the only firearms possessed by the insurgents being a few old-fashioned flint muskets. At length, both being wounded, they determined to give up the unequal struggle, and escaped with the ladies by a back door, leaving the burning town behind them. After a weary journey of two months they reached the town of Biisk, on the Russian frontier, where they are now under medical treatment in the hospital. The Russian papers speak with great indignation of this affair, and urge the Government to extend the Russian frontier towards the centre of China, in order to 'civilise' the north-western districts of that country, and thus take the only effectual means of developing the Russo-Chinese trade."

PRISON TREATMENT IN PENANG.

A curious phase of convict life is brought to light in the correspondence on Prison Discipline in the Colonies, just issued from the Colonial-office. At Penang "the prisoners are allowed to have money in their purses, to use any quantity of tobacco, to correspond with friends at pleasure, and, in short, to do anything they please, except fight, steal, or attempt to run away"—this is the testimony of a convict transported to the Straits from Ceylon, who, in pitying the lot of another convict under the discipline of Welikada jail, added: "My expectations of an easy life have been more than realised; and, though I disliked the idea of coming to Penang, I must thank my stars that I am where I am." It is scarcely surprising that this comfortable, laissez-faire sort of life hardly coincided with Earl Granville's ideas of penal discipline, and the noble earl therefore addressed a despatch to the Governor of the Straits Settlements, pronouncing the system "indulgent and inadequate to deter from crime." But Sir Harry Ord thought otherwise; and, as he was disinclined to be coerced into a more stringent treatment of his convicts, he mounted the "high horse," and of course succeeded—just as Orpheus soothed Cerberus with his lyre—in charming the pliant Colonial Minister into submission. This correspondence is a rich, if not unique, addition to the archives of Downing-street. Earl Granville accompanied his remonstrance with a memorandum to the Governor of the Straits by way of a basis for his instructions. Upon this Sir Harry Ord founded his complaint, and plainly told the Colonial Secretary that he was wrong in his facts and unjust in his inferences. Fortunately for the convicts at the Straits, Earl Granville was not recalcitrant; he regretted that any part of his memorandum "was expressed in terms which might naturally give offence," but more particularly, though inexplicably, that "mainly by misadventure" the paper curtailed for transmission to the Governor "came to include what had been displeasing" to him, whilst "it excluded what bore the other way." Hard must, indeed, have been the heart of Sir Harry Ord had he not responded to the touching appeal of the then Colonial Minister to "make allowances for unintentional inexactness," knowing, as he was reminded, that "it is difficult to be at all times on our guard against inadvertency and error." Meanwhile, there are others besides Sir Harry Ord who can exult—the marauders luxuriating at Penang.

BANKRUPTCY COURT.;

IN RE W. F. HOWE.

The debtor, William Francis Howe, was a merchant, of Newman's-court, Cornhill. He had filed a petition for liquidation, under which a claim made against the estate for £3,070 by the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London, and China had been admitted by the registrar. Application was since made that the proof should be expunged, on the ground that it had been improperly admitted. The claim arose upon four bills of exchange, containing a proviso that certain bills of lading should be delivered up. It was contended that the bills of exchange were in such a form as to render them qualified acceptances, and that as bills of lading had not been given up the claim could not be maintained. In support of this contention reference was made to the cases of "Smith v. Vertue," decided by the Court of Common Pleas, and of "Roe v. Young," decided by the House of Lords.

The Registrar said that the bills of exchange were in such a form as to constitute a contract that they should be paid only on the bills of lading being given up; but they were only to be given up on payment in full of the bills of exchange, which the debtor was unable to do, as he had filed his petition for liquidation before the bills arrived at maturity. The decision of the Registrar admitting the proof would be confirmed.

PAYMASTER M. G. AUTEY, R.N., died on board H.M.S. Challenger, at sea, on January 23 last, while on his passage to England. He entered the service on board H.M.S. Scourge, in November, 1849; in 1853 he was especially selected for duty in the office of Admiral Sir J. W. D. Dundas, with whom and with Lord Lyons he served during some part of the Crimean War, and received the especial commendation of both these officers for his great diligence and attention to his duties. He also served with Sir Henry Keppel in the Naval Brigade at Sebastopol, and as secretary to the same gallant officer in H.M.'s ships Raleigh, Forte, and Emerald, won a high place in Sir Henry's regard, which he preserved up to the period of his death. Mr. Autey was present at the boat action in Fatsan Creek on June 1, 1867, where Sir Henry's galley was sunk under him.

The following remarks are from the Broad Arrow:—"When there are so many junior paymasters on the list anxious for employment, we are at a loss to comprehend for what reason two paymasters' appointments are kept vacant on the China Station. The duties are being carried out by assistant-paymasters with acting appointments. If these appointments have not been filled up in consequence of the expense of sending officers to distant stations in the contract steamers, we venture to say that there are several unemployed junior paymasters who would willingly pay their own passage out in order that they might get on full pay."

From Vienna we learn that in the debate on the ratification of the treaties of amity, commerce and navigation with Siam, China, and Japan, in the Austrian Parliament, Dr. Shackle, the new Minister for Trade, stated that care would be taken to appoint two young Austrians to be naval inspectors in China, the preliminary condition for which would be a competent knowledge of the Chinese language. The treaties were then ratified without any opposition.

H.M.S. "TAMAR," troop transport, will leave England early next month for the Chinese waters. She will take the 1st Battalion 10th Foot from Japan to Hong Kong and Singapore, in relief of the 75th Foot, which regiment she will take on, the head-quarters to the Cape of Good Hope, and a wing to the Mauritius, bringing home the 2nd Battalion of the 20th Foot.

SINCE the appearance of the list of the Ministry in our last issue, several changes have taken place, owing to the resignation of Mr. Childers, the First Lord of the Admiralty. Mr. Goschen succeeds Mr. Childers, and is replaced by Mr. Stanfeld as President of the Poor Law Board, with a seat in the Cabinet. Mr. Baxter takes the office of Secretary of the Treasury, vacated by Mr. Stanfeld.

THE Duke of Sutherland and party, including Colonel and Mrs. Marshall, Mr. Pender, and Mr. J. B. Mitford, have arrived in the duke's steam-yacht at Port Said, from Brindisi. The duke and his friends intend to make a tour of the Suez Canal, and afterwards return home by way of Constantinople and Vienna.

MR. J. ROSS BROWNE, the late United States Minister to China, left San Francisco on the 23rd ult. for England.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Each packet or tin is labelled JAMES EPPE & CO., DOMESTIC PATHIC CHEMISTS, LONDON. LONDON: TUESDAY, MARCH 14, 1871.

THE TEA SEASON OF 1871-72.

In offering some comments on the coming tea season in China we are happy to be able to congratulate the merchants engaged in the trade on the satisfactory results of the now closing season, and we trust that, having once again tasted of the sweets of profits, they will take such precautions in giving instructions for the operations of next season as will secure them against forfeiting these sweets. The success of the Suez Canal being now thoroughly demonstrated, the supplies from China will be poured in faster than hitherto, and it becomes more than ever necessary to prepare for holding stocks, and operators who from want of means are practically in the hands of the banks and brokers, will have no chance of coming out with a profitable result. This class of speculator is the bane of the trade, and we do hope that the banks will exercise more caution in granting credits than hitherto. It is notorious that the credits granted by one bank in London—which lies under the shadow of the great matron of banks—have done immense mischief in this way. We trust, also, that we have seen the last of brokers competing against merchants by sending out orders. Ne sutor ultra crepidam. The number of steamers which will be in the China waters about May will be probably not under thirty, the competition for freight will certainly be very great, and the rates probably very low; but even low freights have little appreciable effect on the question of profit or loss on teas, as 15s. per ton is but ½d. per lb.

The present season has fully demonstrated the folly of shipping off rubbish, and we may take the credit of first opening the eyes of the public to the iniquitous compound known as "Maloo mixture," and conclude that the disreputable operators in that commodity are not likely to again try the experiment. The trade must be cleared of the reckless class of operators who "cut in" without means, and who must sell at any price the dealers like to offer. The tendency of consumption runs very decidedly in an increase of middling to fine, to the extinction of the lower and common. The retail trade have been brought to their senses by competition, and no longer put an outrageous profit on tea to cover losses on sugar, &c., and sound Congou, which a few years ago was sold by them at 4s., is now to be had at 2s. 6d. Again, our market is likely to lose the support it has had hitherto by purchases for Russia, as this trade is now to be conducted through Odessa, to the exclusion of London. The increase in Indian and Java teas, and the improvement in quality also, must not be lost sight of. Green teas are rapidly declining in consumption, and will soon be unknown in this market. Shipments should be very sparing. Last season the buyers at Foochow exercised caution in opening the market, but the teas were badly and hurriedly cured, and we hope they have made good use of the time which has intervened to constantly warn teamen of the paramount importance of using more care in the curing and packing with less dust. Kaisows this year have gone down immensely in the estimation of dealers, and if a distinct improvement is not seen this year the consumption will still further decrease, and the prices be correspondingly low. With regard to the question of "limits," we would say that the finest first crop Congou should not exceed 2s.; fine strong and full flavour, 1s. 8d.; laid down in London, including all charges. In our report on tea in another column sales of black leaf Congou are reported at 2s. 3d., 2s. 6d., and we have heard of 2s. 9d. These sales are, however, simply fancy prices for a few chests, the market being bare; and this must not be taken as a criterion for next season.

THE MAIL SERVICE AND THE P. & O. COMPANY.

The Italians have taken alarm at a rumour that the P. and O. Company are about to transfer their station from Brindisi to Trieste. Like many people nearer home, they fancy that the P. and O. Company have the ruling of these matters entirely at their own discretion, forgetting that they are a subsidised company. We can comfort the Italians by assuring them that our Government has no intention of making such a change. It is quite possible that the company may find it necessary to include the port of Trieste in their operations, in order to give greater facilities for the transit of goods, and we believe that Mr. SUTHERLAND, assistant managing director, is now on a tour for the purpose of examining into this and other affairs of the company, including the question of the passage of their ships through the Suez Canal. The abandonment of Marseilles causes a considerable change in the company's arrangements for freight. The position of Trieste is certainly more favourable for the distribution of goods throughout the Continent, but should it be adopted arrangements will probably be made in such a manner as not to interfere with the Mail Service at Brindisi. The postal subsidy being the principal support of the company, they can only lay themselves out to catch as much freight as possible, but in no way can it be allowed to jeopardise the regularity of the service—a point which shareholders as well as the public are apt to overlook. With regard to the transit of the mails to and from Brindisi, there is no doubt that our Government will adopt the shorter route through France and the Mont Cenis, instead of the present one of the Brenner Pass, when the rail through the tunnel is completed. This route can also be used for the conveyance of silk from China to Lyons, but there is no doubt that many shippers will prefer the steamers of the Messageries Nationales, which perform the passage direct from Hong Kong to Marseilles through the Suez Canal, without change.

THE JAPANESE IN AMERICA.

We can doubtless give our American friends credit for all sincerity, as well as for all earnestness, in their manner of dealing with the questions of the East. Nevertheless, with an impatience of information which should be counteracted, they sometimes suffer themselves to be deceived by "intelligence" which is anything but intelligent. For instance, there is an important mistake in the news circulated in the New York Herald, that an uncle of the MIKADO had been sent to America as an "envoy" of Japan. The fact is that the MIKADO directed the three princes of the blood, immediately connected with him, to visit foreign countries for purposes of study. One of these is the Prince HIGASHI FUSHIMI NO MIYA, now in England, and lately presented to the QUEEN. Another, KACHIO NO MIYA, remains in the United States, as a student, while the third is on his way to Europe, and will probably take up his residence in Prussia. Very likely it is this one which the American correspondent has promoted to a special envoy. He is expected in Liverpool in the next few days.

If any proofs of desire on the part of the MIKADO's Government to cultivate friendly and intimate relations with foreign countries were wanting, it might be found in this act of the EMPEROR sending his blood relations, and among them the heir-apparent, abroad. When such signs of a liberal and enlightened policy are making themselves felt it must be all the more regretted that among the lower classes there are, unfortunately, still from time to time outbreaks of a fanatical hostility to foreigners, as the late attack on two British subjects seems to supply. But these attacks, although operated upon unfortunate foreign victims, are more specially directed against the Government, which, to a few of the lower classes, seems to adopt a too liberal policy in their foreign relations. In the attack on Messrs. DALLAS and RING, just announced, it is very satisfactory to find that the Government has acted with great energy, and some fifty individuals have been arrested on suspicion. As far as the reports at present received go, the authors seem to belong to a clan known as AIDZU, whose chieftain was not long ago in open rebellion, for which he was deposed. According to the latest accounts, the sufferers were recovering, and no further danger was apprehended. It was indeed fortunate for the sufferers that they had the benefit of the attendance of Dr.

WHEELER, the only English physician in Yedo; his services were unremitting, and his success must have gratified him as much as when, on a former occasion, he had the opportunity of alleviating the sufferings of the persons blown up in the wreck of the City of Yedo.

THE changes proposed by the Dutch Government in their tariff for Java, noticed in the late letters of our Rotterdam correspondent, are of considerable importance to English manufacturers, and will tend to stop the irregular practice of stamping Manchester goods as of Dutch manufacture, as well as the smuggling trade between Singapore and Java. The proposition to tax cotton goods by weight is, however, not judicious, as it will operate very unfavourably on bleached goods, prints, &c. As a rule, the Javanese consume most of the coarse common goods, which are well charged with size by the manufacturers, and consequently the duty will be heavier on them than on finer qualities. The scheme now proposed at the Hague is a considerable step in the direction of "free trade." A general export duty is to be levied on all exports from Java of three per cent. ad valorem, whether to Holland or any other country, thus abolishing the differential duties now in existence. Rice will remain free. It will be seen by our correspondent's letter in another column that these measures are being vigorously opposed by the protectionists in Holland.

SAIGON, after all, is not to be surrendered to the Germans, indeed, has never been asked for, notwithstanding the urgent representations of the various German Chambers of Commerce of its desirability. We think Count BISMARCK has been wise in not saddling his Government with the expense of such a place. No doubt he obtained correct information as to the cost and difficulties encountered by the French, and the shiploads of troops who have found their graves there.

WE are glad to announce that Lord CARNARVON has undertaken to bring forward in the House of Lords the subject of "Our Relations with China," which must include the Tientsin Massacre and the probable causes. We trust his Lordship will also be prepared to touch upon the discarded Convention of Sir R. ALCOCK, and ask for a Committee of Inquiry into the political and commercial state of our trade with China.

CAPTAIN FORBES has returned from China by the last American mail, and has, we understand, resigned his appointment as Marine Commissioner in the Customs' Service. Want of funds, we believe, stopped the full completion of his work, but what he did accomplish will be an immense boon. We believe it comprises the erection of five lighthouses and two lightships.

OUR POLICY IN CHINA.

A WELL-WRITTEN and exhaustive pamphlet, entitled "British Policy in China," by a Shanghai Merchant, makes its appearance at an opportune moment. When we find the Marquis of SALISBURY alleging in Parliament that England has lost her prestige in Europe, and when we ourselves have been taken to task for venturing to declare that English prestige is on the decline in the Far East, it seems a good time to turn to history, and refer to former periods, when the reputation of England, as a Power, was more carefully regarded by her statesmen than now. Let us take the age of CROMWELL for example. In that day the great man who earned for himself through all posterity the name of "Protector" conducted a war with Spain which made him master of Jamaica; was courted by France; beat the Dutch; and, in the words of CLARENDON, "reduced Scotland to all imaginable tameness;" while Ireland, then much more turbulent than now, was brought for the first time under Imperial and Constitutional Government. Turning from this picture to the present—from the age of CROMWELL and the assertion of the British flag—to the period of GRANVILLE and burned chapels and sunken ships, what do we find the occupation of the other great Powers of the earth? Russia tears up the Treaty of 1856 with as little respect as if it were an offensive postal card; America fêtes our liberated Fenian convicts; NAPOLEON and BISMARCK are found to have entered into a private arrangement concerning Holland and Belgium, in which it was not thought necessary by either party to consult England in the least. If we want the key to the extraordinary change which has taken place in the destinies of our country, we are helped in our search by the author of the pamphlet before us, who contrasts in vivid terms the manner in which the Foreign-office was regulated in the days of Lord PALMERSTON, with the present style of the communications in vogue between Lord GRANVILLE and Mr. WADE. With the evasions of the latter—the begging of questions, and the mincing of all essential matters—the readers who have seen our extracts from the Blue-book on the Tientsin Massacre are already familiar. It is refreshing to turn from such compositions as these to the practical and spirited language of Lord PALMERSTON.

Twenty-four years ago, he too had to deal with a Consul as little impressible by the gravity of the situation as Mr. WADE has lately shown himself. But mark how differently Lord PALMERSTON wrote of Mr. MACGREGOR to the style in which Lord GRANVILLE lately discoursed to Mr. WADE.

I have received your despatches, and with reference to those parts of them which relate to the measures which the British residents at Canton are taking for their defence against attacks by the Chinese mob, I have to state to you that I do not think it advisable to discourage the British residents from forming themselves into an armed association for their common and mutual defence against such attacks. On the contrary, it appears to me that such a measure is wise and expedient, as it appears certain that, in the present state of things at Canton, the only effectual restraint upon the violence of the mob must be found in their conviction that the foreigners are able and prepared to make aggressors pay dearly in their persons for any attempted attack. I consider Mr. Consul Macgregor proceeds on an entirely erroneous principle in thinking that organisation for defence is dangerous by tending to irritate the mob. The foreigners should, of course, abstain from any act of aggression or provocation towards the Chinese, but they are much more likely to be attacked if they are unable to defend themselves, than if they are prepared to resist aggression. There is no greater incentive to outrage on the part of the turbulent and lawless than a belief that the persons whom they would like to insult or plunder may be assailed with success, and plundered with impunity.

As a proof of the lasting benefit derived by the Chinese from the presence of the foreigners whom it is now sought to exterminate, the Shanghai Merchant well observes:—

During the Triad movement at Canton and Shanghai in 1853-4 the native provincial authorities were at the mercy of foreigners, and indebted to their sympathies and even to their active assistance for eventual success. Again, in 1860 and for some years afterwards, the port of Shanghai was alone saved from capture by the Taeping rebels, by the fact of its occupation by British troops, which eventually took the field on behalf of the Imperialists and drove the rebels from the seaboard. But beyond this, a disciplined force raised and commanded by British officers, and victoriously led by Colonel Gordon and others, ultimately effected the conquest of the provinces of Kiangsoo and Chekiang for the Chinese Government. To this assistance alone, it may confidently be stated, the Imperialists are indebted for the suppression of the rebellion; for had the Taeping chiefs obtained possession of Shanghai, the control of maritime revenue, and the occupation of the sea-coast, they would doubtless have succeeded in establishing their permanent authority over at least a portion of the Empire. Yet, in neglect of all these favourable opportunities, not only were no concessions to the growing and obviously necessary demands of an increasing and lucrative trade asked for, but the British Legation has failed to maintain for itself the position of suitable dignity and respect in the eyes of the Peking mandarins which it had at one time acquired, and confesses itself to be without influence. Nay, more, it has allowed, as already stated, liberty of action on the part of foreigners, which had been freely enjoyed with advantage to commerce and to the Chinese people, to be ultimately withdrawn. Even military roads round Shanghai, which were constructed by Colonel Gordon and British engineers, under the verbal guarantee of the Chinese authorities that they should be permanently maintained, have been obliterated, in spite of repeated protests on the part of the foreign community.

Our readers will not fail to recognise the truth of our next extracts:—

It is doubtless true that the British Foreign Office is responsible for the general course of policy pursued towards China since the Treaty of Tientsin; but the contrast between the present position of foreigners in Japan, and their present position in China, is instructive, because it shows how much the success of any policy is dependent upon the personal influence and ability of the minister. Sir R. Alcock's career in Japan was marked by inharmonious relations between the Legation and the British residents, a retrogressive and exclusive policy on the part of the Japanese Government, repeated infractions of the treaty, and a decline of foreign influence. Similar results have occurred during his term of office in China. Sir Harry Parkes's appointment to Yedo has been followed by a strict maintenance of treaty stipulations on both sides, without sacrifice of the dignity and independence of the Japanese empire; and by the adoption of liberal measures of commercial reform and scientific progress throughout the country. And these advantages have been attained, not merely without injury, but actually with an increase of strength to the central Government. What is asked for in China is, the application of a diplomatic policy similar to that which has proved so successful in Japan, and for the appointment of a minister to put it into operation.

Can it be considered strange that such a course of policy as this confirmed the Chinese Government and people in the line of conduct which led to the outrages at Yangchow and other places, and directly encouraged the subsequent excitement against foreigners, which produced the awful tragedy at Tientsin? The circumstances of the massacre; the organised plot—the connivance and participation of the city authorities—the presence of disciplined troops—the fiendish cruelty—the cool indifference of the central authority at whose doors the crime was committed—the mockery of reparation which has been obtained—can hardly fail to have awakened the British Government to the culpable weakness of all its recent negotiations with the Chinese. It is no doubt too late after the provisional acceptance by the French Minister of the wholly inadequate terms of redress so tardily offered by the Peking Government for our own Government to interfere, but a lesson has been taught us which it is to be hoped will not be forgotten. Its conclusions may be read somewhat to this effect:

Appoint a Minister to Peking in whose judgment and discretion the British Government and nation can rely, and with a competent naval force in the China waters, and with daily telegraphic communication established between China and London, there would be no insuperable difficulty in the inauguration of a policy which by its vigour would secure the safety of foreigners and by its strict justice would avert all occasion for war.

Let the existing naval instructions be withdrawn and be replaced by others in the spirit of the letters of Lord Palmerston previously quoted.

Let volunteers be encouraged at the Treaty ports, instead of being denied the countenance and assistance of H.M. naval forces, as is now the case.

Avoid apologies to the Chinese for the acts of British subjects roused by violence and wrong into measures for the preservation of their lives and property.

Tell the Chinese Government sternly, that further outrages at the Treaty ports will be visited with prompt and severe punishment at the places where they may have been committed.

Chung-How has been sent on an apologetic mission to Europe. Inform the Peking Cabinet that until audience to the foreign Ministers has been given by the Emperor, no Chinese ambassadors will be received officially at St. James's.

Let Chung How be admitted informally to the Foreign-office—with all due politeness, but with unmitigable firmness; let him be informed that the British Government regards his supine indifference to the massacre at Tientsin as little short of actual participation in the crime; that it can have no sympathy with the Chinese rulers so long as they continue to resist all progress, and that, if the Chinese Government wants the friendship and support of this country, it must not only be strict in the maintenance of treaty stipulations, but must also by timely concessions show a disposition to meet the requirements of a growing trade, and an increasing foreign intercourse.

We have, it appears, a British trade amounting in exports and imports to £36,290,378 to deal with. There is a further carrying trade of Chinese produce and a distributing trade along the coast of foreign goods: the first estimated at £8,500,000 and the second at £10,900,000.

It would be a mistake to limit our view to the mere value in sterling which the trade represents as an estimate of its importance or the existing amount as any indication of its prospective value. It is a trade with a constant tendency to increase, and as the delegates of the Chamber of Commerce clearly show in their report on the trade of the Upper Yangtze, at the average rate of £3,500,000 annually in the import of British manufactured goods alone. They say, "And of the £7,000,000 to £8,000,000 worth of goods now annually exported from Great Britain to China, the sum of £2,500,000 is retained in England to pay spinners, weavers, &c."

The exports from Great Britain direct to China, which in 1840 amounted only to £523,198, sprang to £2,300,000 in 1844; and from £2,800,000, at which they stood in 1858, the year of the Arrow war, to £4,400,000 in 1860, after the opening of the new ports. The increase would have been more strongly marked but for the rebellion in China and the cotton famine; for we find that with the removal of these adverse influences the trade has rapidly expanded, until the figures reached £7,600,000 in 1868, and are now much larger.

Finally China takes from India 60,000 to 70,000 chests of opium, which yields to our Indian empire a revenue of no less than £9,000,000 by the latest returns. . . . It is impossible to estimate what the foreign trade would be if the mineral resources of the province were developed, and good roads existed to facilitate the exchange of commodities, but it is certain that the increase would be very great.

The closing paragraph of the pamphlet contains a statement which should be taken to heart by our rulers before it is too late. Our author says:—

If Great Britain is ready to retire from her position in the East as the Pioneer of Progress, two nations, a young Republic and a new Empire, both earnestly bent on the exertion of influence in China, are undoubtedly prepared to occupy her place.

Monetary and Commercial.

The following mercantile changes are reported in connection with Japan:—The business conducted at Hiogo and Nagasaki, under the firm of Walsh and Co., will in future be under the same style as at Yokohama, Walsh, Hall, and Co. Mr. Ryle Holme has joined Mr. Gribble, of Nagasaki, and will sign the firm Henry Gribble and Co. by procuration. Messrs. Van Delden and Co. have succeeded to the business of Adrian and Co., Nagasaki. The firm of Diers, Hughes, and Co. is in liquidation. A branch of the firm of Adamson, Bell, and Co., Shanghai, has been opened at Yokohama. Changes in the firm of Alt and Co. are intended, but not yet announced.

The last mail from Nagasaki brings an earnest remonstrance against the excessive rates of fire insurance there, which are justly described as prohibitory, being, in fact, from ten to twenty times greater than "doubly hazardous" risks in England, though, in fact, fires are so few that only five are reported in seven years. We shall be surprised if some of our enterprising London offices do not take up the matter, and secure the business on equitable terms. At present, owing to the high rates demanded, or the apathy of the local offices, fire insurance in Japan seems to be a dead letter.

Shippers of shirtings appear to be in no way dismayed at the 42,000,000 yards shipped off in January, but have followed it up by 40,000,000 for February. Telegrams from Shanghai report speculative purchases by European brokers and others, which does not look healthy for clearances.

The Liverpool ship Mount Vernon, upon which underwriters have been asking (and are reported to have got) sixty guineas premium for some time, has been reported as having arrived safely at Singapore. She sailed on the 12th August last, and was, consequently, 174 days at sea before she was reported as having arrived out.

Messrs. Merryweather and Sons, of Lambeth and Long-acre, have sent off two improved and powerful land steam fire-engines for the Government of Japan.

We understand that efforts are being made to procure a reversal of the decision passed on Mr. Hargreaves by Acting Judge Goodwin at Shanghai.

It will be seen by our Rotterdam correspondent's letter that the new steam service from Holland to Java will open with the Willem III., to leave on 1st May.

BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS.

The Board of Trade Returns for February exhibit a satisfactory total, although they give evidence of the paralysis caused in many of the ordinary branches of commerce by the French crisis. Compared with the corresponding month of last year, there has been an increase of £443,397, or 3 per cent., in the declared value of our exportations, while in contrast with February, 1869, there is an increase of 10½ per cent. Some of the staple branches of manufacture show a heavy falling off. In cotton goods it is 12 per cent. in value and 4 per cent. in quantity; in woollen goods, 6 per cent. in value; in linen yarn, 29 per cent.; in woolen yarn, 19 per cent.; and in cotton yarn, 20 per cent. in value. For the first two months of the present year the total exportations have been £26,356,815, showing a diminution of 7 per cent. from the corresponding period of last year, and of 3 per cent. from 1869.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

Although the market has been inactive there has been a fair amount of business done in the aggregate, the demand for export having revived to some extent; the return of peace and the opening of the navigation having led to the purchase of some considerable parcels of fair to good common red-leaf kinds, and also fair kinds of medium black-leaf. Prices for common red-leaf kinds show rather more firmness, but common black-leaf kinds have ruled in favour of buyers. Public sales took place on the 6th and 7th instant, comprising 13,358 packages, of which 11,363 packages were sold, nearly the whole being without reserve. The stock in the United Kingdom on the 28th ultimo was estimated at 98,400,000 lbs., against 100,300,000 lbs., and the quantity afloat at 23,802,000 lbs., against 33,327,700 lbs. last year.
